INTENSE BOMBARDMENT BY TEUTONS ON VERDUN FOLLOWED BY ATTACK WITH LIQUID FIRE

ATTEMPTS TO ADVANCE ARE FRUSTRATED

French Report Says Terrific Onslaught Avails Germans Nothing.

Terrific Artillery Fire Proves Too Great Barrier to Assailants.

Paris, April 22, 11:30 a. m.—An intense bombardment of the French front before Verdun between the Meuse and Fort Vaux was followed last night by an attempt on the part of German troops to advance. The war office announcement of this afternoon says the advance was prevented by the artillery fire of the French which inflicted heavy losses on the Germans.

The statement also says the German attack north of Caurettes wood in which liquid fire was used, was repulsed.

Germans Resume Offensive.

London, April 22.—The Germans have resumed the offensive before Verdun, putting their infantry in action on both banks of the Meuse, but failing to gain additional ground, according to the French war office bulletin.

The principal attempt to advance was made east of the Meuse following an intense bombardment. Paris reports that the French artillery foiled the attempt and caused the Germans heavy losses. The scene of this fighting was between the river and Fort Vaux.

To the west, just beyond the Meuse, the Germans put liquid fire into play in attacking the French lines north of the Caurettes wood, but the assault is declared to have been barren of advantage to the crown prince's forces.

AUSTRIA GETS NOTE FROM UNITED STATES

Amsterdam, Holland, April 22, via London.—Press dispatches from Vienna report that the Austro-Hungarian foreign office has received a note from the United States dealing with the attack on the Russian bark Imperator in the Mediterranean.

Two Americans were on board the Imperator. Official advices to the state department at Washington said an Austrian submarine fired on the vessel without warning and that one of the Americans was wounded.

SHOULD GET FULL VALUE

Auditor Says Legislature Ought to Direct Inventory of State's Resources.

Interests of Commonwealth Could Then Be Properly Protected.

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of recent revelations in connection with the sale of state timber, State Auditor Preus today said that Minnesota should take immediate steps to safeguard her natural resources and see to it that in the sale of any portion of them full value was received by the state.

"The recent legislature," Mr. Preus said, "devoted a large share of attention to problems of efficiency and economy. I think that the coming legislature could do no better thing than to direct an inventory of all the state's salable resources, including timber, land, iron ore and water power. If the state knew exactly what value was represented by these holdings and then instituted a careful system of checking every sale, its interests could be well protected."

The special investigator engaged by the state timber board to look into present practices of private operators who cut state timber under permit, receives his instructions to date.

He will start field work at once. In order that his service may not be impaired the board is not giving out his name.

IS CHARGED WITH ARSON

Milwaukee Man Alleged to Have Defrauded Insurance Companies.

Louis E. Larsen Placed Under Arrest By Chicago Police.

Chicago, April 22.—Louis E. Larsen of Milwaukee, formerly president of the L. E. Larsen company, Chicago, manufacturers of stencils, is in custody of the police today on charges of having defrauded insurance companies of thousands of dollars by arson.

The charges grew out of a fire which destroyed the Larsen company plant here three years ago. Since then Larsen has made his home in Milwaukee, where he organized the Milwaukee Steel Type and Dye company. The plant of this company, according to the state fire marshal's office, was destroyed by fire in May last and Larsen tried to collect $23,000 insurance on the plant. An investigation by the Wisconsin fire marshal's office led to a confession on the part of an employe who, according to Wisconsin officials, said he was paid by Larsen to cause the fires.

Arrested in Chicago.

Efforts were made to get Larsen to come to Chicago for prosecution but these failed and Tuesday the warrant for his arrest was sworn out and he was arrested in Milwaukee. He obtained his release on bonds while fighting extradition and came here last night. Word was telegraphed ahead that he was coming and his arrest at a downtown cafe followed. Larsen's attorney asserts there is no foundation for the charge against his client.

The fire which destroyed the Chicago plant was the fourth of suspicious origin in the factory. According to the alleged confession of the employe, the fires were caused by spontaneous combustion, brought about by wrapping manilla stencils in tight bundles and placing them under wooden stencils in various parts of the factory. The loss on the building amounted to $100,000.

TEUTON RED CROSS REGRET SINKING

Send Message to Russian Organization on Loss of Hospital Ship.

London, April 22.—Prince Charles of Sweden has telegraphed the Russian Red Cross that regret has been expressed by the Red Cross of both Austria and Germany over the sinking of the hospital ship Portugal by a Turkish submarine and the death of members of the Russian Red Cross on board the vessel, says a Reuter dispatch from Petrograd.

Saved Girl; Fatally Hurt Himself.

Washington, April 22.—Frank Tippolito, a traffic policeman, snatched a little girl to safety from the path of a fire chief's automobile as it raced through the heart of the business district near the patent office today, but could not save himself and probably will die.

FORD PASSED BY CUMMINS

Practically Certain That W. J. Bryan Has Been Defeated.

Omaha, Neb., April 22.—Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa is leading Henry Ford of Detroit for the Republican presidential nomination at the Nebraska preferential primary, held Tuesday. Complete returns from thirty-seven counties representing 900 precincts out of the 1,800 in the state have reversed the positions of Cummins and Ford and given the former the slight lead of 200 votes.

Supporters of the Iowan in this state predicted his lead will be appreciably increased by returns from the remaining precincts. The Ford strength has come chiefly from the cities and towns and the country precincts have given heaviest votes to Cummins, with Charles E. Hughes a low third.

Bryan Defeated.

It is considered practically certain that William J. Bryan, former secretary of state, has been defeated for the nomination of delegate-at-large to the Democratic national convention. The four victors in this contest will be equally divided between supporters of Mr. Bryan and those who support the administration's preparedness policy.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock has

SEARCH LUNCH BOXES FOR ANY EXPLOSIVES

But Few Men Return to Work at East Pittsburgh Factory.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 22.—Pickets at all entrances to the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company at East Pittsburgh this morning pleaded so successfully with workmen on their way to the shops that leaders of the strike inaugurated yesterday to enforce an eight-hour a day demand, declared only 5,000 of the 18,000 employes had entered.

Great crowds of strikers filled the streets leading to the gates, but there was no disorder. Organization of the strikers into locals of the newly formed union was said to be proceeding rapidly.

Inside the shops guards carefully examined the lunch baskets of the workmen who succeeded in passing the pickets to prevent the introduction of explosives. This regulation was first applied to the shell department, but was later extended to include all the shops.

Leaders of the strike announced they would organize a parade at noon to visit the other towns in the Turtle Creek valley in an attempt to bring out the workmen in a number of factories which do not recognize the eight-hour day. If they succeed, they said, they would have 28,000 men on strike by night.

Pershing has made such disposition of his forces that the American punitive expedition is equally ready today to proceed with all dispatch in pursuit of Francisco Villa or withdraw from Mexico. The American troops can be retired from Mexico in ten days, according to army officers at Fort Bliss.

Carranza officials at Juarez reported the situation generally quiet throughout Upper Mexico. The Parral district is being filled with Carranza troops and guards have been thrown about mining properties.

Andres Garcia, Mexican consul, asserted that the American army would be able to withdraw from Mexico without trouble from civilians along the line of march.

Expect Word From Scott Soon.

San Antonio, Tex., April 22.—Secretary Baker should be in receipt of a report before night from Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, that may assist the administration in deciding whether to withdraw the American troops or send them farther into Mexico. Cleveland, Ohio, April 22.—Representatives of the railroads in the United States and of the four railroad employes' brotherhoods will meet at Chicago, April 27, to discuss the recent demands of the brotherhoods for an eight-hour day. MOVEMENTS OF DIAZ CAUSE UNEASINESS

Said to Have Extensive Backing in Revolt on De Facto Government.

Washington, April 22.—A preliminary report from Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army, on his conference with Gen. Funston at San Antonio, Tex., last night, regarding the Mexican problem, was expected today by officials of the Washington government.

Meanwhile reports of alleged moves on the part of Felix Diaz, nephew of the former Mexican dictator, for a new revolution against the de facto government, are causing considerable uneasiness at the state department. The movement is said to be backed by wealthy Mexicans, both in Mexico and the United States.

FISKE LETTER IS PRODUCED

First Filed With Chief Clerk Without Being Seen By Daniels.

Washington, April 22.—Secretary Daniels transmitted to the senate today his response to the Lodge resolution adopted April 12, calling upon him to submit a letter from Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, then aide for operations, dated Nov. 9, 1914. The communications were described in the resolution as warning the secretary that the navy was unprepared for war. They were first mentioned publicly when Representative Britten asked Mr. Daniels to produce them during his examination before the house naval committee recently and he refused.

Admiral Fiske's letter is a lengthy document beginning with the statement that the writer urgently requests "the attention of the secretary to the fact that the United States navy is unprepared for war."

FLOODS HIT RAILROADS

South Shore Has Bad Washout Near Thomaston, Mich.

Border Country Reported to Be Largely Under Water.

Floods in Northern Minnesota and Michigan are having a serious effect on railway traffic, aside from doing inestimable damage to property generally. From all reports, the South Shore road is having the most serious trouble which was brought about by a heavy northeast storm that swept over the entire upper peninsula of the Wolverine state Thursday and yesterday.

Wires between here and Upper Michigan points are down and the real seriousness of the storm can only be conjectured. However, passengers arriving on a belated train last evening stated that a big washout had occurred yesterday near Thomaston, Mich., on the main line of the South Shore, which caused the tying up of the passenger train that was due to arrive here yesterday morning at 9:50. The afternoon passenger train, scheduled to arrive in Duluth at 5:40 yesterday afternoon, did not get here till 10 o'clock last night. The passenger train that should have reached Duluth at 9:50 this morning was reported four hours late. W. W. Walker, president of the road, who has been at Thomaston looking over the seat of the trouble, will arrive on this train.

The Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, while laboring under serious conditions from the heavy floods in the Bigfork country, from Cook, Minn., north to the Canadian boundary, has been able to get its trains through almost on scheduled time. Reports state that the entire country near the border is covered with water. George Schlecht, president and general manager of the American Forests Products company, who makes his home in West Duluth, received a wire late yesterday stating that his factory and stock at that place were in danger of being wiped out by the floods. Mr. Schlecht will leave for Cook this evening.

None of the other roads running into Duluth are experiencing any difficulties in the Duluth district. There is considerable water at Carlton and Cloquet but no trains have ben delayed and there have been no washouts.

Neither the Duluth, Missabe & Northern nor the Duluth & Iron Range has had any trouble at all as a result of the floods.

GOODYEAR Cord Tires ride with utmost comfort. Their great oversize combines the added cushion of an increased air-volume with the natural liveliness of Goodyear cord construction.

They are protected from stone-bruise and blow-out because they are built of flexible cords without cross-weave, so that they yield to impact with road obstructions.

Goodyear Cord users find these advantages, and the long mileage due to the character of the tire, worth far more than the difference in price.

Rim-cutting—By our No-Rim-Cut feature.
Blow-outs—By our On-air Cure.
Loose Treads—By our Rubber Rivets.
Puncture and Skidding—By our Double-Thick All-Weather and Ribbed Treads.
Insecurity—By our Multiple Braided Piano Wire Base.

THE DULUTH CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY ASSOCIATION.
Middle Row—Donaghy, Rachlin, Johnson, Thatcher, Hughes, Schneider, Hutchinson.

The Central High School Co-operative Creamery association has met with remarkable success in its first year of operation. The creamery was organized and run on a large scale last year, but the boys worked independently and no definite program was carried out. This year, however, the "aggies" decided to do their work on a more systematic basis, and the co-operative club was the result.

The young men organized their club, purchased their own cream and other necessary supplies and all worked together to turn out the butter. They sell their butter at the prevailing market price and have a large number of regular customers. They are paid by the hour for the work that they do. The club has experienced remarkable success and almost a ton of butter has been turned out already this year.

According to a big Iowa dairy magazine, the Duluth high school club is the first of its kind in the country, and it is being enthusiastically copied in other high schools. The fame of the idea has spread rapidly, and the local boys have made a big name for themselves. The work is under the direction of E. P. Gibson, head of the agricultural department at Central high school.

FRENCH CLUB PLANS BANQUET

Will Close Campaign for Members; Urge Bells for Crossings.

Plans for a banquet to be held on May 5 were made at the meeting of the French Naturalization club last night at the French hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. The banquet will mark the close of an active membership campaign that has been conducted during the last three months.

Speaking and music, as well as athletic bouts, will feature the program. The committee in charge of the affair consists of Thomas Michaud, chairman; Joseph Tiorer and A. Bissemault.

City officials were criticized for not demanding warning signals on grade crossings at Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth avenues west. These crossings were declared by members to be the most dangerous in the West end. A committee from the club will request the city commissioners to ask the railroad officials to place warning bells on these crossings.

MERCHANTS WILL PLAN CELEBRATION

Many Are Expected to Attend Meeting at Rex Hotel.

The meeting of the West end business men planned for next Friday evening at the Rex hotel is expected to be the biggest gathering of merchants held during the year. Plans at that time will be made for a celebration to be held on the streets of the West end some day the latter part of May.

An industrial exposition and parade will probably be planned, according to leading business men. It is proposed to interest the various industries in the celebration and to have a parade, which will outdo a similar affair held a year ago.

E. H. Olson of Enger & Olson, and Walter A. Swanstrom, county commissioner, are in charge of the arrangements for the meeting. About fifty tickets have already been disposed of for the luncheon, and it is expected that probably twenty-five more will be distributed before next Friday evening.

Class to Be Confirmed.

The confirmation of a class of young people will take place tomorrow morning at the services at the Swedish Methodist church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street. Members of the class will be given a public examination. Communion services and reception of members will also take place. A special musical program has been planned for the services. Tomorrow evening the Sunday school will present a musical and literary program.

LIQUOR IS BARRED FROM TRAINING CAMP

Ashland, Wis., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hereafter liquor will be strictly barred from Camp Douglas, the annual training camp of the state militia of Wisconsin. Furthermore, liquor will be barred from the local armories throughout the state. The former practice, in some militia companies, of taking cases of beer on the train when leaving for Camp Douglas, will doubtless be cut out, following the intention of the adjutant general of Wisconsin, to bring the militia up to a higher standard of sobriety.

Hinckley County Seat Committee Tells of Progress of Campaign.

Hinckley, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patrick's opera house was crowded to the doors Wednesday evening, when the Hinckley county seat committee reported on the work done in the campaign to have Hinckley voted the county seat of Pine county instead of Pine City.

At the request of the Pine County Farmers' Co-operative association, the Equity society and other organizations, in December, a committee of citizens was appointed to petition the county commissioners for a vote upon the removal of the county seat to Hinckley.

More than 2,500 names were secured last January, and the proposition will be voted upon May 2. As Hinckley is nearer the center of the county, and as a new courthouse must be built in the near future, it is claimed the prospects appear favorable for Hinckley becoming the county seat of Pine county.

ITCHY SALT RHEUM

Sometimes Called Eczema—Removed By Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Salt rheum is one of the worst and unfortunately one of the most common of all diseases. How it reddens the skin, itches, oozes, dries and scales, and then does this all over again! Sometimes it covers the whole body with inflamed, burning patches and causes intense suffering, which is commonly worse at night.

Local applications may do some good, but they cannot permanently relieve. The disease will continue to annoy, pain and perhaps agonize, until the blood has been purified and the general health improved.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla, the good old reliable family remedy. It has given perfect satisfaction in thousands of cases. Insist on having Hood's Sarsaparilla, for no substitute acts like it. Get it today.

SUES CITY FOR TWO YEARS' SALARY

Because he was not reinstated in his position of building appraiser in the city assessor's office on Jan. 1, 1914, William F. Markus today started suit for $2,700 against the city of Duluth for the salary for twenty-seven months.

Markus was laid off from work on June 1, 1913, and was not hired again when a new crew was put on in January of 1914. He says that under the charter provisions he was entitled to be reinstated at that time and has been ready and willing at all times since to take up the work.

The opening of interlake navigation, so far as departures from this port are concerned, took place at 4:40 this morning when the steamer James B. Colgate of the Duluth Shipping company, sailed out, carrying 105,000 bushels of wheat for Buffalo. The Colgate had been just inside of the piers ever since yesterday morning waiting for weather, and this morning when it was seen that the storm of wind and snow had let up she pulled out. The first arrival from lower lakes will be tonight or early tomorrow.

The next departures today were just at noon, when the steamers H. H. Brown and J. F. Durston departed through the piers, both carrying wheat. At 1 o'clock eight wheat-laden steamers had departed, and 1,366,000 bushels of wheat were on the way to Buffalo. These steamers and their cargoes are, in the order of their departure:

	Bushels.
J. B. Colgate	105,000
H. H. Brown	160,000
J. F. Durston	265,000
S. R. Kirby	100,000
J. K. Dimmick	251,000
J. J. H. Brown	280,000
Griffin	196,000
Briton	100,000

Whole Fleet Will Go.

It is expected that the rest of the grain-carrying fleet—all of which are loaded—will be away before dark tonight. The rest of them are: City of Bangor, Cygnus, Corvus, Hoyt, B. F. Jones, La Salle, Pathfinder, E. C. Pope, Moses Taylor, Indus and Maruba.

The Griffin, which was the seventh boat out today, was the first one in last year, reaching here on April 20. The first boat out last year was the Charles S. Hebard, carrying wheat to Buffalo on April 17, five days earlier than this year.

That the opening of navigation so far as arrivals from lower lake ports are concerned, will take place tonight or early tomorrow morning is certain, for a fleet of boats is on the way up between here and Whitefish now, and are due to arrive within a few hours. Among these are the Morgan, Roberts, Corey, Farrell, Palmer and Cole of the Pittsburgh fleet, which are coming light for ore.

Ore Shipping Begins.

As per program, the ore shipping season began today. The steamer P. A. B. Widener of the Pittsburgh fleet is loading at the Missabe ore docks and as soon as the taking on of her cargo is complete, she will start down the lakes. With the arrival of the ships named above, the loading of ore into vessel holds will continue, and it is believed that from tomorrow the rush season will be on, for with the six steamers now almost due here, there are five barges of the Pittsburgh Steamship company in the harbor, and more vessels are coming up as fast as they can.

The Morgan, Roberts, Kotcher and Harvester were convoyed through the ice in Whitefish bay to open water by Capt. W. W. Smith, superintendent of the Pittsburgh company, and his ice crushers, the Cort, Nielsen and tugs. He is convoying all of the company's vessels through as long as the ice field lasts at that point.

Ice Breaking Up.

Word was received from Whitefish this morning that steamers are passing up and down today; that the ice is heavy four miles above the point, but that the ice in the bay is badly broken up. This is good news to the vessel men, for with the ice field in the bay broken up, having been pretty solfid until now, navigation through it will be much simpler.

H. G. Strom, agent for the Pittsburgh company here, said today that ore loading at Duluth and Two Harbors will probably reach old-time mid-season activity by the middle of next week.

The Tomlinson company received word this morning that the steamers Wacondah, Ionic, Jenkins and Shaughnessy were to leave Port Arthur by noon and that the rest of the fleet which has been lying there all winter, had pulled out at daylight. All of the steamers carry grain. Those that left at daylight are: Calgarian, Beaverton, Valcartier, Stadacona, Rosedale, Haddington, Glenlyon, Glenshee, Collingwood, Maryland, Toiler, Atikokan, Thomas Barlum and A. E. Stewart.

Ice Field Packed In.

The slush ice that has been lying close to the shore at this end of the lake ever since the big field was blown out, was augmented yesterday by the wind and the wet snow which fell, to such an extent that it impeded progress of boats passing through it. It is worse south of the Duluth entry than it is close to the city, and this morning about 7:30 o'clock, when the steamer Marigold, the lighthouse tender, went out in the lake to take that route to the supply station at the Superior entry, she was so blocked by the slush ice that her master was compelled to turn about and come back in, taking the bay route down.

FOG HAMPERS SHIPS AT AND NEAR SAULT

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A heavy fog over this section all night stopped any movements of steamers. The Iroquois passed up at 10 p. m. A large fleet is reported as having passed Detour this morning, unbound.

Body Found at Ashland.

Ashland, Wis., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of a floater was found in Chequamegon bay last night, evidently that of a sailor. It was garbed in good clothes, and a gold watch was on the body which was in the water all winter. Identification cards give names of the steamers Griffin and W. H. Brown. The Griffin card gives the date of Sept. 17 with orders to report at Allouez dock.

Ice Out of Ashland.

Ashland, Wis., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The violent winds of the past day or so have almost completely driven the ice out of the channels between the Apostle islands. A northeastern wind has piled considerable of this ice into the western end of Chequamegon bay, but the harbor is practically free from ice outside of the breakwater. Considerable ice fields are encountered outside of the islands.

Clears Washburn for Fort William.

Washburn, Wis., April 22.—The steamer Sonoma, Capt. Sullivan, of the Tomlinson line, cleared from here last evening for Fort William. The Sonoma tied up here for the winter with a storage cargo of coal and was unloaded this week and inspected.

Fleet Leaves Fort William.

Fort William, Ont., April 22.—Seventeen steamers loaded to capacity with grain, carrying 3,560,000 bushels, of which 2,553,000 bushels were wheat, cleared from the local harbor at daybreak this morning, opening, what marine men predict to be, the biggest year in the history of lake commerce.

Wind and Weather on Lakes.

The following were wind and weather conditions on the Great Lakes at 7 o'clock this morning, as reported by the weather bureau:

Duluth — Northwest, snowing, 20 miles.

Port Arthur—Northwest, cloudy, 14 miles.

Sault—Southwest, cloudy.

THREE PETITION COURT FOR DIVORCE

William McKee, 38, did not make the kind of a husband that Caroline Knudson, 26, thought he would when she married him two years ago last January. So, in district court today, she filed suit for divorce, charging cruelty. She alleges that he stays out nights and spends his time and money playing cards. When she reproves him, he tells her to "shut up," she says. McKee is a cataloguer employed by a local wholesale house and earns a salary of $125 a month, she asserts. She asks for alimony.

Ward Philip Walter, 27, started suit for divorce today against his wife, Esther Josephine Walter, 22, whom he married at Owanka, S. D., on June 20, 1910. He alleges that she deserted him a year ago last January. There is one child, a daughter, aged 3.

Irene Dever, 30, charges Thomas Dever, 25, with cruelty and desertion, in divorce papers filed this afternoon in district court. They were married four years ago and Mrs. Dever alleges that he quit her on April 25, 1914. She is now supporting herself by conducting a rooming house in Chisholm.

TERCENTENARY OF POET'S DEATH

Duluth, in common with the rest of the civilized world, tomorrow will pay tribute to the memory of William Shakespeare.

It will be the tercentenary of his death and the wide observance of the day will be an indication of Shakespeare's position in the world of letters, and of the popularity of his wonderful contributions to the world's store of literature, even after 300 years.

Although no special programs will be given tomorrow, references will be made to his work from many pulpits, despite the fact that it is Easter Sunday.

SUPERIOR DIES IN ST. PAUL.

W. E. Pickering, aged 67, a prominent lawyer of Superior, died at the Mounds Park sanatorium in St. Paul following an illness of three months. Mr. Pickering took a prominent part in politics in Superior for a number of years and was at one time a candidate for mayor. He practised law in the city for twenty-five years. He leaves, besides his widow, two daughters, Mrs. A. D. S. Gillett and Mrs. Raymond Colbeck, and three sons, Hayden and Harold of Superior and Ralph Pickering of Virginia, Minn. The body will be taken to North Woods, Iowa, his former home, where funeral services will be held Monday.

BRADY HENRY IS TAKEN TO ST. PAUL

Handcuffed and under guard of two deputy sheriffs Brady Henry, bandit, who with Frank Engman committed several holdups at the Head of the Lakes, left last night for St. Paul to stand trial for the murder of James Young. The murder took place while Henry was attempting to hold up a saloon on the evening of April 1. Henry was guarded on one side by Deputy Connors and on the other by Deputy C. T. Ramsey.

Egman will stand trial in Superior for robberies committed there as well as the shooting of George Ness, a shoemaker. Mr. Ness was shot in the wrist when he attempted to resist being robbed.

New City Appointments.

The city commissioners yesterday named H. M. McKenzie, president and general manager of the Northwestern Oil and Grease company, a member of the police and fire commission to succeed F. B. Jerrard. Benjamin Paddock was named a member of the board of public works to succeed A. F. Chadwick. J. C. Crowley, Jr., local manager of the People's Telephone company, was appointed a member of the library board to succeed Louis Williams.

CUMMINS LEADS IN MONTANA PRIMARIES

Helena, Mont., April 22.—Scattering returns from towns in eight counties in Montana in the statewide presidential preferential primary today gave Woodrow Wilson 1,074, A. B. Cummins (Republican), 881; B. R. Woods (Republican), 63, and Theodore Roosevelt 323.

Senator A. B. Cummins of Iowa polled three to one over Colonel Roosevelt in twelve precincts. The other Republican candidate, Edward Randolph Woods of New Jersey, received but a few votes.

This was Montana's first presidential preference primary and the first time that women voted. The polls were open from noon to 8 o'clock, and definite results were not expected until late.

EASTER SERVICES AT SACRED HEART

During solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, at Sacred Heart Cathedral, Second avenue west and Fourth street, the choir, assisted by Helmer's orchestra, will sing "Mary's Mass" in F. The soloists will be Mrs. John F. McKanna, Miss Mae Lydon, Miss Helen Carroll, Robert Hamp, Paul Van Hoven, Will Doherty. The children from St. James' orphanage will sing the "Regina Coeli" at the offertory.

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock solemn vespers and benediction will be sung by Misses Alice Farrell, Mae Maloney, Louise Lyons, Christine Gingley, Genevieve McHale, Mae Geary, Emily Mackey, J. S. Lynn, J. E. Coates, W. Zellman, Leonard McHugh and Will Lynott. Miss Theresa Lynn is organist and John Golcz is director.

BODY IDENTIFIED BY A BOOKLET

By means of a memorandum booklet issued by the State Bank of Denham, Minn., authorities yesterday succeeded in identifying the body found on the Howard-Gnesen road Thursday night as that of Warren E. Drake of West Duluth. A mailman discovered the body, which was lying a few feet from the road, at a point about five miles north of the Catholic cemetery.

Drake had been missing for about ten days, his mother, Mrs. Emma Drake, said. He left Duluth then to work in the country. It is believed that he left the farm and started to walk back to town, as it is known that he had a team on the outward trip. Heart failure was the cause of death, Coroner C. F. McComb said after an examination.

Funeral services will be held from Crawford & Son's chapel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. J. A. McGaughey will officiate. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery.

In addition to his mother, Mr. Drake left a brother, George, and a sister, Mrs. A. G. Otto.

ISSUE NEW RATE FOR SHIPPING GRAIN

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—By order of the state railroad and warehouse commission a new rule will become effective May 13 regarding minimum on grain products and grain in sacks to be shipped in Minnesota in intrastate commerce.

The old rule has been that if more than 15 per cent of grain or feed in sacks is shipped in a mixed carload with flour and feed the minimum will be 36,000 pounds.

The new rule reads:

"Grain, grain products and feeds in sacks, may be shipped in straight carloads and also in mixed carloads at a minmum of 30,000 pounds, provided that not more than 50 per cent of the mixed load is whole grain."

A VERY CRITICAL MOMENT IN YOUR LIFE

Perhaps it never occurred to you that if you did not give any one thing assistance that it would not thrive. If you love flowers you take care of them and water them when they require it and when there is no rain to assist nature to grow those flowers; you insure your house against loss by fire and you insure your life against death; now don't it stand to reason that you must aid nature personally if you expect to have good health and amount to something in this world. After winter's chills has made your blood sluggish and nature at this time of the year is called on to perform extra duty of throwing off all of the poison that is stored in your system from the cold weather, you owe it to yourself to assist nature. You don't want to go around and feel mean and dull all this spring and when summer comes you won't have enough of energy to perform your duties. Many people who need a tonic neglect it because they are not sick enough to cause them any worse feeling than one of fatigue and discomfort. They themselves do not realize that the decline in their health is so gradual that they do not realize how far from normal they are until the pale face, weak nerves, languidness and irritability attract the attention of friends. What you need then is a tonic to assist nature to throw off these things and build up your system, to send renewed blood coursing through your veins. The appetite is improved, the digestion is toned up, there is new color in your cheeks and lips, you worry less, become good-natured where before you were irritable and you find new joy in living. This treatment is useful in dyspepsia, rheumatism, anemia and nervous disorders.

The remedy that I am writing about is made from roots, herbs, barks and leaves, contains nothing but the good things from nature, combined accurately so as to produce the very best results, contains no opiates or other habit-forming drugs. It is that wonder preparation known to the world as CALIFORNIA CACTUS JUICE COMPOUND, and all we ask of you is to give it a trial. The Cactus Juice Man is located in the Lyceum Pharmacy, 431 West Superior street, and wants you to come in and let him tell you about this Master Medicine. He is there every day, but if you can't come there, go to your druggist and ask him for California Cactus Juice and he will get it for you. Advertisement.

BODY OF DOROTHY ARNOLD NOT FOUND

Story of Convict Who Said He Assisted in Burial Proves Untrue.

New York, April 22.—The body of Dorothy Arnold was not found in the cellar of the house outside West Point where New York detectives searched yesterday, Police Inspector Faurot, who is in charge of the investigation, announced today, and that there was no truth in published stories that Miss Arnold's body had been discovered.

Inspector Faurot expressed his opinion that there was nothing to the story told by Octave Charles Glennorris, a convict in a Rhode Island prison, that he aided in the burial in a West Point cellar of a young woman resembling Miss Arnold.

One of the detectives who conducted the search had been quoted as saying a body was found under the cement flooring in an isolated house two miles south of West Point, but Inspector Faurot said, "All we found in the cellar was an old four-inch water main."

"The story told by Glennorris is absolutely false," added the inspector, who expressed the belief that Glennorris' motive in telling his story was the hope of obtaining parole.

to disclose, however, any such letter from the general board as that mentioned in the resolution, according to Secretary Daniels. A letter from Admiral Dewey, president of the board, containing this statement is transmitted:

Letter Careful Analysis.

"Admiral Fiske's letter is a careful analysis of the situation of the navy in the early days of the European war and contains the statement that 'if this country avoids war during the next five years, it will be accomplished only by a happy combination of high diplomatic skill and our good fortune.' It asserts that the navy was then short 19,600 men and that while the ships were well organized and 'pretty well drilled,' that the department itself was neither 'organized nor drilled in a military way.'

"Perhaps this is nobody's fault," the letter continues, "and may be attributed to the fact that our navy has never had to fight a serious enemy; certainly not in a hundred years."

Admiral Fiske then appends an argument for the creation of a navy general staff.

Commenting on this letter, Secretary Daniels in his communication to the senate says:

"This communication was not furnished to me and I did not know of its existence until long after it was written. It was filed with the chief clerk without my knowledge that it had been written. Although Rear Admiral Fiske was in my office daily he did not tell me that he had placed the communication on file."

The secretary adds that the first search of the files of his department had failed to disclose the Fiske letter as it had been withdrawn by an officer who "looked it up several times, but could not find it." The copy transmitted, he adds, was obtained by the department from Admiral Fiske at Mr. Daniels' request.

Mayor C. W. Ryan of Lincoln, brother of W. J. Bryan, was decisively defeated for the Democratic nomination for governor by Keith Neville of North Platte.

A. L. Sutton of Omaha has been nominated for governor by the Republicans.

For Republican national committeeman R. B. Howell has been chosen and Arthur Mullen is leading Mayor James C. Dahlman of Omaha for the place on the Democratic committee.

GERMANY'S ANSWER TO NOTE OF U. S. LIKELY TO BE DELAYED

the note he conferred briefly with Foreign Minister von Jagow. The contents of another message from the ambassador was closely guarded, although, it is said, that he informed the department that assurances had been given him of immediate consideration of the document.

It is known that Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, has advised his government to modify its submarine warfare to meet America's last demands.

No Opinion Expressed.

Berlin, April 22, via London.—Nothing has yet developed as a result of the receipt of the American note to Germany concerning Germany's submarine warfare. No expression of opinion is obtainable from the foreign officers, whose absolute reticence is maintained.

Neither the note nor any reference to it has been published in Germany, and there is no intimation as yet when the note will be made public. The celebrations of Holy week and of the Eastertide, therefore, are proceeding undisturbed by any knowledge of foreign complications.

The ministers and other officials who were entitled to it received a copy of the note this morning and were engaged during the day in studying the document.

Situation Grave.

As far as the Associated Press has been made acquainted with the sentiment in higher quarters, it would be wrong to regard the situation as anything but extremely grave. The note probably will be answered some time next week, after serious consideration has been given the American contention, but there is little hope that any answer can go the length demanded by the Washington government, despite the fact that the government desires to maintain good relations with the United States.

The sentiment is against any further weakening of Germany's submarine campaign, to say nothing of an abandonment of it.

ficers informally, and in the presence of other officers of lower rank, discussed the developments of the pursuit of Villa that began with promised co-operation by Carranza troops and practically ended with a warning to Col. W. C. Brown at Santa Cruz, by a Carranza official, that he must not advance south of that point.

The chief of staff was told of the difficulties encountered in transporting supplies to the stations along the line of communications and of the failure to obtain proper service over railroads.

Gen. Pershing's reports, which are said to contain recommendations that radical changes be authorized, probably will be gone over carefully today. Over night dispatches from the front were read by Gen. Scott. None indicated renewed offensive activity.

Troops Leave Juares.

El Paso, Tex., April 22.—A troop train left Juarez today with several hundred members of the Juarez garrison on board who have been ordered to Casas Grandes. Mexican officials say these troops are not intended as a reinforcement of the Casas Grandes garrison but will replace the soldiers now there who will be sent to Madera.

Pending the report which Gen. Scott is expected to make to the war department today from San Antonio and on which a decision will be reached as to whether or not the expeditionary force shall be withdrawn from Mexico, there was an absolute lull even in the ranks of the alarmists on the border.

Villa Bandits Surrender.

Torreon, Mex., April 22, via El Paso Junction, Tex.—Gen. Severeino Conciceros and his command of Villa bandits have surrendered to the military commander in Durango City and have been granted an amnesty.

Gen. Trevino has informed local agitators who desired to make resistance to the advance of the American troops that the de facto government had the situation well in hand and that if they felt that they must fight he would find them places in the army where they could make war on the Villa bandits. The agitators lost their enthusiasm.

"Individual railroads have authorized the appointment of a joint conference committee to represent the Eastern, Western and Southwestern railroads and we were authorized to say that such committee will be prepared to meet your committee for the purpose of handling the negotiations growing out of the proposals accompanying your communication of April 11, concurrently with the proposals in the replies of the individual railroads.

"The undersigned will be glad to meet you at Chicago, Ill., Thursday, April 27, 1916, for the purpose of making necessary preliminary arrangements for your meeting with the joint conference committee."

ARTILLERY ACTIVE ON MACEDONIAN FRONT

Paris, April 22.—The artillery duel along the Macedonian front continued yesterday, the Havas correspondent at Saloniki telegraphs. There was no activity on the part of infantry except for the usual clashes between patrols.

The aviation corps is very active. The French aeroplane which flew over Sofia returned unscathed from its 400-mile trip. It dropped four large bombs on a Zeppelin shed at Sofia. Two French aeroplane squadrons bombarded the German camp at Petritch yesterday, and another squadron dropped bombs on German troops concentrating near Doiran. German flyers attacked Grassouli, but did no damage.

MANY SETTLERS NOW MAROONED

Late Storm Swells Streams in Northern St. Louis County.

Virginia, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The thirty-six-hour storm of rain, sleet and snow over the Mesaba range evidently had abated at noon today. Three inches of soft snow covers the ground, but is melting rapidly.

Reports from the North country are that the Littlefork river, Pike river and other small streams are out of their banks and overflowing thousands of acres of low-lying land, and in some cases isolating settlers, carrying away bridges and drowning stock. The country roads everywhere are practically impassable. The storm caused little inconvenience in the mines. It is expected several big pits will begin shipping operations the first of the week.

FARMERS USING BOATS.

Tower Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Road Foreman Nick Nelson, who returned from Cook, states that he encountered water that made roads almost impassable, his automobile being submerged over two-thirds of the way up the radiator at times. He states that most of the town of Cook is largely under water, and that some of the farmers in that vicinity have been forced to leave their houses, and that now in order to return to them, it is necessary to use a boat. Mr. Nelson has secured most of the bridges in his district and so far has saved them all, but that with water rising as it is, there is no certainty that they will continue in good shape.

HEAVY SEAS DESTROY KNIFE RIVER DOCK

Knife River, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The heavy seas of the past few days took out the larger part of the fish dock owned by R. T. Lolling. The dock was only recently built and was considered strong enough for any storm.

Bridge Crew to Work.

Knife River, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bridge crew of the D. & N. M. railroad on Monday will begin the season's work. The men have their own cook and an up-to-date equipment consisting of dining and sleeping cars. Peter Churchill is foreman. Some forty men are required and the outfit is expected to have work all summer.

Winton Easter Program.

Winton, Minn., April 22.—The union Sunday school will render the following Easter program tomorrow afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock: "Jesus Bids Us Shine," primary class; "Easter Story," Lillian Hendrickson; "Easter Morning," four boys; song and duet, "Dawn of Immortality," Success class, Miss Florence and Vera Johnson; "Fair Lilies Arise," Anna Nordquist; "Throw Open the Windows," Edna Fox; "Awakening of the Lilies," Miss Esther Nelson's class; prayer, Grace Knoll; reading, "The First Appearance," Esther Russell; reading, Mrs. W. A. Johnson's class; reading, "Easter Lilies," Marion Lindahl; cross exercise, Miss Florence Johnson's class; doxology.

Present "The Creation."

An appreciative audience heard an exceptionally dignified and compelling rendition of Haydn's "Creation" last night at the First Presbyterian church. The solos of J. R. Batchelor and E. L. Hodson were notably fine in spirit, while the ensemble of the chorus of twenty, members of which have worked earnestly the last few weeks, showed evident preparation in their deeply religious interpretation throughout. Mrs. F. W. Spicer's work at the organ was excellent, while the contralto solos of Mrs. E. F. Buchanan were greatly enjoyed. Miss Ruth Rogers, under whose direction the "Creation" was given, received much commendation for the success of its presentation.

Why pay Tire Bills for Others——i. e., for RECKLESS Drivers

THIS to the American who hates to be "the Goat"!

Tires CAN be sold on a "BUSINESS" basis, with sufficient profit to both Manufacturer and Dealer, as Goodrich experience proves.

But, they can also be sold on a PREMIUM basis, whereby the "Safe and Sane" Car-Owner pays for the Speeding Propensities, and Careless Driving, of Others who, leaning upon an extravagant "Guarantee," knowingly burn up Tires in half their natural Life and Mileage.

Speed-Maniacs and Careless-Drivers may very PROPERLY pay the Premium over normal Value (which is really an Insurance Premium), on fancy-priced Tires.

Because, the Premium they pay may be less than half what other Careful Car-Owners indirectly contribute for them, when buying the same brand of Premium-priced Tires, and using them so reasonably that practically no "adjustments" are, in their case, demanded, though paid for in the Premiumed Price.

AMERICANS who want their money's worth,—who dislike to pay for the Reckless-driving extravagance of Others,—in the price of their own Tires, should sit up and take notice of following FACTS:—

The current Goodrich "Fair-List" price on Tires, is based upon what it costs the largest, and best equipped, Rubber Factory in America to produce them.

No "Insurance" Premium added to the NORMAL retail price of Goodrich Tires, in order to protect the Reckless Driver at the expense of the Careful Driver, through a fancy List Price which is high enough to absorb that Premium.

The excess Mileage each Goodrich Tire is reasonably certain to deliver, when given reasonable care in driving, thus becomes clear "Velvet" to the Owner of GOODRICH Tires.

Money can't make, and can't buy, better Tires of Fabric construction, than Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires, as Test will prove.

And, money can't buy the B. F. Goodrich Co. to produce Tires which would discredit the 269 other lines of Rubber Goods made by the B. F. Goodrich Co., for which its name stands Sponsor.

COMPARE prices on Goodrich "Fair-List" Tires with present prices on any other responsible Tires in the field bearing in mind that NO "LARGER-SIZED" Tires (type for type and size for size) than Goodrich Black-Treads, are made in America.

Then, Test out at least ONE pair of Goodrich black-tread Tires, on their per-DELIVERED-Mile cost to you, against any other Tires in the field, at any price, and,—abide by the Result.

Why (if YOU are not a Reckless Driver) should YOU pay MORE than the "BUSINESS" price of the Goodrich Tire, for ANY Fabric Tire in the field?

Get a sliver of the new Goodrich "Barefoot" Rubber from your nearest Goodrich Dealer or Branch.

Chauncey R. Pattinson, assistant chief accountant of the water and light department and an employe of the city for the last eleven years, has resigned to accept the position of credit manager and chief accountant with J. M. Gidding & Co.

Mr. Pattinson will have general charge of the accounts and credits of the Gidding stores in New York, Washington, Cincinnati and Duluth, making his headquarters in Duluth.

Manager Reed of the water and light department announced this morning that T. E. McKibbin, cashier, will be promoted to the office of assistant accountant.

Mr. Pattinson will assume his new duties on May 1.

MANY PLANNING LONG CANOE TRIPS THIS YEAR

Thomas C. Roberts of the Washburn-Crosby company of Minneapolis has written to M. M. Hanna of the Duluth & Iron Range road stating that he intends to make a 300-mile canoe trip this spring. He will start from Winton on May 15 and paddle to Grand Portage.

Mr. Roberts is one of the many people who will make this trip this season. Others who have announced their intention of visiting the Vermilion country are: Miss Anna Muchvitch of Waskish, Minn.; C. M. Porter, O'Fallon, Ill.; Howard Quinn, Melrose, Minn.; J. L. Smyson, Windsor, Iowa; R. T. Kadoll, Elgin, Ill., and C. F. Struck of St. Paul.

Communications, in large numbers, are being received daily by Mr. Hanna relative to canoe trips, the pack-sack trails, camping sites, fishing, etc.

WILL REMAIN FOR SECOND BANQUET

Governor Burnquist Will Address Office Men Friday Evening.

Governor Burnquist will address the members of the Duluth Association of Office Men at a banquet in the Elks' club next Friday evening.

Announcement of the banquet and the governor's acceptance of the invitation to address the local club was made this evening by George L. Gross, president of the Duluth Association of Office Men. Governor Philipp of Wisconsin, who had also been invited, is unable to come at this time, he wired Mr. Gross lost evening.

The banquet will commence at 6:30 o'clock and Governor Burnquist's address will be the principal one of the evening. The program will include several well known speakers of Duluth and Superior.

Governor Burnquist will be in Duluth next Thursday for the annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club, remaining over for the banquet of the office men. He will spend all of Thursday with officials of the normal school, according to word received this morning. He will leave for St. Paul immediately after the banquet Friday evening.

INJURED BY RUNAWAY.

Patrolman Isaacson Severely Hurt in Stopping Horses.

Patrolman Victor Isaacson attempted this morning to stop a runaway team belonging to Ed Summers of West First street, at the corner of Lake avenue and Superior street. The patrolman was dragged about 100 feet and jammed between the horses and a street car standing at the corner. He sustained a severe wrench of the wrist and hip. His clothes were torn. He just missed being thrown under the wheels of the wagon. The runaway was stopped at First avenue west. Isaacson went back to work at noon today.

NO LABOR TROUBLE EXPECTED MAY 1

Employers Grant Wage Advances and Possible Strikes Averted.

May 1 is expected to pass in Duluth this spring without a hitch between capital and labor.

At that time new contracts in many lines of work go into effect, but labor leaders say that the unions and employers have come together and reached satisfactory terms in virtually all lines of work.

In nearly all cases wages have been advanced liberally and the employers are said to have gone half way in meeting the demands of labor. In many cases wages have been advanced 5 cents an hour, or 40 cents a day, making a very good percentage of increase.

Although five new unions have been organized, and the unskilled workers have been taken in, the concessions of employers are expected to give satisfaction so as to prevent any labor troubles. As for the unskilled workers, most of the large corporations will probably give a better wage than that demanded by the unions as men are hard to get.

COMMENT ON PLAYS AND PLAYERS — WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS PROMISE

"NOBODY HOME" COMING TO LYCEUM

Musical Comedy Success Will Play Here Four Days Next Week.

The musical comedy, "Nobody Home," which John Slocum will present at the Lyceum theater four days, beginning with a matinee tomorrow, has the record of being one of the successes from the Princess theater in New York and also the musical comedy hit of this season during its long run at the Wilbur theater in Boston, and when it was necessary to extend the Boston season, "Nobody Home" went to the Hollis Street theater and continued its successful season.

"Nobody Home" is by Paul Rubens and Jerome Kern. The lyrics fit naturally into the story, which is told and sung in dainty surroundings with harmonious music and songs that fit in the situation and are not dragged in by the heels.

New York society was so interested in this smart production that two special performances were given, before the public opening, at which seats were sold at $5 each.

The story of "Nobody Home" is a laughable one. The scenes are laid in New York. To that city comes Roiando d'Amorini, an Italian furniture dealer from Grand Rapids, Mich. Mrs. d'Amorini, his strenuous and jealous American wife, accompanies him, and their niece, Violet Brinton, is one of the party. Arriving in New York, they go to the exclusive and fashionable hotel Blitz. The gay young-old boy, d'Amorini, becomes much delighted with the society of the show girls and every possible hour he can be away from his family is spent with them. The price of food at the Blitz and the expensive supper bills of her husband afford Mrs. d'Amorini much concern and the audience much amusement. Vernon Popple, a society dancer, wins the heart of Violet Brinton, the niece of the d'Amorinis', but the aunt is much opposed to Vernon because of his acquaintance with Miss Tony Miller, prima donna of the Winter garden, upon whom the furniture dealer has his eye.

At this critical time in the love affairs of Vernon, his brother, Freddy Popple of Ippleton, England, arrives in New York with his former groom, Platt, acting as his valet and just slightly mixing up the treatment of horse and man.

Reaching the Blitz, Freddy, who is a typical silly-ass type of Englishman, one of the kind called a "nobody home," is unable to secure a room at the Blitz and does not know where to go. At the moment of his greatest dilemma, Miss Tony Miller, the prima donna, comes into the hotel office and when she finds Freddy Popple of Ippleton is a brother of Vernon, she places at his disposal her new apartment, in swagger upper New York, which she has not yet occupied. Freddy moves himself and Platt to the girl's rooms and then complications follow, involving all hands and especially the furniture dealer from Grand Rapids. But, at last Freddy wins Tony Miller, or rather she kidnaps him.

The scenery and stage decorations have been planned and designed by Miss Elsie de Wolf, this being the first theatrical production ever staged by this noted art decorator. Miss de Wolf has secured effects the New York and Boston critics say are just a bit different from the usual garrish effects of the average musical comedy production.

The first scene shows the fashionable lounge room in the exclusive Hotel Blitz in New York, and then the gay apartment of a popular prima donna on Central Park west is shown.

Mr. Slocum has selected a cast of exceptional ability for this music-girl show, which includes Percival Knight, Mildred Elaine, Mabel Withee, Della Niven, Harry MacDonough, Roydon Keith, Vincent Cassidy, Helen Jost, Selbel Layman and Sylvia Chaulsae.

Among the numbers from "Nobody Home" that all Boston and New York are singing, are the duet, "Girls of Yesterday," "That Wonderful Thing Called Love," song and chorus; "Cupid at the Plaza," song; "In Arcadia," song and chorus; "The Magic Melody," sextet; "The Point of View," song; "One Little Word," "Ten Little Barmaids," "Bed, Wonderful Bed," duet; "Another Little Girl" and "Any Old Night."

PERCIVAL KNIGHT AND THREE OF THE BEAUTIES WITH "NOBODY HOME" AT THE LYCEUM SUNDAY, MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

GUY BATES POST COMING TO DULUTH

Will Appear at Lyceum in "Omar, the Tentmaker" for Three Days.

"Omar, the Tentmaker," the spectacular Persian love-play, in which Guy Bates Post comes to the Lyceum three days, commencing Thursday, April 27, is a massive production in which every detail has been looked after by experts. The scenery, to begin with, was painted by Unitt & Wickes, who are premier artists in that profession. The costumes were designed by Eric Pape, the famous artist, who is paid big sums by the leading magazines for his color plates. And the costumes were executed by Shaw brothers, the Persians, who were tailors to the late shah. The production was built by the Vall Construction company, the leading firm in that work.

The decorations and other "properties" used in the play belong either to Richard Walton Tully or Eric Pape, the artist, and were imported from Persia for the production. The lighting effects, which are novel, have been worked out by Mr. Tully and Wilfred Buckland, his partner in the producing firm of Tully & Buckland. Both of these men are experts in the staging of big productions. Incidental music, with its Persian strains, has been written by Anita M. Baldwin, a California composer.

And all this is a setting for a play about Omar Khayyam, the most interesting figure in the world's literature. New York pronounced it truly a beautiful play in a truly beautiful setting.

CURRENT SHOW AT GRAND POPULAR

Another program which contains the proper proportion of comedy, music novelty and class is on view this week-end to the usual capacity audiences at the popular New Grand.

One of the most prominent features on the bill is the Piccolo Midgets. These clever entertainers possess a great deal of natural magnetism, an abundance of skill in acrobatics and talent for singing and dancing that stamp them as most extraordinary performers. Their portrayal of a Salvation Army, a German band and a travesty three-round boxing bout are among the funniest of their numbers, which are always greeted with roars of laughter from their audiences.

Arthur Rigby is a monologist, who has long been highly regarded in vaudeville and as premier comedian with such organizations as Al G. Fields minstrels and Neil O'Brien's minstrels. That he has lost none of his cunning is evidenced by the enthusiastic approval which greets his every appearance. He has chosen for his 1916 specialty a talk on the current unpleasantness across the sea. Rigby might not excel as a fighter with firearms but his onslaught against melancholy proves him to be an able fighter in his line of endeavor.

Singers, dancers and instrumentalists are the Gifain Trio which is made up of two young women who are endowed with excellent voices and much musical ability, and a male dancer, who is "class personified." A varied wardrobe and a repertoire of choice numbers greatly enhance the offering.

An act that is built wholly for laughing purposes is, "It Happened in Paris," the offering of Dale and Archer, two of the cleverest comedians who have appeared on a local stage this season. Witty chatter predominates and almost every conceivable piece of humor imaginable is injected in some way.

A stirring two-reel drama, "Milestones," featuring Darwin Karr and Nell Craig, toplines the photoplay program. Vernon Howe Bailey's "Sketch Book of Boston," "The Sleuths," a dandy comedy, and the Selig Tribune News of events of interest make up the remainder of the bill.

The new bill opening Monday matinee is headed by the vampire dancer Princess Ka, who is assisted by Gertrude Backman in a series of dances. The Wetzell, Vanette Trio in a musical offering; the Two Kerns offering a rural novelty, "After the Fair," and Fisher and Rockay in coontown melodies are prominent among the vaudeville offerings.

Heading the photoplays is "The Lightbearer," a three-reel drama, featuring Richard C. Travers. Two excellent comedies make up the rest of the program.

ARTHUR RIGBY, "The Minstrel Man" Now at the New Grand.

BEVERLY BAYNE, Popular Photoplay Star Who Will Be Seen at the Zelda.

BUSHMAN AND BAYNE AT ZELDA

Will Appear in Thrilling Photoplay for Three Days.

Francis X. Bushman and his charming co-star, Beverly Bayne, will be the feature attraction at the Zelda for three days commencing tomorrow in a thrilling romance of army life from the pen of Ralph D. Paine, entitled "The Wall Between."

Mr. Bushman, in his delineation of the sturdy and resolute character of Sergeant Kendall, the enlisted man, who dares and suffers much for the sake of principle, as well as for the girl of his heart, has achieved one of the most notable artistic successes of his career.

Miss Bayne as always is strong in her portrayal of the gentle, lovable maiden, who is the inspiration as well as the admiration of all those around her.

Admirers of both stars will find in "The Wall Between" much that appealed to them in "Man and His Soul," and other Metro pictures in which Bushman and Bayne starred.

The story of "The Wall Between," which was produced by John W. Noble for the Metro program, deals with the enlistment of John Kendall, son of a once wealthy banker, in the United States army, and of the barrier which he finds there between himself and those, who in civil life would have been glad to have been counted as his equal. Having won quick promotion and a furlough, he meets and falls in love with a beautiful girl, while garbed in civilian dress, only to be humiliated by an officer of his regiment for daring, while an enlisted man, to pose as a gentleman.

In the dangerous days that follow, his rival, Lieut. Burkett, the officer who sought to shame him and later to disgrace him in the service of his country, shows himself to be not only a snob and an upstart, but a coward as well, and in the end the despised sergeant proves himself the better man, both as a soldier and as a lover.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew will appear in another of their laughable comedies said to be a scream from start to finish.

Enrico G. Prati and Elsa de Marchi, the grand opera singers, who have made such a big hit with Zelda patrons, will be heard in a program of three opera selections.

WILLIAM S. HART AT REX.

Famous Actor of Western Films Will Appear in "The Aryan."

When they find a star like William S. Hart, whom old and young of both sexes enjoy, the problem of motion picture producers is solved. The only difficulty lies in the fact that there are so few Harts and not enough to go around for 365 performances a year. Mr. Hart, who opens the new week's bill at the Rex on Sunday plays exclusively for the Triangle Fine Arts corporation, and these pictures are shown exclusively in Duluth at the Rex.

His new play, "The Aryan," is a Thomas H. Ince picture of rare quality, both in theme and in staging. In the story Hart, a rugged man of the desert, is fleeced of his fortune by women of a lawless town, and this turns him against all women. He becomes the ruler of a lawless band of mining camp renegades, but a gentle, fearless girl awakens him. Altogether it makes a beautiful story, full of action like all Hart pictures.

Dorothy Gish will appear Tuesday for three days in her new play, "Little Meena's Romance," a quaint story about a quaint character, done by that delightfully quaint little star, the younger Miss Gish. William S. Hart stays at the Rex but for two days, Sunday and Monday.

It has been acclaimed as the sensation of the Pickford successes. Keystone comedies on each day up to Friday and Pictographs on Friday and Saturday, add to the week's unusually fine offering at this pretty theater.

BERTHA KALICH AT LYRIC

Noted Actress Will Appear in Drama of Society.

For three days, beginning tomorrow, Bertha Kalich, an actress of more than ordinary talent, will hold the screen at the Lyric in "Slander," a picture that is recommended to both men and women. It is a modern society drama, presented by William Fox.

There is a reunited family at the conclusion of the picture, but the troubles that intervene are sufficient to bring home to many who have taken the same risks of domestic crashes and social oblivion by illicit love-making the pitfalls that await the feet of the unfaithful.

The play is in no wise a sermon. It is a tragic revelation of social life as all know it from peeps into the realms where skeletons are kept in many closets. The audience may take its lesson in its own way. The picture is well put on. Miss Kalich, who has made a name for herself, is at home in her role and is aided by a competent cast.

Wednesday and Thursday Blanche Sweet will appear in "The Sowers." Just now, when the mind goes across to the many-sided struggle in Europe, a play like this, based on the internal struggles of Russian freedom from serfdom, is instructive. The Chicago Daily Tribune speaks of the play as "different."

The week closes with the return of Valesca Suratt in "The Immigrant," which had a big patronage when seen before. In addition to the dramas of the week, the usual Burton Holmes travel pictures are to be seen Wednesday and Thursday and other special features on other days. Today and tonight Marguerite Clark is playing in "The Pretty Sister of Jose."

EASTER FILM AT SUNBEAM.

"A Child of God," By Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, Will Be Shown.

Manager Ralph Parker of the New Sunbeam theater has arranged a big Easter program for tomorrow. The photoplay taken from the work of Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, who is one of the greatest of authors for photoplay production, is a story of love and regeneration. It portrays the redemption of a rough ranchman from the rude, careless life of the plains, through the love of God and that of a pure woman. The leading roles are taken by Sam de Grasse, Cecelia Billington and Richard Cummings. Sammy Burns, the clever English comedian, will furnish many laughs in "Sammy's Scandalous Scheme." Wally Van also will be one of the chief laugh producers in a screamingly funny comedy entitled "Putting Pep into Slowtown."

On Monday and Tuesday there will be Harry Watson, Jr., that inimitable vaudeville and burlesque comedian, in the ninth happy whirl of "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer." Another excellent feature film shows William Duncan and an able cast of players in "The Wanderer," a three-reel Vitagraph. The story is one in which a blacksmith makes a fortune out of oil stocks.

On Wednesday and Thursday Henry B. Walthall and Miss Edna Mayo will appear in "The Accusing Eye," the ninth thrilling episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page." This episode deals with the testimony of Meredith, an actor known to Mary Page, and her friend Amy, who obtains employment as an artist's model. A photograph is produced. In the man's eye is seen the image of Mary Page. In addition "The Roughneck," a photoplay of strong heart interest, by the Essanay players, is to be shown. This excellent photoplay features Ernest Maupain, Harry Beaumont and Alton Goodrich.

For Friday and Saturday the feature will be "Stonewall Jackson's Way." This picture is said to be one of the most exciting war films ever produced, and it shows terrific night battle scenes and great maneuvers, done under the strategic eye of the famous confederate general, who was killed by his own troops.

THRILLING SCENES SHOWN BY HOWE

Will Make Pictorial Pilgrimage at Lyceum for Whole Week.

Towering snow-capped peaks arranged in all the grandeur of nature's master hand, mountains reaching up to cloud-land, rock-bound majestic lakes clear as a mirror, dashing mountain streams that leap from precipice to precipice, nd living glaciers—all this and much more will be unfolded by Lyman H. Howe at the Lyceum theater entire week of April 30, during a memorable pictorial pilgrimage through Glacier National park. For sheer grandeur the scenery cannot be surpassed.

Within the confines of the park, comprising about 1,500 square miles, is contained the most beautiful array of tremendous out-of-door scenes that the imagination could conceive. Exceptionally interesting, too, are studies of the American Indian, but not the Indian of the newspapers, nor of the novel, nor as conceived by the "tenderfoot," but the real Indian as he is in his daily life among his own people, his friends, and where he is not embarrassed by the presence of strangers, nor trying to produce effects.

As is typical of Howe's exhibition, a great variety of other scenes will be presented, such as an aeroplane flight above the clouds, a torpedo boat struggling through a terrific gale, curious examples of crystallization, logging in Italy, a graphic portrayal of the movements of animals reproduced so slowly that they show details which the human eye could never detect, the Firth of Forth bridge in Scotland, Madeira, winter in the Swiss Alps, and one of the greatest industries of modern times, showing every phase that enters into the construction of the latest type automobile as seen on a trip through the Willys-Overland plant at Toledo, Ohio. Besides there will be freely interspersed many of those ever welcome cartoon comedy films which always form such a pleasing diversion in Howe's productions.

She escaped from Pembine while her alleged abductors went into the woods, and found her way to North Crandon. The girl's name is not given.

CEMETERY AS BIRD'S HOME

About Sixty Houses for Feathered Folk to Be Put Up.

There can be no mistake about where Duluth stands on the question of preserving bird life.

Feathered songsters have many friends and protectors in Duluth and new ones are turning up daily.

W. B. Patton, secretary of the Duluth Cemetery association, today announced that plans are under way to make Forest Hill cemetery a bird sanctuary.

James A. Lawrie, Duluth vice president of the Minnesota Game Protective league, recently suggested the idea to the officials of the cemetery association, and they have given him assurances that they will co-operate in every way.

"It might be of interest to Duluth bird lovers to know that about sixty birdhouses have been constructed during the winter and are now being placed around the grounds in Forest Hill cemetery in the effort to make it a bird sanctuary," said Mr. Patton today.

"It is felt that such a location is peculiarly adapted to this work, and that the presence of the birds will be an added source of comfort and consolation to those who have been bereaved, and whose friends lie within that 'God's Acre Beautiful.'"

SHIPS IN ALL YARDS WILL BE MADE READY

General Orders Given to Speed Up Work on U. S. War Vessels.

Washington, April 22.—Orders to speed up repair and overhaul work on vessels of both the Atlantic and Pacific fleets have been sent to the commandants of the various navy yards by Secretary Daniels.

In case of labor shortage, the commandants are instructed to expedite the work by employing the ships' personnel.

The move was explained as a "preparedness test," the execution of which would illustrate how quickly the vessels could be restored to normal conditions after their strenuous winter operations, and placed in readiness for battle practice and maneuvers beginning May 20.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt has been in conference with officials of the New York yard, attempting to arrange for the employment of a sufficient force of mechanics and skilled labor to operate that plant night and day.

Secretary Daniels said the officials were experiencing great difficulty in securing laborers at government wages, and also by delay in delivery of materials ordered for repair work and construction of the vessels now being built. Offers of better pay and advantages of extra work at double time, he said, were attracting the workmen to private employers and creating the scarcity of labor in the yards.

Begin Marketing Sisal Crop.

Washington, April 22.—The Federal trade commission yesterday began its task of supervising the marketing of what is left of this year's Yucatan sisal crop by telegraphing to all the binder twine manufacturers in the United States for an estimate of their requirements for the 1916 season. About 125,000 bales are to be distributed.

BANDIT HOLDS UP UNION PACIFIC TRAIN

Rawlins, Wyo., April 22.—Union Pacific Passenger Train No. 21 was held up by a bandit west of Hanna, Wyo., early last night. After compelling the guard on the train to take up a collection from the passengers in the observation car, the bandit compelled the brakeman to collect the valuables of passengers in one of the two sleepers. As the train approached Edson, Wyo., the bandit dropped from the train and ran toward the hills.

TODAY IN HISTORY.

Paper money bill vetoed, 1874.

In the days when "greenbacks" were regarded by the reformers as the one and only panacea needed to make the land flow with milk and honey both parties were strongly tinctured with this rosy hope. In 1874 congress, strongly Republican in both branches, passed a law increasing the floating supply of paper money from $382,000,000 to $400,000,000—the "inflation bill," so called. On April 22 President Grant, reiterating his views of 1869 on the evils of an irredeemable paper currency, sharply vetoed the bill.

READING (available in Duluth public library)—Horace White, "Money and Banking Illustrated by American History" (a wealth of interesting material, displayed in entertaining and scholarly style, one of the best books on the money question); G. L. Austin, "Life and Times of Wendell Phillips" (Phillips, a great anti-slavery leader, after the war showed active sympathy with the labor and Greenback movements).

THE INVINCIBLE ARMAMENT.

Nothing that President Wilson has said has puzzled his enemies more than this:

> "Are you ready to go in only when the interests of America are coincident with the interests of humanity, and to draw out the moment the interest centers in America and is narrowed from the wide circle of humanity?"

To those in whom national and personal selfishness is ingrained, these words are baffling and incomprehensible. To those who realize that it is the antithesis of this sentiment that has kept the world at war, they are simple and noble. They point the path to humanized international relations—to world harmony and world peace.

It is a far cry indeed from the German position that all interests of humanity and civilization must give way before the German interest, to the position of Wilson that it is the duty of this nation to serve the cause of humanity first, and by serving humanity first serve itself best.

The Minneapolis Journal, the Chicago Tribune, Theodore Roosevelt, the insect mind of the Duluth News Tribune—all are wrestling in baffled amazement with this mighty sentiment, which is too great and too fine for them to take in—at least all at once.

Yet it is precisely what the president meant months ago when he uttered these words which the Chicago Herald keeps standing at the head of its editorial columns:

AMERICA ASKS NOTHING FOR HERSELF BUT WHAT SHE HAS A RIGHT TO ASK FOR HUMANITY.

In making America the champion of humanity and human rights, Wilson is making America far more invincible than if he provided it with the mightiest army and navy the world has ever known. "Thrice armed is he who hath his quarrel just." In asking for America nothing but what he also asks for humanity, the president is making America a mighty leader in the march toward world peace, a shining example in world history, and he is disarming and dismaying her enemies.

No cause of greed can stand against such an overwhelming and invincible principle as that which the president has laid down in his message to Germany. Penny whistle party papers may deride it, thickheaded party enemies may reveal their thickheadedness by not understanding it; but it is a mighty and noble statement of a militant righteousness that will conquer the world.

What the world thinks of it is admirably stated by the Paris Matin: "When the responsible head of a hundred million free citizens mounts the rostrum in congress to declare 'We are the spokesmen of the rights of humanity,' he has performed an act of immense moral importance. * * * It is an historical event which is deserving of our admiration as one of the noblest acts in the memory of mankind."

Germany shows what putting national interests above the interests of humanity comes to. The United States, firm in the right and irresistible and unconquerable in the eternal justice of its cause, will show the world the way to peace by the pathway of international union in the common cause of humanity and the right.

THE ENEMY WITHIN THE GATES.

Is the destruction of a vessel carrying contraband worse than the destruction of first-class mail matter, when the latter is safeguarded by international convention?

President Wilson seems to think so, for he has not demanded that Great Britain cease her seizure of first-class mail matter or face a breach of diplomatic relations.—Milwaukee Free Press (which is published in English).

Is wanton murder of non-combatant men, women and babies worse than interference with mails and commerce, however unlawful?

Incidentally, what would happen to the Free Press and its editor if this were Germany instead of the United States?

Got your Easter umbrella?

WHY WILSON?

This is the year when, under the Constitution, a president is to be elected. That's why you hear a great deal of talk against the president and the administration.

There are two parties—the In party, and the Out party. The In party is in and wishes to stay in; the Out party is out and wants to get in. So the Out party feels that it has to say as many harsh things as it can think of about the In party and its president, hoping thereby to convince the people that the In party is a bad party and its president is a bad president. If they can do that, the people will vote the In party out and the Out party in. That will account for a great many things you hear politicians talking about nowadays—will account, indeed, for most of them.

Mr. Wilson is the leader of the In party, and is president of the United States. He is the man the Out party is attacking, because it wants to get his place for one of its own men who will appoint others of its men to the lucrative offices under the presidency.

Why keep him in office?

That question will be asked, though it isn't quite fair. The right question should be, "Why NOT keep him in?" That is the question the unpartisan and unbiased voter will ask of those who clamor for a change. That is the question he should insist on getting answered before he believes Mr. Wilson to be a bad president who ought to be turned out.

But sooner or later the question will be asked, and it may as well be answered.

Why keep Wilson as president?

Because he has made good. Because he made pledges and kept them. Because he has been the people's president, not the president for a single moment of the politicians or the special interests. Because he has been straightforward and above board. Because he has played square with the people and the country. Because he has dealt justly and rightly with all who came before him—even with Germany and Mexico, with whom it was far more difficult to deal calmly and rightly than most people realize. Because he kept the nation out of war as long as it could be done honorably. Because, though he has advocated reasonable precautions against surprise by an unsuspected enemy, he has kept his head and has stood like a rock against the waves of panic and hysteria that, carefully propagated, have swept the country and carried many people off their feet. Because though he has worked for reasonable military preparedness he has stood fast against unreasonable and ridiculous preparedness. Because he has dealt with Mexico with consideration for its sore plight, for its perplexities, for its troubled task of working self-government out of oppression and anarchy—because he has kept us out of a shameful war of aggression upon Mexico in the interests of American investors in Mexican enterprises. Because he has dealt firmly with violators of international law and the law of humanity, and has upheld American honor and American rights without dragging the nation into the hell-pit of the Atrocious War. Because he brought about a banking and currency law that bulwarked the nation against panic and distress amid a world-rocking explosion that without that law would immediately have plunged the country into helpless financial and industrial paralysis. Because he is responsible for laws governing trade and industry that will solve the problems of greed and monopoly without the needless destruction of legitimate business enterprises. Because, under him, the heavy burden of national taxation has been shifted from the needy many to the wealthy few by the income tax. Because, under him, the process of lawmaking has been diverted from the service of oppressive Special Privilege to the service of the whole people. Because, under him, the treasury department has ceased to be a servant of great money barons and became a public servant. Because he has appointed to high office men unswervingly loyal to the common good. Because when, in the matter of the Panama canal tolls, there was an issue between national selfish interest and national honor, he resolved that issue in favor of national honor, to the everlasting glory of the nation and of himself. Because by his relations with neighbor republics he has destroyed the suspicion and fear of America that militated against fraternal and commercial harmony, and has made the United States the big brother of the American community. Because he has met and grappled with greater problems than have beset any president since Lincoln with coolness, poise, sanity, clarity of vision, calm readiness of soul, high purpose, high ideals and unadulterated patriotism. Because his record as man, as party leader, as statesman and as president is a high white tower from which the paltry mud of his political assailants falls back harmless. Because he is a great and patriotic citizen, a wise and strong man, a firm and clear-sighted and forward-looking and upward-climbing and high-idealed and wise and practical president and leader of the people.

If the amount of water around at present is anything like an omen, somebody ought to get a lot of encouragement as to the outcome of the license question vote.

EASTER.

The dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise.—Isaiah xxvii-19.

The hope of immortality lights the pathway of mankind through the ages, dark though the way. Life is a preparation, a training. He who has lived a useful, successfully useful life, is just beginning to learn when the end comes. Is it a preparation, a training, a learning merely for the black extinction of the grave? If it were so, existence would be the grimmest joke of the universe!

So it is that man—civilized, growing, climbing man—holds high his hope of immortality, of a life beyond the grave. Those who lack it are as if some vitalizing principle had died within them.

It is not for nothing that Easter, the commemoration of the glory-day of the risen Lord, comes in the spring. For the spring is a time when all nature is shouting the message of the resurrection with a million eloquent tongues.

The year has its birth, its glowing youth, its jovial summer, its fecund autumn. Then, seemingly, comes death. Blasting frosts turn green to gorgeous reds and yellows, then to brown and black. There are drear, dead fields where yesterday all was living green. Winter heaps its snows over the wreck and ruin of the year.

If mankinds knew as little of the progress of the years as it knows of the progress from time to eternity, it would mourn the death of the year as it mourns the loss of its loved ones.

But mankind knows, even in the bleakness of mid-winter, that death in nature is but a seeming, only a passing phase of growth; that spring will bring its glorious resurrection and its new burst of abounding life.

And it is at this happy season of swelling buds and growing green, when tree and shrub and earth fairly hum with the coming of the spring birth of leaf and bloom, that Christianity has its Easter—its commemoration of the Resurrection of the Man who brought a message of peace and love and brotherhood that is the hope of humanity. That message, any time man is wise enough to take it and apply it to his life and to the relations of man with man and nation with nation, will solve all the problems of mankind. And Easter, coming in this glorious spring-time with its new birth of the year, is at once a reminder of this message and a renewal of the promise of life everlasting—that death is not the end, that the grave is not the goal.

I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.

To believe is not static, not inertia. To believe is dynamic; it is to do. If mankind will believe in Him who died and lived again, it will embrace his message of peace and love and human brotherhood, and more will be thus achieved for the well-being of humanity than will ever be achieved by millions of textbooks on economics, oceans of party platforms, and libraries of legislation.

And now Montana has turned T. R. down. "And none so poor to do him reverence?"

BUT WHAT'S THE USE?

The Washington Star views with growing discontent the prospect that Theodore Roosevelt will capture the Republican nomination for president.

The Star naively suggests that "the Republican party in national convention should nomination a REPUBLICAN for president." The Republican party has had its lesson, is cowed and tamed and taught to keep to heel and jump through a hoop and play dead and lie down and roll over, and it will nominate the man Roosevelt wants it to nominate.

But, the Star argues, "to go outside for a candidate would be a confession of bankruptcy. If the party is so reduced in character and ability that it has no member equal to leadership at this time it should surrender its name and go out of business. That proposition is as plain as a pike-staff." True enough! But the party is not so bad as that. It has members equal to leadership at this time. Elihu Root is the typical Republican, the traditional Republican, the ablest Republican. Roosevelt himself has called him the greatest living statesman, and has said that he would crawl on his hands and knees from the White House to the Capitol to make him president. The party is not bankrupt for material, but plainly it IS bankrupt for courage and loyalty to its traditions, so it will not nominate Root, it will nominate Roosevelt.

"As everybody knows," continues the Star, "and as he himself admits, Mr. Roosevelt is not a Republican. He left the party four years ago and, as a bolter, defeated it. More than that. He denounced the party as unworthy of longer trust, and many of the men with whom he had while a Republican been on terms of closest personal and political accord as corrupt bosses." Also true. The party with which Roosevelt is overwhelmingly flirting is the same party he denounced four years ago as unworthy to be trusted longer. The Republicans with whom he is now intriguing for the nomination are the same Republicans whom he denounced four years ago as corrupt bosses.

But what of it? What's the use, dear Star? Not bankrupt in material, but thoroughly bankrupt in the courage of its convictions and traditions, the Republican party is going to nominate a man not a Republican; a man who, when the Republican party refused longer to be his plaything, rent and destroyed it; a man who, having denounced the party and its leaders as untrustworthy and corrupt, is again using that same party and those same leaders to advance his political fortunes—and they are licking the hand that smote them and welcoming their slavery. It is the loyalty of the dog—admirable in dogs, despicable in men.

The Star might as well conserve its breath. Shortly, as a Republican paper, it will have to eat its words and, Roosevelt having the nomination, salute him as the party leader—and party owner—and urge the people to elect him as a Republican president. The die is cast, and the Chicago convention will be a mere ratification meeting.

The president of China is about to form a new cabinet. Maybe he'd like to import some possibilities from this country.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY AND THE COMMUNITY.

The value of music in the community works out in two directions—for those who hear the music and for those who participate in making it. Great though the benefit is of awakening and serving the taste for hearing good music, it is questionable if it is of so great a value as the work of enlarging the circle of those who actually take part in providing the community's music.

There's where such institutions as the Duluth Choral society come into play. They not only provide good music—as for instance next week's performance of Haydn's "Creation"—but they reach out and take in a large number of people and make them actual dispensers of music.

There should be more such institutions. There should be more amateur orchestras and sextets and trios. Everybody who can be brought to play or sing should be made to play or sing. It is good to listen to good music; it is quite as good to learn to create music that is as good as you can make it.

Besides the big orchestras and the choral societies there should be as many organizations for playing and singing as can be gotten together. As many people as possible should be interested in learning to sing or to play something—better a harmonica than nothing. If once or twice a year somebody would arrange to get the whole town together with a leader and a band and have it sing in one mighty chorus some of the good old songs that everybody knows—some of Stephen Foster's American folk songs are as truly music as anything Debussy or Berlioz ever concocted—it would be a splendid thing.

The movement started in Duluth by the late Horace W. Reyner, and nobly supported by T. W. Hugo, the Scottish Rite Masons, Mr. Bradbury, the Flaatens, the business men who have made the twilight concerts possible, and many others, has gone far—and it is still going. Let's keep it going—and keep it widening.

Henry Ford is looking into that "substitute for gasoline." Question is, will it run a substitute for an automobile?

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

Semita Justorum.

When I look back upon my former race,
Seasons I see at which the Inward Ray
More brightly burned, or guided some new way;
Truth, in its wealthier scene and nobler space,
Given for my eye to range, and feel to trace.
And next, I mark, 'twas trial did convey,
Or grief, or pain, or strange eventful day,
To my tormented soul such larger grace.
So now, whene'er, in journeying on, I feel
The shadow of the Providential Hand,
Deep breathless stirrings shoot across my breast,
Searching to know what He will now reveal,
What sin uncloak, what stricter rule command,
And girding me to work His full behest.

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason

Plowing.

I watch the farmer plow; he's busy at it now; he deftly tools his span of mules, and whacks them with a bough. One minutes he says, "Gee!" Next minute, "Haw!" says he; the mules, they haw, and strain and draw upon the double-tree. The plow point strikes a stone; the farmer heaves a groan; and then his nibs surveys his ribs, to find the broken bone. Then, finding he is whole, he takes a ten-foot pole, and prods the mules, and says, "You fools, such tricks I will not thole!" The plowshare does not scour, and he, for half and hour, suspends the rules and lams the mules with wondrous vim and power. To turn the furrow o'er—it is the oldest chore; man's tilled the earth since Adam's birth, and will forevermore. And ever, as he walks, he picks up clods and rocks, in West and East, to pelt his beast, his horse or mule or ox.

Colonel Roosevelt

By Savoyard.

Washington, April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—We have never looked upon his like before, and it is doubtful if the future, however remote, will reveal his match. There must be something great about him, for not even ridicule, so fatal to your ordinary character, can harm him. Millions hold him a hero and a sage, while other millions see in him a bully and a fakir. He has done things that would be fatal to the commonplace man, without the slightest adverse consequence to himself. His very failures he converts to triumphs. In pre-eminent degree he is that forceful quantity, an interesting personality. Whatever he does is heralded. Whatever he says is recorded. Consistency no more restrains him than the green withes that were never dried securely bound Samson. Take a dab of Alcibiades and a dab of Coriolanus among the ancients; a slice of Prince Rupert, a slice of the earl of Peterborough, a slice of Charles the Bold, and a slice of George Jacques Danton, among the moderns, and you have some of the elements, not all, that go to make up the extraordinary character—Theodore Roosevelt.

His one transcendent hero is Oliver Cromwell, and if he were not Roosevelt, he would prefer to be the Lord Protector, the greatest man of action the Anglo-Saxon race has produced. That he is a man of destiny there can be no sort of doubt. I have no respect for the opinion of those who hold that all things of this life are mere matters of chance. Man's career is determined the instant he is born, and Theodore Roosevelt was made to fill a great place in American history. Had he been the fakir he gives us so much reason to hold that he is, he would have gone off the stage long ago, vanished from sight to the derisive hootings of the whole people. The Harriman letters would have done for Roosevelt what the Mulligan letters did for Blaine had not Roosevelt been a far greater man than Blaine? The indulgence he granted to the Steel trust to absorb the Tennessee Coal & Iron company would have sent any other politician to the scrap heap. He is a wonder.

We have the testimony of Grover Cleveland, a man of truthful speech, that regret is always the portion of the man who retires from the presidency of our republic—regret for the loss of power. Cleveland's was a thoroughly sane mind, and his civic virtue equal to that of George Washington. Nor is that all. He was the least vain man of his day. If that is the way Cleveland felt about it, what must be the agony of mind endured by Theodore Roosevelt every time he reflects that the scepter has departed from his hand!

If I had a personal enemy upon whom I would visit demoniac malice I would set the presidential bee buzzing in his bonnet:

> "Not poppy, nor mandragora,
> Nor all the drowsy syrups of the world,
> Shall ever medicine thee to that sweet sleep,
> Which thou owedst yesterday."

From that moment content and that man are total strangers. The presidency has come to very few of them. Of another fascinating quality that plagues human desires, Burns wrote:

> "But pleasures are like poppies spread,
> You seize the flow'r, its bloom is shred;
> Or like the snowfalls in the river,
> A moment white—then lost forever;
> Or like the borealis race,
> That flit ere you can point the place;
> Or like the rainbow's lovely form
> Evanishing amid the storm."

Or as another great observer of the workings of the human heart expressed it:

> "Hope springs eternal in the human breast;
> Man never is, but always to be blest."

* * *

Look at the list. De Witt Clinton, Clay, Calhoun and Webster, Douglas, Blaine and Sherman. Then there were Marcy, Seward, Chase, Hendricks, Morton, Reed and Champ Clark. Roscoe Conkling was the one American who recovered from this malignant malady. When defeated in 1876 he put it away forever, and he had the strength of character to decline the nomination of his triumphant party in 1880 when it was tendered him by acclaim.

The lust of power is the strongest of human passions. It may be lofty, as when the elder Pitt said to Devonshire, "My lord, I am sure that I can save this country, and that nobody else can." It may be ignoble, as when Richard III made murder his instrument with which to attain it. The most pathetic spectacle in mythology is seen when that fellow Phaethon attempted to drive his daddy's chariot. This country is full of Phaethons right now. Jim Mann contemptuously characterizes them as "two-spots."

* * *

Now, Roosevelt can drive a chariot. He is a powerful politician, as brilliant at the game as Ty Cobb on the diamond. He is eternally doing things that bewilder his adversaries. Four years ago he smote the Republican party hip and thigh, and the blessed moment that party is not only resolved to condone and forgive his recalcitrancy, but to accept him as its leader and master. The most aggravating thing in the world is one of these here hell-fired women that you can never put in the wrong, however perverse she be. Theodore Roosevelt is that sort of politician. He is never in the wrong. He is of the Lord's anointed, and if evil crops into the game, it is always the work of some "liar," "crook," "mollycoddle," and he appoints himself to correct it.

That is natural. The world is given to accepting a man at his own valuation of himself. If that were not so, hypocrisy would be so unprofitable that none would practice it. The generality of mankind is honest and the honest are usually unsuspecting. When Roosevelt proclaims himself the upper crust and butt-cut of Americanism millions accept him at that very thing.

* * *

And what a shifty devil he is! The other day Plutocrat Bacon of Wall Street gave a breakfast, or luncheon, or dinner, or supper, it matters not what. Roosevelt and Root were guests. It was the design to have it go out that Roosevelt would accept Root as the Republican candidate. But what was the outcome? It was proclaimed and is accepted that Root approves Roosevelt as the Republican candidate. That is the way Ty Cobb plays baseball.

The Bull Moose convention at Chicago will have nominated Roosevelt before the standpat convention is organized. Then what will follow? Nothing simpler. The standpat convention will accept Roosevelt and nominate him by acclaim.

That is the way it looks to a man up a tree.

If We Could Only Be!

(A poem for parents only.)

There is a poem I have read, and which is quoted far,
Advising boys to be the sort their mothers think they are;
But I would nobler be than that, and bear fame's oriflamme,
If I could only be the man my youngster thinks I am.

I'd be the bravest man alive, the stanchest ever born,
The greatest and most versatile that could the world adorn,
And, if I chose, far doughtier in strife than any other,
And very near as good and wise and lovable as mother.

Ah, parents! What are precepts all, when little children grow
To learn we are not quite the sort they thought they used to know?
We could make home a dearer place and life more perfect far,
If we strove more to be the folks our babies think we are.

—Lee Shippey in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Saturday Night Talk

By the Parson.

Passing Out of the Shadow.

At few points have the thoughts of modern men shown more encouraging gain than in their convictions regarding life beyond the grave. Progress is apparent to anyone who makes study of this supreme human concern. It is good to behold the thinkers of the race growing less pagan and more Christian in their conclusions.

Although immortality has been an age-long expectation, it has not always been one of large attractiveness. Few of us would care greatly for immortality, if our conception of it were of no higher type than that of some of our predecessors. Classical Greek thought, for example, pictured the world beyond simply as the gloomy abode of the dead, a barren region where pale ghosts flitted about aimlessly.

One comprehends the fabled remark of Achilles that he had rather be a servant in this pleasant world of light and flowers than reign as king among the dead. Even Socrates and Plato, noble and enlightened spirits both, have little certitude of joy as they discuss the life beyond. A continuation of existence, they hold, is probable, but is hardly a prize to be grasped at.

The fog bank in which even some of the best of the Old Testament worthies walked is illustrated in the sick bed psalm of King Hezekiah. "I said in the cutting off of my days, I shall go to the gates of the grave; I am deprived of the residue of my years. I shall not see the Lord, even the Lord in the land of the living; I shall behold man no more with the inhabitants of the world. * * * For the grave cannot praise thee, death cannot celebrate thee. They that go down into the pit cannot hope for thy truth."

If any gleam of hope remains in a melancholy outlook like that, it is surely not bright enough to serve as a beacon. No one cares for mere existence in some limbo of departed spirits.

Thousands of dwellers in our modern world have slight enthusiasm for an immortality that promises naught but continuance of the hard and sordid conditions with which they are familiar in the present. What interest can peasants in bleeding Poland, ruined Belgium or outraged Armenia take in another world in which the poverty and suffering of this one are to be endlessly repeated?

Only in the Christian atmosphere do we emerge from fog into sunshine. The Gospel promises us not only a continuance of life, but of life that is worth while. Easter, in the Christian church, celebrates not alone immortality—which, in itself considered, may be an uninspiring prospect, but a sort of immortality that is worth striving for. It promises the ongoing traveler resurrection, increase of his best attainments, unceasing progress from strength to strength.

Easter day contains a great prophecy and a great promise. It predicts for man an ultimate passing out of shadow into light, out of littleness into greatness, out of defeat into victory. "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard the things that God hath prepared for them that love Him."

Said James Drummond Burns in his last mortal hour, "I have been dying for twenty years. Now I am going to live."

Said Victor Hugo: "The tomb is not a blind alley. It is a thoroughfare. It closes in the twilight to open in the dawn."

Such words are like the glow of sunrise on mountain peaks. One celebrates such a hope with solemn joy and calls on himself to be worthy of it.

> Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
> As the swift seasons roll,
> Leave thy low vaulted past.
> Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
> Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
> Till thou at length art free;
> Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1896.

A large muskrat ran things in one of the grade rooms at the Central high school for a while yesterday, Miss Mussop, the teacher, abdicating in his favor. When Miss Mussop went to her desk during a recitation she discovered Mr. Muskrat combing his whiskers with a satisfied air. There was a scream and the teacher climbed on a chair. A ruler ended the existence of the usurper and peace was restored.

No Chance at All.

Minneapolis Journal: A man named Graydon, who couldn't get into the English army because he was all shot to pieces with alcohol, went into the wilds of Scotland and put himself into such shape that he was passed and sent somewhere into France.

They shipped him home later with a badly shattered knee. He was thin, but his eyes were still bright, and his muscles were as hard as those of a horse. At the club someone touched a button and the waiter appeared.

"What will you have to drink, sir?"

"Nothing," Graydon replied. "Out there on the firing line, where the shells are breaking overhead, machine guns are tearing up the earth, liquid fire is squirting out of a hose, poisonous gases are settling over a trench and bombs are dropping from the sky—every man still has a chance—but when that other stuff once gets a good hold on him, he hasn't any."

The Watch vs. the Foot-Rule

By HERBERT KAUFMAN

Distance is a Will o' the Wisp, a mirage, an invariable fact and an elastic theory.

Estimates based on spaces are subject to incessant revision, since we discarded the foot-rule for the watch-hand and measure by minutes instead of miles.

Remember that in your calculations or we'll forget you in ours.

You can get along without an atlas but you can't manage without a time-card.

The earth is steadily shrinking under the pressure of ingenuity. Inventors are gradually squeezing all the continents into one.

Your grandfather's geography is ridiculously inaccurate—it told him that the Pacific Ocean was a full three months' journey from the Atlantic Coast, whereas every schoolboy knows it's barely a four days' trip.

America used to be six months further from China and the earth was so huge in Magellan's century that it took years to sail around it.

Speed is the dominating dimension.

Steam, electricity and gasoline have wrought the change.

Instant transformation follows upon rapid transportation.

Turning wheels and churning screws have condensed the land and drained the sea.

Nature formerly gave certain countries and specific cities peculiar commercial advantages, but the peoples and communities that expect to maintain their position because of propinquity to a given point or port, soon find their natural superiority challenged and frequently discounted, by rivals whom vast stretches of country once held from competition.

Faster ships, better harbors and newer machinery more than overcome the handicap of remoteness.

The Twentieth Century canceled all charters of leadership. Towns can no longer lie back and wait for commerce to put in appearance.

Prosperity doesn't "happen", any more. Opportunity doesn't pause at doors with knockers—they're only on out-of-date establishments—she presses bell buttons—they tell the tale.

Old-fashioned ideas won't serve the needs of a new-fangled period.

Nor can the men who cling to them.

There's no more chance for short-sighted individuals than there is for moss-grown municipalities. Organizations of which you may never hear, are including your district in their plans—snatching orders from right under your nose.

They're attacking you with all the arsenals of efficiency; invading your domain via telephone and motor car; piecing out their reach by every available minute-and-penny-cutter.

Contractors, states away, can outbid un-progressive, local firms, deduct the transport of their equipment and men and still finish the work on schedule, with a heavier profit than builders right on the ground.

Jobbers find the retailer next door dealing on closer terms with catalogue houses three days removed and averaging prompter delivery of his orders.

Vim Vigor Victory

HE could handle all the matters that are worrying the kings,
He is well-informed on statesmanship and these financial things,
He's an expert on the subject of the work that wasn't done,
He can show you how the other fellow's business should be run.
He knows the only way to bring about a lasting peace,
And has a plan to make the landslides at Culebra cease.
He can point out all the errors that the trusts and railroads made,
He can show the nation how to double-cinch its foreign trade.
But the landlady will tell you, he's a rent-delinquent slob,
With a chronic inability to hold a ten-per job.

Every Man His Own Borgia

IF on your next trip to Africa, you should chance to fall ill while passing through a n'Gombi village, the local witch doctor will insist that a devil is to blame.

But "raising the devil," in some form or other, will probably be the real cause of your trouble.

Excesses and indulgences, rage and passion, create deadly poisons. Some of us have an extraordinary amount of stamina and throw them off, but if we continue to abuse ourselves, there comes a time when the secretions gradually set up in our organs by hate and anger, excitement, fear, gluttony and overwork, find a weak spot and produce serious ailments.

Perhaps you can recall occasions when, about to cave in from exhaustion, your strength was suddenly renewed and you were able to continue at high pitch for hours.

We used to call that "second wind." You felt as though you had taken a stiff slug of brandy or a dose of strychnine. The equivalent of which was precisely what you did get, only your own body furnished it.

You wore yourself to a poisonous state of fatigue and created a toxin which worked into your blood and quickened your heart just as a drug-store stimulant would act.

All intemperate persons, especially folks who live at high tension, are liable to auto-intoxication, which, in street English, simply means self-poisoning.

What is the 7th Point?

From Maine to California, from Texas to Hudson Bay, millions of people have been asking "What is the 7th Point in Sterling Gum?"

In practically every town, city and village in the United States and Canada, the published six points of superiority have brought Sterling Gum fast-growing popularity.

But the seventh point still remains a riddle.

Point ⑦ What?

Now, we are offering liberal prizes to those who send us the best suggestions for the Sterling Gum Point 7.

The Following Story Unfolds the Secret of the Famous Point 7

To most people chewing gum is a mystery. They may know that different chewing gums are made from different ingredients. But that is about all. Here are facts which we believe you will be glad to know about Sterling Gum:

Your Sterling Gum is made from the following materials:

The basis is the pure sap of the tropical Sapota Tree—a natural gum.

This natural Sapota Tree sap is boiled, sweetened and flavored. The sweetening is simply pure cane sugar and pure corn syrup.

There are some twenty varieties of the mint plant. The Sterling Peppermint is a product of the choicest, smoothest-flavored of these many mint varieties.

The sap of the Sapota Tree, the cane sugar, the corn syrup, the Peppermint and Cinnamon flavors all come from the sap of some plant or tree. Nature herself supplies these delicious materials from which your Sterling Gum is made.

Requirements for Winning Phrase

When you read the above facts on the materials that Sterling Gum is made of, you will know all that it is necessary for you to know in entering this contest.

OVERHAULING CAR WILL CUT EXPENSES

Is Best Kind of Spring Insurance, Says Haynes Distributor.

"A thorough spring-time overhauling is one kind of motor car insurance that every automobile owner can afford to take out," according to M. W. Turner, local distributor for the Haynes.

"As the spring and summer wear on, the motorist who is running his car for the second season may discover that a rigid inspection at this time of the year will stand between long repair bills and perhaps costly accidents. Ovehauling does not mean a superficial inspection of the chassis and body, and the tightening of a few noticeably loose nuts. It includes a thorough and systematic job of putting the vehicle in the best possible condition."

AUTO PRODUCTION HAS NO PRECEDENT

Five Cities Have Output of 328,366 Cars in Three Months.

Detroit, Mich., April 22.—Automobile production for January, February and March of this year has reached the total of 328,366 cars from the five cities of Detroit, Toledo, Flint, Jackson and Lansing, all in the great production zone surrounding this city. This increase for the first quarter has no precedent in automobile manufacturing annals. During the first three months of 1915 all of the automobile factories in the country built approximately 106,000 machines. The Detroit zone alone has tripled the production of the entire country during the first quarter of this year.

Of this total of 328,366 machines built in these five cities, Detroit factories lead with 238,076 cars, according to a careful census made by the Automobile. This leaves 90,290 machines for the other four cities which house such large factories as Overland, Buick, Reo, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile.

Figuring the average overall length of the 238,076 cars built in Detroit in the first three months of 1916 to be twelve feet, these cars would form a line 540 miles long if they were placed end-to-end. In other words, such a line would extend in a double line from Detroit to Chicago.

NOTES FROM THE FACTORIES

Lansing, Mich., April 22.—The factory additions of the Reo Motor Car company, this city, started in October, 1915, are rapidly nearly completion. These when finished will add between ten and eleven acres of floorspace and will include an addition to the engineering building, a new plant for the Reo Motor Truck company, a receiving warehouse, and a clubhouse for the employes.

Walter T. Longwell, special representative of the Maxwell Motor company of Detroit, sailed for the Orient April 22. The purpose of his tour is to place the home office in closer touch with its dealers in the Far East, to make a first-hand study of conditions and outline selling campaigns. Mr. Longwell's itinerary includes Japan, China, Java, Sumatra, India and Ceylon. He expects to cover these countries by February, 1917.

The extraordinary demand for high grade automobiles this year is reflected in the production of the Pathfinder company of Indianapolis. Number of cars shipped since Jan. 1, 1916, shows increases of 400 per cent for January, 270 per cent for February, 226 per cent for March over corresponding periods of 1915. Sales are now running 100 per cent ahead of production and production is now at the rate of 200 per cent over the same period a year ago.

New York, April 22.—Arthur E. Linsden, European manager of the B. F. Goodrich company, Akron, Ohio, arrived in America last week on a short business trip. Mr. Linsden has charge of the Goodrich Paris factory, which was opened some five years ago. He is an American and well known in many car circles.

The first was the serious freight shortage and the other the allotment of the tremendous Maxwell production that is expected this season.

Oakland, Cal., April 22.—The Chalmers Motor company, Detroit, will erect an assembling plant in this city. It will employ from 300 to 400 men at the start and turn out twenty-five to thirty cars a day. The announcement was made before the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon given for Hugh Chalmers.

* * *

Fort Worth, Tex., April 22.—The Chevrolet Motor company will build a $600,000 assembling plant in Fort Worth. The plant, which is to be chartered with a capitalization of $600,000, will cover approximately three acres of floor space and will employ from 300 to 500 persons to begin with. The initial capacity will be 15,000 cars per year.

Following the recent announcement of a $40 rise in the price of Chalmers six-30 touring cars, officials of the Chalmers Motor company have released figures indicating the greatest year's business in the history of the company. During the twenty-seven working

THIS figure represents the number of Eight-Cylinder Cadillacs manufactured and delivered up to and including April 8, 1916.

It is larger than the delivery of all other high grade cars combined, during the same period.

It is larger than the total production of all other cars with V-type engines—of all grades.

It represents a sales value exceeding

Do you grasp the significance?

It means that in the search for quality, and in the search for the things which make for the real comforts, enjoyments and luxuries of motoring, the world has bestowed by far the greatest measure of its approval upon the Cadillac.

PAIGE

The Standard of Value and Quality

Paige Economy is Intelligent Economy

Be sure that you buy MOTORING when you buy your motor car.

The price of the five-passenger Fleetwood "Six-38" is $1050. How long we shall be able to keep it as low as $1050—with the continuous increase in the cost of materials—we cannot say—because we do not know. We urge you to order a Fleetwood at $1050 TODAY and protect yourself.

But that price—$1050—was decided upon last December as the minimum price for which we could sell genuine, unequalled, indisputable Paige Quality.

We don't GUESS that the Fleetwood "Six-38" and the Fairfield "Six-46" will "stand up." We KNOW it.

There is nothing "experimental" about these cars. There are no radical engineering theories in them. They are the incontestable proof of a season's driving.

Paige Sixes are designed and built on the principle of EVOLUTION—not REVOLUTION.

If you are considering a five-passenger car, first consider the Fleetwood "Six-38". You can see the beauty, luxury and power for yourself.

Consider the name, the prestige, the guarantee, the national endorsement, and the company back of the car.

Consider that you must buy MOTORING as well as a motor car.

Consider that cheaper cars, with repair bills and loss of time and service, are frequently more expensive cars.

Consider the depreciation. Consider the cost of maintenance.

Be sure that your economy is INTELLIGENT ECONOMY.

Then your choice will be the Fleetwood "Six-38"—at $1050.

That is the BEST and therefore the most ECONOMICAL.

Paige Fleetwood "Six-38" (five passengers) $1050.

Paige Fairfield "Six-46" (seven passengers) $1295.

Jackson, Mich., April 22.—Construction work on the large additions to the Briscoe Motor corporation is progressing rapidly. The contractors are endeavoring to hang up a new record for actual time in completing the two new Briscoe buildings.

Toledo, Ohio, April 22.—In the three months ended March 31 the Willys-Overland company manufactured and shipped a total of 47,465 cars, a new high record. This total comes within 1,000 cars of equaling the entire yearly output of 1914. Output in March was 19,780, compared with 7,005 in March, 1915, a gain of 12,775.

Flint, Mich., April 22.—Work on the new foundry plant of the Buick Motor company is progressing, but not as fast as desirable. This is due partly to the lack of laborers, carpenters and other workers. The structural work has been started.

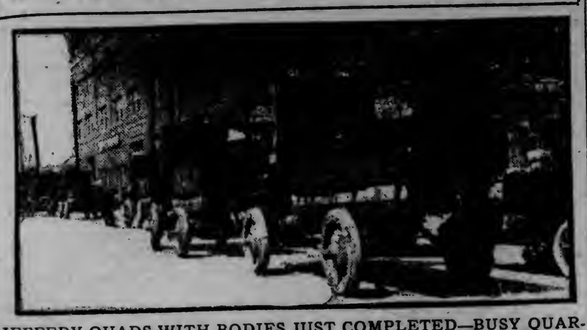
St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—A new $700,000 plant is to be erected in St. Paul by the Willys-Overland company. It will be built west of the Overland assembling plant at Eustis street and University avenue, in the Midway district.



NIGHT WORKERS LESS EFFICIENT.

That workmen in factories on night shifts are 40 per cent less efficient than those working on day shifts is the conclusion of George D. Babcock, production manager of the Franklin Automobile company. Mr. Babcock, after studying the efficiency of night factory forces, concludes that even with greatly increased supervision per man and with special incentives for night work, such as 10 cents extra per hour to the night men, it is impossible to get from the night forces more than 75 per cent of the efficiency obtained from the day shift.

AUTO TRUCKS PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN THE HUNT FOR VILLA

JEFFERY QUADS WITH BODIES JUST COMPLETED—BUSY QUARTERMASTER'S HEADQUARTERS IN BACKGROUND.

VILLA'S WAR TRUCK.

The interior of the armored body carries ammunition and rifles, and portholes allow the machine guns to spit their deadly stream of bullets. The car is fitted with armored wheels for the operation on railroad tracks.

QUARTERMASTER'S TRUCK LOADED WITH MAIL AT VERA CRUZ

With the American expeditionary force now combing the desert and mountain wilderness of Northern Mexico in pursuit of the bandit leader, Pancho Villa, the greatest man hunt in history relies mainly on motor trucks for maintaining the line of communications between the permanent base at Columbus and the field base south of Casas Grandes, Mexico.

For transport work, the war department has formed several units known as "motor truck companies," each consisting of twenty-seven trucks for hauling and one repair truck, all in charge of a truckmaster having three assistants, twenty-eight drivers, one mechanic, one mechanic's helper and one machinist.

The first week of actual service revealed the superiority of trucks over mules, not only in the greater speed and running radius of the trucks, but in the reduction of labor, hauling units, forage requirements and cost of operation.

The big obstacle to the use of trucks is the scarcity of gasoline in Northern Mexico. With the road conditions as they are, it requires almost 1,000 gallons to enable a full company of trucks to make the return trip between Columbus and the front.

Road conditions are described as miserable in dispatches from the front. The roads are already badly rutted and it is thought that within a week or two they will be useless if the traffic continues as at present. The district through which it runs is barren of any sustenance for either men or animals, and the strained relations between the American and Mexican governments would prevent the appropriation of any forage or rations obtainable.

The country is broken and rugged and the roads are tortuous and uneven, with deep arroyos and scattered rock to be encountered. Sand and rock, mesquite, sage and greasewood bestrew the surface and both horses and mules are suffering badly from the hard going and the intense heat.

NEW CADILLAC RECORD.

Remarkable Long Distance Run Made By "Eight" Car.

Another speed record has fallen before the Cadillac eight, this being for the Los Angeles-Bakersfield round trip, 126 miles each way. The new mark for the distance, five hours and forty minutes, is one hour and twenty-four minutes under the best previous motor car record for this run, recently made by a twelve cylinder car.

The car was driven by Ted Beaudet. A thick fog obscured the mountain roadway, which was slippery to the point of being dangerous. In spite of these difficulties, and the loss of seven minutes on account of tire trouble, the run to Bakersfield was completed in two hours and forty-nine minutes. The time for the return was two hours and fifty-one minutes, only two minutes longer—evidence of consistent driving under adverse conditions. The twelve cylinder car had made the trip from Los Angeles to Bakersfield and return in seven hours and four minutes, which was the best previous record up to the time of the Cadillac's performance.

FIRST "USED CAR" SHOW TO BE STAGED

Chicago, April 22.—The first used car show to be staged on a large scale in the United States will be opened in Chicago on May 8, under the auspices of the Chicago Automobile Trade association. It will be held in the Coliseum and will remain open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. each day until May 15. As there will be no new cars on exhibition, no sanction from the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce is necessary, but this body has placed its stamp of approval on the venture.

Treble Tax on Autos.

London, England, April 22.—A treble tax has been placed on all British automobiles, ranging from $21 to $630, according to horse power. According to trade circles, this will not only kill pleasure riding, but will go a long way toward crippling the industry.

HERALD'S WEEKLY ROADS BUREAU AND BULLETIN

At the second annual meeting of the Illinois division of the Pikes Peak, Ocean-to-Ocean Highway association, held last week in Springfield, Ill., officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, G. W. Hughes, Hume, Ill.; vice president, F. A. D. Stone, Griggsville, Ill.; secretary-treasurer, H. A. Scheidker, Hannibal, Mo. A resolution was adopted calling upon Senator Sherman to offer a bill to have the railway declared a military road. It is 3,533 miles in length and extends through the capitals of eight states. It was voted to raise $1,500 for the improvement of the highway through Illinois. The marking from Indianapolis, Ind., to Salt Lake City, Utah, was completed last year. This year the marking will be made between Indianapolis and Pittsburgh, Pa. Governor Edward F. Dunne of Illinois addressed the meeting.

The convention called to decide upon the route of the Lewis and Clarke highway from Savannah to Seattle will be held in Omaha, Neb., April 24 and 25. An organization to back the highway's promotion will be perfected. Two delegates will be received from each of the principal cities invited to send delegations. The route as now planned runs through the states of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho and Washington. It is expected to have the entire highway marked for travel during the coming season.

Fifty prisoners are to work in and around the new epileptic colony in Illinois this summer in grading and road building. Warden Zimmer of the state penitentiary, in a recent letter to the National Committee on Prisons, reports great success in convict road work in Illinois. The laws of that state require that townships desiring to secure the services of convicts for road work must make application and enter into a contract with the institution. No work can be done until such request has been made and contract entered into.

Issuance of bonds is the most effective way of financing the construction and maintenance of roads, George W. Cooley, secretary and state engineer of the Minnesota highway commission, said. His comment was made in a discussion of the proposal to bond Hennepin county for $2,000,000 and Winona county for $500,000.

"Annual tax levies cannot furnish a steady supply of money," said Mr. Cooley.

"Bond issues form the method which has been adopted by nearly half the counties in the United States. The total amount of these bonds is about $300,000,000 and the sums raised by states in this way bring this figure up to nearly $500,000,000."

A map which will show every automobile road in the United States is being prepared by the Automobile club of Southern California. For the reason that heretofore various organizations have been content to map transcontinental highways only, or the roads of various territories separately, this new map will be the most important ever compiled.

It will include both cross-continent highways and sectional roads in every state.

In order to obtain the information needed for this work, detailed data must be collected from highway commissions and engineers throughout the United States. It is estimated that it will take at least three months to compile the map.

Washington, April 22.—Automobile touring covering every section of the country this year will show an increase at least double that of last year, which was a record breaker. Many conditions contribute to this situation, such as the large increase in ownership and the impossibility of foreign touring, although the fundamental factor lies in the enormous increase of road construction that is taking place in so many states that have heretofore neglected their highways.

Convict road work is developed in Georgia to a greater extent than in any other state. June 1, 1915, according to a report received by the National Committee on Prisons from Judge George T. Cann of Savannah, 2,962 felony and 3,185 misdemeanor convicts were employed on the roads.

Milwaukee county, Wis., which now ranks with Wayne county, Mich., as the greatest concrete road district in the world, spent $1,826,067 in permanent highway improvement during the period from 1912 to 1915 inclusive, according to a compilation just made by the county highway commissioner. In the four years more than fifty miles of concrete roads were constructed and thirty-three miles are being built in 1916.

Governor Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania has issued a proclamation designating May 25 as "Good Roads day" in the Keystone state. This is to be the second event of its kind in that state.

KING COMPANY BELIEVES IN NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.

In addition to having a good product and a modern organization, the King Motor Car company of Detroit openly gives to the newspapers a goodly share of credit for its success. The company has increased its newspaper appropriation for the coming year to exploit the merits of the eight-cylinder King.

GASOLINE PROBE URGED BY AUTOISTS

Pittsburgh Dealers Will Boycott Standard Oil Until Prices Drop.

New York, April 22.—Agitation from different sections of the country for a Federal investigation of the inflated prices of gasoline is becoming more acute as each day passes.

The Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' association has agreed to buy no more gasoline from the Standard Oil company until its prices are justified. The association is overlooking nothing in its campaign for a substantial reduction in gasoline prices. Every buyer of a car in that city will be asked to refrain from buying from the Standard Oil company until prices come down to normal basis.

Federal investigation has been asked of congress by the Minneapolis city council. The council asks for a consideration of the alleged control by the Standard Oil company of crude oil production and for an embargo on shipments of oil to warring nations. The situation, in fact, has become so acute in that city that the Standard Oil company has practically been asked not to open any more filling stations in that city until it has cleared itself of all insinuations and charges as to monopoly and price manipulation.

A similar investigation has been asked by the Ohio State Automobile association in Akron. This faction, too, believes that an embargo on exportation would relieve the situation.

In Detroit, a sort of provisional organization to discuss ways and means of combating the present gasoline situation has been formed by six representatives of automobile factories in that city, six dealers selling cars, and six garage men. A resolution was passed asking the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce to push whatever measures are deemed necessary to relieve the situation by congressional action, embargo or other means.

Washington, April 22.—Representative Warren Worth Bailey, Johnstown, Pa., is out with the latest plan of solving the price of gasoline problem as far as members of congress are concerned, his plan being to have the Federal government at once enter the producing field. Mr. Bailey's bill authorizes and empowers the secretary of the interior to sink herewith wells on property owned by the government wherever advisable, with a view to producing oil, and also authorizes the secretary of the interior promptly to put the product on the open market, giving preference in selling to independent refiners.

Rittman Heads Company.

Pittsburgh, April 22.—Dr. Walter F. Rittman, chemical engineer of the bureau of mines and inventor of the new process for obtaining a much greater yield of gasoline from crude oil, has resigned his position with the bureau to become head of a company being organized for the purpose of manufacturing gasoline. It is stated that the local automobile dealers' association has been negotiating with Dr. Rittman in regard to a plan to reduce present prices.

FORD PRODUCTION SETS NEW RECORD

Company Manufactures 58,329 Cars During Month of March.

March broke all production records for the Ford Motor company with an output of 58,329 cars. Also March 25 saw the biggest day's production in the history of the company, 2,768 cars being built on that day.

When the Ford Motor company in August, 1915, launched into a production of 500,000 cars for the coming twelve months, an epoch in the automobile industry was marked. The contemplated output of the Ford factory represented a volume of motor cars equal to 50 per cent of all the automobiles, in use at the time the announcement of the proposed production was made. In the eight months of the 1915-16 manufacturing year since August last the demand for Ford cars has more than kept pace with production and for the last several months the Ford Motor company has found itself confronted with the same situation which has existed in previous years—the demand continually ahead of production.

This output of 58,329 Ford cars in one month means that the Ford Motor company has not only increased its working force to the largest payroll in its history, but added efficiency, as well, has been wrought out in every department. In one day the Ford foundry, which alone employes more than 3,000 men, poured 426 tons of metal.

A production of 500,000 cars this year will bring the total of Fords in use on Aug. 1, 1916, up beyond the 1,500,000 mark. Ford cars in operation today generate more horsepower than is represented by the total number of horses of all descriptions in use in this country according to the government reports.

The quantity of material entering into the manufacturing of 58,329 cars reaches figures which are astonishing to the uninitiated. Four and one-half carloads of spark plugs are used in this output. There are 233,316 each of wheels and tires, and 291,645 lamps. In the body tops are 6,500,000 square feet of rubber cloth material, while 6,750,000 feet of copper tubing enter into the construction of the radiators.

Ford production today is up to and ahead of the schedule of 500,000 cars for the year.

TRUCKS NOT IN CLASS WITH HORSES

Deliveries By Motor Make Comparisons Out of Question.

Investigations as to relative efficiency where motor trucks have replaced horses, result in revelations that prove the futility of comparison," says H. S. Daniels of the Kissel-Kar.

"What I mean is that trucks are covering an extent of area, making an aggregate number of deliveries and running a total mileage that was not attempted by their owners before they discarded horses.

"The Kissel factory periodically sends out blanks to these owners, in which a number of questions are asked regarding the service of their vehicles. Here is a typical filled-in blank. You see the owner says one truck replaced one work team, that the latter formerly covered five to twenty miles a day, and that the truck goes fifteen to fifty miles daily."

FORESEES ERA OF FREE ROADS

Franklin Thinks It Unfair to Tax Autos and Exempt Wagons.

In the opinion of H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile company, a general reform leading to free public highways in this country is bound to take place.

Mr. Franklin, who is understood to have given considerable study to the question, insists that it is radically wrong in principle to tax motor cars for the maintenance of roads and at the same time exempt horse-drawn and other vehicles.

"Is it not unfair to tax one man for traveling over a highway while another man is permitted to use the same highway without charge?" he asks.

"I am convinced that just as sure as the ancient toll roads are disappearing, and improved highways are rapidly becoming more numerous in all sections of the United States, so, in the course of time, we will have free public highways.

"Automobiles will not be taxed for highway maintenance while carriages and other vehicles are permitted to be used without being subject to a similar burden. The roads will be free to all. This was the original and, in my opinion, correct conception of public highways. They were built for the use of all the people.

"The way the new condition is to be brought about probably will vary in different sections of the country. In some states highways are free today.

"In New York state motorists are taxed to maintain the roads while owners of all other types of vehicles can use them without being taxed. The taxes collected as automobile license fees in New York state during 1915 aggregated $2,000,000."

JAPAN INCREASES OUTPUT OF AUTOS

Tokio, Japan, April 22.—Increased manufacture of automobiles in this country is indicated by the import figures for 1915, which show a falling off as compared with those for 1914. The total from foreign sources in 1915 was twenty-six cars valued at $30,595, whereas in 1914 the imports were seventy-nine cars valued at $106,420. Most of the cars being manufactured here are low-priced, thus affecting the imports of higher-priced foreign cars.

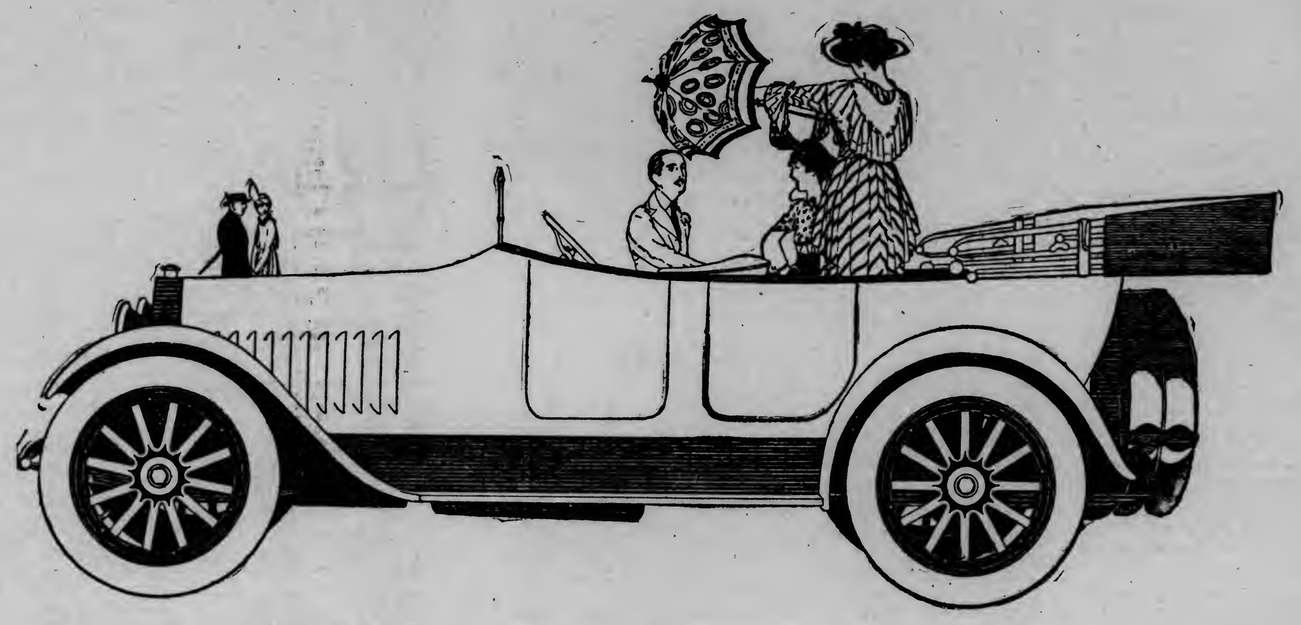
MORE TRUCKS FOR WAR DEPARTMENT

New York, April 22.—Contracts for four more complete motor truck trains of twenty-seven cars each have been awarded by the war department. The 108 trucks will cost approximately $2,300 each, thus making the value of the contracts about $248,000. Fifty-four are to be White, twenty-seven Jeffery and the other twenty-seven Packard. When these trucks have been delivered the quartermaster's department at Columbus will control more than 270 trucks for moving supplies.

Motorcycles In Mexico.

Perhaps in no other kind of equipment now being used by the United States army in the punitive expedition into Mexico, has there been greater interest than in the motorcycle equipment. Motorcycles have made good wherever used, and in the carrying of dispatches have proven invaluable. Brig.-Gen. George Bell has been so impressed by the performance of motorcycles in the Villa expedition that he has recommended to the war department that every infantry regiment of the army be equipped with four motorcycles and every cavalry regiment with not less than six motorcycles. The chief difficulty at present, according to the general, is the lack of men who understand their mounts, but this trouble is rapidly being overcome.

In proportion to the size of the army now on Villa's trail motorcycles are numerous in the expedition. Ninety machines are known to be in commission. Quick dispatch is absolutely necessary, and conditions as they exist must be met unflinchingly. Durability and dependability of tires is essential in the land of hot sands and alkalis. More than mere tire service is imperative.



Organize Insurance Men.

New York, April 22.—In order to bring the automobile insurance companies into a general national organization and to obtain agreement of rate scales, etc., the National Automobile Underwriters' conference has been organized.

Price now $1090. Three years ago this car would have cost you $2000.

CHALMERS MOTOR CO. Detroit, Mich. U.S.A.

Quality First

She's active, lacks "nerves," and very modern—the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers

She's active, full of life, lacks "nerves," and delivers a terrific wallop with only the slightest effort.

I mean by that a power-wallop. Because she turns up 3400 revolutions per minute. Her crank shaft speed surpasses that of any other American car.

Though there are three built in the U. S. A. that get a bit beyond 3100 r. p. m.

It's like an electric fan, which turns up 4000 r. p. m., or a turbine which does around 4300.

Of course, the Chalmers engine doesn't hit 3400 all the time. 3400 is the maximum. When the car is running 5 miles an hour she turns up 250 r. p. m.

At 10 miles an hour she does 500 r. p. m. At 15 she does 750. At 20, 1000. At 30, 1500.

So you see the engine isn't hitting the highest speed at the slower car speeds—those speeds you drive 90 per cent of the time.

In a way it's like horse-power. You say the horse-power of your car is 40. You mean by that the maximum is 40.

Yet at 10 miles an hour you are using probably less than 10 h. p. While at 20 miles an hour you are using about 17 or 18 h. p. And so on.

3400 r. p. m. is just another way of stating horsepower. It's the modern way. Because it shows power through supreme engine speed and not through large bore and stroke, which means a brute of an engine, and hence a vehicle of great weight.

The day of such a car has gone by. You and I want a light, spunky beast that responds to the slightest touch of the accelerator, that pulverizes hills, that drives straight as a sunbeam, that has the lure in her lines, and obeys.

That's the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers. I've never had any person buy one and tell me she wasn't there. For she is—100 per cent.

Run in and I will show you a car that has doubled my business.

Ask me about our service inspection coupons. They are negotiable with all Chalmers dealers everywhere. This system is a most important consideration in buying your car.

BLANKET OF SNOW BACK OF DULUTH

Ground Is Covered and Birds Are Finding Little Food.

Suburbanites report that the northeaster which has been blowing for the last three days brought a heavy fall of snow for a large area immediately adjacent to the city.

Just back of the hills, the storm has left a blanket of white. Several inches of snow fell and in some places the snow has made drifts at least two feet deep.

In the city, the northeast wind brought rain but over the hill where the temperatures are lower, the precipitation was in the form of snow.

"It's particularly tough for the ground feeding birds," said one suburbanite today. "They will have to wait until the snow goes before they can supply themselves with food. They live on seeds from last year, and the snow has covered these. I hope farmers and suburban residents will think to put out some bran or corn meal for them."

HAS COMPLETE C. S. SYSTEM.

Mayor's Classifying Ordinance Has Now Become Effective.

Duluth now has a complete civil service system.

Mayor Prince's ordinance classifying the system became effective today, and from now on only those persons who have successfully passed the examinations will be employed by the city departments. Twenty department managers, the city commissioners, those employes appointed by provisions of the charter and day laborers are exempt from the examinations.

Payrolls for the first half of April have been certified by the civil service commission in accordance with the new ordinance.

ASKED TO JOIN ARMY.

Ashland, Wis., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The call of the Italian government for men has recently been circulated among the miners of the Gogebic range, especially at Hurley, where many of the miners are Italians, and also at Mellen, where many employes of the tannery are also Italians, some of whom have never been naturalized.

Frank Cerutti, a local Italian leader, visited the Italian consulate at Duluth this week. He was accompanied by Joseph Vecostonzo, who wish[illegible] return to Italy to join the army, but, who was barred by physical disabilities. Although few foreigners in the Northern Michigan and Wisconsin mines have returned to Europe since the beginning of the European war, it is expected that the present appeal will bring results.

SPORTING NEWS AND COMMENT GLEANED FROM MANY FIELDS

Fighter Calls Fulton, "Just Cheese," That's All; Says Minnesotan Is Typewriter-Made Pugilist; Cobb and Crawford Enter Upon Twelfth Year Together.

HONEST DOPE.
(By Diogenes.)

I can tell you now who will win the flag this season,
I can tell you who will land in second place,
I can tell the why, the wherefore and the reason,
The results and other features of the race.

I can write you stories, pages, reams and volumes
On the work of Speaker, Mathewson and Cobb,
It would be a simple task to turn out columns
On the way the varied teams will do the job.

I can answer all your questions and your queries
Which pertain unto the grand old game of ball,
I can tell you who will win the final series
In the cold and somber afternoons next fall.

I am speaking to you calmly now, and sober,
And I get the dope as only few men can,
But I will not know a thing till next October
And, as all men know, I am an honest man.

Call Fulton "Big Rube."

Just for the sake of variety we will not take up the question of advertising, says a New York sport writer. As Mr. Ford, Benny Kauff, Eva Tanguay and many of our leading citizens will admit, advertising certainly does bring results.

Within the last week or two occasional perusal of New York sport pages has revealed the presence of an extraordinary ring dignitary within the confines of the metropolis. Fred Fulton has stirred so much commotion that ambitious scribes are filling much space discussing his chances with Jess Willard.

Yes, advertising does pay. Fulton is a boxer whom members of the ring profession and some outsiders call a typewriter champion. Laborious use of the little machine with the destruction of scores of ribbons has served to make Fulton a national figure.

Listen to what one who has watched him in action says. Gene Delmont, Memphis resident by birth but globe trotter by preference, remarked after reading a lengthy article about Fulton yesterday:

"Just cheese. That's all. A joke. A big, soft hearted rube. Fulton boxed Porky Flynn in New Orleans. Porky is a fine big fellow but not a near champion by any means. The intention probably was to have Fulton win and then meet Willard in New Orleans during the Mardi Gras festival.

"In the fourth round Flynn drove a stiff right to the pit of the stomach. Fulton went to the floor. He certainly didn't want to get up. He had enough. He intended to stay there until an individual who had bet heavily upon him advanced to the side of the ring.

"'I'll kill you, you big bum, if you don't get up and fight,' the bettor shouted.

"Fulton did get up. He floundered through twenty rounds. He was given the decision at the finish. It was robbery. It was so rank, in fact, that when promoters started discussing a bout with Willard the fans raved. That ended the talk of a Willard-Fulton match."

Still Going Strong.

Cobb and Crawford—or Ty and Sam — are national institutions. They have played side by side upon the same club for eleven years. They are now beginning their twelfth campaign as clubmates.

There is no other case in baseball history where two slugging stars played together for so long a time. The Jackson-Lajoi combination lasted The Jackson-Lajoie combination lasted Hooper trio had a six-year run. Collins and Baker starred six years side by side. Cravath and Ludeus have been slugging mates for four seasons.

But Cobb and Crawford were together before Frank Chance ever won a flag; when Brown and Matty were just coming into fame; when Ed Walsh was still a substitute pitcher.

Twelve years isn't very long in many professions. But in baseball it is close upon an age. Not another member of the Tiger team of 1905 is left. They have seen new clubs come and go in every rival town.

They have faced so many crops of pitchers that both have lost count. But they are still out there side by side—and still the most dangerous batting combination that baseball knows.

Right Place to Throw.

The smartest thing an outfielder can do is always to throw the ball to the right place. The catching of fly balls and the fielding of ordinary hits is purely mechanical and can be attended to by any last man who has had experience in the outfield. The intelligence of an outfielder is shown by the way in which he gets the ball back to the diamond, with runners on the bases.

A lot of close games are lost by foolish throws. This is especially true in the minor leagues, but such things crop up all too often in the majors. The worst throw that an outfielder can make is to the home plate, after a base hit, when there is only one chance in 10 or 15 of his nipping the runner who is scoring. Throws to the plate do not often succeed, and yet they are attempted, time and time again, when their use simply serves to give the attacking side an additional advantage.

WILL PLAY IF SUN SHINES

Duluth and Superior Leaguers Hope to Be Able to Clash Tomorrow.

Williams Jumps to Hibbing; Pitching Staff Looking Great.

Given half a chance, Darby O'Brien will send his White Sox recruits against the Superior Northern league team tomorrow afternoon at Athletic park. A rising mercury and clear, very clear skies, will be necessary, however, as the field at the local ball yard is very soggy as a result of the three days' rain that has prevailed over the entire Northwest. It is doubtful if a contest can be staged much before next Monday or Tuesday, but the crews are sincerely hopeful for a battle tomorrow afternoon.

With the exception of "Dutch" Altman, the White Sox crew is about complete. All of the seven pitchers are here and there is a plenitude of fielders. "Chief" Williams, who performed in right garden for the Sox last season, and who reported to O'Brien last week, yesterday left for Hibbing, where he will become a playing member of Judge Brady's Colts. The "chief" will not be missed. While he is a good fellow and easily handled, his usefulness, both in the field and with the gad, has waned. It is said that he will get more money on the range. Bully for him.

There are four candidates for the outfield positions and among them Muggsey McGraw shows to good advantage. This youngster, still a student in the Cathedral high school, was given a tryout last season when he was used as a utility man. He was not assigned to any permanent position and never knew when he entered the park whether he was going to pitch or play centerfield. His work showed enough promise that the fans rooted him joyously.

There seems to be little question but what the boy would play sensational ball with any team but Duluth. Here some of the fans believe he is being favored because he is a native son. It is the same the world over. Remember the story of the prophet and the foreign country. That applies to McGraw. Now the owners of the Duluth team are centering the eyes of all local fandom on the lad, saying he will be given every chance and then it is up to him to make good. If he should make a customary skip in the opening contest the label of failure may be hung on him while some sod-buster in the next garden might pull a real blue one and the fans would yell "hard luck."

On the whole, Manager O'Brien has a likely looking lot of recruits. His hurling staff appears especially capable and the genial Dook smiles radiantly when his pitchers are mentioned. "Should reap a great crop of big show flingers from that package of seeds," says the Dook. "For the chance they have had to show their wares, I am more than satisfied Duluth will have the best aggregation of pitchers in the Northern circuit."

CHANGES RULE IN REGARD TO COACH

Important Ruling Made By President of National Baseball League.

New York, April 22.—Baserunners in National league games will not be declared out for interference by the coacher unless the coacher, by touching or holding the runner, has physically assisted him in returning or leaving third base, according to instructions issued to umpires last night by President John K. Tener of the league. The instructions interpret section 17 of rule 56, which provides that "if a coacher touch or hold a baserunner who is rounding third base for the home plate, the umpire shall declare such baserunner out."

President Tener advised the umpires that when no play was being made, the runner at third should not be called out if touched by the coacher. Copies of the ruling were sent to presidents of all the clubs in the league. The instructions become effective today.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 22.—The instructions issued last night by President Tener to National league umpires are believed by local baseball men to have resulted from a protest made by President Barney Dreyfus of a decision by Umpire Quigley in declaring Johnston out in the first inning of Thursday's game. The umpire alleged that the runner was touched by Manager Callahan of the Pirates, who was coaching at third base.

President Dreyfus, at a smoker that night, which was also attended by President Tener, criticized the decision, and yesterday filed a formal protest of the game, which was won by St. Louis. Manager Callahan denied that he had touched the runner, and declared, furthermore, that the ball was out of play at the time.

ROWING CAMP FULL OF JOY

Rowed With Former Celebrated Crews of Duluth Boat Club.

With the scarcity of seniors in the ranks of the returning oarsmen for Duluth crews this season, the announcement of the return of Beschenbossel, who pulled a big oar in the crack Duluth eights of 1912, 1913 and 1914, will be received with great joy and enthusiasm on the part of the large number of local followers of the sport.

Coach Ten Eyck has been bothered somewhat by the lack of veteran material, and the list of senior candidates has been anything but promising. While they are all "there" in quality, they are somewhat lacking in quantity, and Beschenbossel will therefore be welcomed with open arms.

"Besch" rowed in the first eight-oared crew that ever flashed home the colors of Duluth to victory in a national regatta. The big boy held down bow in the famous eight of 1912, the organization of huskies that cleaned up at Winnipeg that year and then traveled down to the National at Peoria and surprised the country by smashing the world's record, starting the Duluth Boat club on its sensational and unbroken march to the top of American rowing. The following year he again held down bow in the Duluth senior eight, and in 1914 he was shifted to No. 3 in the famous senior eight that swept the waters of the Lake of the Woods at Kenora and then nosed out the great Argonaut combination in a brilliant race for the championship of America at Philadelphia.

Last year Beschenbossel declared that he was through, but after considerable entreating this spring he was finally induced to come out, and the stock of the local club this summer will therefore take a decided boost. He took his first workout last night.

The return of "winter" has chased the daring oarsmen back to cover, and they are again sweating at the machines in the "Y." Ten Eyck is allowing no letup in the work, and despite the lateness of the season he declares that his men will be in great shape when they finally get a chance at the water.

NEW ASSISTANT COACH.

Lawson Robertson Engaged for Pennsy Track Team; Good Showing.

Philadelphia, April 22.—Lawson Robertson, coach of the Irish-American A. C. of New York, has been engaged to assist Coach Orton in training the University of Pennsylvania track team for the balance of the season.

In a trial for the positions on the Pennsylvania mile relay team yesterday, Lennon finished first, Kaufman second, Dorsey third. Meridith, who is expected to be the mainstay of the team, and Lockwood, who is suffering from indigestion, did not start. If Lockwood rounds into shape, the team will consist of Meridith, Lockwood, Lennon and Kaufman, with Dorsey as substitute.

College Baseball.

Philadelphia, April 22.—Walsh's three-bagger in the third inning with two errors by Pennsylvania, enabled Yale to win an otherwise closely contested game here yesterday, 1 to 0. Pennsylvania did not get a man past second base.

Bloomington, Ind., April 22.—Indiana defeated Illinois 2 to 1, when Gunkle weakened in the twelfth inning. Ridley allowed the visitors only two hits.

Former Fed to Memphis.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 22.—Outfielder Melley, with the Pittsburgh Federals last year, has been sold to the Memphis club of the Southern association, it is announced by James C. McGill, president of the local American association club.

HARRIS SETS NEW RECORD

Strikes Out Twenty-One Players in Indoor Baseball Game.

Y. M. C. A. Team Defeats West End Athletic Club Hands Down.

Some real features were injected into the final baseball contest of the local season, played last evening at the Y. M. C. A., when the Y team defeated the West End Athletic crew by the ignominious count of 21 to 0. The score was one of the real novelties. Then Harris, on the mound for the Y boys, forced twenty-one of the opposing team to walk back to the bench without slapping the pill, hanging up a new local strike-out record. Just how many blows the uptown men registered could not be determined after the third round, for the reason that the scorer ran out of space on his tally sheet.

And the best part of the whole thing was that the West enders expected to grab a victory. They had told their friends so, and a large number of the latter accompanied them to the scene of carnage.

The Y. M. C. A. are winners of the city championship.

The weather was cold and poor fielding resulted, Cleveland being charged with seven errors. Governor Major threw the first ball. Score:

Gideon's triple, Pecklnpaugh's single, and a steal of second, and Caldwell's single, accounted for two more in the fourth. In the seventh, hits by Maisell and High, an infield out, and Gideon's single through Foster, sent two more runs over. Detroit, Mich., April 22.—Minus the services of Crawford and Cobb, both of whom were too sick to play yesterday, Detroit defeated Chicago, 3 to 2. Jackson misjudged Vitt's short fly in the seventh, but after a desperate run reached it, caught it, fell headlong, rolled over and then dropped the ball. This mishap allowed Stanage to score from third with the winning run. Fournier's homer, which followed Murphy's double, gave the Sox their runs in the fourth inning. Olson and Maranville had a fist fight in the opening inning after Maranville plunged against Olson when the latter caught him off third. Only a few blows landed, and both were banished by Umpire Rigler. Catcher Miller was put off the field for objecting to a decision. Score: R. H. E.

LEWIS RIVAL OF STECHER

"Strangler" Only Wrestler Who Has Made Good Showing.

"Strangler" Lewis, college boy wrestler, is the logical man to give a real test to Joe Stecher, the youngster who came from a Nebraska farm with a remarkable leg scissors hold, won one bout after another, claims the American championship, and is seeking a match with Frank Gotch for the world's title.

Lewis has gone through the big international tournament at New York with a clean record in the catch as catch can game. His most notable triumphs were over Mort Henderson, who was a sensation as the Masked Marvel, Wladek Zbyszko, and Doc Roller.

Stecher appeared in only one match in the tournament. He beat the Marvel. That entitles him to meet Zbyszko and Lewis.

Gave Stecher Battle.

The "Strangler" is the only man who has ever given Stecher a real tussle since the Nebraskan became a national figure. They wrestled two hours and five minutes.

Lewis is different from most wrestlers. He is smart. He attended Kentucky State university, then continued his education by reading high class literature in spare time, especially on train while going from one city to another between matches.

He is a student of psychology and says he expects to "think himself to the championship." He says that many times, through mind control, he is able to make opponents do almost as he wants them to.

In college Lewis was a star in athletics on account of his strength. He was physical instructor at Kentucky State before he became a professional wrestler.

Real Name Friedrich.

The "Strangler's" right name is Robert Friedrich. He was called "Strangler" after "Strangler" Evan Lewis, who won fame on the mat before him. He measures 6 feet 1 inch, weighs 235, measures 18 inches around the neck and 43 around the chest. He is only 23 years of age.

T. B. Bowlers Win.

The T. B. bowling team won two games out of three from a picked "All-Star" team on the Zenith alleys last night. The winners led by eighty-seven points in the total score. Carey of the T. B. team got the high score of 197. The score follows:

Coming to a close this week in a blaze of glory that stamped it the most successful season in local bowling history, the Major league hung up its final scores of the year.

The last six weeks of play saw one great battle for first place between the Oak Hall, Elcora and Sharkcraft teams. The Elcora team finally won out over the clothiers and tailors in one of the best races ever staged in the Major league. The cigarmakers showed a great burst of speed in the last six weeks, winning nineteen out of the last twenty-one games.

Broke Some Records.

During the season they won forty-eight games and lost twenty-seven, a percentage of 640. They also set a new league record for high team, three game score, hitting the maples for a count of 3,098; and also set a new high team, one-game score, piling up a count of 1,046.

Last year this team headed the league in pin average, knocking over 68,642 pins for 75 games, an average of 915 and this year, for the same number of games, they kicked over 69,947 pins, an average of 933 for the season. This record has never been duplicated in the Major league.

This last week they took three games in a row from the Oak Halls, who had a chance to win the 1916 pennant had they been victorious. The Elcora's grabbed the high three-game total for the week's play, getting a count of 2,824.

Schultz Was Present.

Schultz of the Elcoras also got the high three-game total for the week, with 626. He also secured the high score, hitting the wood for a count of 246.

There was a great battle on when the Big Duluths and Sharkcrafts met, the clothiers in order to get in the prize money had to win three in a row. So, when they won two they had a hard battle trying to win the third, but they fell down in this game, and the tailors won by nearly 100 pins.

The six teams this year knocked over just 9,289 pins more than they did last year.

Stiegler a Champion.

Fritz Stiegler of the Big Duluths won the individual honors of the league. He rolled seventy-two games and finished with an average of 195 and a fraction. Last year he finished with an average of 187.

Carl Bernl of the Oak Halls, who led the league up to the last four weeks, when he took a slump and could not come back, finished in second place with 194 and a fraction for sixty-eight games. Last year Firestone, one of the best bowlers that ever rolled a ball down the drives at the Head of the Lakes, took first honors for the individual bowlers. In seventy-two games he finished with an average of 193 and a fraction, and it was on the last night of the league season that he won the honors by shooting a total of 657 for three games, and won out over J. N. Deller and O. O. Whitney, who both finished with an average of 192. The last two named finished in third and fourth place, respectively, this year.

There were twenty-three bowlers who shot a 180 average or better this year. The six men of the Elcora team all shot over a 180 average, which is considered very good.

Central high school track enthusiasts are preparing for one of the greatest seasons in the history of local athletics. With six of last year's star "D" men back in the fold, together with a wealth of promising new material, it looks as if the Red and White athletes would be able to get away with a good sized portion of the bacon this season.

The principal handicap in connection with local spring athletics is the lateness of the season. With any kind of luck with the weather, from now on, however, the local men should be able to develop quickly and make an excellent showing in the meets in which they are entered.

Capt. Hrutfiord is about the fastest high school dash man in the state and he is a star in many other events as well. He is the holder of the state championships in the broad jump and the 220-yard dash, and it was only by hard luck that he lost the 100-yard dash last year at the state meet. This year he not only expects to successfully defend his present titles, but to go after a win in the century and other events as well. Last year at the big Northwestern meet Hrutfiord got away with six firsts.

The high jumps event this year will be taken care of by Anderson, who recently tied with the "Y's" best man, and Lewis, a cousin of Matt Brown and a star dash man as well. Karon is a good man in the dashes, and has done good work with the shot and a number of other events. McKay is a crack medium distance sprinter, and in the recent indoor meet, stuck close to heels of the great Kelley, former U. of Penn. star. Jentoft proved one of the sensations of the recent "Y" meet, by easily carrying off the mile event. With some training and a little improvement in form he should be able to register a mark in this event that would keep some of the best of them moving.

Last year Hrutfiord was the lone representative of the local high school in the state meet. This year, however, a big attempt will be made to get the business men of the city interested in the cause, and it is hoped to send a full team down to the Twin Cities in June. It is expected that the local business men will respond generously, as it will prove a great incentive to one of the best forms of athletics at the local institution and will serve to advertise the city as well.

NEW SERVICE FOR ANGLERS

Alger-Smith Line Will Replace Train for Duluth Fishermen.

Local Sportsmen Will Be Able to Reach All North Shore Streams.

Trout anglers of Duluth will be delighted to know that the officials of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway (the Alger-Smith line) are contemplating putting back into service the train that formerly ran from Knife River way up to the wilds of St. Louis and Lake counties, where numerous rivers and brooks abound that are well stocked with the beautiful speckled fish.

This train was taken off last year because it was slighted by Duluthians. Passengers from here would ride on the Iron Range train to Alger and then take the D. & N. M. instead of getting off at Knife River and taking their train from there. This practice deprived the Alger-Smith people of a lot of revenue that should naturally have accrued to their coffers by reason of the fact that their line was the only one that tapped the trout country back in the wilderness.

Officials of the Alger-Smith company stated yesterday that it is their intention to place this train back in service just as soon as the trout fishing season gets well under way and will maintain the service just as long as it is properly patronized.

The Alger-Smith line now runs up to about Mile Post 81, which gives Duluthians an opportunity to reach the Knife, Gooseberry, Encampment, Baptism and Beaver rivers and also the inlet and outlet of Shauff lake. These are only some of the streams. There are many others that are well filled with trout.

"I think local anglers should make up their minds to patronize the Alger-Smith from Knife river up," said C. H. Ziegler, well-known Duluth sportsman, this morning. "The train means everything to people of this district who love to angle. The line taps all of the best fishing country to the north and is the only one that does."

YALE AND PENNSY CREWS READY FOR DAY'S STRUGGLE

Philadelphia, April 22.—The Yale and University of Pennsylvania crews had their final workouts on the Schuylkill river yesterday in preparation for today's races. Both squads were on the river in the morning and again in the afternoon, but neither was given severe work by their coaches.

The Blues' varsity and junior eights paddled over the mile and a half course and were timed in a quarter-mile sprint. Coach Nickalls announced the time as 1 minute 5½ seconds for the varsity and about 2 seconds slower for the junior boat. The Pennsylvania crews in a similar trial covered the distance a fifth of a second faster.

Golf Date Changed.

Memphis, Tenn., April 22.—J. W. S. Rhea, president of the Trans-Mississippi Golf association, has announced that the association's tournament will be held July 31-Aug. 5, instead of during the week beginning July 24 as originally proposed, to avoid a conflict in dates with other meetings. The tournament will be played over the links of the Interlachen club, Minneapolis.

Moran and Morris to Box.

Tulsa, Okla., April 22.—Articles were signed yesterday for a ten-round boxing bout here May 20 between Frank Moran of Pittsburgh and Carl Morris of Sapulpa, Okla.

Breaks Plunge Record.

St. Louis, Mo., April 22.—D. V. Smith of the St. Louis A. C., world's champion plunger, broke the world's record for the seventy-five-foot plunge in the Missouri Athletic association tank last night. Smith plunged the distance in 50 1-5 seconds, breaking the former record of 52 seconds made five years ago by John Lichter.

Toledo Gets Braves Hurler.

Toledo, Ohio, April 22.—Roger Bresnahan of the Toledo American association club, announces that he has purchased Paul Strand, a left-handed pitcher, from the Boston Nationals. Strand has been with the Braves two years, Bresnahan says, and last year he won six games and lost two. Strand will join the team at once.

HIGH BATTING AVERAGES MARK FIRST WEEK OF LEAGUE'S SEASON

Chicago, April 22.—The usual early season high batting averages prevailed in the first week of the major leagues, according to figures published here today and including games last Wednesday. Janvrin of the Boston Americans tops all batters with the startling percentage of .800. In the National league, George Burns, New York, Moliwitz, Cincinnati, and Butler, St. Louis, have averages of .600.

Hal Chase ranks fourth in the National with a percentage of .455, tied with Carey of Pittsburgh for the lead in stolen bases with four and with Saier, Chicago, and Merkle, New York, for the lead in home runs with one. Following Chase, the batters making up the list of "three-thirty-three" hitters are: Gonzales, St. Louis, .429; Compton, Boston, .429; Cutshaw, Brooklyn, .417; Daubert, Brooklyn, .400; Clarke, Cincinnati, .400; Whitted, Philadelphia, .385; Doyle, New York, champion last year, .385; Magee, Boston, .375; Nichoff, Philadelphia, .375; Hinchmann, Pittsburgh, .364; Konetchy, Boston, Kauff, New York, and Rariden, New York, .333. Heine Groh, Cincinnati, leads in runs scored with six and is tied with Whitted, Philadelphia, in total bases at 12.

National league pitchers are led by Alexander, Philadelphia, with two games won and none lost and Schneider, Cincinnati, with the same record.

Cobb 'Way Behind.

Ty Cobb evidently has not struck his stride for he is far below the .333 class, having hit for only .231. Following Janvrin in the .333 class are Speaker, Cleveland, .474; Henriken, Boston, .429; Gedeon, New York, .429; Baker, New York, .385; Pratt, St. Louis, .360; Hoblitzel, Boston, .353; Schalk, Chicago, .346; Hellman, Detroit, .345; Jackson, Chicago, .333; Burns, Detroit, .333.

Felsch, Chicago, Sisler, St. Louis, Shotten, Boston, and Milan, Washington, lead in home runs with one each. Tobin of St. Louis, Gardner, Boston, and Baker, New York, are ahead in stolen bases with three apiece; Hellman, Detroit, and Veach, Detroit, lead in total bases with eighteen. Jackson, Chicago, with seven has scored the most runs.

American league pitchers credited with two wins and no defeats are Faber, Chicago, and Ruth, Boston.

PROPOSE EXTENSION OF TROLLEY LINE

Club Would Run West Fourth Street Cars to Fifteenth Avenue.

An extension of the West Fourth street car line from its present terminus at Fifth avenue west to Fifteenth avenue west was proposed at the regular meeting of the Jackson Welfare club held last evening at the Jackson school.

No action was taken yesterday, but it was decided to take the matter up again at the next meeting. In the meantime an investigation will be made, so that definite reports can be prepared when the project comes up for a final vote of the members. The suggestion that the car line be extended was made by C. N. Moore, who pointed out that the line would pay in view of the growth of that part of the city in the last few years.

The industrial and agricultural exposition next fall was explained to the members by Thomas Walker, who urged a campaign to interest children throughout the city in raising vegetables and flowers to be exhibited at the show.

It was decided to invite E. O. Olund, agricultural expert, to give a talk to the pupils of the Jackson school in the near future.

BARNES HERE NEXT MONDAY

Crews Will Take to Water Again If Ice Permits.

Duluth Boat club bustle, incident to the big preparations that will be made for the annual regatta of National Amateur Oarsmen of America to be held here next August, is dormant and will remain so until the arrival of Julius Barnes from New York next Monday morning. On that day Mr. Barnes will confer with the members of the regatta and membership committees and plans will be made for much work.

Immediately after this conference committees from the club will be sent out to bring in about 400 new members. At present the organization has a membership of 776 and it is planned to bring this number up to 1,200. The fee is $20.

"It has always been Mr. Barnes idea to make the boat club a most democratic place for the young people of Duluth to meet and entertain," said Secretary Albert Ames this morning. "I do not think we will have any difficulty in obtaining the number of new members desired."

While the rain and snow have ceased there is still some doubt as to whether the crews will be able to get out on the bay this evening for the reason that there is much ice in the harbor. However, if general conditions are favorable the men will take to the real shells again.

Entries Invited.

Invitations sent out by the club committee, of which Wallace Quimby is chairman, to the officers of the more prominent rowing clubs of the United States and Canada are being replied to. From responses already received it is probable that the New York Athletic club will be represented by a junior eight and by Waldo Smith, prominent American sculler, who will enter the senior singles. The Rockrimmons of Springfield, Mass., that made such a creditable showing last August during the national meet held in that city, have written that their club will probably be represented.

"There is a shortage of crews in the New York club this year," said Mr. Quimby last evening, "but it is probable that the junior eights of that organization, now in training, will be sent here. According to all reports the crew is looking fine and going strong."

The Peoria club of Illinois is preparing a four and an eight which will be sent here to compete.

NASHWAUK MINES FACE BUSY YEAR

Indications to More Mining in That Locality Than Ever.

Nashwauk, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is unusual activity at local mines some of which are already loading ore. This promises to be the busiest mining year in Nashwauk's history.

The La Rue Mining company contemplates extensive operations this season and commenced shipping ore from the open pit and concentrating plant today. This mine expects to have an unusually large tonnage in comparison with previous seasons. The mine is employing at present about eighty men and it is expected this force will be greater by 150 within a short time.

Hawkins to Employ Many.

The Hawkins will commence shipping ore the first of the week and having given the new concentrator a tryout. The large steel structure was erected last year and has made a wonderful improvement in the property and in its workings. Two small steam shovels are working in the open pit and the ore will be taken out of the mine through the shaft. It is predicted that this mine will employ in the neighborhood of 200 men all season and that the tonnage will be much larger than previous seasons.

The Hawkins mine will be one of the heaviest shippers this year and will put three shovels in the ore very shortly. The large concentrating plant will be put to work on double shift at once and it is estimated that over 300 men will be employed there all summer.

The Quinn-Harrison property being operated by Butler Brothers is making larger preparations than ever. This season's output will be much larger, the company erecting several cottages, machine shops and a larger boarding house. This mine at one time last year worked eight shovels and a larger number are expected to be put to work there shortly. The Mace mine No. 2 will ship ore this season having been opened up by Butler Brothers last year.

BAND FOR HIBBING IS NOT CERTAINTY

Bandmaster Leaves and Members Resigning From Organization.

Hibbing, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Ahola for several years director of the Hibbing Concert band will leave this evening for Fairbanks, Minn., where he will locate and his departure brings general regret not only to members of the band but to citizens and business men alike who see in his leaving a possible disorganization of a fine musical organization.

Whether Hibbing will have a band this year is as uncertain as ever. The park board has not yet failed to act on the advice of the council to ask for a bigger appropriation, in order to meet the expenses of the band this year.

Members of the band are resigning every day and it is doubtful if the organization can remain in Hibbing unless some action is taken by the council or else the park board the early part of next week.

DREDGING HAS STARTED.

Building of Itasca County Ditches Has Been Commenced.

Deer River, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dredging on County Ditch No. 3 by the Seastrand company began on Tuesday with two dredging machines in operation. On ditch No. 4 and on No. 5, the Minnesota Dredging company began Wednesday with a dredge on each ditch. Good progress is being made, the start being in bog land where the frost has already left the ground. In a short time all of the machines will be operated night and day.

MANY FIREMEN ARE GOING TO CHISHOLM

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota State Firemens' association, composed of paid and volunteer firemen, will hold its forty-fourth annual convention at Chisholm June 13, 14 and 15.

The firemen and citizens of Chisholm will make this one of the greatest celebrations, from the standpoint of entertainment, that the organization ever attended. The committee in charge has already received many applications for hotel reservations for firemen and their wives. There will be prizes awarded for hose and coupling contests between the champions of North Dakota and Minnesota, which are attracting much attention.

Secretary A. J. Myler has sent out a call to over 20,000 firemen throughout the state, and the returns so far indicate that this annual gathering will be the largest and best held by the association.

The citizens of Chisholm are working with President George Nitch and Chief Alfred McAlpine to make it a success.

LA RUE EMPLOYES AT SAFETY FIRST MEETING

Nashwauk, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The M. A. Hanna company, operators of the La Rue mine here, held a safety meeting in the village hall Tuesday evening for the benefit of employes. The talk was very interesting.

The La Rue mine will perfect an organization with safety first as its slogan.

"MERRY WIDOW" TRAIN RUNS INTO CLAY SLIDE

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The clay cut between Grand Rapids and Coleraine on the Hibbing line of the Great Northern is again giving trouble. Thursday night the "Merry Widow" train encountered a bank of sticky clay mud on the track, and backed into Coleraine where orders were secured to have the track cleared, and a crew of men was put to work. It was not until after 6 o'clock Friday morning that the train was able to come through. The train was taken out Thursday morning by a special crew, and the regular crew went to Duluth on the afternoon train to bring their train back Friday. The slide between here and Coleraine is only one of the many problems bothering the railroad men, the wet weather having played havoc with the roadbed and tracks.

BIG BOOM FALLS.

Men Working on Two Harbors Dock Have a Close Call.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several men working for the American Bridge company while unloading steel girders for No. 2 dock here yesterday afternoon, had a close call when the 75-foot boom on one of the derricks came down with a crash. The derrick had just cleared the car with one of the twenty-one-ton girders when a casting at the base of the boom broke, allowing the framework to spread and not being able to withstand the strain it came crashing to the ground. It swung and fell to the side, sinking the end out of sight into the ground, and the steel cables tore the entire roof off the derrick and otherwise damaged the engine. The engineer of the derrick saw the boom start down and got out before the crash but not a second too soon. The boom, which was constructed of steel and was badly twisted as it fell over a girder which had been unloaded. Annual Easter Egg Shower

MONDAY, the annual Easter egg rolling will be celebrated on the beautiful sloping ground south of the White House. Hundreds of youngsters from all parts of Washington, and lucky children who happen to be in that city Easter Monday, will bring their baskets of colored eggs for the festival. Grown persons are not admitted unless they are accompanied by children, for, in spite of the spaciousness of the grounds, there is not too much room. In the afternoon the Marine band usually gives a concert for the children and it is rumored that this year Mrs. Wilson will give a prize to the lad or lass who rolls his or her egg the furthest without it cracking.

This pretty custom has spread across the country and Easter Monday frolics are enjoyed by children everywhere. But even after the kiddies have played with as many eggs as they want, it often happens that some of the colored ones remain to be used. Fortunately there are many good ways of serving hard-cooked eggs. So appetizing are some of the recipes that you may want to cook eggs especially for them, even when it is not Easter Monday.

Cream scalloped eggs are delicious. Use four hard-boiled eggs, one pint rich white sauce, one cup cold chopped chicken, ham or veal and one cup of bread crumbs. Slice the eggs, then butter a baking dish and cover the bottom with crumbs. Put on a layer of the eggs and season with salt and pepper, then a layer of the white sauce, then one of meat with more seasoning, and on top of all a thin layer of the crumbs with butter sprinkled on. Bake until hot and browned.

For the sauce: One tablespoon butter, blended with one tablespoon of flour; mix with one cup of milk, stir while it cooks; season with salt and pepper.

Golden Bar Toast—Toast, butter and moisten slices of bread. Separate the yolks and the whites of six hard-boiled eggs. Chop the whites, but press the yolks through a sieve. Make a white sauce, as shown above, and stir the chopped white in. Season and spread it on the toast, then sprinkle on the yellow and put into the oven for two minutes.

Carried Eggs—Remove the shells from hot, hard-boiled eggs and have ready nests made from boiled buttered rice. Keep these hot while you make a half pint of the white sauce, season it with one-half teaspoon of curry, or more, according to your liking for it, salt and pepper. Press the eggs through the sieve and toss with a fork until the white and yolk are well mixed. Pour a little of the sauce into each "nest." It will be bright yellow in color. Walk a moment until a coating forms over the sauce, then divide the eggs, putting a portion on each nest of sauce. Or you may fill the rice nests with the sauce and place an entire shelled, hot, hard-cooked egg in each one. Again, a large bed of rice and curry sauce may contain four or five whole eggs. The combination is pleasing to eye and taste.

Fried Stuffed Eggs—Cut the eggs in two and remove the hard-cooked yolks. Mix with minced meat—chicken is best, or use deviled, tinned ham. Moisten with white sauce; refill the whites of the eggs and press together. Roll in egg and bread crumbs and fry in deep fat. Tiny wooden skewers may be needed to hold the halves together. Serve with tomato sauce.

Bed Time Tales

By Clara Ingram Judson

Mrs. Wren's Mistake

YOU, are not to suppose that just because Mr. Gater and Terry Turtle were big, rather fierce creatures, every animal who lived on that same lovely southern river was big and fierce, too—for they were not. Indeed, no. There were dainty butterflies and sweet singing birds a-plenty and they did not worry their bright heads one bit over Mr. Gater or Terry Turtle, or any creature.

What matter if an alligator was waiting hungrily for his dinner, or a great moccasin was curled up on the bank waiting to grab something? Wasn't the sun shining beautifully? Weren't the flowers bright and fragrant, and the winds loaded with sweet smells? Of course! And nobody knew better than the birds what a beautiful river that was, and how happy they were to spend their days in the woods by its side.

Of all the birds who lived by the river, none were more industrious than Mrs. Wren. She worked and she worked, and the more she did, the more she found to do, taking care of her little family and keeping her nest in first-class order.

But one morning in the pleasant spring time, she, for once, got tired of working.

"Of course I know I ought to mend that corner of the nest," she said thoughtfully; "but some way I don't care to work. I just want to sing!" Which was no wonder, for the day was bright and pleasant—just the kind of a day for singing, to be sure.

"I'm going to take a day off and sing!" she exclaimed suddenly. "I'm not going to work another bit all day. I'm going down to the river and sing till I am tired—then perhaps I will like working again."

So off to the river she flew.

She perched on a log—a great, big, rough, humpy log by the side of the river and there began to sing at the top of her voice.

Just then a yellow butterfly flew by. "Good morning, Mrs. Wren," said he pleasantly. "Did you know that you were sitting on an alligator's back?"

"Good morning, Mrs. Wren," said the butterfly pleasantly.

"An alligator's back!" retorted Mrs. Wren. "I guess I know what I'm on—this is a nice log."

"Oh, very well," laughed the butterfly. "If——"

"Good morning, Mrs. Wren," interrupted a cardinal, who was on a stump near the shore. "Did you know that's an alligator you are on?"

"Is everybody gone crazy?" demanded Mrs. Wren. "I guess I know a log when I'm on one. You are——"

But, before she could finish her sentence, old Mr. Gater (for it really was he she was on) slid down into the water and positive Mrs. Wren had to fly quickly to avoid a wetting!

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Common Civility

My escort held a swinging door ajar while eight women sailed through without so much as a "thank you."

"Some women have slight acquaintance with common politeness," he remarked. "I was holding that door open for you and not for any one of the eight who elbowed you aside while they effected their entrance without difficulty." It was very evident that the incident vexed him, but, having delivered his tirade, he felt relieved.

For the moment, too, I felt ashamed of my sex. Wishing, however, to offer an explanation, I cast about for some sort of an excuse, and finally mustered up courage and replied that my sex so seldom had a courtesy shown them by the men with whom they come in contact in public that astonishment at his gentlemanly act had probably deprived them of the sense to thank him for his civility.

He simply replied that men were just as polite to women as women gave them opportunity to be, which did not appeal to me as a particularly propitiatory remark. Therefore, I immediately bethought me of and dilated upon two men who in their endeavor to gain entrance to a restaurant had given the revolving door such a push that a woman was nearly precipitated headlong into the street. The two men laughed at the woman's plight. "I am very sure," said I, "that no woman would laugh at anything that came near being so serious a matter, and that women are quieter and gentler in their conduct, if occasionally forgetful."

I have really been ashamed of the way some women accept the kind acts and the common civilities of men in public places. You would think at times that the women were veritable queens receiving the homage of serfs. A well-bred woman will never fail to express thanks for any act of kindness, however trivial, extended to her by a stranger in public or private for that matter.

A well-bred woman will also have a thought for the rights and conveniences of others. I do not believe, though, that women as a body are as guilty of as many breaches of politeness as men are. It is only that the sight of a woman doing an inconsiderate or rude thing is more conspicuous, because we expect them to be gentle, dignified and unfailing in courtesy at all times and in all places.

SIDE TALKS

Judge Not

ON THE trolley the other day I was the interested audience of a rather peculiar little drama.

A woman in a very pretty coat of some rich, soft stuff, fur-trimmed, got on the car and sat down beside me. I noticed that, as she sat down, she arranged her coat with the greatest care.

At the next stop a woman with a little boy got on and sat down beside the lady of the lovely coat.

She Was Afraid the Little Boy Would Touch Her Coat.

The little boy wanted to kneel on the seat and look out of the window (it was one of the old-fashioned cars). His mother permitted it, and I saw the lady of the lovely coat glance at his dusty feet nervously and draw her coat closer about her. Seeing this, the mother laid her hand over the child's shoes and held them away from the coat. So they rode for a few blocks until something excited the little boy and he gave a wriggle which brought his shoes almost into contact with the coat.

The lady of the lovely coat could stand it no longer, but rose to her feet. The mother of the little fellow at once made him sit down, grown-up fashion. He didn't like it, and his lip quivered. He was an engaging little fellow, and it was plain the sympathy of the car was with him.

"Stuck-Up People Shouldn't Ride on the Trolley."

"People that are so terribly stuck up shouldn't ride in the trolley car," I heard the woman on the other side of the mother remark.

"Yes," sighed the mother; "people that have plenty of money and fine clothes don't seem to have much use for children. I suppose she has a lapdog instead of a baby in her home."

The woman with the lovely coat flushed. It was plain to see that she sensed the criticism of the car.

For myself, I felt that she had been a little more obviously nervous than circumstances required. The child's shoes were not muddy.

As it happened, we got off the car at the same stop and I had to ask my way of her. She answered me very graciously and walked along with me. She was silent for a moment, and then spoke out impetuously.

The Lady of the Lovely Coat Justifies Herself.

"I feel as if I must tell you something," she said. "I hated to act as I did on the car. That was a dear little boy, and I love children. I have four myself. But you see—well, that coat wasn't my own. A friend insisted on my taking it for a special occasion, when it was really important I should look right. I didn't have anything suitable to wear myself—you know how it is when there are four children growing up—and she insisted that I leave my coat with her and wear this and wear it back today. And I've been positively miserable for fear something would happen to it. If it had been my own coat, I shouldn't have acted like that."

She paused. "I don't know why I tell you this," she went on, "except that I knew I was being judged and I felt as if I must defend myself to someone. You understand, don't you?"

I said that I did, with all the cordiality I am mistress of. You see I felt her debtor for a little object lesson that I evidently needed.

You can't judge any act by itself alone. You should know all the circumstances leading up to it, all the motives of those concerned. That is a warning I have often sounded in these columns. I seem to need it myself.

Preceding the service, Miss Leona Grieser, organist, and Wally Heymar George of Chicago, violinist, will give a twenty-minute program.

America's First "Lady Cop" Will Give Free Lecture Here

Under the auspices of the Woman's council, Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells of Los Angeles, pioneer policewoman and lecturer on police and social questions, will speak at 3 o'clock Friday night at the Commercial club. The lecture will be free.

Mrs. Stebbins is by ancestry, birth and training a civic and reform worker. She was pastor's assistant at Plymouth Congregational church in Brooklyn and spent two years at the Hartford theological seminary and school of religious pedagogy, preparing lectures which she delivered at chautauquas and Bible conferences.

For six years Mrs. Wells has been a regular police officer at Los Angeles, under civil service. This was the first appointment of its kind and was secured through Mrs. Wells' own efforts. She receives many letters from Canada, Europe and all parts of the United States asking for advice, and last year addressed national gatherings in more than 100 cities.

Now that the work in her own city is well established, Mrs. Wells, who has given great impetus to the police woman movement and who thinks it is easier to do things than to talk them, will continue to give some time to helping build up the work in other cities and help unite them for measures of common good.

"This club has ever been interested in education and reform. We have worked for years for a new school building, and now have the assurance of a modern building next year. We have worked also for a supervised playground, which we are to have this summer.

"In the line of reform, we have joined the National Child Welfare society to help the condition of children.

"We have assisted financially, the Chicago Woman's Shelter and Annex.

Ex-President Will Be Here Monday

An event to which Duluthians are looking forward with great interest is the lecture by William Howard Taft Monday night at the First Methodist church. There is no more timely subject than "The Monroe Doctrine," and it is expected there will be a record-breaking audience. Efforts were made to secure a larger auditorium, but without success.

At the lecture which he gave in St. Louis early this month, Mr. Taft said:

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

"We have had the Monroe Doctrine ninety years, and during that time it has kept Europe out of this hemisphere. It is our doctrine, nobody elses. Why should we give it up?"

He spoke of himself as "the professor from Yale," but from the bursts of applause it was evident that his audience thought of him as an authority on world politics.

The lecture Monday night will be the last of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae course.

Former President Taft Will Lecture Here Monday

The visit to Duluth of a former president of the United States is an event calculated at any time to rouse the enthusiasm of patriotic citizens. But when that former president is a man for whom the nation's respect has steadily grown it becomes an event to be looked forward to and to be appreciated.

William Howard Taft will make a visit to Duluth Monday, April 24, and indications point to the fact that the First Methodist church will be more crowded than when some years ago, William J. Bryan addressed a record-breaking audience. Mr. Taft's subject, "The Monroe Doctrine," is timely, and one on which he can speak with authority. The lecture will be the closing one of the Collegiate Alumnae lecture course and will be given at 8:15 p. m.

What Mrs. Sherman Might Have Said On the Subject of House Cleaning

If Sherman said "War is Hell," it is a safe bet to guess what Mrs. Sherman would have said about housecleaning!

Why is it that just as a house is getting comfortably, liveably dirty, just as you are beginning to get familiar enough with the germs around your room to call them by their first names, the "hand that rocks the cradle" begins to get restless and first thing you know there is an insidious murmur of "Clean Up" in the air.

Neighbors are all right in their way, but it is a personal opinion that but for the first neighbor there never would have been any housecleaning, which in our opinion, is one of the strongest arguments for a country life, far from the maddening throng. Once you let Mrs. Brown see that Mrs. Jones is beating her to it (literally) there is no rest nor room for the mere onlooker and there is no use in re-

You are told that it "won't disturb anyone this year; we're going to take one room at a time, and you'll never know that it is going on." This is a pretty thought, but if it has been said to you you can be sure that there is something being kept from you and that something is nothing more nor less than the truth. It can't be done!

Those Dear Cobwebs.

You go sadly up to your nice dusty, cobwebby, little room (there is something intimate and trusting about spiders the way they spin their little nests so fantastically around your walls, your pictures, and your personal effects, absolutely trusting you to help preserve the beauty and symmetry of their fragile homes.) You think of the associations of the past months, the dust of years, the soot from thousands of tons of coal and you wonder why it is—how it can be—that anyone could wish to so rudely disturb the peace and quiet of this, your harbor of rest. You think of all the things you have put away at different times, like a squirrel with a nut, and which you have never seen since because you've never been able to find them since. You look at the floor where your footprints—each outline so perfect in its way—lie there fearlessly in the dust, and then you look towards the window (you gave up trying to see out of it some months ago), and think how cruelly bright the penetrating rays of the sun will seem once the "foe to dirt" takes a hand at their dulled panes and a dull pain of resentment rises at the thought that rude hands are bent upon destroying this "perfect hole."

Hope of Arcady.

There should be a place each one might call his own—a place where moth and dust can corrupt all it pleases—where you can put things with the calm assurance that they will never be found until you are far too dead to care—where the more delicate animals like the spider, the moth or the bed-tick could go about with the utter insousciance and spontaneity peculiar to their kind, ignoring the conventions and assured that they have a friend at court. They should feel that not any number of neighbors could drive you to drive them out of their—but then we digress. You find that while you have been digressing the house-cleaning idea has been progressing and that come what may your neighbor, Mrs. Jones, has started something which your household head feels called upon to finish. You think of taking a trip but have nothing to trip with. You even think of getting married, thus hoping to put off the evil day, but much as you hate house-cleaning you decide it is hardly worth that sacrifice. You acquire a haunted expression which causes your friends to wonder if you are not suffering from house-maid's knee or the spring halt. You wish that your parents hadn't bothered to raise you and finally are just on the point of taking poison ivy when the idea may come to you that it is probably harder on the "Hand That Rocks the Cradle" than it is on you and that there's a chance that with all the modern inventions appearing daily that some painless means of house-cleaning may have been invented and you just feel weak enough to stick around and see it through.

"The Creation" Will Be Sung at First M. E. Church Wednesday

MRS. LUCILE BROWN DUXBURY.

All members of "The Creation" chorus will hold a special practice at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the First Methodist church for the oratorio which will be given at that church at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday night.

Haydn's oratorio relates the story of the creation as given in the Book of Genesis. The story is told by the chorus and three solo voices representing the angel Gabriel (soprano), the angel Uriel (tenor) and the angel Raphael (bass).

The overture is meant to represent chaos. After the recitative the chorus enters softly with the words "And the Spirit of God" and gradually leads to the famous climax, "And there was light." This passage has thrilled hearers for many generations. Uriel describes how the evil spirits of night fly at the coming of light and this is followed by the sardonic chorus, "Despairing, cursing rage attends their rapid fall."

But the whole situation is changed when the chorus tells how a new world springs up out of the blackness and chaos of the old order. In the following recitative, "And God made the firmament," here is the first of the "natural history" effects so frequent in the oratorio. These effects are imitations in the accompaniment of the incidents related by the singer. These imitations always come before the singer has related the incident and not after, as is the modern way.

A chorus of praise follows and then is told the story of the creation of the waters in that stirring bass aria, "Rolling and foaming billows." The famous soprano aria, "With verdure clad," follows and this leads to the fine chorus, "Awake the harp," with its fine fugal writing. The last chorus in the first part is the famous "The heavens are telling," one of Haydn's happiest and most inspired compositions. The second part commences with the long soprano aria, "On mighty pens," then comes the fine trio, "Most beautiful appears." The trio and chorus sing the great chorus, "The Lord is great," a chorus of praise to God for His work in creation and after the bass solo, "Now heaven in fullest glory shone," and the tenor solo, "In Native worth," comes the climax in the broad fugal chorus, "Achieved is the glorious work," while the words "hallelujah" brings to a fitting close the great oratorio.

The soloists will be: Soprano, Mrs. Lucille Brown Duxbury; tenor, Joseph J. Granbeck of Minneapolis; baritone, Rollin M. Pease of St. Paul; organist, W. P. Waghorne; pianist, Miss Frances Berg; director, R. Buchanan Morton.

Mrs. S. C. Morell, secretary of the Virginia Women's Progressive club, gives the following resume of the year's work:

"The Virginia Women's Progressive club holds bi-monthly meetings, one social and one business. America and music were the subjects for the course of study this year. Under America the following topics were studied:

Discoverers of America; founders of America; the Revolution; the critical period of formation; the Civil war; American possessions, and the suffrage movement.

Under music the following composers were studied:

Bach, Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Chopin, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Liszt and a few American composers.

Some very fine programs have been offered at both the history and musical meetings.

The officers of the club are: President, Miss Annabel Mills; vice president, Mrs. J. H. Trethewey; secretary, Mrs. S. C. Morell; treasurer, Mrs. M. W. Coleman, and federation secretary, Mrs. Eugene Laugier.

Organized Orchestra And Still Conducts It

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which is to be heard in Duluth early in June, is unique in that it is the only one of the great American orchestras which has grown to artistic maturity under the conductor which formed it, and still continues under his baton.

Emil Oberhoffer has been the conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra from its inception twelve years ago, and the unprecedented development of this orchestra from its beginning to its present position as one of the greatest symphonic bodies in the world, is due largely to his genius, tact and magnetic personality. Mr. Oberhoffer has been called the "poet-conductor" and his interpretations are remarkable for their virility, unusual musical insight, and a temperamental warmth which lends a peculiar charm and reveals new and unsuspected beauties, even in familiar works.

Mr. Oberhoffer comes from a musical family and was born in Munich. He has had a wide musical experience as an operatic, choral and orchestral conductor, and has been in this country about twenty years.

Trees and Bushes For School Children

The department of education of the Twentieth Century club will distribute apple trees, currant and gooseberry bushes and flowering shrubs to the school children next week. The stock is of the finest grade and will be furnished to the children at the schools at a nominal cost.

The department of education of the club, under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Crowley, has carried on this work for many years, the club bearing all expenses of handling and distributing the stock, thus making it possible for the children to secure at a few cents trees and plants for their home premises.

Ice Cream and Flowers For Children's Home

Thirty of the children of kindergarten age of the Children's home were entertained yesterday afternoon in the reception hall by Miss Smith of the Monroe kindergarten and Miss Salter. After games and stories there was a treat of cake and candy.

The children of the home are delighted over the annual gift of Mrs. A. M. Miller, Jr., of a flowering plant for each child. Mark Baldwin volunteered to see that each child gets as much as two helpings of ice cream for Easter dinner, and H. B. Paull sent $5 for an Easter gift to the home.

State Offers Girls an Education at Total Cost of $150 a Year---Many Earn All Their Expenses

LIVING ROOM AT WASHBURN HALL.

THE DEAN'S PARLOR.

While living costs have been soaring, the cost of an education has been kept within the reach of almost any ambitious young woman by the state normal school board.

In Duluth it is possible for any young woman with good health, energy and the preparation offered by a grade school to virtually earn her own way through the normal school. Many are doing it. On the other hand, if she feels the task of completing the normal school course while earning her own living expenses too great, she may acquire an education here at a cost of not to exceed $150 a year, and this includes living under conditions which could hardly be duplicated in Duluth.

The usual way for a girl to earn these expenses while attending the normal school is to take a position with some family residing near the school and give her assistance with the household work in return for board and room and perhaps some small monthly wage. Many of the girls do this. Mrs. Alexander Milne, the preceptress, has more applications of this kind than she can fill, and any girl who is able to stand the work may find a pleasant home with some Duluth family. The girl is not expected to do all the duties of a regular maid. She may assist in the care of children or help prepare and serve the meals. It is understood that she shall be allowed time to attend classes and time in the evening for study. It is not an easy life, and Mrs. Milne does not recommend it unless the girl is strong and of a vigorous constitution, but many of the girls have found homes where there are but two or three in the family and where their duties are no more than they would be if they were living in their own homes and attending school. Frequently the women for whom they work have taken a warm personal interest in the girls and come to look upon them more as a member of the family or a young friend than as an employe.

Living at School.

For $17 a month she may share one of the big corner rooms with a "view" at Washburn or Torrance hall, and for $16 a month she and a roommate may have any of the other rooms. This includes both her room and board. The low price is possible because the girls do much of the work themselves. Each girl takes care of her own room. All the upstairs work and the work of serving is done by the girls, leaving only the actual kitchen work, the rooms being inspected regularly every morning.

The cook at the normal school is viewed with reverence. None of the normal school girls are ever eager to have a relative come to Duluth to visit them and "take them out for a good meal." It generally ends in the relative coming to the school and the meals being taken there.

Few Rules to Observe.

Life at Washburn and Torrance halls has many very pleasant features which are not found in ordinary boarding schools. There are just as few rules as possible. At one time the preceptress established a system of student government, but it was abolished, because there was no reason for government. The infractions of the rules were so infrequent and so inconsequential that the student government machinery grew rusty. One rule forbids talking in the rooms from 1:30 to 4. This is to insure proper conditions for study. There are study hours on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 7:30 until 9:30, but the girls may stop at 9 o'clock if they have their work finished, and often before the 10 o'clock retiring rule is actively enforced an impromptu candy pull or a fudge party more than prepares these same recently studious girls for sweet dreams.

The two halls, Torrance and Washburn, claim equal attention, Torrance being the dining hall for occupants of both buildings, while Washburn hall is the scene of many informal gatherings, including dancing in the large playroom, games and music. A large table in the center of the room holds a tempting display of recent magazines, gifts from "a friend."

Last winter each girl was given a skating ticket to the Longview rink by this same "friend." Notoriously tempting board, exceptionally attractive rooms and a most magnanimous "friend" who seems to think of an indefinite number of nice things to do for the girls, all help to add greatly to the motherly care a most interested preceptress takes in each student.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

Detroit Electric

This car has the perfect power plant

Today's trend among most motor car makers is toward the development of a smooth, vibrationless powerflow.

In search of this they have developed from two to twelve cylinders. Yet none, so far, has matched the superb fluidity, the resistless might of the modern Detroit Electric power-stream.

Roads deep with mud and sand or steepest hills prove no obstacle to the Detroit Electric. It carries you quickly and smoothly and unfalteringly to the top. You never stall—never have to shift gears.

This is the most important single reason for the preference of the Detroit Electric as an "all-year" car in hilly cities—its remarkable power.

Remember, too, that the power of the Detroit Electric is absolutely continuous. It has no motor vibration. So there is no pounding on the various parts to throw them out of adjustment.

The Detroit Electric rarely needs attention. It cuts the big expenses of most motorists—repairs, replacement and adjustment charges—to the very lowest notch.

Let us show you what the Detroit Electric will do on hills or through heavy going. Our strongest assertions are easily proved by a practical road demonstration.

DOG CATCHER PROVES THORN

Crookston's Canine Sleuth Giving Mayor Misner Heap of Trouble.

Kills Fine Bird Dog and Seriously Wounds Family Pet.

Crookston, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.—The liveliest municipal question here right now is the havoc among the canine population by the industry of Anton Bjerge, official dog catcher appointed by Mayor Misner. The dog catcher's activities have given the new mayor more trouble than he ever dreamed went with the position of city head. Anton has no respect for the dog without a license, or one with a license if he is found running around loose. The ordinance states that no dogs shall be found running loose about the streets after April 1. Anton has a lariat and he lassoes them unerringly. He lassoed a $100 English setter belonging to Ed Ralston and by chance the blooded chicken hound wore a 1916 license. Anton herded him to the dog pound and posted the find on the dog bulletin board. No one claimed him, but, though told whose hound it was, Anton toted the dog to the dumping grounds and shot him. Since the execution Ralston discovered the fate of his prize bird dog and after expostulating with the authorities has placed his case in the hands of an attorney. He wants his $100.

Family Dog Returns Wounded.

This incident had just gained circulation when one of real pathos transpired. J. F. Wright had a family dog, and according to the members of the family it was some dog. Monday it strayed from its kennel and soon found its head encircled by the lasso of Anton the active. Thursday, shortly after sunrise the family pet was shot and his carcass taken to the dumping ground. Thursday noon, faithful Towser was back at the Wright residence with a bullet hole in his head, but still alive. He had dragged himself home after "coming to." This incident raised a tempest of protest from the Wright home, not so much because the dog had been shot, but because he had been left to suffer with grievous wound. The dog is still alive and so is the ire in the Wright family.

Anton stands his ground, stating that he has followed the provisions of the ordinance, but the dog owners are up in arms.

MANY HOMESEEKERS COME THIS WAY

During March Minnesota Led All Other Northwestern States.

St. Paul, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to compilations made by Commissioner of Immigration Fred Sherman from figures furnished by the Minnesota Transfer Railway Minnesota again led all Northwestern states in the number of immigrants who came to the state.

During March 1,782 cars of immigrant movables destined for points in the Northwest were handled by this railway company of which Minnesota received 745. The next nearest competitor was North Dakota receiving 423; Montana, 238; Canada, 135, and the balance of the Northwestern states scattered.

Gain Over Last Year.

During the corresponding month of last year, the movement was not quite as heavy; 1,494 being handled against 1,782 this year, an increase of 288.

"The movement would have been even greater during March, had weather conditions been more favorable," said Fred D. Sherman. "This spring has been unusually backward and the fact that during the entire month of March very cold, stormy weather prevailed, kept many immigrants from moving and I believe that this will be borne out by the movement for the present month. I know of a number of cases where parties had planned to arrive here in March, but were obliged to abandon the plan and wait at least thirty days."

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Thirteenth Bachelor

Whose business is it whether a man marries? If anybody's, it is the doctor's.

WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Twenty-two of them are afflicted with a communicable disease, and it would be a calamity for such a man to marry—it would mean almost certain invalidism for his unfortunate bride, and probably in the end an unsexing operation.

Thirty-five of them are given to alcoholic indulgence. While a drinking man may now and then remain virtuous in his living, the presumption is that he will not do so, because alcohol dissolves off the veneer of self-restraint and releases a man's primitive impulses, removes his ordinarily cautious judgment and leads him to excesses he would never commit in a perfectly sober moment. Nor must a man become frankly intoxicated to lose his self-control; it only takes a social glass or two to cut through the veneer. So these thirty-five occasional drinkers are to be classed as undesirable husbands. We will leave them to their selfish lives.

The remaining forty-three bachelors size up like this: Eighteen of them are courting girls, have been courting the girls for from two to twenty years, and never making a very determined effort to have a wedding day fixed, on the ground that their salaries are not sufficient to support a wife in the style to which the girl has always been accustomed. Which is all rubbish, of course. The truth of the matter is that these eighteen weak-kneed ones never will marry voluntarily—they are too selfish. The remaining twenty-five bachelors are "men about town." They have no fixed associates other than the hangers-on at the club, poolroom, bowling alley or street corner. They are on extraordinarily familiar terms with the class of girls who seem to enjoy being insulted by familiarities of young men in public. They don't want to marry, because they don't meet girls who inspire respect. The girls they know so well are the kind who patronize public dances, theaters and such places without responsible escort. In short, these twenty-five bachelors have no incentive to marriage. So far, they find "variety the spice of life," and it will be quite a while yet before they discover that too much spice spoils the joy of living.

It was Bachelor Number Thirteen, in the above list, an eligible man, and a really desirable sort of man, who gave the only worthy excuse for his single cussedness. Here is what he said: "My girl is beyond my reach. She earns $16 a week, and dresses like sixty. Took her and her mother out the other night. The mater wanted to take in a plain two-bits show, but Inez was strong for a $2 show, and we blew six bones for the show Inez wanted. I tell you, with my little $40 income I can't finance the proposition."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

College Man Would Try Foety.

Please tell me what dose of asafetida one should take for nervousness. I am a student, aged 21.

Answer—Fie, fie, young man. Take a five-mile walk. One pill (five grains) of asafetida three or four times a day won't hurt you, at any rate.

Hair of the Dog.

One of your articles alluded to the influence of certain animal emanations upon persons subject to spasmodic or bronchial asthma. I never have an attack unless I visit my husband's mother's home, where there are two dogs. Sometimes I am in the house only a few minutes when the attack comes on. The house is but a few miles from our home. Do you think it possible that the attack is in my case produced by inhaling dust or emanations from the bodies of these dogs?

Answer—Very likely. Some individuals suffer an attack if they ride after a horse, or enter a stable. Others suffer if a cat enters the room. Many victims have attacks if they eat certain proteins — certain shell-fish, eggs, cheese. In other cases the foreign protein is produced within the body, in some hidden or neglected septic focus, by bacteria. In any case, the problem is, find the protein to which the patient is sensitive, and immunize the patient against that protein by a prolonged series of minute injections—a hair of the dog that bites you. This principle works successfully in many cases of hay fever, when the particular pollen can be identified.

WHEAT TAKES SHARP BREAK

Market Declines on Foreign Situation and Better Crop News.

Flaxseed Slumps on Liberal Selling; Crushers' Support Is Lacking.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 22.—Wheat prices were influenced largely today through uncertainty over the situation with Germany and there were furthermore expectations of liberal early deliveries with pressure likely to materialize, owing to the large movement of grain from the Northwest to the Lower Lakes now on with the opening of navigation. The Kansas crop report was bearish, and the indications are for better weather for sowing and seeding over the Northwest. Under these conditions operators hesitated to increase their commitments and there was a tendency to liquidate where it could be done without taking too much loss.

The loading out of boats from the elevators here is proceeding satisfactorily, there being now more than 00,000 bu of wheat afloat. The bulk of it is bonded grain. Argentine and Australian wheat exports for the week were reported at 4,200,000 bu, or 200,000 bu less than last week.

Reports being received by operators regarding the progress of seeding over the Northwest are discouraging. The ground is reported to be generally very wet, and it is feared that farmers will be unable to get anywhere near last year's acreage ready for wheat.

May wheat opened ¼c off at $1.17½ and closed ¼c up from the bottom, ¾c off at $1.16⅛ asked. July opened ¼c up at $1.18½, sold off to $1.16⅝, and closed 1½c off at $1.16⅞ asked. September closed 2¼c off at $1.11¾ nominally.

May durum opened unchanged at $1.12 and closed 1¾c off at $1.10¼. July opened ¼c off at $1.13, and closed ¾c off at $1.11⅜.

Slump in Flax.

Flaxseed started in strong with good bidding by crushers. Later selling pressure and liquidation appeared, and with the oil interests standing back, prices slumped, and the closing figures were close to the low of the day. There was no special news out, and that was bullish. It is predicted that a smaller area will be sown to flax in this country, and there were no Argentine shipments to the United States reported this week.

May flax opened ½c up at $2.13½ and closed 2c off at $2.11¼ asked. July opened ½c up at $2.14½ and closed 2c off at $2.12½ asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 1c off at $1.89¼, and July 1¼c off at $1.91 bid.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ¾c off at 44⅞c.

At St. Louis May wheat closed at $1.08, and July at $1.08⅝ bid.

At Kansas City May wheat closed at $1.03½, and July at $1.08⅞ bid.

Puts and Calls.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.14⅝ bid, and calls at $1.19⅛.

MARKET GOSSIP.

The McKindley Grain company had the following from R. J. Cooper, manager of the Farmers' Elevator company of Cleveland, N. D.: "Most of the farmers started work yesterday. The high ground is in very good shape, but all the low places are full of water. The spring is very backward. There was scarcely any plowing done, and there will probably be quite a decrease in acreage sown to wheat."

* * *

F. A. Tullar, postmaster of Warren, Minn., writes the McKindley Grain company under date of April 18 as follows regarding seeding: "It looks very discouraging at this writing. Fields are very wet. It is my impression that not over 50 per cent of the usual acreage will be seeded to wheat. The Red river valley will not produce much to the acre on what is seeded to wheat this season. Now mark what I tell you. I have raised 33 consecutive crops in the valley, and I think I know what I am saying. The farmers would be much better off if they did not sow a bushel of wheat. This is likely an off-year, and a disastrous year for wheat, and don't forget it. I will sow no wheat in May, and it looks now as though I would sow none in April. In that case I shall have my seed to sell, unless I hold it for the following year's seed."

* * *

Kansas state crop report gives wheat condition at 87.3 per cent. Last December it was 88, and in April last year, 92.8. The May government crop report was 80 and April this year 80. Acreage sown 8,500,000 acres. Corn acreage is probably 11 per cent larger than last year. Oats area has been increased.

* * *

Lecount wired from Aberdeen, S. D.: "It is clear and springlike today, seeding is more advanced in the James river valley than further east. Still only a small part of the crop has been seeded here, some farmers are in fields, but soil is muddy and work will progress slowly. Every slough is full of water."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, April 22.—Uncertainties of the diplomatic outlook tended today to pull down prices in the wheat market. The bearish nature of the Kansas crop report had also a perceptible influence. On the other hand the fact that weather conditions northwest threatened further delay to spring seeding operated somewhat as a check on declines. Opening quotations, which varied from the same as Thursday's finish to ½c lower, with May at $1.13¾ to $1.14 and July at $1.13⅜ to $1.13⅝, were followed by slight rallies and then a decided setback all around.

Breaks in the stock market led subsequently to sharp additional declines in wheat. Prices closed unsettled, 1¾c to 2@2⅛c net lower with May at $1.12 @1.12⅛, and July at $1.11⅞.

Corn eased off with wheat. Warehouse interests took a conspicuous part in the selling. After opening ⅛c off to ¼c up, the market hardened a trifle, and then underwent a moderate general sag.

Oats showed sympathy for the weakness of other grain. Field reports were also against the bulls.

Higher prices on hogs gave strength to provisions. Besides provision shipments for the week exceeded largely the corresponding totals a year ago.

GREENE-CANANEA HAS BIG BREAK

Mexican Government Said to Have Canceled Company's Rights.

Recessions were the rule in mining stock quotations at Boston, but outside of the zinc stocks, business was light.

A break of $4 to $42 in Greene-Cananea was the feature. It was brought about through a dispatch to the effect that the Mexican government has issued a decree declaring all concessions and franchises to foreigners canceled. This would include the concession under which the Greene-Cananea plant is operated.

American Zinc closed $3.25 off at $86.50; Butte & Superior $2.25 off at $86.25; Calumet & Arizona $2 off at $70.25; Copper Range $2 off at $60; Keweenaw a shade off at $5.62; Mohawk $2.50 off at $94 and North Butte 75 cents off at $25.75.

In the Boston curb list, United Verde Extension eased off 75 cents to $23.50 bid.

Cactus Consolidated was traded in on the New York curb today at $2.25@2.50.

Reports are current in Boston mining circles that a new company headed by Thomas F. Cole, is to be organized to develop the long neglected Seneca property of the Lake Superior district.

The Seneca ground lies under the Mohawk and north of the Ahmeek property. Ever since the Calumet & Hecla Copper company acquired the ownership of 11,207 shares of the Seneca, the property has lain dormant as the big mining company was too busy in operating its other properties to devote any attention to it.

The Calumet & Hecla has now agreed to sell its Seneca holdings to the new interests at $60 per share cash, the buyers also to pay off the company's debt of approximately $200,000.

According to the working out of the plan, the new Seneca company will have 200,000 shares capital, all debts paid and a working capital of $1,000,000. It is proposed to develop the property in sinking two diverging shafts to reach the Kearsarge lode.

Commenting upon the current situation in mining stocks, Skilling's Mining and Market Letter of today says:

"It will be all for the best that the uncertainty which has been hanging over the market because of the possibility of a break with Germany is likely to be cleared away, once for all. No matter what the outcome of the strained diplomatic relations, nothing that can happen will be more depressing than the uncertainty, and apprehension, which has existed. People who own stocks that are earning big money should not be alarmed and dump them on the market. The mines will keep on earning money, and the intrinsic value of the securities is not impaired, even if the market value is depressed. Buy, rather than sell, good stocks, and those stocks which represent coming producers should not be overlooked.

"Mining stocks are worthy of careful consideration from an investment standpoint. Copper stocks perhaps occupy the strongest technical position, looking to the next few years, but all metal stocks promise good returns."

TO CONTEST VALUATION FIXED BY COMMISSION

Madison, Wis., April 22.—That the Wisconsin-Minnesota Power company will contest the valuation fixed by the Wisconsin railroad commission on the Paint Creek site in Chippewa county is the current opinion here.

This dam is to furnish electric power to Minneapolis and St. Paul. It is said here that the agents of the company claim that the valuation allowed by the state should have been at least $1,000,000 more than that finally fixed by the commission. The construction work on the dam will of course proceed, and the valuation is a matter that can be settled later.

The importance of this valuation lies in the fact that the state might ultimately desire to take the property over. In that case the valuation of the riparian rights as fixed by the commission at this time would be controlling.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Prices Crumble Rapidly Under the Weight of Heavy Offerings.

Due to Increased Tension in German and Mexican Situations.

New York, April 22.—Today's two-hour session of the stock market was attended by much excitement and further free selling. War shares and the stocks of companies operating in Mexico broke 4 to 9 points and the entire list, including investments, was unfavorably affected.

News over the Good Friday holiday was anything but reassuring from the Wall Street point of view. Latest developments in the German crisis were viewed with increased concern, and reports of the proposed cancellation of American concessions in Mexico were responsible for the acute weakness in that quarter of the list. Mexican Petroleum fell 9 points, with 3 to 4-point declines in American Smelting and Greene-Cananea.

United States Steel, which at first resisted pressure, soon fell away to the lowest price in some weeks, and leading rails were lower by 1 to 2 points. At today's low average special stocks comprising the munitions group, motors, equipments and secondary industrials, were at minimum prices of the year, extreme declines of three to six points being made by the munition group.

Mercantile Marine preferred was for a time the sole element of strength, but the price concessions occurred. Irregular recoveries marked the late dealings, but the rally was not maintained. The closing was weak. Bonds were active and weak.

TRADE REVIEW

New York, April 22.—Bradstreet's says:

Flood tide aspects characterize demand with superabundant activity, stamping most movements in manufacturing and mercantile lines. While the more serious turn in our international political relations tend to cause concern and some of the lowest prices of the year in stock market prices, effects in other directions thus far have been almost entirely negligible.

Beyond everything is the strong fact that the country's producing units are sold up, and therefore it is quite useless to place orders for anything like nearby delivery. Weekly bank clearings $4,582,662,000.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, April 22.—Active shipping demand helped today to lift hog prices. The cattle trade was so small as to be hardly worth mentioning. Packers took most of the offerings of sheep and lambs.

RICH ORE BODIES DEVELOPED AT THE BUTTE-BULLWHACKER

Development Has Caused Excitement in East Butte District.

Funds Being Raised to Resume Work at Butte & Bacon.

Butte, Mont., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Great local interest is taken in the development of the Butte-Bullwhacker properties by the East Side Mining company, which a little over thirty days ago secured an option and lease on the property. Under the direction of Patrick and James Wall, the property is being developed at a pace that has amazed old-time mining men. The Bullwhacker is the only large copper mining property in Butte that is now being operated on the open cut mining plan, and in the "glory hole" as the great quarry is called, an immense ore body is shown and the assays of the ore run to figures that few of the experts expected. The average of the ore now being taken out runs between 4 and 5 per cent copper, while new ore bodies that have been developed run to 20 and even 30 per cent.

It is this latter development that has caused much excitement in the East Butte district.

The East Side Mining company had considerable difficulty getting smelters to handle the ores, as both the Washoe and Pittmont smelters were not in a position to do so. They had to send their ore to Tacoma and to the Garfield smelter at Salt Lake. In spite of this disadvantage, they are making shipments daily that show fine profits.

During the month of March fifty-one cars of ore were loaded and shipped with a total tonnage of 2,586 tons. Three new shafts are being sunk on the property and a total development of 504 feet was done during March. By May 1 the management will be able to ship six cars a day or nearly 200 cars a month if the needed smelting facilities can be secured.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Butte-Ballaklava company held this week, at which 920,000 shares out of the total of 1,000,000 shares were represented, the lease and option to Messrs. Heilbronner and Wall representing the East Side Mining company were ratified. The lease requires the shipment of at least 1,000 tons of ore per month and this was far exceeded in March. Twenty-five per cent of the returns of the Bullwhacker ores goes to the Bullwhacker company under the lease.

If smelter facilities can be secured either at the Washoe or Pittsmont smelters, the profits of the new operating company will be greatly increased as the long haul to Tacoma and Salt Lake will be avoided.

Butte & Bacorn.

After nearly ten years of idleness and no particular efforts to resume operations, the management of the Butte & Bacorn company is making an effort to raise the funds required to develop that property.

The plan calls for what amounts to a reorganization. It is estimated that $265,000 is needed. Of this amount $65,000 is to pay old notes and interests on them. The $200,000 is the estimated cost for the development of the property. The Butte & Anaconda company has agreed to sell to the Butte & Bacorn company the Calumet shaft for $19,000. This shaft will be of great advantage in the development of the property.

A company to be known as the Great Butte Copper company is to be organized to take over all the assets of the Butte & Bacorn company. The new company will issue 400,000 shares of stock to be distributed to the stockholders of the Butte & Bacorn on the basis of one share of Great Butte stock for ten shares of Butte & Bacorn. In addition 400,000 shares of Great Butte stock is to be sold at 66 cents a share. Each stockholder of the Butte & Bacorn who makes the exchange of his stock for Great Butte will have the privilege of purchasing an equal number of shares at 66 cents each. If stockholders fail to take advantage of this offer, their stock will be disposed of to others at this rate.

Of the $264,000 needed, $177,620 has already been pledged and the management feels confident that the additional amount will be raised with little difficulty.

The Zinc Mines.

Pope Yeatman, consulting engineer for the Guggenheims, was a visitor this week in Butte and Anaconda. He made a close inspection of the new zinc refining process at the Washoe smelter, the many improvements made there since his last visit some years ago, the mills of the Butte & Superior company, the Timber Butte mill constructed two years ago by Senator Clark and other recent additions to the mining industries of the Butte district.

Mr. Yeatman spoke particularly of the advance that Butte has made in the zinc production of the world. In speaking of this feature he referred to the fact that within the last two years the Butte & Superior mine and mill have taken their place as the leading spelter producer of the world. The Timber Butte mill was erected by Senator Clark for the concentrating of zinc ores at a time when zinc was selling at less than five cents a pound and was completed just at the right time to take advantage of the great rise in prise and increased demand for spelter.

But it is the advance in the zinc industry that the Anaconda company has made that particularly interested Mr. Yeatman. The process that Frederick Laist has developed into a paying commercial proposition by which the zinc ores from the Butte mines can be electrolytically treated and the zinc values secured, promises to add materially to the prestige of the Butte district in his opinion.

His examination into the workings of the zinc experimental plant at the Washoe smelter convinced him that it is the latest and most successful in the reduction of zinc ores and the high quality of the metal secured for the market makes it especially valuable.

While in Butte Mr. Yeatman also visited the compressor and pumping station of the Leonard mine in Butte, where the latest in improvements in mine operations can be seen. For the past two years Mr. Yeatman has been in Chile superintending the developments and new plant of the Braden Copper company and while he was familiar with the plans and descriptions of the improvements in the Butte district, this was his first opportunity for several years to witness the tremendous changes that have been made here.

From Butte he went to the big mining properties of Utah and Nevada, and later will visit the Inspiration, Chino and other plants in Arizona, where great advances have been made in methods.

Large Mine Payrolls.

The payrolls of the mines and reduction plants of Butte and Anaconda for the month of March were the largest in the history of Butte. According to careful estimates they exceeded $3,000,000 and may have reached the enormous figure of $3,500,000.

The payrolls of the Anaconda Copper Mining company at its Butte mines amounted to $1,407,000. Its payroll for the general offices, brought the figure above $1,500,000. The payroll of the Washoe smelter and plants connected with it made an additional $500,000 or $2,000,000 for this company alone. This does not include the payrolls of the Montana Power company or the Butte, Anaconda and Pacific railroad both of which are controlled by the same interests.

The payroll of the Butte & Superior Mining company for March amounted to $251,000, and of the North Butte Mining company to $140,000. The rolls of the Timber Butte and Elm Orlu (Clark) companies amounted to $100,000 more making close to $500,000 for these three.

The smaller mining companies including the East Butte, the Davis-Daly, the Butte-Ballaklava, the Bullwhacker, the Butte & Zenith City, the Butte & London, the Butte & Great Falls, the Tuolumne, the Pilot Butte, the Rainbow Development company and a number of other small companies operating in this district were estimated at a total of $250,000. This made $2,750,000 for the payrolls of the mining industries alone.

The wage scale of $4.25 per day in effect in the Anaconda mines is also the minimum wage paid at all the other mines of Butte. This is the highest scale ever paid and the number of men employed is the largest Butte has ever known.

Developing Emma.

Work at the Emma mine of the Butte Copper & Zinc company is now being rushed by the Anaconda Copper Mining company which has an option on the majority of the stock of the Butte Copper & Zinc company. An option on 100,000 shares of the stock has already been exercised, and by July 10 or before that the Anaconda will exercise its option on 88,000 additional shares. Before the latter is possible, the crosscut on the 1,600 foot level running from the Gagnon must be completed. It is probable that by July 1 the Anaconda company will have the connection between the 800-foot level—the lowest level of the Emma at present—and the 1,600-foot level completed.

The work of sinking will start within a week or two if the plans for the installing of the new engine and compressor are carried out by that time. The zinc concentrator at Anaconda will probably be ready by July 1 or sooner and the ores of the Emma mine will be the most important feeder for that.

Butte-Duluth.

New litigation has appeared to make doubtful the future of Butte-Duluth. Judge McClernan of the district court has ordered the sale of the property to satisfy claims for wages aggregating $42,000. He directed Attorney W. E. Carroll, representing the laborers and miners who were party to the suit, to prepare and submit to him a list of the property which might properly be sold to satisfy this judgment. The court held that the laborers were entitled to their pay as soon as possible.

The property is already in the hands of the court with C. M. Everett as receiver. Negotiations have been under way for some time looking to the reopening of the property and an arrangement with Oscar Rohn, general manager of the East Butte company, was agreed to by the majority of the interested parties and creditors.

However, the final ordering of this deal has been held back and it is possible that some of the large interests in the mining line in the Butte district will shortly secure possession of the entire Butte Duluth property, pay off the old indebtedness and put it into operation.

Davis-Daly.

The contract has been awarded to the Nordberg company of Milwaukee for the new engine and compressor of the Davis-Daly company at Walkerville, mine. It is estimated that four months will be required for the manufacture and assembling of this new machinery and six weeks additional for installation, which will bring the completion of it in September. This new equipment will add greatly to the value of the Davis-Daly, as it will enable the company to greatly increase production. The design calls for an engine that will operate to a depth of 4,000 feet and hoist 1,100 tons of ore in sixteen hours.

Hydro-Electric Development.

Announcement is made by officers of the Montana Power company that the work of completing the new Holter hydro-electric development on the Missouri river near Wolfe Creek is to be rushed at all possible speed so that the 40,000 additional horse power to be developed there will be available not later than August, 1917, and earlier if possible. The construction work there began in February, but the extreme cold weather of that month made it slow at first. At the present time 125 ment are employed at the new plant and this number will be increased to 600 men as soon as they can be used to advantage.

In addition to the Holter development, plans are being drawn for another new hydro-electric development in the Southern Montana district. When this is completed an additional 40,000 horse power will be available. At some of the other plants, notably the Big Falls development at Volts, additional units are being installed to increase the power available there.

When the Montana Power company began work on the Big Falls and Thompson Falls developments three years ago, the plans called for their completion by the middle of 1917. It was thought the other plants were furnishing all the power that would be required previous to that time. With the beginning of the great demand for copper and zinc that started in the beginning of 1915, the need of rushing those plants became apparent and they were finished as speedily as possible and far ahead of the time originally set.

Now the company finds this power practically all taken. The great demand for additional power comes from the tremendous mining developments and the new copper and zinc refineries and reduction plants. The electrolytic process used by the Anaconda company in both its copper and zinc refineries at Great Falls and Anaconda requires great quantities of electric power.

The opening of many new mines and the operation of all the old ones at capacity added to the power demand and the great growth of Montana cities and towns increased the commercial demands for light and power. All of these together with the railroad electrification projects that have been put into operation on the Milwaukee and Butte, Anaconda and Pacific roads made demands for additional power that surprised even the most sanguine of the officers of the Montana Power company.

It is not unlikely that additional power developments will be announced during the coming summer as the company has several additional sites in reserve.

LARGE DIVIDENDS PAID IN MARCH

All Records Are Broken By American Mines and Works.

American mines and works broke all records for dividend disbursements in March last. According to reports made to the Mining and Engineering World dividends during the month were paid totaling $21,115,138.

Not only were March records broken, but disbursements for the first three months of the year were the largest on record, exceeding those for the three months of 1914, the previous record year by nearly $12,000,000. In the quarter just ended 103 companies contributed with payments totaling $36,264,017, as compared with $18,202,932 by seventy companies in 1915, $24,785,556 by ninety-four companies in 1914 and $23,304,820 by 114 companies in 1913. This shows a remarkable gain in 1916 over previous years and makes a record of achievement never equaled by any other line of industry.

The above does not include the disbursements made by the so-called holding companies, a large part of whose revenue is derived from operations of their own mines. Take for instance the Copper Queen Copper company, whose profits go to swell the disbursements of Phelps, Dodge & Co. Then there is the Kennecott corporation, which is earning on its copper operations in Alaska better than $4 a share a year, or double what it is now paying. Others might be mentioned to show that much of the $20,839,303 disbursed during the first three months of 1916 by seven securities holding corporations should rightfully be credited to the operating companies.

In summarizing the dividends paid in the first quarter of 1916 we find that the 103 companies contributing have made total payments of $909,535,612. On their combined issued capital this is a return of $235,408,346 in excess of outstanding capital.

Holders of shares of copper stocks were indeed fortunate, for dividends were paid during March totaling $11,979,489. During the quarter, with twenty-seven companies participating, dividends have been divided among shareholders amounting to $20,859,161. This compares with $5,686,478 during the first quarter of 1915, $13,391,828 by twenty-four companies in 1914, and $11,423,187 by twenty-five companies in 1913. To date the twenty-seven companies paying dividends in 1916 have disbursed no less than $510,130,182. Issued capital of these companies totals $299,840,520, showing a return of not far from 200 per cent.

Owners of shares in companies classed as gold-silver-lead-zinc producers also shared in the prosperity enjoyed by the mining industry, for sixty-nine companies divided during the months $17,763,113, as compared with $7,194,031 by forty-eight companies in the first quarter of 1915, $7,167,895 by sixty-three companies in 1914 and $8,966,778 by eighty-four companies in 1913. To date the sixty-nine companies mentioned above have paid dividends totaling $214,487,790 on an outstanding share capital of $125,523,690.

The metallurgical companies benefited likewise to the extent that seven companies disbursed during the quarter $5,006,743 as compared with $3,691,423 in 1915, $4,225,833 in 1914 and $2,915,855 in 1913.

GIROUX LIKELY TO BE FINANCED

Profit of Nearly $24,000 Shown By Last Quarterly Statement.

Ely, Nev., April 22.—Neither the Giroux company nor the Consolidated Coppermines company, which controls it, have shown any particular activity in the past year or more, and yet the last quarterly statement of the Giroux shows a profit of nearly $24,000.

This was earned from ore taken from its ground by the Nevada Consolidated and treated at McGill, this, of course, is in addition to the usual expense of the company, which no doubt amounted to quite a sum, as its taxes came due in that quarter, and it also employs a number of men.

Manager Gray, who spent some weeks here, has returned to New York city, where he was called to consult with directors of the company. While here he had considerable churn drilling done on property owned by the company adjoining Nevada Consolidated holdings near Copper Flat, which work, it is said, was of a most satisfactory nature.

With copper now selling around 30 cents it would apparently be an easy thing for a company with such vast mineral resources to refinance, and in fact that is what many who are well informed believe will be done in the near future.

At present prices of metal and with a reduction plant of its own, the Giroux company would soon be able to liquidate all of its liabilities, and then would be in position for permanent and successful operation.

STEWART MINE IS STILL PRODUCING

Said That 125 Tons of Ore Are Being Shipped Daily.

Spokane, Wash., April 22.—"We are still producing 125 tons of ore daily from the Stewart mine and twenty-five tons more from the Crown Point, a property of the Coeur d'Alene Development company which the Stewart company controls, and we are treating this ore in the Federal company's mill at Sweeney," said William A. Beaudry, manager of the Stewart mine, at the Davenport yesterday. "We are doing a lot of development in the Coeur d'Alene Development company's properties and are getting such encouraging results that we are hopeful of getting that property in shape to furnish an adequate supply of ore to operate our own mill. Government gulch when the Ontario's lease on it expires June 1.

"We have several properties under consideration and examination with a view to acquiring a new producing mine. Some of them are in the Coeur d'Alenes and others in various sections of the Inland empire. I am hoping that negotiations may result in the Stewart company being able to continue indefinitely to operate in the Coeur d'Alenes through the acquisition of one of these properties.

"There is a good deal of talk about an influx of mining men into the Wood river country this year. I was at Hailey recently and heard very good reports of the operations in that region last winter. I think it quite likely that in another month or so there will be a lot of mining operators examining properties that have been optioned for them by agents. Conditions are not favorable to getting around and inspecting prospects or mines in that district yet on account of the snow and bad roads."

NEW COMPANY ON CUYUNA RANGE

Brainerd, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new company on the Cuyuna iron range is the Capital Iron Mines company of St. Paul, capital stock $100,000. H. A. Hanson of St. Paul has been elected president; John A. Oberg of Deerwood, vice president; C. A. Rogers of St. Paul, secretary-treasurer. These officers and R. H. Currie of St. Paul and P. A. Gough of Deerwood are directors.

The Tabert shaft east of Brainerd is down over sixty feet. Additional boilers have been installed. The drill of the Seafield Exploration company operating on the Cuyuna Range addition to Brainerd just east of the Northern Pacific railway shops is down 112 feet. Nothing has been given out as to what is being found. The Barrows mine will soon have drills placed on the property by the fee owners, the Brainerd Mining company. At the Rowley mine the clam shell is working and the shaft is being sunk deeper.

The Cuyuna range this year carries the honor of being the first range to ship ore to the docks at the Head of the Lakes.

ADVENTURE IS REVIVING

Work of Exploration to Be Started From the No. 3 Shaft.

Wolverine Will Be Back to Normal Production This Month.

Houghton, Mich., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adventure will begin its exploration from No. 3 shaft, located on the Knowlton lode, so as to cut the Butler and the North lodes, of which Nos. 1 and 3 have displayed such good values where cut by the shaft and opened on the third to the sixth levels inclusive. The shafthouse and its equipment have been kept in good order, some repairs having been made the past year. W. Parsons Todd, son of W. R. Todd, the secretary-treasurer of this company and president of the Quincy, was elected president in place of J. L. Bishop, who resigned, and will take his father's place as the managing director.

Copper Range.

Copper Range is keeping its tonnage at the same figure, about 5,000 tons monthly. The Trimountain mill will be rebuilt and most likely this year, though not all of the preliminary steps have been taken.

Wolverine.

Wolverine will be back to its normal production this month, 1,300 tons daily, which will give for the twenty-five working days 32,500 tons. In the stormy weather of the first quarter of the year the tonnage for one month ran down to 26,000. There are, of course, no construction costs here, as the equipment is in fine condition, and will last most likely during the life of the mine, estimated by President J. R. Stanton at about twenty years.

Mohawk.

Mohawk is now forwarding to the mill the normal figure of about 2,600 tons daily, which would be for the current month of twenty-five working days 65,000 tons. This figure, like that of the Wolverine, cannot be increased and has been the normal for over a year past, as it is up to the capacity of the mill. It is likely that it will be the wooden rockhouse of No. 4 instead of that of No. 1 that will be replaced by a new steel structure, because it commands a richer territory, which in all probability will become still richer with depth. When this change will take place is uncertain, but it is thought it will be commenced this year.

Ahmeek.

Ahmeek is now hoisting forty cars a day at Nos. 3 and 4, which is a gain of about thirty-four cars in a year's time, or since the shafts were reopened. The output of rock will gradually grow much larger as more levels and more drifts are opened, since these shafts can easily handle 2,500 tons daily. No. 2 is down to the eighteenth level and both shafts have the skipways down to the fifteenth level. No. 3 will start sinking to the nineteenth level in a few days, as soon as an arch, which is made by running a winze or downward passage at one side of the bottom of the shaft and then turning it to the course of the shaft, thus leaving a protection of rock against the falling rock, timbers and overlowering of the skip, and which is also sometimes made by timbering, is left standing at the eighteenth level and that at the sixteenth removed. The quality of the rock here has improved in depth since it was first opened by turning the shaft sunk at an angle of eighty degrees to the lode at a depth of over 1,100 feet.

Michigan.

Michigan will arrive with its shaft in about two weeks at the level where crosscutting is to be begun, the 600-foot; or, in other words, the shaft is now down about 560 feet, as about eighty feet a month is being made. The shaft being a few feet above the Butler lode, a crosscut will be driven to the latter so as to examine it for values. Every now and then a stringer from the lode is crossed and the values are good. From what is known of the Butler lode there is no reason why its values here should not be as good as those at the Mass and the South Lake, where the rock is of paying grades. The prospects are very good for the mine now, as besides the Butler it has the Ogemah, where discloses of good promise were opened both by a shallow shaft and the diamond drill, and the three north lodes of the South Lake to be yet explored.

South Lake.

South Lake began the 17th to hoist the waste rock for the lining at the bottom of the rock bin at the new shafthouse and on the 21st to hoist rock for the Franklin mill, about 100 tons having been forwarded daily from that date. The rock will come from Nos. 1 and 3 of the North lodes, the Butler lode, and Nos. 2 and 3 of the South lodes at first, and the tonnage will be gradually increased, as more openings and slopes in the ground already opened are cut out. With so many good lodes there is rock enough, as soon as it can be made available, for the present shaft and also another which will be put down later on. Southwest of No. 4 of the North lodes, where the crosscut was extended to seek the Butler two lodes were found one having a width of about 20 feet and another about 10 feet, both with a good showing of commercial copper. The second of these was passed through 2,002 feet from the shaft and though it is about where the Butler should be found in the folding of the strata to the south, it does not have the characteristic appearance of the Butler and the management hesitate in giving an opinion as to its identity. The crosscut has been stopped for the present.

Keweenaw's.

Keweenaw's shaft has reached the fourteenth level and is cutting out the loading station. When that work is completed sinking will be resumed. The shaft which has been wholly or partly out of the lode at times is now wholly in it and the average of the mineral contents is good. Drifts will now be started on the twelfth level.

Seneca.

Seneca's prospects are believed by those mining men familiar with the Kearsarge lode to be bright especially as it has been stated that the southeastern end would be the scene of the first exploration. It has exactly a stretch of two miles along the Ahmeek boundary extending under that property at an angle of 45 degrees, the southeastern end being directly under shafts Nos. 3 and 4 of that mine. From this southeastern end, Seneca runs directly west for over two miles a few hundred feet above a line 10,000 feet down on the lode from the outcrop. It is said that two shafts descending at an angle of 80 degrees and diverging at an angle of 35 degrees from a common rockhouse after the plan of Nos. 3 and 4 of the Ahmeek will be sunk from a point not far from the northwestern end of the boundary between the Seneca and Ahmeek. This is probably for the most part a reasonable conjecture, as it is not likely that the final plan has yet been settled upon. Offerings of stock of the new company when it shall be issued have been made by Boston parties to mining men here at the price announced in the press, $15 a share, which shows that it is probably going into action as soon as practicable. The ability and experience of President T. F. Cole and Manager W. J. Uren are a sufficient guarantee to the people here that the property will be thoroughly explored and most economically and efficiently mined. It will be well equipped with funds for a long time.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale is forwarding to the Isle Royale and the Centennial mills 2,800 to 2,900 tons of dock daily. The tonnage has increased remarkably fast and can and will be increased very much more in time as only two of its shafts Nos. 4 and 5, are sending up a large quantity—1,200 tons each daily—while the others are quite a way behind with No. 1 only operating 6 drills and No. 7 not yet hoisting any rock whatever. The development work—the continuing of old drifts and the development of new—is now quite large, as in March over 1,700 feet were opened up, so that very much more ground is being made ready for stopping than is being hoisted and consequently the reserves of profitable areas are becoming very great as they should be in a mine that is so bunchy. Everything done at this mine is planned for the realization of the largest tonnage possible.

Mass.

Mass will start to sink a new shaft some time this summer. This step was recommended by Supt. Walker and approved by the directors. With a rather low grade mine with somewhat high cost, the policy is to get out as large a production as possible, and the Mass has a great length of the strike of its lodes, so that ultimately, as at the Isle Royale, a great production can be made. Besides, it will procure some much needed machinery and bring its equipment up to a high grade of efficiency. These questions are at the present time much more important than that of a dividend and it is safe to say that, in spite of some very sensational reports of dividends, the management will increase its production, put its equipment into first-class shape, later on provide more mill capacity, and accumulate a safe surplus, before it will turn its attention to dividends.

Lake.

Lake is doing some new development work to extend stretches of good ground and also to develop reserves and to ascertain what the lode contains. This work is gradually increasing in quantity, as though there is a great deal of good ground in sight which will last for quite a while, the future must be provided for. President W. A. Paine is expected here before long and it is possible that then the exploration of this lode and some of the others may be begun. There is no reason why the tonnage cannot be increased, and from this lode, No. 2 of the South lodes of the South Lake, which is now being mined.

New Baltic.

New Baltic is down with the diamond drill in the third hole 721 feet and will have to go about 275 feet more to reach No. 8 conglomerate. A part of the core of the lode passed through from 48 inches to 485 feet in depth has been examined by the writer and it is very striking in its richness. There was seven feet of commercial copper, two of which were of the phenomenal grades.

Centennial.

Centennial, which is pushing out its lowest levels beyond the South Kearsarge and under the Wolverine, and which has some of them well over onwards to the boundary line, is averaging very good in quantity and quality. No. 2 shaft, which commands this territory, has been for some time bottomed at the twenty-eighth level and the twenty-seventh level is quite a long ways in and has been meeting with the average ground. No. 1 has been brought down to the thirty-seventh so that it can care for the men and timber as in the past. Some mining men believe—and these are men familiar with the mine—that there is yet much paying ground at No. 1 shaft that will later be explored—probably after the exploration of South Kearsarge and Wolverine and Wolverine shoot is ended. There is as yet no announcement of any change in the policy of continuing the gradual development of the good shoot with sufficient stoping to pay expenses and carry a small surplus.

Wolverine & Arizona.

Wolverine & Arizona has just been visited by President John Daniel of Laurium and Secretary Charles Chynoweth of Houghton and they have decided to explore the northern portion of the property where it is mountainous and difficult to carry on mining operations by means of a tunnel on the eastern end from the Calumet & Arizona workings and another towards the western end from the Shattuck, permission and also the use of air and water having been granted by these companies. There are good indications in this new territory, and it is hoped that good ground will be found as present workings are getting somewhat near to the boundaries of the Shattuck. The treasury is in excellent condition, there being $125,000 on hand.

RIVER IS LOWER; WORST IS PASSED

Cloquet, Minn., April 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The worst danger from the flooded condition of the St. Louis river here is believed passed. The river is reported to be about two inches lower today and it is believed it will continue to fall. The D. & N. E. bridge, about which fears were entertained, is safe, although every precaution is being taken to keep it from being swept away.

The water back of the dam in the Cloquet river, above here, is reported very high, about thirty feet, but it is believed the barrier is safe and the possibility of further danger obviated.

None of the local mills excepting the paper mill are running today, but if the water continues to fall some of them may start up Monday.

Dunlap island has been more or less menaced by high water and some families have moved to places of safety.

WILL SELECT DELEGATES

Temple Congregation Will Send Representatives to Jewish Congress.

Following special passover services at Temple Emanuel tomorrow evening, the congregation will hold a business meeting for the purpose of selecting two delegates to the Duluth branch of the American Jewish congress, which will hold its first formal session on April 30.

In place of the sermon, Dr. Maurice Lefkovits will give a short talk on the the purposes of the American congress and the progress of the organization up to the present time.

The passover services will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

WEATHER OUTLOOK IS NOT PROPITIOUS

Easter Week Will Be Cold and Unsettled, Says Washington Bureau.

Washington, April 22.—Easter week will be cold and unsettled over the northern part of the country with probably local snows in the Northwest, but in the South and on the Pacific coast normal temperatures and fair weather will prevail. The weather bureau today in its forecast for the week beginning tomorrow said:

The pressure distribution over the American continent and adjacent oceans is such as to indicate cool weather during the week in all Northern states, the plains states, the Rocky mountains and plateau regions and the Ohio valley and normal temperatures in the Southern and Pacific states.

Cool Wave Coming.

The change to cooler will be pronounced over the Northwestern states by the middle of the week and it is probable that this cool wave will be attended by general frosts the latter part of the week over the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio and upper Mississippi valleys, the Northern plains states and the Rocky mountain region.

There will be unsettled weather at the beginning of the week along the Northern border from the Great Lakes eastward and it is probable that a disturbance will develop over the far west Tuesday or Wednesday, advancing to the Middle West Thursday or Friday and to the Eastern states near the end of the week. This disturbance will be attended by general precipitation, with some probability of local snows in the Northwest.

Except for the period of unsettled weather and precipitation attending this disturbance and the unsettled weather at the beginning of the week along the Northern border, the weather will be generally fair during the week.

HOW WILL THE GERMAN SITUATION AFFECT THE STOCK MARKETS

is the question asked on every side. In figuring out the answer one man's guess is as good as another, but the facts must be taken into consideration that copper metal is the highest it has been in 50 years; spelter the highest in history, steel trade booming, railroads making enormous earnings besides great profits and wages coming from war orders, therefore fundamental conditions are very solid and even if a break with Germany came, it looks like the market would eventually go higher, as the suspense would be out of the way and in all probabilities war orders by this government increased, wages raised, employment furnished and a general era of increased prosperity would be in order, while if the kaiser backs down, we would be no worse off than we are and stocks would rally back up again; therefore while we may have a temporary break in stocks when Berlin delivers its answer, we would advise buying on the break and taking profits on the rally that seems bound to come. BUTTE-SUPERIOR, Anaconda, Copper Range, Steel common, Greene-Cananaea and Shattuck should all show a good 5 to 10 point profit on any further break and we can buy these stocks for cash or on margin at Boston quotations.

BIDS ON NEW RESIDENCES

Several Contracts Will Be Awarded During Coming Week.

Building Figures for April Have Passed the $500,000 Mark.

Several expensive residences will be built in the newer districts this season, and work upon at least six is likely to be begun at once.

The bids upon the proposed G. W. Morgan residence at Fifth street and Twenty-seventh avenue east will be opened next Wednesday at the office of Arthur N. Starin, architect. The plans for the A. B. Siewert house to be built at Fourth street and Twenty-seventh avenue east, for which Mr. Starin is also the architect, are expected to be ready for figures in two weeks. Plans for the new residence of Oscar Mitchell at Fifth street and Twenty-fifth avenue east have gone out for bids from the office of Frederick W. Perkins, architect.

The extent of the repair work and new construction being undertaken in the city this spring is illustrated in the issuing of fifty-four permits during the week for improvements estimated to entail expenditures aggregating $46,535. Work authorized so far this month has reached a total of $565,000, and it is thought that figures will be augmented by a least $125,000 before the month is over. Permits have yet to be taken out for some large jobs for which the contracts have already been let, including the Boys' Y. M. C. A. building, the Hugo Manufacturing company's factory in West Duluth, and the W. C. Mitchell residence.

REAL ESTATE TRADE GOOD

Storms and Holiday Fail to Keep Down Activity.

Lynam House Sold for $14,250; Movement Is Steady All Over City.

Despite a holiday and two other days of wet weather intervening, operations in real estate reached a gratifying aggregate during the last week. A number of sales of houses were put through and several building lots were sold for improvement during the present season.

An interesting development of the week was the sale of the Dr. Frank Lynam house at No. 2502 East Second street to Neva W. Griggs at a consideration of $14,250. The transaction was effected through the office of Stryker, Manley & Buck.

Negotiations were also reported in progress covering further prospective sales in the high class residential districts.

As attesting the springing up of investment interest on a substantial scale, the sale of a block of 42 lots, located on Nashua and Lexington streets and Sixty-first avenue, West Duluth, to an outside investor was reported by the Richardson, Day & Cheadle company. That office besides sold to H. J. Thorpe three lots on Olney street; and to S. Anderson two lots on Forest avenue, and earnest money was taken on the sale of a five-acre tract at Lakewood and 2½ acres on the Congdon boulevard near Lakewood.

• • •

The Hoopes-Kohagen company sold five lots in the Park Drive division and lots at Hunters Park and in the West end for improvement.

• • •

C. L. Rakowsky & Co. advised the receipt of earnest money on three sales as follows: House No. 711 Twenty-third avenue east at $2,750; a house and lot on East Fourth street at $800, and a house and lot in Fond du Lac at $1,300. A timber tract was sold in the northern part of St. Louis county at $1,750.

• • •

The Little & Nolte company sold for Robert Kenmore to G. Johnson, three lots on Forty-seventh avenue east at $700.

• • •

"Surprising inquiry is coming for moderate-priced houses in all parts of the city and in that line we have a number of deals on that are likely to go through at any time," said W. C. Sargent. He also advised the receipt of several applications for farm loans by the Northern Farm Loan company, of which he is the president and manager. That company is endeavoring to afford assistance to farmers in this district in enabling them erect buildings and make improvements on their holdings.

• • •

A. W. Kuehnow, president of the Gary Land company, advised that a start was made this week upon six additional houses in Gary-Duluth. A concerted effort is being made by holders of property there to alleviate the shortage of housing accommodation in the steel plant district. Eight lots were sold by the company during the last three days to buyers from the southern part of the state.

• • •

The Western Realty company reported the sale of house and lot No. 2627 West Sixth street, for Anker Anderson and Andrew Carlson to James A. Yuill, at a consideration of $2,800; also two lots in Harrison's Brookdale division to Ernest S. Anderson at a consideration of $550. It also received earnest money on six lots in Harrison's Brookdale division.

• • •

The A. A. Fider company noted a good demand for homes and building lots on the Central Hillside near the East Ninth street car line. It sold two lots on the upper side of Ninth street between Ninth and Tenth avenues east, to Ernest Pearson for $2,000, and a lot in the same block on Ninth avenue to Julius Larson for $800. The buyers will each build modern houses at once. Two lots on Seventh street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues east, were sold to Swan Nelson, at $1,000. house No. 1409 East Eleventh street and two lots, from Henry M. Hagen to George Hale, and house No. 17 West Fifth street, from Edward McCue to John C. Neipp at $2,700.

Mr. O'Connor, manager of the company's West end department, reported a good inquiry for medium priced houses and lots on the payment plan.

BRITAIN OFFERS SPAIN TANGIER, GENEVA REPORT

Berlin, April 22, via wireless to Sayville.—"According to reports from Geneva," says the Overseas News agency, "Great Britain has offered to Spain possession of Tangier if Spain will seize the German ships in Spanish ports and will consent to the closing of the straits of Gibraltar to all neutral ships except those flying the Spanish flag."

TRADES TO BE SEGREGATED

Lower Broadway, New York, Being Deserted for Upper Fifth Avenue.

J. M. Gidding Reported to Be Active in Working Out Plan.

The desertion of lower Broadway by manufacturers and business houses and the invasion of the upper Fifth avenue district by clothing and cloakmakers has been a problem facing New York real estate interests during the last few years.

This situation has now been relieved by the reaching of an agreement to segregate trades in certain districts. Almost 400 of the leading houses in the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' association have agreed to remove their places of business and factories to lower Broadway. J. M. Gidding of Duluth, whose New York store is situated on upper Fifth avenue, is reported to have taken a prominent part in these negotiations, which have now been brought to a successful issue.

Commenting upon the improvement that is likely to result from this agreement, the Wall Street Journal says: "Further proofs are evident of the awakening of the real estate situation. That large sums of money are seeking realty investment is shown in several ways. There is increasing interest in real estate legislation. There is public appreciation to an unusual decree of the vital importance of many matters hitherto supposed to be themes merely of legal aspect or of civic reform.

"The greatest force for good in realty at present is the concentrated movement embracing a planning for the whole city. This assumes three forms. Speaking generally, there is to be a zone system, a restriction which is to differentiate between residential and business districts and a districting that will prevent the distribution of various trades in a sporadic fashion. Between thirty and forty business, real estate, taxpayers and civic organizations and associations approve the plan.

"With restrictions above Thirty-third street, with rehabilitation below that, and with adjustments on the lower West side, leading real estate men feel that a large boom in realty for the next few years may be expected. The value of realty in the section from Thirty-third to Fourteenth streets has declined from 25 to 40 per cent. Below Fourteenth to Chambers streets loss has been from 40 to almost 75 per cent. Already, with the assurance of the return of manufacturing interests of retail trades, there is a quickening of values apparent. With certainty of stability, owners are finding encouragement for building operations and the removal and renewal of present properties so as to furnish structures with modern requirements of safety and of efficiency. Great enlargement of building under these new conditions is looked for. Lower land values in this part of the city stimulate erection of buildings on a profitable basis. Prospects are brighter than for many years in the realty field."

FARMERS OF COUNTY BUYING GOOD STOCK

Increased activity along dairying lines in the vicinity of Cook in St. Louis county is forecasted by H. G. Larson, county agricultural agent, who declares that the farmers of that locality are going in for thoroughbred cattle and are already organizing a cooperative creamery association.

Mr. Larson returned yesterday from Fort Atkinson, Wis., with John Olson, John Edblom and Oscar Magnuson, three Cook farmers who purchased a carload of high grade Holstein stock at prices ranging from $135 to $150 a head. The carload, consisting of nineteen head, will be distributed over five farms at Cook.

Mr. Larson also declared that while he was in Fort Atkinson at the Edgewater stock farm, M. R. Hingeley and John Mustonen of Floodwood purchased a car of high grade stock for their farms. This is the third car to be shipped to the Floodwood district from Fort Atkinson this season.

The program for the sixteenth annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club, to be held Thursday evening at the Moose hall, was announced last night at the meeting of the committee held at the clubrooms. The program was outlined and will be carried out, with the possible exception of the final address given by Congressman Clarence B. Miller. A communication from Mr. Miller received by L. A. Barnes, chairman of the speakers' committee, said that while Mr. Miller was hoping to come to the city, it was doubtful if he would be able to get away.

An outline of the day's program for the entertainment of Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, who will be an all-day guest of the club, was made. The governor will arrive at the Union depot over the Great Northern at 8:15 o'clock. The reception committee will meet him and have breakfast with him at the Duluth Commercial club.

During the forenoon the governor and members of the committee will visit the Robert E. Denfeld high school and the Irving junior high school, where the governor will speak. Luncheon will then be held at noon at one of the West Duluth hotels.

During the afternoon the party will visit the Minnesota Steel company's plant and the Universal Cement plant. A special train has been offered the party by W. A. McGonagle, president of the D., M. & N. railroad, to take the party to the plant. This train will leave the Duluth union depot at 1 o'clock sharp and will return to Duluth at 5 o'clock. The party will include President McGonagle, Governor Burnquist, Mayor Prince, Senator Charles E. Adams, L. A. Barnes, M. M. Forbes, E. J. Zauft, C. M. Brooks, N. F. Nelson, Andrew Myles, P. H. Martin, Thomas Olafson, E. G. Kriedler and David Sang.

The supper will be served at 7 o'clock sharp. The club rooms of the Moose lodge have been leased for the evening. Arrangements have been made to entertain about 350 guests.

TO TRANSFER POLLING PLACE.

City Will Be Asked to Move Booth to Morgan Park.

City commissioners will be asked to transfer the polling booth of the Forty-first district to Morgan Park for the next election. The matter will be taken up with the commissioners by John M. Davidson, manager of the Morgan Park property of the Minnesota Steel company.

The contention of the people of Morgan Park is that more than 200 voters of this precinct reside in the park, while there are not more than thirty or forty voters living outside of that suburb. The polling booth has formerly been situated at Smithville.

It is contended that the greatest number of citizens will be served if the booth is moved as requested. It is probable that a petition may be circulated among the residents asking for this change if a favorable answer is not given by the commission on this request.

COMMITTEES NAMED.

New Duluth Commercial Club Prepares for Banquet in May.

Damkroeger, president of the New Duluth Commercial club, this morning announced the names of members of the club who will have charge of the banquet of the club to be held the latter part of next month. CAR CRASHES INTO DANGER SIGNALS

Slibe Hodges and Friends Have Narrow Escape From Injury.

A jitney bus, on a pleasure trip last night, crashed into danger signals surrounding street repair work at Superior street, between First and Second avenues west.

"This is not a jitney tonight," said Slibe Hodges, 23, of 8 North Twenty-eighth avenue west, when Patrolman Frank Kreager arrested him for reckless driving.

The machine was halted just before it reached the hole in the pavement, so Hodges and his friends escaped serious injury by a narrow margin. The patrolman said that the car was not speeding, but that Hodges was looking over his shoulder, talking to people in the rear seat, and that he did not see the red lights.

Hodges was released on $20 bail furnished by A. A. Sellers, who police said was a member of the Duluth Jitney association. This morning he pleaded not guilty to a reckless driving charge. He will be tried Monday.

SOLON SPRINGS, HISTORICAL RESORT

The little village of Solon Springs, that has proved to be such a popular summer resort with many of the residents of the Head of the Lakes, was first named White Birch but later changed to its present name in deference to Thomas F. Solon, who was the first to exploit the little village and the head waters that surround it. Two hundred and fifty cottages, which are occupied during the summer season by about 3,000 people, have placed Solon Springs in the front rank of summer resort towns in the Northwest. This well-known village was first discovered by Le Seur and Grosseilliieurs, two early French explorers, who were on their way to the Head of the Lakes. The old St. Croix trail, which leads through Solon Springs, was the first means of transportation that was provided into this territory. Besides the unusual advantages it possesses for a delightful summer home, the fishermen also can find well-filled lakes that are stocked with pike, bass, perch and muskellunge. It is only two miles from the Brule, known the country over as a famous trout stream.

THE MOST PERFECT FLAT BUILDING IN THE CITY

The above building, just completed on Second street near Fifth avenue east, has been pronounced by critics as being one of the best examples of a two-flat building ever constructed in the city of Duluth. The exterior of the design has been carried out in what is known as the Spanish mission. This was done to give the building the certain degree of individuality it possesses. The site on which it stands was taken very carefully into consideration at the time preliminary sketches were being made. If one were to visit the site they would find a magnificent view of the lake, a view that would aid materially to the renting possibilities of the building, if the same was taken advantage of. Realizing this the architects were confronted with one of the most difficult problems of the profession by the way of attaining a view from both the front and rear of the building without passing through any long dark passage or corridor connecting the main rooms. You will notice upon close examination of the plan that one enters directly into the living room from the vestibule which opens from the street. Upon entering the living room the visitor will be confronted with a magnificent view of the entire harbor through the glass doors of the sun-parlor which overlooks this portion of the site. Special attention is called to the compact arrangement of the plan. There are no dark halls, the one little service hall on the west side of the building which is a connecting link of the bed rooms, bathroom and kitchen and dining room is the feature original of this firm of architects. It has been introduced in a number of our buildings and has been a main feature in bringing about a higher rental value in the building. The basement is provided with two separate laundries, store rooms and boiler rooms.

CIVILIANS' CRUISE TO BE MORE POPULAR

Restrictions for Applicants Are Made Less Stringent.

As another step in the preparedness program for the United States navy, the department has ordered that the qualifications for the civilians' naval cruise be broadened. While the same high standard for membership is required, the field has been broadened so as to include men having experience in other lines than those specified in the first order.

The recruits must be between 19 and 45 years of age, citizens of the United States, and be in good standing and vouched for by at least two reputable citizens whose standings are known to the recruiting officer. A physical examination must be passed also.

According to Recruiting Officer E. A. Nippa, the cruise will begin Aug. 15, 1916, and continue until Sept. 12. The course of training is to be given on board reserve battleships. Civilians will be recruited by naval districts and the ships will be allotted according to the number of recruits accepted in each district.

If the applicant has had any experience in the army or navy, the service must have been honorable if the applicant is accepted. Following is a complete list of the classes applicants must qualify in:

Undergraduate of a college, university, or technical school.

Graduate of a college, university or technical school.

Demonstrate to the satisfaction of the recruiting officer sufficient knowledge of maritime matters or experience with water craft, to warrant enrollment.

Pilot or pilot apprentice.

Service on any merchant vessel (including fishing vessel) in any capacity for six months or more.

Six months experience, or its equivalent, in one of the following trades: machinist, boilermaker, plumber, shipfitter, coppersmith, carpenter, electrician, engineer, fireman, telegrapher, radio operator.

A high school education and following a trade or occupation where experience gained would be beneficial to the government in time of need.

J. M. Bishop, president of the Safety Bracket company of this city, has a letter from the labor commissioner of New York stating that the device has the approval of the Empire state commission.

Local trapshooters have organized a gun club. J. H. McKinney was elected president; W. W. Prichard, Jr., secretary, and C. A. Nason, field captain. Sixteen members have already signed up and the club gives promise of being a live one from the start.

The Commercial club will celebrate the first anniversary of its location in furnished quarters in the Citizens State bank building on May 3 with a dinner to all club members and their invited guests. An invitation has been sent ex-Governor Eberhart, who has accepted, and other outside speakers will probably be present.

GOING TO BOLIVIA.

Duluthian Will Explore for Gold and Tungsten.

Emil Nyberg of Duluth, vice president of the Bolivia Gold Exploration company, accompanied by Prof. George W. Schneider, a prominent mining engineer of Denver, will leave next week on an inspection trip to that company's placer gold holdings in Bolivia.

It is Mr. Nyberg's intention to make quite a long stay in Bolivia. As is well known, Bolivia is rich in minerals of every description, but particularly in gold, tin, copper and tungsten, and Mr. Nyberg and Prof. Schneider propose to begin a systematic exploration of some large tungsten fields situated a short distance from their placer diggings, with a view to acquire locations for themselves and associates in Duluth. The country in the immediate vicinity of Tipuani is rich in rubber and oil and other products.

ORE DOCK ISSUES BIG ORDER FOR MEN

Employment Office Hires 100; Labor Shortage Is Expected.

Fully 100 men were hired in Duluth today to work at the Missabe ore docks. Dock officials sent word to Manager Burke of the Minnesota State Free Employment bureau this morning to send them all the men he could get, and he began filling the order at once. The waiting room was well filled, and many men who have been waiting for spring work to open, secured jobs.

The men will be well paid this spring and summer. Between now and May 1 the wages for common labor will be $2.15 and after May 1, the wages will be $2.40 and up.

There was no difficulty in getting men this morning, but a real labor stringency is expected as soon as spring work opens in earnest and other corporations begin to put in big orders for men. Only a few men are unemployed now, and these have been out of work only a few days, having come in from the woods.

Mrs. Agnes L. Atwood of the women's department of the state employment bureau says that the demand for domestic help is keen, and that girls are scarce.

Spring house cleaning will require many women workers and many families are unable to secure permanent domestic help.

SNOWS AND FLOODS KEEP BACK SETTLERS

No Applications for Entry Made for Land Opening April 26.

The heavy snows and recent rains have put a damper on prospective settlers in Northern Minnesota. Few inquiries have been made regarding the large tracts of government lands which will be opened for entry at the Duluth land office April 26. So far no applications for entry have been made.

The snows have been the heaviest in many years and the recent rains and warm weather have caused high water and floods, making early settlement impossible, officials say.

It is expected that many who had planned to make entry will do so later in the spring or in the summer, after they have had a good opportunity of looking over the land and decided where they wish to settle.

AMERICA TO OPEN SEASON SUNDAY

Will Relieve Winter Hibernation of North Shore Residents.

The steamer America, which has served the north shore for many years, will open her 1916 season tomorrow, leaving Duluth at 10 o'clock in the morning for all north shore points as far as Port Arthur, and also calling at Isle Royale points.

She will be the first steamer carrying both freight and passengers to leave this port this year—which is the usual case. To hundreds of people who make their homes along the north shore, the coming of the America on her first trip in the spring means a renewal of communication with civilization and the outside world.

The America is taking on a cargo of freight for delivery at the different points to be reached, and there is a good booking of passengers for the up-trip. The steamer will bring quite a number from the Port Arthur end of the route and from all of the settlements intermediate. The fishermen will be brought down from Isle Royale and other points, and from then on the passenger, freight and fish business of the north shore will go on with a rush.

The America will return to Duluth on Tuesday morning at about 9 o'clock. She will make three trips a week up the north shore and one trip down the south shore as far as Cornucopia, leaving for this trip on each Tuesday morning. The south shore trips will begin on the coming Tuesday.

SCOOP THE CUB REPORTER — Happy Easter Greetings---Scoop Will Be There — By "HOP"

MAN WHO "STOLE A SALOON" REARRESTED

Anthony J. Henricksen, the man who "stole a saloon" about a year ago, landed in the police net again early this morning, when Sergt. John Hunter saw him walking along Superior street near Garfield avenue about 3 o'clock.

It ended a week's search in Duluth and Superior for Henricksen, who has been wanted by police almost since he left the work farm, after serving five months for "stealing" the Oasis saloon, Fourth avenue west between Superior and First streets.

This time, according to police, Henricksen is wanted for forging several checks.

When arraigned before Judge W. H Smallwood today, Henricksen asked to be examined on a charge of second degree forgery and was held without bail. He will be given a preliminary hearing April 24.

The complaint says that he forged the name of Marius Henricksen, a Superior street jeweler, to a check for $10, which he cashed with Peder Paulsen, 523½ West Superior street. Other worthless paper, also passed by him, has been found, according to police.

Henricksen is an old offender. He has been under arrest here a number of times, for larceny or forgery, and also has been in jail in Minneapolis and St. Paul. The last offense was when he gave Gust Carlson, proprietor of the Oasis saloon, a worthless check as first payment on the drink emporium, which he "purchased."

He walks with a crutch, and it was because of this that he was noticed this morning, but a few hours after he returned from Superior, where he has been in hiding, according to police.

MAKE DAYLIGHT RAID.

Police Arrest Four in Visit to Alleged Disorderly House.

One more alleged disorderly house was cleaned out by detectives this morning when they made a daylight raid on 120 Second avenue west and arrested four persons.

Charles A. Edge, 28, alias "Red" Edge, said to be well known in Duluth's colored colony, was with Irene Bishop, 25; Violet Jones, 26, and Carrie Davis, 24, all colored.

The Jones woman was arrested at a Lake avenue dock as she stepped from a Booth line boat last fall, and held by custom house officers as an opium smuggler.

After a long investigation, she was convicted of smuggling the drug from Port Arthur to Duluth, and was sentenced to serve sixty days in jail. Altogether, counting the time she was held pending trial, she served nearly five months, according to authorities.

Although no opium was found in the place when Detectives Barber and Roberg made the raid, they believed the place was being conducted as a "joint."

Edge and the Bishop woman will be held until Monday on a disorderly conduct charge. The other two are charged with vagrancy, and also will be tried Monday.

HARDLY WORTH IT.

John Benson Gets Thirty Days for Valueless Loot.

"He that is robb'd, not wanting what is stolen, Let him not know't, and he's not robb'd at all."
Othello, Act III, Scene 3.

"It wasn't much good, but he stole it all right," explained John Benson, who was minus an electric flashlight today because of William Eckholm's light fingers.

Eckholm was arrested in the West end late last night by Sergt. John Hunter. He wore a "borrowed" mackinaw, which he had taken from a West Superior street saloon, and in his pocket was Benson's flashlight.

The mackinaw also was badly frayed, but the fact remained that he had stolen it.

Two larceny charges were made against him when he was arraigned in municipal court, and Judge Smallwood sentenced him to thirty days at the work farm on each count.

CAN'T HANDLE IT.

George Maxwell Is Willing to Vote Whole State "Dry."

"I have very poor and unhappy brains for drinking. I could wish courtesy would invent some other custom of entertainment."
—Othello, Act II, Scene 3.

George Maxwell, 30, is an advocate of prohibition. If he ever has an opportunity, he will vote "dry," but he wants the entire state to banish saloons.

Maxwell has had difficulty with saloons in the Twin Cities, and after various offenses, he was sent to Willmar, Minn., for a course of treatment at the state "jag" farm.

After some time he was given a furlough and ordered to report back at the institution within a certain length of time.

"It is the customary thing to do," he explained to Duluth police yesterday, when he was brought in, much the worse for wear.

Police were unable to learn whether it was "customary" to drink too much, or what.

Judge Cutting sentenced him to seven days at the work farm, with a promise to make it much more severe if the offense were repeated.

GOT INTO WRONG "PEW."

Doorway to Police Station No Place for Lodgers.

The next time John Durand, 40, "bull cook," picks out a doorway in which to sleep, he will be sure it is not the entrance to the police headquarters.

Sheltered from the driving sleet and snow, Durand huddled into a corner against the headquarters' front door last night and settled himself for a long snooze. It had been a long, stormy evening, and the Durand craft had nearly wrecked itself upon scores of friendly bars.

About the time he began to snore, Patrolman Fred Dinkle started out the door and fell sprawling onto the sidewalk as he tumbled over the sleeper's body.

In police court today the "bull cook" was fined $5 and costs for drunkenness.

HAS FLED TO CANADA.

Kenwood Resident Feared to Face Charge of Beating Horse.

Rather than face a charge of cruelty to animals, which has been hanging over his head since late in March, Joe Jakubelak has fled to Canada.

When the case of State vs. Jakubelak was called before Judge W. H. Smallwood in municipal court today Humane Agent John G. Ross, appearing for the prosecution, said that Jakubelak had disappeared, and that he had learned that he had gone to Canada.

Late in March Jakubelak was arrested. Agent Ross found a horse in a barn in Kenwood, where the defendant had been working, that was dying from the effects of beating alleged to have been administered by Jakubelak.

He found a long club that had been used, he said, and also learned that the man had used a shovel in beating the animal, which had to be shot.

"It was one of the worst cases of cruelty called to the attention of the society in a long time," Mr. Ross said, "and we were determined to prosecute Jakubelak to the full extent of the law."

WILL ENFORCE HOTEL ACT MAY 1

Enforcement of the new hotel ordinance will begin on May 1, Commissioner Silberstein, safety head, announced this morning.

Although the measure became effective three weeks ago, Commissioner Silberstein instructed the police not to make any arrests until the hotel owners had an opportunity to make application for licenses. About sixty licenses have already been granted, while thirty more will be authorized at the council meeting next Monday.

Within a few days the safety head will issue orders to the police to arrest all hotel owners without licenses after May 1.

In addition, the police and health officers will be instructed to watch the hotel for health or police violations, which will result in the revocation of the licenses.

WOULD HAVE BOOK IN GERMAN PRINT

Duluthian Asks Immigration Commissioner to Advertise State to Countrymen.

According to M. Binheim, editor of the German Press and secretary to the German-American Press association, the state of Minnesota is in need of a booklet printed in the German language and describing the land of opportunity for agriculture, horticulture, livestock, mining, manufacturing and everything that attracts the immigrant.

"There are many prosperous farmers living in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and other states who would be willing to come to Minnesota," said Mr. Binheim this morning if they would know more about our opportunities. Many of them are German-Americans and they prefer to read everything in their native tongue. A booklet as we contemplate to issue one in the near future, will do very much good in this direction."

Mr. Binheim had taken the matter up with the state immigration board several weeks ago and is now collecting facts and figures about each of Minnesota's eighty-six counties. He has requested Mr. Fred C. Sherman, state commissioner, to write an introduction to the book and the commissioner has consented to do so. The booklet will be well illustrated and contains a map and will appear in the form of a homeseeker's guide in the German language. It will give the settler an idea of the differences of the various parts of the state and then turn to the direction of that group of counties which seem to attract him most.

VILLA, SLIGHTLY WOUNDED BUT NOT INCAPACITATED, MOVES TO MOUNTAINS IN PARRAL REGION

GEN. FUNSTON HAS RELIABLE INFORMATION

Bandit Last Reported Seen at Nonoava, Eighty-Five Miles From Satevo.

Redisposition of American Forces Is Now in Large Measure Completed.

American Punitive Expedition Now Ready to Meet Any Eventuality.

VILLA COMING NORTH TO ATTACK AMERICANS.

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—According to Mexicans arriving here from the interior today reports have been spread that Villa is coming north with the object of attacking the American forces. They say the bandit now has some 300 followers and will be joined later by Pedro Bracamonte of the Torreon district, who has 1,500 men, and Gen. Banuelo, whose command numbers 1,000 men.

San Antonio, Tex., April 24.—Francisco Villa, slightly wounded, but not incapacitated, was today reported to have moved into the mountainous region northwest of Parral. This information, which has reached Gen. Funston, is from a source that causes him to regard it as authentic. Villa was last reported seen at Nonoava, about eighty-five miles by trail southwest of Satevo, where the most advanced of Gen. Pershing's forces were yesterday.

Although convinced that Villa has been located his immediate pursuit probably will not be resumed. To follow him into the mountains of that region with small detachments, either of infantry or cavalry, is regarded as impracticable. The troops that have been moving for the last few days towards Columbus, are entering Mexico about as soon as they arrive at the border base and it is expected that the entire 2,300 will be along the line of communication within a day or two.

FLOOD WASHES OUT RAILROAD

Three Hundred Feet of Burlington at East Winona Carried Away.

Great Sea Hurled Over Thousands of Acres of Land in Wisconsin.

La Crosse, Wis., April 24.—Three hundred feet of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad at East Winona was carried away by the rise of the Mississippi river Sunday and a great sea was hurled upon thousands of acres of land and farm houses on the Wisconsin side of the river.

The Burlington embankment has been the only protection of a large district of country side since the rise of the river nearly a month ago. The constant beating of the river against it finally wore it away, and on Sunday a gap of sixty feet was smashed in the levee and the river fell upon the lowlands which had been sheltered by it. At the point of the break the river was twelve feet above the level of the land beyond the embankment and the flood poured through with tremendous force. The gap was steadily widened until today it was fully 300 feet across.

Army Men at Work.

Pile drivers were rushed to the scene as rapidly as possible from the Burlington and Great Northern roads and an army of men is at work today trying to prevent the spread of the break and Frankly concerned about the outcome of President Wilson's latest note to Germany and expressing a hope that definite action should be forthcoming in the Mexican embroglio, William Howard Taft, private citizen, was grave this morning when he discussed national issues now pending.

"It's no time for politics," he said. "I fancy I'm just like every other average citizen—every other American. I want to see the honor of the United States upheld as it should be upheld, and I believe that now is the time to stand firmly behind President Wilson.

TO EXECUTE LOPEZ AT CHIHUAHUA CITY.

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—Public execution in the plaza at Chihuahua City is to end the career of Pablo Lopez, the Villa bandit captured Saturday near Santa Ysabel, according to passengers arriving here from Chihuahua. A similar fate awaits the three men taken with Lopez.

ASKS FOR AN EARLY REPLY

Carranza Anxious to Know What United States Intends to Do.

State Department Officials Decline to Discuss the Matter.

Washington, April 24.—Gen. Carranza has asked for an early reply to his note of April 12 suggesting that American troops be recalled from Mexico. This was learned officially today in connection with the fact that Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican ambassador-designate, sought an interview with Secretary Lansing. State department officials declined to discuss the matter.

The Mexican embassy stated that the request had not been transmitted through Mr. Arredondo so far as known there. It is understood to have been made directly by Gen. Carranza through Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City. A reply also would be sent through Mr. Rodgers.

Confirmation of the capture by Carranza troops of Pablo Lopez, Villa's chief lieutenant, reached the state department today from Consul Letcher at Chihuahua. The message said Lopez was being held in jail there until American officials or army officers could talk to him and satisfy themselves of his identity.

CRUISER PROCEEDS ON VOYAGE NORTHWARD

Lima, Peru, April 24.—The United States cruiser Tennessee proceeded on its voyage northward last night, bearing the American members of the international high commission. The Peruvian government gave out a statement explaining why none of the party except William C. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, visited Lima yesterday, although an elaborate celebration had been arranged. During his brief stay ashore, Mr. McAdoo visited several points of interest in the city.

A Lima dispatch last night said reports of bubonic plague in that city had deterred the Americans from going ashore.

Germans Repulse French Attacks Near Thiaumont Farm.

Paris, April 24, 12:01 p. m.—French troops made progress last night on the Verdun front northwest of Caurettes wood, the war office announced this afternoon. They attacked with hand grenades and took thirty prisoners, one an officer. Several German reconnoitering parties were dispersed southeast of Haucourt. There was rather heavy bombardment at Dead Man's hill. East of the Meuse the night was comparatively calm.

German Statement.

Berlin, April 24, via London, 4 p. m. French attacks on the German lines in several sectors of the Verdun region have been repulsed, the war office announced today. The chief French effort was directed against the vicinity of Thiaumont farm, but it broke down in front of the German trenches.

Omaha, Neb., April 24.—Returns from last Tuesday's primary for presidential candidates in hand early today gave Henry Ford a lead over A. B. Cummins of 97 votes. This vote represents 60 counties complete and 75 scattering precincts.

It has developed that the delegates from the Second congressional district (Omaha) will go to the convention instructed to support Charles E. Hughes. At least ten other delegates elected are said personally to favor Hughes.

PRESIDENT WATCHES CHILDREN ROLL EGGS

Washington, April 24.—President Wilson went to the south portico of the White House and watched the children rolling eggs and playing in the White House grounds in the annual egg rolling contest early today. He was greeted with applause. Lilies of the valley and other flowers grown for White House use during Easter week were sent to hospitals.

FOOD TOO GOOD, PLACE TOO CLEAN; MAN DIES.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 24.—Starving because he was given wholesome food and disheartened because he was in a place of cleanliness, Ferdinand Nurnburg, 42, a cave man, who was arrested for vagrancy last Thursday, died today at the house of correction, where he had been sent for ninety days.

The man's stomach, according to attendants at the house of correction, could not digest the food given him.

Nurnburg declared that he could not eat a roll with butter on it, and because he could not retain the food provided a modified form of starvation set in which caused his death.

CONCESSIONS TO BE MADE THIS COUNTRY ON SUBMARINE ISSUE

Whether They Will Be Sufficiently Broad to Meet American Demands Is Not Yet Apparent.

Germans Confronted With Finding Way to Please U. S. Without Antagonizing Relentless Element.

Washington, April 24.—Confidential dispatches from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin indicate that Germany will make certain concessions to the United States in response to the note demanding the immediate abandonment of present methods of submarine warfare.

Whether the concessions will be sufficiently broad to meet the American demands appears uncertain. However, officials reflected an air of hopefulness for an amicable settlement of the issue.

It is understood Ambassador Gerard has received broad intimations that the German government will go to great lengths to preserve friendly relations with the United States. He is understood to have gained his impressions from officials of the Berlin foreign office, including Foreign Minister Von Jagow.

The German government is confronted with finding a way to satisfy the United States without arousing the element which insists upon a relentless submarine campaign.

Mr. Gerard's dispatches are of a highly confidential nature and were received during the night.

An accurate forecast of Germany's response to America's demands in the submarine controversy is expected from Ambassador Gerard within the next thirty-six hours as the result of informal conferences he has had with the Berlin foreign office officials.

The reply itself, it is believed, will be presented to the ambassador by Wednesday or Thursday at the latest and be laid before President Wilson by Saturday. This belief was further strengthened by the receipt of unofficial advices from Berlin indicating that the German government had decided upon its reply to the American note. It was added, however, that the nature of the forthcoming communication was known only to the highest officials.

Germans Reach Decision.

Berlin, April 24.—The imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethman-Hollweg, returned to Berlin yesterday afternoon, which would seem to justify the assumption that the empire's responsible leaders at grand headquarters have finished consideration of the American note and reached a decision concerning Germany's reply. What this reply will be naturally is unknown to any but the highest officials.

The chancellor's return, it is understood, was not expected until Tuesday, since a general discussion appears to have been reached earlier than looked for. There is no intimation of when the reply will be formulated, but there seems to be much significance in the fact that the Lokal Anzieger, which

PITTSBURGH SHERIFFS USE CLUBS ON MOB

Deputies Succeed in Getting Between 2,000 and 3,000 Men Into Plants.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 24.—Deputy sheriffs, guarding the plant of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company at East Pittsburgh, where 13,000 men are on strike, used their clubs today to force a way through crowds of striking pickets for workmen trying to enter the shops. The principal fighting was at a bridge, where the pickets linked hands across the street along which the workmen passed. There was much disorder before the deputies were called, but it was said that between 2,000 and 3,000 men succeeded in getting inside the works.

Seventy-six metal manufacturing companies whose plants are located in Pittsburgh and vicinity announced they would not reduce the working hours in their respective shops.

The companies, said to employ a total of almost 100,000 men, considered the eight-hour question last week after the employes of a number of shops had demanded an eight-hour day and it had become known that other demands were in preparation.

Washington, April 24.—William F. Fred B. Lynch, national committeeman from Minnesota, is expected to succeed Mr. McCombs and conduct the campaign.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Again there is a comparative lull in the Verdun battle, the infantry on both sides remaining generally inactive. The French have been nibbling away at the German line, just west of the Meuse, and report making further progress in a hand grenade attack northwest of the Caurettes wood.

Apparently there is soon to be a resumption of the heavy fighting in the Dead Man's Hill region, for a heavy bombardment is in progress there.

The important English port of Dover has again been visited by hostile aircraft. London reports that an aeroplane appeared over the city this morning, but was driven off by ten anti-aircraft guns and dropped no bombs.

Berlin reports the failure of French attacks in several of the Verdun sectors. The French efforts were put forth northwest of the Avocourt wood region and near Dead Man's Hill, west of the Meuse and in the vicinity of the Thiaumont farm. The Thiaumont attack, which was launched by strong forces, broke down in front of the German lines.

An increase in the artillery fire all along the western front is reported by the German war office.

DEATH CLAIMS ONE OF FAMOUS TRIO OF CANADIAN "EMPIRE BUILDERS"

Col. A. D. Davidson of Duluth Dies at Rochester, Minn.

Was Called Greatest Colonizer in History of Canadian Railroading.

Associate of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann.

COL. A. D. DAVIDSON.

Col. A. D. Davidson, called the "discoverer" of British Columbia; a man whom Canadians rank with Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann, died at Rochester, Minn., at 9 o'clock Saturday night. He was 63 years old, having been born at Glencoe, Ont., May 18, 1853.

A prominent figure in the Northwestern states, Col. Davidson gained the title of "the greatest colonizer in the history of Canadian railroading." He lived in Duluth for many years, his home being at 1525 East Superior street, at the time of his death.

As the senior member of the firm of Davidson & McRae, Colonel Davidson became well known in Duluth and the immediatecy vicinity, but it was through his work as land commissioner for the Canadian Northern railway that he became famous through two countries.

"The man who disposed of 1,200,000 acres of land in ninety days," is the way British Columbians refer to Col. Davidson. His farseeing policy won for him the title of "nation builder," according to the Canadians, who rank him with Macdonald, Tupper and Laurier.

Hough's Eulogy.

Emerson Hough, describing the American invasion of Western Canada, said of Col. Davidson:

"Col. A. D. Davidson, handler of one of the largest transactions in raw lands ever known, was Canadian born, although he spent the most of his life in the United States and got his education in land selling in the northwestern states of that country. Western Canada waited for him, a stage ready set for Hamlet when the latter should appear. Davidson was not a melancholy Dane, but an optimistic individual, and he made no bad sort of Hamlet at the time.

"The story of his discovery is one of the greatest industrial stories of the world. Indeed, it seems a thing of fate, and Davidson himself a man appointed. He had large experience. He knew all about the soils. He was a hard-headed, unspectacular sort of man, with few personal frills and a general habit of getting results.

Narrow Horizon.

"About ten years ago the wheat horizon in Western Canada was very narrow. Farming had been tried for thirty years, and all that could be called safe wheat country was a part of Manitoba, a little Eastern Saskatchewan had lost most of its settlers. Family after family, who had come out with the old foolish English idea of becoming landed proprietors, had failed in the fight, lost all they had, and been reduced to penury. The 'course of empire' seemed to end just west of Winnipeg.

"The first railway did not bring success at once, because it could not bring wheat out of a wheatless empire, which lay hopeless and almost abandoned. All the world, backed by thirty years' experience, said that wheat could not be raised farther west than a little beyond Winnipeg. 'Is that true?' asked Davidson, 'I do not believe it.'

"It is a singular thing how, when the world needs a skeptic and a revolutionist, a scout in industry, that man, sometimes with small pomp and circumstance, usually appears. Col. Davidson, fortified by his long experience in settling Minnesota and Dakota, made a journey for himself west into Alberta, north to Edmonton, then back, and all over Saskatchewan. He went out into the country, far from railways, and took with him a spade. As he traveled continually he dug and tested and examined the soil. Presently there was issued to the world the singular statement—all heresy, of course—that the soil of the Saskatchewan valley and Western Canada generally was as rich in wheat-growing elements as any in the world. He backed up this bold declaration with another to the effect that if any considerable body of land were for sale, he stood ready to buy; and, moreover, he would settle it with men who knew how to farm.

"Not Possible."

"'Of course this cannot be possible,' said the wise men of England and Eastern Canada. 'It is impossible, or we should have known it 250 years ago. Moreover, it is impossible, because we ourselves have proved it so for thirty years.'

"No one would admit that an empire had lain hidden for two centuries. No one would believe that a plain man could in twenty minutes add a hundred million pounds to the wealth of England and the world. But in time this revolutionary truth no longer could be denied.

"Col. Davidson, who had sent thousands of settlers into the new lands of two countries, who has seen thousands of men win and lose in their fight for homes, paints a picture of the men with whom he had most of his business dealings before he returned to Canada to reside—the frontiersmen who went out from Iowa and Illinois to Minnesota and the Dakotas. Briefly, he said: 'Make your new Canadian like that.'

"Col. Davidson refers only to a type—the type which answers today to the name Canadian or American. Not in all cases was this man a product of the United States, although he may have come from that country. He might be Englishman, native American, Mennonite or Swede. He was strong of body, stronger yet of purpose. Col. Davidson ought to know; and it is the Davidson theory that, no matter what the derivation of this type, no matter from under what flag it comes, this type will win. This theory does not embrace race, origin, geography or environment. In short, it is nothing but the theory of the survival of the fit and strong; and with charity, with religion, with politics it has nothing whatever to do. This theory is wholly in tune with the times. With it England and all the rest of the world must reckon."

That was the man who has been living quietly in Duluth during recent years. For some time he has been afflicted with an acute stomach trouble and the Rochester trip was taken to learn if an operation would benefit him. A general collapse, brought on by frequent hemorrhages of the stomach, caused his death.

He was accompanied by his wife and by A. R. Davidson, a brother.

The only daughter of Col. and Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Thomas S. Darling, died several years ago. Her little son has lived with his grandparents.

Surviving Relatives.

Mr. Davidson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ella S. Davidson, 1525 East Superior street, Duluth; a grandson, Andrew D. Darling, residing at the home of the widow; son-in-law, T. S. Darling, Montreal, Can.; two brothers, William Davidson, Hutchinson, Minn., and A. R. Davidson, Winnipeg, Can., and one sister, Mrs. Stephen H. Kirby, Duluth.

The funeral will take place at the Scottish Rite rooms of the Masonic temple at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. George Brewer, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Duluth, will officiate at the first part of the service, while the latter part will be conducted by the Masons. The body will be placed in the family mausoleum at Forest Hill cemetery. There will be a short service at the cemetery also.

A number of prominent men are expected from various parts of the Northwest to attend the funeral. Among them will be D. H. Hanna, vice president of the Canadian Northern railway, and William Schupp, Toronto, Can.; F. E. Kenaston, George C. Howe, Theodore Wold, A. A. McRae, C. J. Winton, F. R. Winton, all of Minneapolis; M. H. McLeod, general manager of the Canadian Northern railway; J. R. Cameron, assistant general manager of the Canadian Northern railway; C. E. Latham, F. C. Whitlesey, E. A. Field, William Pearson and E. R. Hedin, Winnipeg.

WOMEN SPORT CANES ON SUPERIOR STREET

No, it has nothing to do with the traffic policemen on the corners, nor the many automobile accidents, nor the fact that Former President Taft has taken Duluth out of the "one day" stand class for prominent visitors by arranging to spend two days here.

It is for none of these reasons, but two women walked up and down Superior street this morning carrying canes.

The canes had long handles and dangling ribbons, similar to these seen along the board-walks and at the hotels on the California coast.

MORE DURUM TO BE SOWN

Proving to Be Exceptionally Profitable Grain Since War Began.

Usual Demand on Russia Is Diverted to This Country.

Advices of Duluth grain dealers are to the effect that a relatively large acreage will be sown to durum wheat this spring.

On account of the war and the consequent diversion of the demand of Italy and Greece from Russia to this country durum has been an especially profitable crop for growers in the Northwest. The great bulk of the 1914 crop was disposed of at a premium over spring wheat while its quotations during the present crop year have averaged up at only a few cents a bushel under.

The production of durum wheat in the Northwest last fall is estimated at 40,000,000 bushels of which, according to government crop figures, 37,900,000 bushels was produced in Minnesota and North and South Dakota. The higher average yield of durum, per acre, is conceded to make it a more profitable crop to the farmer than spring wheat. Last fall for example the yield of durum averaged 19.3 bushels per acre, whereas other spring wheat returned 17.4 bushels.

Comparative Statistics.

The following comparative statistics regarding the durum and spring wheat crops have been prepared by the bureau of crop estimates at Washington:

	Production—Total		Per Acre		Price Per Bushel.
	Durum Bushels.	Other Bushels.	Dur. Bu.	Oth. Bu.	Dur. Cts.	Oth. Cts.
Minn	1,400,000	72,020,000	17.3	17.0	111.4	126.6
N. Da....	22,000,000	129,970,000	19.7	18.0	107.9	115.0
S. Da....	14,500,000	49,262,000	19.0	16.6	107.0	113.0
Totals ..	37,900,000	251,252,000	19.3	17.4	107.7	115.1

In Montana the production of durum last year was estimated as 2,468,000 bushels, which compares with 284,000 bushels in 1909 as reported by the census.

HIGHER PRICES DUE IN COFFEE

Consumption Greater Than Ever Before Despite War Conditions.

A strong situation exists in the coffee market, and Eastern wholesale interests are of the opinion that higher prices will come about in the near future.

In support of that view, it is pointed out that the next Brazilian crop promises to be much lighter than the present one, and that freight rates are very high and promise to go much higher. It is contended furthermore that present quotations for coffee at 9¾ cents a pound for Rios and 10½ cents for Santos, are not high compared with the cost of other food products, even though an advance of 2 cents has come about since the war started. Deliveries have been so large that there is conceded to be no weight of coffee resting on the producers. Domestic consumption is reaching record-breaking figures on account of the good times prevailing over the country.

The crop year in coffee begins on July 1. For the first eight months of this season the deliveries were 14,668,000 bags. During the same period last season the deliveries were 14,087,000 bags. In the season of 1913-14 they were 12,501,000, and in the season of 1912-13 they were 11,764,000 bags. From these figures it is taken that thus far the war has greatly increased, instead of reduced, the consumption of coffee.

In spite of the very heavy takings, Europe's supply of coffee has been very much reduced. The visible supply in Europe and afloat for Europe is about one-half what it was this time two years ago; in other words, about 4,250,000 bags less.

Germany has so far been getting all the coffee it was willing to pay out gold for up to a short time ago, but it is thought probable that from now on it will get very little until the war is over. Just how much Germany has been getting can be judged from the fact that imports of coffee by Scandinavia this season have been 3,246,000 bags as compared with imports of about 600,000 bags for the same period during peace times.

PEN PICTURE OF GEN. HINDENBURG

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, April 5.—Prof. Heinrich Cauer, a well known sculptor, who has been engaged for some time on a bust of Hindenburg, contributes to the Bauseitung a pen picture of the popular military leader.

"Hindenburg's entire figure," he writes, "from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet, measures a trifle over six feet. He holds himself with soldierly erectness, but his head is usually bent forward, a habit which one always notices in big men accustomed to speak with those of lesser stature. He gives you the impression of a knight in armor. His deep voice, and his remarks, often whimsical, but never injurious or ironical, are full of kindness and friendliness.

"If you look at Hindenburg closely you will notice a furrow over the nose drawn between the swellings of the brow. This furrow has been graven by the gigantic responsibilities of the present war. You get the impression of strain and even suffering, an impression somehow heightened by the yellow color of the skin.

"The field marshal is lean. Photographs had led me to expect a fat man. But he is actually thin, and this thinness increases the impression of energy in the face and is certainly preferable from the artist's point of view.

SUGAR PRODUCTION OF REPUBLIC OF PANAMA

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Panama, April 5.—Higher prices and improvements in the method of manufacture and better transportation facilities are having their effect on the sugar production of the Republic of Panama. Heavy sugar shipments are beginning to come from the large Santa Rosa mill near Aguadulce in the province of Colce. This province is now the center of the sugar industry of the republic, but probably will have a serious rival in the province of Chiriqui when the new railway is inaugurated there.

The indications are that the present season's run will be fully 30,000 sacks as compared with 17,000 last year.

Convict Escapes.

Joliet, Ill., April 24.—Herbert Dickout, an honor convict, escaped from the honor farm early today between an hourly count by the guards. Fifty honor men and guards joined in the pursuit.

FINNISH COLLEGE WILL ASK FINANCIAL AID IN DULUTH

WORKING PEOPLE'S COLLEGE AT SMITHVILLE.

The Working People's college at Smithville is said to be in straightened circumstances financially and a campaign will be launched in Duluth tomorrow in an effort to raise from $2,000 to $3,000 within the next two weeks. A large sum is the goal of the college, but only a small part of it will be sought in Duluth.

The Working People's college is said to be the largest Finnish educational institution in the country and is situated in the suburbs of Duluth on the shore of Spirit lake on the Fond du Lac branch of the Northern Pacific railway.

It teaches about 150 students yearly from various parts of the country, and reaches about 1,000 students through its correspondence courses. It is said that $50,000 is spent in Duluth annually because of the college being situated here. Several societies have agreed to raise $8,000 and the college will raise $5,000, of which about half will be raised here.

BIG CROWDS AT CHURCHES

Many Visitors Are Forced to Stand at Services Easter Morning.

Gay Decorations and Special Musical Programs Are Features.

Record breaking audiences attended Easter services at the various churches of the Western end of the city yesterday. In most of the churches all seats were taken and large crowds of late arrivals were compelled to stand.

Easter lilies, palms, potted and cut flowers were used in the decorations. In virtually all the churches, sermons touching upon Easter were delivered. The evening services were principally devoted to musical programs, cantatas, and exercises by children of the Sunday schools.

Special musical programs marked the various services held during the morning at the Catholic churches. Palms and lilies were used effectively in decorating the altars at the St. Jean Baptiste French church, the St. James and St. Clements churches. At the St. James church a choir of thirty voices, assisted by Flaaten's orchestra, gave an excellent program at the high mass service at 10:30 o'clock.

Joint sunrise services held by the young people of West Duluth churches at the Westminster Presbyterian church yesterday morning were attended by a capacity crowd. Societies of the Swedish Baptist, Swedish Mission, Asbury and Merritt M. E., West Duluth Baptist and Hazelwood Presbyterian churches took part in the services. Special music was given at the morning services, and in the evening the choir presented a cantata, "Easter Angels."

Sunrise services were also held at the Bethany Norwegian Danish M. E. church. Here special musical programs featured the various services of the day. Confirmation took place during the morning service.

Churches of the West end enjoyed a record breaking attendance both morning and evening. Special musical programs were given at the Swedish Mission, Swedish Baptist, Swedish Methodist, First Norwegian Danish M. E., Swedish Bethany Lutheran, St. Peter's Episcopal, Central Baptist, Second Presbyterian and Grace Methodist churches. Confirmation services were held in some of the churches and reception of new members took place at each church service.

MORALE NEEDED IN CHRISTIAN WARFARE

Easter Is Special Time for Faith Emphasis, Says Rev. Mr. Ford.

The morale in Christian warfare is just as essential as it is in any other warfare, said Rev. Herbert Ford, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth and Grand avenues, yesterday morning, in his sermon on "Morale." Morale, he said, was the state of mind in which confidence, courage and enthusiasm predominated.

With excellent morale, the pastor said, a small band of soldiers can put to rout a far larger band that is lacking in spirit. He said that there was little hope of victory for an army marching to battle in tears while the band played a dirge.

"Easter time is particularly the season when the element of our faith is emphasized," said Rev. Mr. Ford. "It is the spirit of Easter that gives significance to the faith that is in us. There are those who place great emphasis upon the wonderful manner of the birth of Jesus, others pin their faith to His baptism; a very large number rest their hopes of salvation in His sacrificial death; but the real significance of His work is in His resurrection. By this I do not mean that it depends on the historical accuracy and detail of the physical resurrection of Jesus in the body, but in the continuance of His spiritual activity. The work He instituted on earth was not broken off by His assassination, but He is alive forevermore, and is now healing the broken-hearted, binding up the wounded, and restoring life to the spiritually dead."

GAY DECORATIONS FOR CLUB BANQUET

Guests Will Receive Hearty Welcome on Thursday Night.

Gay street decorations will greet guests to the annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club, which will be held Thursday evening at the Moose hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street. Strings of red, white and blue electric lights are being arranged about the building and on the corner of Central and Ramsey streets, and a monster sign with the word "Welcome" will cross Ramsey street at the entrance to the hall. A crew from the Duluth-Edison Electric company began work this morning preparing these outside decorations.

Emil J. Zauft, president of the club and chairman of the general committee, this morning announced the names of the members of the reception committee for the banquet. The members are: C. M. Brooks, R. J. Fisher, W. A. Pond, Dr. E. W. F. Boerner, Dr. R. S. Forbes, Dr. W. E. Judson, Peter McCormack, J. O. Johnson, J. A. Webber, J. N. Peyton, Charles C. Futter, Frank E. Watson, J. L. Keenan, M. T. Carlson, M. J. Fllatreault, Alex Wick, E. F. Roach, Otto Haller, S. J. Nygren, J. J. Frey, F. A. Carlson, Gust Verguty, A. H. Donald, J. H. Medland and P. G. Phillips.

CONGREGATION TO PLAN NEW CHURCH

Bethel Members Will Put Up Structure to Cost $10,000.

Plans for the construction of a church building to cost about $10,000 will be considered this evening at the meeting of the congregation of the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church. The church will be erected on its newly acquired property on the southwest corner of Fifty-third avenue west and Ramsey street.

The congregation has considerable money on hand with which to begin construction. It recently paid $1,900 for the new site, which includes a 50-foot frontage on Ramsey street. The property is "L" shaped, reaching the alley on Fifty-third avenue and to the alley between Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth avenue.

The property on which the old church stood was recently sold to Albert Sundquist. This lot and the partially burned church were disposed of at a good price.

If the plans are agreed upon at the meeting tonight it is probable that within another month construction will begin on the new church.

Bethany N.-D. M. E. Notes.

Three class meetings will be held tomorrow evening by members of the Bethany Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Sixty-fifth avenue and Polk street. Class No. 1 will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Petition Against License.

A petition requesting the council to reject the application of Frank Peters for a transfer of his saloon license from 2117 West Superior street to the Grand hotel in West Duluth was filed this morning with City Clerk Borgen. The measure will be submitted to the commissioners at the council meeting this afternoon.

The petitioners, among whom are many West Duluth women, state that a saloon in that vicinity would have bad effect on the residents.

There are about 200 signers to the petition.

Would Recover Loss to Car.

When Matt Komljen backed his automobile out of a garage at Seventy-first avenue west and Grand avenue on March 15 last he crossed the path of a street car, which demolished the machine. Komljen figures that his damages were $600 and he asks for that amount in suit begun today in district court. The Duluth Street Railway company is defendant.

PREMIUMS GREATER; LOSSES ARE HEAVIER

St. Paul, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stock and mutual fire insurance companies in Minnesota, including farmers' mutual companies, last year collected premiums amounting to $9,088,154.34, against $8,896,320.78 for the year previous.

According to Insurance Commissioner Works, the net fire losses suffered by these companies in 1915, was over $5,000,000, as compared with $4,831,000 for 1914.

Recruiting Satisfactory.

Washington, April 24.—While 4,699 men have enlisted in the army since March 15 when congress authorized an increase of 20,000, army officials today estimated that the actual net gain has been something over 2,000. Army officials said the present recruiting is satisfactory and above normal.

HAIRY LITTLE MONGREL PUP HOLDS LONG VIGIL OVER THE BODY OF HIS COMPANION

He is just a ragged, hairy little mongrel pup.

Up to yesterday his entire hairy little being was thrilled with admiration for a wonderful bull terrier, a magnificent fellow with lithe rippling muscles, all life and spirit. For weeks they have romped together on London road, chasing automobiles.

Yesterday morning a motorcycle struck the bull terrier and snapped his neck. Somebody hauled the body up on the curb at Fifty-seventh avenue east and London road and left it. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the little mongrel found the body. He lay down beside it.

Boys came to view the body of the terrier, but the little mongrel lifted a snarling lip, showing some white teeth, and never moved. The boys left him undisturbed. One of the nearby residents came out, and the little mongrel snarled at him. The Lakeside officer came along and the mongrel seemed infuriated at his uniform. He sprang at the officer, who leaped aside just in time to avoid the sharp teeth.

Some bones placated the little mongrel, but they would not lure him from the body of his companion. With a wheelbarrow and a spade the officer and the resident formed a little funeral procession to a vacant field at Fifty-fifth avenue east. The little mongrel followed and watched the terrier being covered with some loose earth to await the arrival of the health department wagon. Then the little mongrel renewed his vigil beside the shallow grave.

This morning the resident thought of the mongrel and walked past Fifty-fifth avenue before he came to work. There was the mongrel still on guard.

"I had often read stories like it," said the resident, "but I thought they were just sentimental trash. I felt so sorry for the little fellow I went back home and got him some more bones. He was there when I left, and I've been thinking about him all morning."

VILLA SLIGHTLY WOUNDED BUT NOT INCAPACITATED

position of the forces of the American punitive expedition into Mexico as planned by Maj.-Gen. Funston has been in a large measure completed, it was learned here today. The troops are now concentrated in strong units along a line of communications thoroughly protected, that is said not to be much more than 250 miles long. Reinforcements are also gathering at Columbus, N. Mex.

Ready to meet any eventuality, the American expedition will now maintain a military status quo while diplomatic negotiations go forward at Washington for the withdrawal of the troops. This will require many days if not weeks. The pursuit of Francisco Villa is over. That is the belief of army officers at Fort Bliss, who now believe the troops will engage the small wandering bands of Villa bandits that roam Northern Chihuahua. These bands are widely scattered and operate in groups of two or three.

Expedition Recuperating.

While the expedition is at its main bases it will recuperate from the rigors of its rapid dash southward.

Official admission has been made that the advance forces of the American cavalry have been withdrawn northward and it is understood they have been taken out of the zone where the hatred and dislike for the American is most intense. This withdrawal is designed to prevent clashes during the diplomatic negotiations.

Report Not Credited.

El Paso, April 24.—Brigadier Gen. Bell at Fort Bliss, nor military headquarters at Columbus, N. Mex., had any information this morning regarding a Mexican report that American negro soldiers had an engagement with some civilians at Satevo. The report, which is not credited, said several negroes were killed.

Look to Funston.

Washington, April 24.—Administration officials today looked to Gen. Funston to carry out plans for redisposition of the American troops in Mexico. The plans approved by President Wilson and Secretary Baker were the outgrowth of conferences between Gen. Funston and Gen. Scott, chief of staff of the army, who went to San Antonio at Secretary Baker's personal representative.

The plans were interpreted generally that the United States will maintain a military status quo beyond the international line until the Carranza government has demonstrated its ability to exterminate Villa and his outlaws. Meanwhile, it is understood, the American forces will be so placed as to safeguard American border towns.

Anxiety Expressed.

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—Anxiety was expressed in military circles here today over reports from the interior of renewed activity on the part of the numerous small bands of bandits who are roving about Northern Chihuahua.

The peons have heard that the American troops are to be withdrawn from Mexico. The halting of the operations of the expeditionary force has confirmed their belief in the truth of the story which they have interpreted as a crushing defeat of the "gringoes."

The importance of these bands as seen by army officers, is that their depredations may drive the masses of the people, already almost destitute, to desperation and cause a serious outbreak which might involve the American soldiers.

to bridge the gap. The main line of the Burlington system between Chicago and Minneapolis will be out of service for three days at least and perhaps longer. In the meantime trains are running between Winona and the Twin Cities over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Local service between Fountain City and St. Paul on the main line will be maintained.

The great drainage district near Trempealeau is under water. It was said by Capt. W. A. Thompson of La Crosse, head of the drainage company, today, however, that the damage to his company would not be great.

River Rising at La Crosse.

At La Crosse the river is at 12.7 feet today and is still rising slowly. But between La Crosse and Winona there are many miles along the Burlington, Chicago & Northwestern and Green Bay & Western railroads where the embankments, which have been subjected for weeks to the strain of high water and where the tracks are barely out of water, where there is danger of the same thing happening as at East Winona. Trains are operated with the utmost care through the great sea which stretches for miles over land ordinarily dry.

Foreign Editors Organize.

The editors and managers of several foreign language newspapers, published in Duluth and vicinity, held a meeting today at the office of the German Press, 200 Exchange building, and organized the Foreign Language Newspaper Association of the Northwest. The object of the new organization is to take up political and economic matters from time to time and to discuss them between the editors of the different publications. Constitutions and by-laws will be worked out by the directors, who were elected as follows: Max Binheim, editor German Press, president and manager; Rev. John C. Smoley, editor Narodni Vestnik, treasurer; Anton E. Basetich, editor Radnicka Obrana, secretary. A meeting of the association members will be held within the next few days. The by-laws and constitutions will then be adopted.

Mr. McCombs writing to the president, said in part:

"I have just formed a new partnership for the practice of law which will become effective on the first of May.

"In view of the party precedent that the nominee for president is required to indicate his preference for the chairmanship of the national committee, and in view of the unity of the sentiment for your renomination, I am writing you at the earliest moment to let you know that I could not under any circumstances assume the leadership of the coming Democratic campaign. I am happy in the thought, however, that there are hosts of able and true men who can very readily take my place."

GERMANY IS READY TO GO TO GREAT LENGTHS TO PRESERVE PEACE WITH UNITED STATES

is consistently well informed, says that "Germany's strength and prestige have so increased in the last twenty months in the eyes of the whole world that the German government has, indeed, only to follow the commandments of wisdom."

May Make Concessions.

The obvious deduction, according to the view here, is that there is nothing to prevent Germany from making certain concessions if the leaders feel that they can properly do so. Whether they do feel that they can go thus far is, of course, another question.

There is unquestionably a considerable peace party in Germany, which includes powerful financial interests represented by the Bourse organs and the Frankfurter Zeitung, and including also the Berlin Tageblatt and Socialist organs. Certain high officials also would consent to breach or war with the United States only most reluctantly and under pressure of what seemed to them an unavoidable necessity.

It may be not without significance that Maximilian Harden was permitted to print a remarkable article in his paper, Zukunft, defending President Wilson's standpoint in plain words.

No One Desires War.

With the possible exception of a handful of extremists, there appears to be nobody in Germany desirous of a breach or war with the United States. It is evident beyond doubt, however, that if the government should reject the demands of the American note respecting submarine warfare it would find the united support of Germans of all parties.

Even those to whom the idea of a rupture between Germany and the United States is most distasteful agree in feeling that the government must refuse to weaken its means of warring against Great Britain, though this should mean a breach with the United States.

"NO TIME FOR POLITICS" IS TAFT'S VIEW OF THE CRISIS WITH GERMANY

made," he said, when told of indications that Germany would submit, at least in spirit, to the demands of the United States as expressed in the last note to the kaiser.

"It is certainly better for Germany to stay out of any trouble with the United States, and the same applies to the United States. There is no benefit to be derived from a break.

"You have heard my expressions on the Mexican situation so often," he continued, relaxing slightly from the serious tone of the minute previous, "that anything I might say in regard to it will be nothing more than repetition.

Hunting Villa.

"Hunting Villa is like hunting a needle in a haystack. We are told that our 'line of communications is dangerously thin.'

"The administration certainly knows just how thin the line is, and if the reports we have are true, it is President Wilson's duty to withdraw the troops, without regard for the political criticism which probably will follow.

"It is a ticklish, embarrassing and dangerous situation. If anything untoward happens, the administration cannot escape just and severe condemnation.

"I have expressed often my disapproval of his (Mr. Wilson's) active intervention to eliminate Huerta and promote the cause of Carranza and Villa when it was a joint one.

"I think, however, that it was right to send this 'punitive' expedition after Villa and I am glad that it has punished his bandit followers. The object of the expedition really has been accomplished, though, and there should be no hesitancy about withdrawing. If the situation is as ticklish as we have been led to believe it is."

Preparedness.

"Now young man," he said with a characteristic Taft smile, settling back in his chair, "what else can we talk about?"

"Preparedness? Do you think the present agitation is overdone?"

"Well," he said, and the smile disappeared again. "War seems a long ways away to you people of the Middle West. I know, except what you learn of it through Canada, and there is little cause for alarm, apparently.

"There is no need for hysteria, as if we were looking down gun barrels, but there is no doubt but that a permanent preparedness program is strongly needed. I am in favor of such a plan unqualifiedly.

"Our army is certainly inadequate—the Mexican trouble has shown that beyond any question. As for our navy, material additions should be made at the earliest possible moment. It takes a long time to build, equip and man battleships, and we cannot start soon enough."

The serious part of the interview was at an end. Mr. Taft was thoroughly enjoying his first day in Duluth, and he was loath to do anything but have a good time.

"By the way, Mr. Taft," was a question, "just how do you prefer to be addressed?"

"It's plain Mr. Taft, isn't it, Will?" interrupted Thomas S. Wood, life-long friend of the ex-president, who was his host today.

"Yes, Mr. Taft suits me very well," was the reply.

"I've been called professor, judge, ex-president, and I suppose the title ex-secretary could be used, but 'mister' is an excellent title."

"I have been told that you object to being called 'Colonel,' although the title would be applicable," said the 'young man.'

A hearty laugh met this question. "I have no aversion—not at all—but be sure to make a clear distinction."

Is This—Comparatively.

Mr. Taft is thin, comparatively speaking, and those who saw him when he occupied the presidential chair, were surprised to find that he had lost seventy or eighty pounds.

He intends to reduce still further, judging from his program today, and at the present rate will be well within the 250-pound mark before very many months.

Arising shortly after 7 o'clock, he left the Pullman car and went to Mr. Wood's home at 1927 East Superior street.

Breakfast guests were astonished when, upon the conclusion of the meal, Mr. Taft expressed a desire to see the city, and said:

"Let's walk."

Most of the guests avoided the two-mile "hike" but the ex-president, accompanied by Mr. Wood, walked from the Wood residence to the First National bank building, at Third avenue west and Superior street, in record time.

Few pedestrians noticed the couple, and it was not until they reached the Third avenue corner that the crowds, intermingling during the noon rush hour, recognized Mr. Taft and watched interestedly until the two friends entered the building.

The former chief executive was accompanied from St. Paul by Frank B. Kellogg, who will be in Duluth on business during the day.

At 8:15 o'clock tonight, Mr. Taft will deliver a lecture at the First Methodist church, Third avenue west and Third street, speaking on "The Monroe Doctrine." The address is to be given under the auspices of the Collegiate Alumnae association.

Presidential Visits.

His coming started the inquiry as to how many times Duluth has entertained occupants of the presidential chair, and it has been found that Mr. Taft's visit is the fifth one to be made to this city by a one-time first citizen of the United States.

The first to come was Rutherford B. Hayes, in 1870, who made the journey by boat in company with his college mates, Gen. Force and William K. Rogers. President Hayes again visited Duluth in the early 80s, after the expiration of his term.

Gen. Grant, at the time he drove the golden spike signaling the completion of the Northern Pacific railroad, returned over the road to Duluth, which was then the Eastern terminus. He was accompanied by William H. Seward, secretary of war under President Lincoln, and other notables.

While here they were entertained by citizens, being the guests of Judge Ensign.

President McKinley, during his first campaign, visited Duluth and spoke to an immense gathering at the street car barns. Later, during his term, he came up the lakes on the "Northwest" with Mrs. McKinley.

President Roosevelt's recent visit, in his campaign as bull moose candidate for the presidency, is well remembered, and a few of the old-timers, may remember his earlier visit during his ranching days at Medora, N. D., when he was interested in the establishment of a stock yards at this point.

Mr. Taft will leave Duluth Tuesday evening for Cleveland, Ohio, where he will give an address.

INSTRUMENTS RECORD HEAVY EARTHQUAKES

Shocks So Heavy That Needles Are Jarred From Seismographs.

Washington, April 24.—Two severe earthquakes, one of them of great intensity, were recorded on Georgetown university seismograph this morning. The heaviest shocks came at 3:21 a. m., Eastern time.

The first of the quakes, which the records indicate was quite heavy, began at 2:41 a. m. last night and continued until 12:07 o'clock this morning. It was estimated that its center was about 1,600 miles from Washington.

The second series of shocks, which were decidedly stronger than the first, began at 3:08 a. m. The vibrations reached their maximum intensity at 3:21 a. m. At this point the needles of two of the seismographs were thrown off their recording drum, so severe were the shocks. The shocks continued until 4:12 a. m. It was estimated by Director Tondorf that the center of the second earthquake was 2,400 miles from Washington and he believed if it occurred in an inhabited zone it must have done considerable damage.

No Damage at Santo Domingo.

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, April 24.—A severe earthquake occurred here at 11:30 o'clock last night. No damage was caused.

TO LINE UP CHICAGO'S MUNITIONS CAPACITY

Preparedness Committee to Size Up Workrooms and Factories in City.

Chicago, April 24.—Workrooms and factories in all parts of Chicago will be invaded by the war preparationists of Illinois this week, under order to the Illinois committee of the naval consulting board. In order to determine what Chicago can do in furnishing munitions in case of war, the city has been divided into ten districts. Experts from five national associations of engineers and chemists will determine the mechanical and industrial capacity of Chicago for producing goods needed in war time.

E. N. Layfield, formerly chief engineer of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Railway company, has general charge of the Chicago survey. While his field men are securing the needed facts, Mr. Layfield with another body of traffic engineers, will be completing the best possible transportation plan for the assembly and forwarding of many sorts of war necessaries produced in the Chicago industrial belt.

The Illinois committee will co-operate with a similar committee of Indiana as the big munition district around Gary is closely bound up with the Chicago problem relating to war supply transportation.

Frederick K. Copeland, chairman of the Illinois committee, said: "The natural resources of the Mississippi valley furnish the very bedrock foundation of national defense. We have set out to call into being an organization made up of the best technical and business brains of the state and one that will work along scientific business lines under strict business methods.

TO SEEK DOWNWARD REVISION OF FREIGHT

Washington, April 24.—Downward revision of freight rates on sash, door and other lumber products from the Pacific coast to Eastern Canada, New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia, were sought today from the interstate commerce commission by manufacturers in California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia. The petitioners complain that rates were advanced last October from 1 to 22 per cent and seek to recover the excess already paid.

SAYS HIS WIFE IS VERY STRENUOUS

Nine Months of Married Life All Di Alfonso Could Endure.

Augustina Di Alfonso, 45, Eveleth, acquired his knowledge of matrimonial life in the school of hard knocks, if the representations he makes in divorce proceedings filed today in district court are true. He has had enough of the experience and wants to be separated from his wife, Anna Di Alfonso, 51, whom he married less than nine months ago. Cruelty is charged.

There were few peaceful moments during Di Alfonso's connubial existence, according to his story. Mrs. Di Alfonso had a habit of beating and striking him every time any dissension arose. Only last January, he said, she knocked him down with a stick of firewood.

Mrs. Di Alfonso's brand of cruelty is not confined to physical violence, he declares. He charges that she has often called him bad names and has sought to humiliate him before his friends by telling him that he was "no man." He also accuses her of locking him out at night and refusing to admit him to the house.

Di Alfonso says that he is employed as a miner and that his work is such that he must have meals at certain hours. He charges that his wife has refused to prepare them for him and that he has been obliged to go hungry on many occasions.

In a separate cause of action, Di Alfonso accuses his wife of adultery, committed some time between Nov. 1, 1915, and February, 1916, with a man whose name he does not know.

The Di Alfonsos were married in Virginia on Aug. 18, last.

HELD FOR TILTING SUNDAY "LID"

Mike Luzich, "Boarding-house" Keeper, Arrested; Another Suspected.

Alleged Sunday lid "tilters" were checked up by police yesterday, and one arrest resulted. Warrants for others will be issued today, as a result of evidence secured, Chief R. D. McKercher said.

Mike Luzich, proprietor of a "boarding house" at 629 West First street, will face the judge for the second or third time on a charge of keeping an unlicensed drinking place. In previous raids Luzich has been the object of some police attention.

When Chief R. D. McKercher learned that Luzich was serving whisky and bottled beer at bartender's rates and doing a land office business Sunday night, he made a quick visit, accompanied by detectives. A good supply of liquor was collected as "evidence" and about thirty thirsty patrons turned away, disappointed, when they found the doors leading to the boarding house were locked.

The chief intimated that a West Michigan street hotel also was violating the Sunday closing law, and that he had obtained enough evidence to warrant an arrest and trial.

Luzich was released in $100 bail after pleading not guilty to a charge of operating an unlicensed drinking place in court this morning. He will be given a trial April 25.

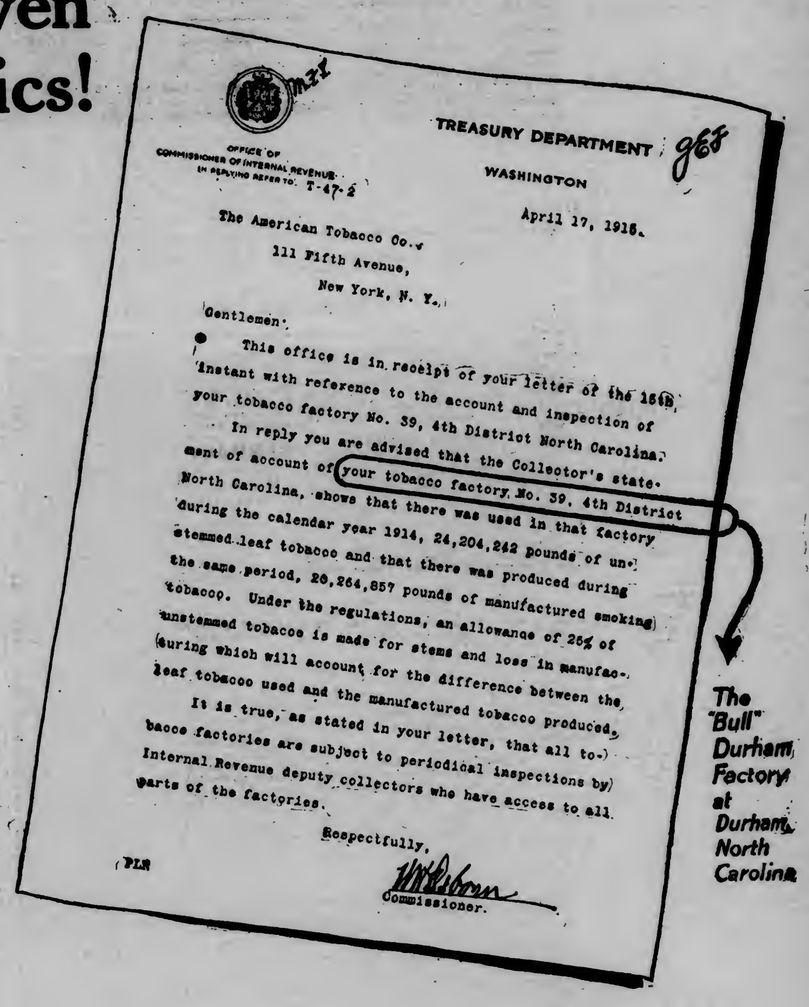
Partial View of Immense "Bull" Durham Factories at Durham, N. C.



The Purity of "Bull" Durham Is Proven Absolutely by Government Statistics!

Herewith we print a facsimile of a letter from Hon. W. H. Osborn, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, written in the routine of his official duty in answer to a letter from the manufacturer.

The Government officials find in the "Bull" Durham factory nothing but the bright, golden leaves of Carolina and Virginia tobaccos—the tobaccos that have made American cigarettes the most popular smokes in the world.

In Durham—and indeed, throughout practically all of North Carolina and the adjoining counties of Virginia—nearly every man is interested in tobacco, the great staple crop of the community. In the towns where the tobacco warehouses are located; on the farms, in the banks, in the stores—everywhere—these men who grow the tobacco, who take it to market, who buy it and sell it, and are made prosperous by the business of handling the money received from the crop—everywhere, these men know that the sweetest, mellowest, choicest leaf is bought for

TREASURY DEPARTMENT
WASHINGTON
April 17, 1916.

The American Tobacco Co.,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

This office is in receipt of your letter of the 15th instant with reference to the account and inspection of your tobacco factory No. 39, 4th District North Carolina.

In reply you are advised that the Collector's statement of account of your tobacco factory No. 39, 4th District North Carolina, shows that there was used in that factory during the calendar year 1914, 24,204,242 pounds of unstemmed leaf tobacco and that there was produced during the same period, 20,264,857 pounds of manufactured smoking tobacco. Under the regulations, an allowance of 25% of unstemmed tobacco is made for stems and loss in manufacturing which will account for the difference between the leaf tobacco used and the manufactured tobacco produced.

It is true, as stated in your letter, that all tobacco factories are subject to periodical inspections by Internal Revenue deputy collectors who have access to all parts of the factories.

Respectfully,
W. H. Osborn
Commissioner.

Beginning tonight Minneapolis and St. Paul will revel in a four days' grand opera treat, opening with the performance tonight of the new Montemezzi opera, "L'ancore del tre re" (the love of three kings), with Luisa Villani, creator of the "Love" at the world's premier La Scalla in Milan. Other notables in the cast are Riccardo Martin, the American tenor of Metropolitan fame; Jose Mardones, the Spanish basso, and Graham Marr, baritone.

Another novelty will be the presentation of Puccini's charming, if tragic, "Madame Butterfly," with a cast which the composer always wished to have a Japanese prima donna soprano in the role of the little Cho-Cho-San, an American tenor, as the faithless naval lieutenant, B. F. Pinkerton, and an American baritone as the consul, Sharpless.

The artists appearing in "Madame Butterfly," as the Boston Grand Opera company presents it, and which caused New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and other audiences to exclaim in wonderment at its perfection, are Miss Tamaki Miura, the only Japanese singer who has gained a foremost place on the grand opera stage; Riccardo Martin, the foremost of American dramatic tenors, and Graham Marr, the American baritone.

Peggy Peabody's Observations

Housekeeping System

More than one person in the world is of the opinion that men write and edit some of the pages devoted to women's chat in the daily papers. Though I cannot say it is untrue, I do not know in all my acquaintance where the woman's page editor is a man. The most common subject which may be attributed to the man editor of a woman's page, if there is such a thing, is that one which dealt with systematic housekeeping and in detail describes how the household duties may be accomplished and leave the lady of the house her afternoons free and clear for pleasure and improvement of mind.

Few women who know anything about housekeeping will have the hardihood to put down in black and white for other women's guidance such directions as these: Friday, ordinary work, sweep second floor, bathroom, toilet room and halls—afternoons free. Women who know nothing about housework are not interested in the matter and would sooner write upon any other subject under the sun. But men! Will you please tell me what man who is head of a domicile of his own but thinks housework is the simplest thing in the world and very easily performed?

Man thinks that woman magnifies the difficulties of housework. He says that he could do the work in half the time and have plenty of leisure for other matters. But though he says this and offers all sorts of advice, you seldom see him supporting and doing the work for the home.

I believe in having some system for housework, in taking certain pieces of work that must be done regularly and doing them in an order that you find convenient and helpful to you. I detest the woman who packs the breakfast dishes in the sink and then sits down to read a book or ventures out to gossip with her neighbors with several important things undone. But I more heartily detest the man or woman who continually tells you how housekeeping should be done and how you can simplify the work and have hours to devote to affairs that interest you.

Any sane business man in planning his day's work knows that he must make an allowance here and there for the unexpected that occasionally obtrudes itself, no matter how well regulated or systematized the working forces may be. If he does not do so he is going to be brought up with a round turn when he least expects it. It is just so with housework; you must make allowances. Unlike other interests, the unexpected is not the unusual but the usual order of the day in the home.

A May Day Party

ROBINS, bluebirds and wrens are trying their best to make us believe spring is here to stay. These season-indicators trill of the beauties of the outdoor world and dare you to stay in the house this lovely weather. It must be delightful to live in a tree, among leaves and flowers, sweet perfumes and swinging boughs. If we cannot do this we can bring some of the beauty indoors and enjoy it in our own way.

If you love nature, you can entertain your friends with your hobby by giving a spring luncheon. As you will want it informal, use your visiting cards for the invitations. Put the date beneath your name, then "spring luncheon," with the hour. If your address is not engraved on the card, write it in the lower right-hand corner.

For placecards use those decorated with bluebirds or wild flowers. For favors have tiny birds' nests filled with mints. Violets with their own leaves make the loveliest individual baskets. For the center-piece use narcissus and maidenhair fern. Sprays of apple blossoms should fill tall flower-holders wherever there is room for them. The beautiful bisque and china warblers and bluebirds may be perched at various points of vantage, and your own pet canaries will gladly attend the affair and furnish music.

You may have a very simple menu, for this luncheon is not supposed to interfere with dinner later. A chicken salad on your prettiest plates, with wafers; white cherries or plump strawberries in cut-glass containers; tea cakes with tea in delicate cups, and then sweets, will be plenty. For this last you may have bonbons, crystallized fruits, chocolates, maples of various forms, or anything your fancy dictates.

If you want something hot, you may prefer to serve bouillon, sweetbreads and mushrooms; fancy sandwiches, and squares of ice cream with May-day cake. This cake is not difficult to make: The recipe calls for one-half cup of butter and one cup of sugar; cream these, and add one-half cup of milk and three cups of flour, sifted with three teaspoons of baking powder. Beat to a fine, creamy batter and then fold in the stiff whites of three eggs. Divide into three parts. Color two parts delicate pink and flavor one with strawberry and one with rose extract. Flavor the third with lemon or rose. Bake in layer tins, and when done put together with a boiled icing, to which add vanilla extract and chopped nuts and raisins. Frost outside with plain icing and decorate with candied violets and rose leaves. Pistachio nuts may be halved and placed around the outside edge of the cake.

Bed Time Tales

Dainty Miss Chameleon

UNDER a pretty ledge of fern, not far from the stream where Mr. Gater and Terry Turtle lived, there dwelt a dainty little creature who was called Miss Chameleon.

Such a dressy person you never saw! She would change her dress a dozen, a hundred times a day, just as the fancy seemed to strike her.

And she didn't have to take off her dress to change it—think of that! Surely she must have been a first cousin to the fairy queen, for such wonders were never heard of outside of fairyland.

Of all the dresses Miss Chameleon wore, her favorite was a bluish-green, which she kept on most of the time. In color it was surprisingly like the color of the ferns near which she lived, so that it was hard indeed for any creature to see little Miss Chameleon.

But the minute she decided to climb a tree, she changed her dress to a woody brown exactly matching the tree-trunk which she was climbing. Or, if she had occasion to run over a yellowish-green leaf, she promptly changed her dress back to green, this time a yellowish-green to match the leaf she was on. Wasn't that convenient?

Now perhaps you are wondering what sort of a little creature this Miss Chameleon was. She was slender and graceful—about five inches long in her body, and her slim tail was exactly as long again as her body. She was shaped much like a lizard—indeed, she was a connection of theirs, though she was so much prettier you might not have guessed her relationship but for her lizard-like head. Her legs were longer and her toes better formed than those of her lizard relatives, and she could do many little tricks they never thought of doing.

For instance, she could run her tongue out four or five inches from her mouth and many a lazy fly she caught for her luncheon in exactly that way. Then her eyes moved separately, so she could look at a tree with one eye in a most indifferent fashion, while she was carefully watching the movements of a fly with the other eye. Wasn't that a convenient thing to be able to do?

Miss Chameleon was a most dignified young creature, too. No restless darting about hither and yon for her—no, indeed. She was content to find a warm place under ferns, or on a bit of moss, or in a crack of leaf mold, and there she would stay a whole day maybe, moving only a bit, darting out her long tongue to catch an insect if she was hungry, but otherwise lying as still as could be.

She was slender and graceful—about five inches long in her body, and her slim tail was exactly as long again as her body.

No wonder the flies found it hard to guard themselves against her. She lay so still and was so exactly the color of the leaves or bark that they could hardly tell where she was. Yes, she was a very contented young creature; if she got a fine meal, well and good; if she didn't—well, she simply waited till another day! Wasn't she a queer little body?

"Blocking" of the Susan B. Anthony Amendment Scored

San Diego, Cal., April 24.—What was termed the "unfair action" of the house judiciary committee in "blocking" the passage of the Susan B. Anthony suffrage amendment, was denounced yesterday in resolutions adopted at a mass meeting of men and women at the Panama-California International exposition. The meeting was directed by fourteen of the delegates of the Congressional Union for Women Suffrage now touring the west. It was demanded that the house committee "take immediately favorable action on the amendment that it may be brought to a vote during this session of congress."

The administration was urged to support the amendment "so that it may be passed on to the state legislature for rectification without delay."

Visiting members of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage participated in the mass meeting here yesterday, at which the purposes of the tour suffragists were explained.

Miss Helen Todd, a member of the child labor commission of New York, and one of the principal speakers at the meeting, said: "You people in California cannot realize the ignorance, narrow mindedness, prejudice and indifference which we women encounter in the East."

The visiting delegation left Los Angeles today for San Francisco.

Many Dialects Are Heard in Swedish Play

Dialects that are peculiar to various parts of the same country are marked in Sweden. In "Nerkingarne," the play which the Linnaea club will give May 11 and 12, one will hear from some of the characters pure Swedish and from others many utterances that accord well with the mountains and waterfalls, harvesting scenes and folk dances of the province of Nerka in Central Sweden.

"Nerkingarne" is a romantic drama, which in many points is parallel with such favorites as "Lena Rivers" and "East Lynne." In addition, it has a decided comedy vein running through every act.

A rehearsal will be held tonight at the Temple building. Tomorrow night the first rehearsal with music will be held at the residence of Mrs. A. Lofgren, 2305 West Second street.

Fellden-Nordeen.

The marriage of Miss Marion Fellden and Elof Nordeen took place last night at the Woodman hall. Rev. C. W. R. Wermine, pastor of the First Swedish Methodist church, performed the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Adeline Gustavson, Miss Hilda Bergstrom, Andrew Durell and William Nordeen. Miss Lenora Fellden, cousin of the bride, sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly."

The Easter festival of the Good Templar society was held in connection with the wedding. A musical program was given and dinner was served to 250 guests.

Social Circle Dance.

The Social Circle club will give a dancing party tomorrow night in the Cathedral gymnasium, Second avenue west and Fourth street.

The Compliment Discreditor

WHEN is a compliment not a compliment? When it has been discredited by one of those people who seem to enjoy pricking the bubble of one's pleasure in praise.

Molly came home glowing the other day, hugging to her heart one of those most precious of all compliments—the praise of a child.

"Bob and I had the loveliest time together, and what do you suppose he said when I went?" she related, starry-eyed. "He said, 'I wish you'd come to this house and stay all the time, Aunt Molly.' Wasn't that just sweet of him?"

The Authorman's wife laughed. "I don't think it was particularly sweet," she said. "He thinks he'd never have to amuse himself if he could get all his aunts and uncles to live there."

The Stars Stopped Shining.

The stars in Molly's eyes went out. I trust the Authorman's wife felt repaid.

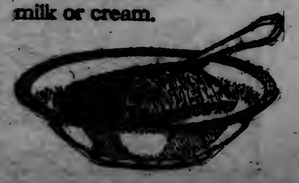
Another time I heard a girl who has a deep and humble admiration for an older woman telling with pathetic delight that the older woman had asked her if she and her mother would care to rent a house across the street from them, which was about to become vacant. The girl was evidently very proud to think that the older woman seemed to want to have her in her neighborhood.

"I suppose she was afraid some undesirable people would get in there," said the compliment discreditor.

Of Course He Didn't Really Like to Dance With Her.

A woman who is very sensitive about her dancing was telling with pride that a certain man who is reported to be a very fine dancer had danced with her three times in one evening.

The compliment discreditor—this time a relative near enough to have the relative's privilege of disagreeable frankness—brought to her attention the fact that the excellent dancer is also an astute politician, and that, as her husband has considerable political influence, she might attribute the compliment to that.



Pleasant thought!

Of course, the people who constantly go about repeating compliments paid to themselves, perhaps fishing for more by pretending not to believe them, perhaps just fatuously repeating them without even a pretence of disbelief, often deserve to have the bubble of their self-conceit pricked.

But when anyone is so frankly delighted with a compliment that he just has to tell you about it—as in the case of Molly—it's not a particularly gracious act to find some way to discredit it, is it?

Coaching Chicago Society Girls for Big Production

Donald McDonald is remembered by Duluth society, especially by the younger coterie, for having put on and directed a number of musical extravaganzas and other entertainments for charitable purposes. This week in Chicago Mr. McDonald will conduct the presentation of "Follies," a benefit for the restroom for self-supporting girls, one of Chicago's philanthropies. It will be Tuesday evening at the Auditorium.

In speaking of Mr. McDonald, one of the Chicago papers refers to him as "Donald McDonald, who first shone in his class play at the University of Wisconsin and shot across the sky to New York, thence to the Pacific coast and to us by the way of Minneapolis." Mr. McDonald has brought together a company of 125 young society people, divided them in groups of clever dancers and singers with some of the most talanted and popular as soloists.

"NOBODY HOME."

Percival Knight and Dancers Feature of Musical Comedy.

"Nobody Home," which opened at the Lyceum theater yesterday afternoon, has an excellent comedian in Percival Knight as Freddie Popple of Tippleton, England, and an exceptionally clever dancing pair in Seibel Layman and Sylvia Chausae, who introduce several of the latest ball room dances with a few acrobatic specialties.

The well known and time-worn T. B. M. may find rest and relaxation from "Nobody Home," even though the chorus is small. Mr. Knight is a delightful Englishman, with his original hoarse drawl, which scored such a success when he appeared with Julia Sanderson in "The Arcadians." Although "Bed, Bed, Beautiful Bed" is a clever song number, one who has seen Mr. Knight in "The Arcadians" will never forget "I've Got a Motto." He has changed but little and the character impersonation of an Englishman, one of the "nobody home" kind, is one of the best bits of stage comedy seen here in a long time. With the aid of Platt (John Paulton), his groom, Mr. Knight saves "Nobody Home." Of course one must not forget the dancing couple, Mr. Layman and Miss Chausae.

There is very little plot to "Nobody Home," but one learns with interest that the popular phrase, "nobody home," was created back in 1744 by Alexander Pope, who penned the following lines in one of his poems:

"You beat your pate, and fancy wit will come;
Knock as you please, there's nobody home."

"The Magic Melody," sung by Miss Mildred Elaine and the chorus, is the song hit of the show. There are eight young women and four men in the chorus.

"Nobody Home" will be at the Lyceum until Wednesday evening.

Theater Gossip.

Princess Ka, the vampire dancer, who is assisted by her own company, tops the Easter week bill at the popular New Grand. Amid a scenic environment that takes one back to ancient Egypt when the Pharaohs ruled at Thebes this terpsichorean artist executes the weird dances which were the delight of these ancient monarchs. Included in the repertoire of Princess Ka and her company is "Carmencita," "Wood Nymphs," Spanish dance and the famous "Mystery of the Nile," which is made up of the "Dance of the Cymbals," "Egyptian Scarf Dance," and the "Dance of the Cobra."

VAMPIRE DANCER HEADS GRAND SHOW.

"After the Fair," a rural novelty is the offering of the Two Kerns. It is a combination of comedy talk and acrobatics. The Wetzell Vanetta Trio, two young women and a young man offer a reportoire in a musical way made up of choice bits from the popular operas and ragtime numbers of the day.

Fisher and Rockway offer a singing and talking diversion. They have a new line of clever chatter and some old and new coontown melodies.

Richard C. Travers and Betty Brown head the cast in "The Lightbearer," a three-reel subject which tells the story of a pastor who forgets his poise and wades in with his fists to reform the neighborhood. Two excellent comedies make up the remainder of the program. Tomorrow and Wednesday another adventure of "The Social Pirates" will be added to the bill.

* * *

Many who observed closely the announcement that William S. Hart in his desert play, "The Aryan," holds the boards but two days at the Rex, made sure of seeing him Sunday. Others who seldom miss a Hart picture will avail themselves of his last appearance in this hit today and tonight.

WILLIAM S. HART IN WESTERN PLAY AT REX.

It is a strong production, faithful to life in the great West as it has been, and in a few places may be seen today. With Miss Bessie Love—predicted as a coming Mary Pickford—and other strong support, the story and acting seem complete.

Tomorrow, Tuesday, Dorothy Gish, she who has steadily climbed into universal favor with moving picture devotees, appears in a delightful story of the Pennsylvania Dutch people. Whatever Miss Gish does, she does well. She will be assured a cordial welcome in this new picture play.

The Keystone comedies, with both pictures mentioned, are highly enjoyable, admittedly the best comedy of the day, fit accompaniments to the superior dramas of the Triangle studios.

* * *

"Slander," which was shown at the Lyric yesterday and is to be seen today and tomorrow, was recognized by many hundreds who viewed the box society drama, as a story that is enacted in all communities. Many times, the facts identical with the plot in this play, which Bertha Kalich and her company do well, do not get into print, and very often not even into the trials of divorce suits. But there is something very familiar about it all.

BERTHA KALISH IN "SLANDER" AT THE LYRIC.

Helene Ayers (Miss Kalich) is the victim of a scandal started about her by Richard Tremaine (Eugene Ormande) and as a result her husband divorces her. Helene learns of the trick played upon her and avenges herself through his son. From this the story is built, and it is a story that teems with interesting situations and affords Bertha Kalich a vehicle for her very best work.

There are the usual features in addition to this part of the program that make the Lyric popular this week.

* * *

Crowds that taxed the capacity of the Zelda all day yesterday greeted Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in their screen success, "The Wall Between," which opened a three-day run at this popular playhouse.

CROWDS SEE FILM STARS AT THE ZELDA.

"The Wall Between" deals with the enlistment in the army of a young society man who, through a matter of circumstances, is reduced to poverty. There he meets a condition which prevails in the United States army, where rigid discipline maintains a barrier between the commissioned officer and the enlisted man.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, in a laughable one-reel comedy, "Happy Childhood Days," complete the picture program.

The greatest hit on the bill was scored by the two grand opera singers, Enrico G. Prati and Elsa de Marchi, who gave three selections from grand opera. They were encored repeatedly last evening and thoroughly delighted Zelda audiences. They are here for an indefinite engagement.

OPPOSITION TO PRESIDENT'S PLAN

Some Objection to Proposition to Co-ordinate Waterway Improvement.

Washington, April 24.—President Wilson's plan for co-ordinating waterway improvement appropriations has encountered a disagreement between those who want the war department to control all the work as formerly and those who want to enact the special cabinet committee's plan for a national waterways council, take the war, interior, commerce and agricultural departments in on the work and carry it on with the co-operation of the forest service, reclamation service and geological survey.

Senator Ransdell of Louisiana and Representative Humphreys have introduced a bill to place the work with the war department. Senator Newlands, Senator Broussard of Louisiana and Representative Crosser of Ohio today joined in a bill to enact the cabinet committee's plan. The former bill appropriated $45,000,000 to the Mississippi alone. The new bill would apportion $60,000,000 as follows: $25,000,000 to the lower Mississippi and Illinois rivers, constituting the route of the lakes to the gulf waterway; $5,000,000 to the Ohio; $5,000,000 to the upper Mississippi; $5,000,000 to the Missouri, the Arkansas, Red and other tributaries of the Mississippi; $5,000,000 to Atlantic and Gulf rivers; $5,000,000 to the Columbia and Snake rivers; $5,000,000 to the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers; $5,000,000 to the other California rivers and the Colorado river.

CHINESE CABINET TO RESTORE PEACE

Believed New Officials Will Be Able to Unite All Factions.

Pekin, April 24.—Confidence in ability of the new Chinese cabinet to restore peace was expressed today by Tuan Chi-Jui, who on Saturday accepted the premiership, in an interview granted the correspondent of the Associated Press. The first task of the cabinet, he said, would be to restore tranquility.

"Yuannan (in which the uprising started), and Kwei-Chow provinces undoubtedly will fall in line with the reorganized government," Tuan Chi-Jui continued. "Tsai Ao (the rebel leader) is very reasonable.

"Feng Kwo-Chang (commander of the imperial forces in the Yangtse-Kiang region), is settling the difficulties in the Yangtse-Kiang provinces and doubtless will succeed in his efforts. Kwang-Tung is the only province in which fighting is now going on.

"Some of the demands made in the southern provinces are unreasonable, but I believe everything will soon be adjusted."

The first formal meeting of the new cabinet with President Yuan Shi Kai will be held tomorrow.

WEATHER IDEAL IN RED RIVER VALLEY

Farmers Are Harrowing and Seeding Will Soon Be General.

Crookston, Minn, April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Buckler set the pace in seeding operations in Polk county and tonight will have 100 acres of wheat in the ground.

Several others started work today, and seeding will be general by Wednesday in the Red River valley.

The majority of the farmers are harrowing today, the weather being ideal.

ST. LOUIS RIVER HIGHER AT CLOQUET

Dunlap Island Flooded and Only Two Plants Running.

Cloquet, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The flood situation continues serious here with little hopes of the waters receding for several days. The water rose about five inches in the St. Louis river last night, which was caused by the melting of the recent snow and the opening of the Great Northern Power company's dam above Cloquet, which was partially opened to relieve the great strain this structure has underwent in the past week. The water in this dam showed a head of about thirty-one feet at the time of opening.

The Cloquet Tie & Post company's cedar yard on the north side of the river is all under water and men were put to work last Saturday placing booms around the timber to keep it from floating away.

Tramways Under Water.

All the tramways of the lumber companies are under water and everything is at a standstill. Hundreds of men are idle and the streets are thronged with people as a result of the shutdown.

Dunlap island is nearly covered with water and nearly all of the residents have moved off. Hundreds of people watch the floods, which is the highest since 1897.

Those who are in a position to know do not anticipate this to last more than two or three days longer.

The only manufacturing plants running are those of the Northwest Paper company and the Rathborne Hair & Ridgway company box factory.

PRESIDENT TO PLANT TREE ON HIGHWAY

Washington, April 24.—When President Wilson goes to Princeton, N. J., tomorrow to vote at the presidential primaries, he will plant a tree there along the route of the Lincoln highway. Governor Fielder of New Jersey will also plant a tree. The president will remain in Princeton only a brief time, leaving Washington tomorrow morning and returning tomorrow night. Mrs. Wilson will accompany him.

Springtime
and the Wonderlift

THE ancient heathen festival, from which our Easter is derived, symbolized renewed hope, revived health and happiness, and a re-awakening to all the joys and beauties of life.

Apart from its religious significance, this Spirit of the Springtime touches the heart of nearly every human being, in every land. Like Art, it conveys a message, spoken in a universal language, that appeals to every race, sect and creed. It gives promise of something better—of release from things that worry or oppress; of a revival of all that is beautiful, healthful and good.

Somewhat analagous—more practical, though not without sentiment—is the message of the "Self-Help" Nemo Wonderlift Corset.

This message shows how the figure Nature has given you can be beautified by the development of graceful and symmetrical lines.

It gives promise of better health, which means better looks and greater happiness.

It renews hope in the hearts of the host of women whose aches and pains this remarkable corset will relieve and often cure—and, better yet, will surely prevent.

This message of the Wonderlift can be understood by all women. Its appeal is universal. It tells of the beautiful and the helpful. Its promise will be made good.

"Self-Help" Nemo Wonderlift Corsets are now sold in most good stores and shops. Models to suit every figure—even extremes of slender and stout. The prices are $5, $7.50 and $10.

CHICAGO PEOPLE MUST CLEAN UP, SAYS MAYOR

Chicago, April 24.—Today is the first day of what is expected to be the greatest "cleanup" period Chicago has ever experienced. Following a proclamation by Mayor William Hale Thompson calling upon citizens to clean up their premises and distribution by the police of 300,000 "notices," reciting the provisions of ordinances concerning waste material in yards and buildings, a season of two weeks has opened for the cleaning up of the city.

The Chicago Association of Commerce and other organizations, assisted by thousands of school children, will co-operate with property owners in making the "spring cleaning" a success.

TODAY IN HISTORY.

Daniel Defoe died, 1731.

Defoe was born in 1661, the son of a London butcher. Was educated for a dissenting minister, but attempted a business career and failed. Took part in the Monmouth rebellion, and in 1688 joined King William. Tried business again, and went bankrupt. Wrote essays and pamphlets, and for one pamphlet saying "dissenters should be banished and their preachers hanged" was imprisoned and pilloried. Remained active in public controversies, being imprisoned again in 1713 therefor, till his death. Was one of the greatest narrative writers England has produced, though "Robinson Crusoe," published in 1719 and the most popular fiction of his time, is the only work that survives.

READING (available in Duluth public library)—Thomas Wright, "Life of Daniel Defoe" (interesting and well illustrated); Wm. Minto, "Daniel Defoe" (readable and reliable).

OUR BEST-LOVED EX-PRESIDENT.

William Howard Taft, former president of the United States, is a guest of Duluth today. He is here to lecture at the First Methodist church on the Monroe doctrine, and this is an important subject on which those who go to hear him may be assured of clear, cogent enlightenment.

Duluth is glad and proud to be host to Judge Taft. The Herald is glad indeed to express the city's welcome, and hopes it can make it sound as warm and sincere as it feels it to be.

We have disagreed with Judge Taft on many things, but never without retaining a thorough liking and respect for him. Through all the hot controversies of his presidency, and the hot controversies since, he has always been a gentleman. He has preserved throughout the rarely valuable faculty of disarming hot-tempered opponents by a consummate good nature and a poise not to be shaken by the fevered gusts of the moment's passion. His conduct during the trying times of the last year has been a fine example of sound citizenship and a reproach to narrow and bitter partisans.

If in our public discussions we could have a good deal less passion and a good deal more of Judge Taft's calm, poised and sensible equanimity, we should have less heat and more light, and we would travel faster toward the goal of truth.

Our hat is off and our welcoming hand is out to the fine, lovable gentleman who is Duluth's guest today, and to whom we wish every peace and satisfaction that the best of good fortune can bring him.

Roosevelt says the president acted too late, and that if he'd acted any sooner than he did he would have done wrong. Talk about predestination!

A CITY ART COMMISSION.

Most cities now have building departments of more or less efficiency, and building ordinances of more or less value. Duluth has a good building department, and an uncommonly good building ordinance. These municipal activities now cover safety, sanitation, virtually everything, indeed, except LOOKS.

There is nothing now to prevent the looks of a community from being destroyed by unsightly buildings. A building may comply fully with every existing requirement, and still be an eyesore.

F. W. Fitzpatrick of Washington—some time of Duluth—who is a veritable fountain of aggressive good ideas, has a new one. In the American Contractor he proposes city art commissions whose duty it shall be "to see to it that our eyes are not as cruelly afflicted as they have had to be with unsightly buildings, atrocious designs, advertising displays in bad taste and that sort of thing."

"We have now," he says, "fairly efficient building departments in every city to look after the construction of buildings; there is legislation adequate to protect our olfactory nerves and our hearing by the elimination of boiler shops and smelly factories to remote districts." Why not, he asks in effect, take equally good care of our sense of sight? Why not, indeed? If there are arguments against his plan it would be interesting to hear them. Good arguments for it will occur to anybody—will present themselves forcibly to anybody's vision in any walk along any street.

"The city art commissions," says Mr. Fitzpatrick, "should co-operate with the building departments and pass on all plans for all buildings, private as well as public. Not that I am clamoring for a certain style of architecture, or that greater expense and elaboration be insisted upon in private buildings. All I want is that our eyes should not be abused, offended, murdered, any more than we permit our ears and noses to be. Buildings on any one block should conform to certain major lines; they should not be allowed to scream at each other; there should be a certain harmony of color and material, an effort made toward the really artistic.

"As it is now buildings are planted down, every one different from the other, a new and sometimes startling creation every twenty-five feet, for all the world as if a confectioner attempted a novel confection by sticking together slices of every imaginable kind, color, shape and previous condition of cake he could lay hands on and then wonder at the hodge-podge effect. • • • It's a big field; there's endless work to be done in it. We need to cultivate beauty in our homes, in our schools, in our streets, everywhere in our lives and wherever we are, and we'll be the better for it. They say cleanliness is next to godliness, and I maintain beauty is first cousin to cleanliness; nay, I do believe they are twins."

It sounds a little startling to hear of a city commission to pass upon the designs of all our buildings, but that's because it is new.

It has much to commend it. It's a step we shall sometime take, inevitably. It has a good sponsor in its present advocate. It is a proposal that is worth watching—worth keeping in mind while we take note of the jarring disharmonies that buildings present when they lack such a co-ordinating impulse toward symmetry and beauty as Mr. Fitzpatrick proposes.

And just think what the cold weather would have done to the mosquitoes if there'd been any around.

"HUMANITY FIRST."

To hear some of President Wilson's political enemies talk about his stand for "humanity first," one might think it a crime to put the interests of humanity higher than selfish interests. Yet it is no crime, but on the contrary the highest morals, the most perfect Christianity, the most consummate practicality, the best international politics, the only road to world peace, the only invincible armament.

Nor did Mr. Wilson invent the idea, as you might also imagine from the crudely partisan abuse that is being heaped upon him for it. Christ lived a shining life and founded a great religion on that creed.

For that matter, neither is Mr. Wilson the first president of the United States to lay down this noble doctrine. These words are from the farewell address of George Washington, the first president of the United States:

> Observe good faith and justice toward all nations; cultivate peace and harmony with all. • • • It will be worthy of a free, enlightened and, at no distant period, a great nation, TO GIVE TO MANKIND THE MAGNANIMOUS AND TOO NOVEL EXAMPLE OF A PEOPLE ALWAYS GUIDED BY AN EXALTED JUSTICE AND BENEVOLENCE.
>
> Who can doubt but, in the course of time and things, the fruits of such a plan would richly repay any temporary advantages which might be lost by a steady adherence to it? Can it be that Providence has not connected the permanent felicity of a nation with its virtue? The experiment, at least, is recommended by every sentiment which ennobles human nature.

Woodrow Wilson's stand for humanity first and for the United States as the champion and exemplar of human rights before national greed is such an experiment. That partisans who have placed party above country, money above manhood, privilege above people, should not be able to understand it and should deride it is not surprising. Anything else would be surprising.

That noble ideal—which the future will prove to be the highest practicality—Woodrow Wilson is interpreting in his leadership of the American people. He interpreted it when, even to a possible national disadvantage, he compelled the performance of a national pledge in the matter of the Panama canal tolls. He interprets it now when, in his dealings with Germany and Mexico, he puts the interests of humanity higher than the selfish interests of American property, and asks for America nothing but what he has a right to ask for humanity. It is big, fine, noble, splendid. It is the perfect armament, the invincible armament. It is the power of righteousness, against which arms clash in vain. If it is too large, too fine, too noble for some people to understand, the trouble is not with Washington and Wilson, but with those who cannot understand.

Maybe that announcement that there are vast beds of coal in the South Polar regions will make the coal companies change their minds about not putting prices down again this spring—maybe.

When Birds Migrate.

St. Nicholas: In flying from Europe to Africa birds cross the Mediterranean sea at a point where the water is so shallow that it is believed the two continents were formerly connected there. The land bridge, which it is thought formerly guided the birds in their flight, has disappeared, but the habit of crossing at this particular place still remains.

Though I do not know of any cases of this kind in America, we shall find equally interesting facts concerning the air-lines of our birds. For example, how do you suppose the little wheatear, no larger than a bluebird, formed the habit of migrating from Europe to Greenland? Probably he comes by way of England and Iceland, but at the best it is a long journey, and seems to take the bird much farther than it is necessary to go. In the autumn he goes back to winter in Africa.

Doubtless some European water birds visit us every year, but the wheatear, so far as I know, is the only land bird which migrates regularly between North America and Africa. With this exception, no North American land birds leave the Western hemisphere in their migrations. Their motto might be "See America First!" Certainly, many of them see a large part of it.

The birds of the Western United States are not such great travelers as those of the Eastern part of our country. Some of them only travel from the higher parts of the Rocky mountains or Sierras, where they nest, to the low, warm valleys in which they winter.

Those that leave the United States go into Mexico. Some continue their journey as far south as Guatemala, but few go farther south than that. They can, therefore, make their journey overland, and so do not encounter the dangers to which many of our Eastern migrants are exposed.

The Party of Surrender

Editorial in the New York Times.

The Republicans have been making a pretense of indignation against Mr. Wilson's foreign policy. They want something more "vigorous" and "spirited," though they take good pains not to define or give any clear notion of what changes they would favor. It happens that the Republican party has been making in congress and out of congress a record of pitiable and abject surrender of American rights, of complicity in and support of a foreign policy weak and spineless and cowardly. The country has not forgotten and it will not forget that 103 of the 142 votes against the tabling of the McLemore resolution were votes of Republican representatives and 5 votes of Progressive representatives. Half of the Republicans in the house were willing to give up the clear right of Americans to embark upon the ships of belligerents. Five-sevenths of the Progressive strength in the house approved the same counsel of impotence. Yet the Progressives are even more virulent than the Republicans against Mr. Wilson's "failure" to protect the national honor.

The country has not forgotten and the Democrats will take good care that it does not forget in the next campaign that of the fourteen votes in the senate against tabling the Gore resolution only two were cast by Democrats, twelve by Republicans. As if to make a sharper impression upon the public mind of the contrast between the swelling words of some Republican critics of Mr. Wilson and the official action of the Republican electorate in a number of states, three of the senators who voted for the Gore resolution, Sherman of Illinois, La Follette of Wisconsin, Cummins of Iowa, further recommended to "the German vote," the pacifists, and other opponents of the administration by advocacy of a munitions embargo or unpreparedness, or both, have been declared to be the official Republican choice for president in their own or other states. The Republicans of Illinois, the Dakotas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska voted in their primaries for men who notoriously oppose the assertion of American rights. To accentuate the irony of the impudence of the Republican pretense compared with the Republican acts, the South Dakota Republicans thunder in resolutions for the necessity of a Republican president in the White House to secure protection for the life and property of Americans at home and abroad, and nominate as their candidate for that president Mr. Cummins, that most magnanimous apostle of surrender.

Mr. Root is unfortunately running alongside of Mr. Roosevelt's Belgian hobbyhorse. Mr. Roosevelt is not estopped or stopped by anything, not even the memory of his own words in 1914 in favor of the very conduct which he now deplores and detests. The Belgian proposals of Mr. Roosevelt have fallen flat. The majority of the country is palpably in favor of Mr. Wilson's correct attitude in the matter. Mr. Justice Hughes is the real or stalking horse candidate of many Republicans. So far as they are sincere they are willing to take on trust his opinions. He may favor a weaker or a stronger policy than Mr. Wilson's. He may approve it as it is.

The Republican party is in a pitiable position. Whomsoever it names for president, whatever ululation it emits about Mr. Wilson's foreign policy, how is it to live down the record of its own shame, its vote on the McLemore and the Gore resolution?

Take T. R. or Get Wilson

Waterbury American (Rep): The Progressives have become confident enough or desperate enough to indulge in threats, that for them it is Roosevelt or nobody. A common form of the threat, by implication if not in words, is that the Republicans cannot elect anyone else than Roosevelt any more than they could in 1912, and for the same reason; that his followers will not vote for anyone else, and that there will probably be a third ticket.

Charles S. Bird, the Bull Moose leader in Massachusetts, puts it into these words, saying that as between Roosevelt and Wilson the Progressives prefer Roosevelt, of course, but as between Wilson and any other man, most of them would be for Wilson. Then he sets forth the claim that Wilson has carried out the Progressive policies to some extent. James R. Garfield of Ohio, who was in Roosevelt's cabinet, declares that if Roosevelt is beaten for the nomination there will be a bolt, which will result in the election of Wilson, as it did in 1912. These are two pretty strong samples.

If the Republicans believe that things will work as these men say, they will be scared into nominating Roosevelt, as they want to win above all things. Of course there are many Republicans who are as determined not to vote for Roosevelt as these are not to vote for anybody else. But these are quiet people who are not counted till they vote.

"Not Without Honor."

Doran's Literary News: An old woodsman friend who knew that Henry Oyen, author of "The Man Trail," a tale of lumberjacks, had been in newspaper work, but who had only a vague idea of what that was, recently met Oyen's brother up North, and after greetings said:

"I ain't seen Hank lately. What's he doin' now?"

"Oh," replied the brother, "Henry's quit the newspaper business and is writing stories. Had a book published just a short time ago."

"Writin' stories, eh," he said. "What's the matter, couldn't Hank make a go of it as a printer?"

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason

The Singer.

I sing my song the whole day long, and keep my harp a-going, to try to cheer the people near, while dodging bricks they're throwing. I sing of hope and all such dope, of gay and bright tomorrows, of canning care and black despair, and putting lids on sorrows. Year after year this sort of cheer, I'm tirelessly providing, and my winged steed keeps up his speed, though galled by too much riding. Throughout this land the folks will stand a lot of misfit singing, if but the bard, when whooping hard, a gladsome note is springing. Though cracked his voice, if he'll rejoice, and laugh at woe and wailing, men will remark, "Long may his bark on smiling seas be sailing!" Yet poets write of starless night, and ghouls and women weeping, of lovers dead and vampires dread that batten on the sleeping. The dismal pote oft finds his goat has from his keeping wandered; his odes won't bring enough, by jing, to have his nightie laundered. For in this vale the rhythmic wail will never tempt the buyers, who'll blow their piles for cheerful smiles and lays by lilting liars.

Why Not "The Atrocious War?"

Editorial in the Kansas City Star.

What name will history give this war? Some of the great wars are known by the number of years they lasted, as: The Hundred Years' war, a series of wars between England and France beginning in 1338; the Seven Years' war, by Austria, France and Russia against Frederick the Great, one of the greatest wars of the Eighteenth century, resulting in the raising of Prussia to the front rank of European powers, and the developing of England's colonial empire; the Thirty Years' war, a religious and political war in Central Europe.

Kitchener said this war might last three years, in which event it might be known as the Three Years' war, or it might continue twenty years and be known as the Twenty Years' war.

Many wars have taken their names from the countries engaged, as the Franco-Prussian, the Russo-Japanese, the Spanish-American, but this war cannot follow that precedent—too many countries are in it.

Sometimes a war is named after the place in which it is fought, as the Crimean war. Often the name comes from a nation or race engaged, as the Trojan wars, waged for ten years by the confederated Greeks against the Trojans; the Punic wars, which include the three wars waged by Rome against the Carthaginians, the Norman conquest, in which William the Conqueror and his Normans overran Britain in 1066; the Boer war, waged by the British against the Boers of South Africa.

Other wars are named after the thing for which they were fought, as the War of Liberation, fought by Germany in 1813-14 to get free from Napoleonic oppression; the War of the Spanish Succession, said to have been begun because a lady of the Spanish court spilled a glass of water in a royal lap; the War of the Austrian Succession, between Austria and England against France, Bavaria, Prussia, Spain and Sardinia, the principal question involved being the right of Maria Theresa to succeed to the Austrian throne.

Occasionally wars are named after the year in which they began, as our War of 1812 and the Revolution of 1848, applied to the German revolution.

The War of Jenkins' Ear, between Spain and Great Britain in 1739, took its name from Robert Jenkins, a British sea captain, who was captured by the Spaniards and his ear nailed to a ship's mast. The Wars of the Roses was betwoen the adherents of the British rival royal houses of Lancaster and York, the badge of one faction being a red rose and that of the other a white one.

This war may be known as the War of 1914. If Germany wins and overruns France and Great Britain as she has Belgium, Poland and Serbia it may be known as the German Conquest. At its beginning American writers referred to it as the European war, but it has got beyond that, having spread to Asia, threatening to go to Africa, with remote possibilities of America becoming involved.

Magazine and newspaper writers in this country and Europe call it the World war, the Big war and the Great war. The popular name for it today is the Great war, and it will probably be called that long after peace has been declared. It is the great war—by far the greatest of all history in the number of nations engaged, the number of men fighting in it, its cost, its loss of life and of property, its destructiveness from every point of view.

Military experts estimate that the British empire has about 4,000,000 men in this war, or ready for it, in addition to 350,000 men in the British navy; that Germany has between 6,000,000 and 8,000,000 men; France 4,000,000 to 6,000,000; Russia 8,000,000 to 10,000,000; Austria-Hungary, Italy, Turkey, Bulgaria and others 6,000,000 to 8,000,000, a total of from 28,000,000 36,000,000 fighting men in this war now. These figures are estimates given recently in the British parliament.

It is costing Britain $22,000,000 a day and parliament has voted $3,000,000 a day more to care for increases. Britain has voted $10,500,000,000 for the war since it began. Enough stores have been bought by Britain alone for her army to suffice for 140 years in peace times. This was stated by the British chancellor of the exchequer, who also stated that the war had already cost France a fraction less than $8,000,000,000 and Germany upwards of $6,000,000,000.

T. R., Peacemaker.

About my nature there exists
A very grave misunderstanding.
Men picture me with knitted fists,
A military force commanding.
Or, in the ring,
A deadly swing
Upon a solar plexus landing.
Ah! why do not such slanders cease?
I am for Peace! I am for Peace!

I must admit that it is true
I have a most belligerent manner.
Fire breathes from out my nostrils two,
The while I wave a crimson banner.
Yet I'm as mild
As any child!
I wouldn't even skin a Tanner!
When I insist on troops' increase
I am for Peace! I am for Peace!

I still may use the ugly word
To show a man is unveracious,
But you are perfectly absurd
To say this proves I am pugnacious.
For common use
I now let loose
No stronger phrase than "Goodness gracious!"
No more I scorch the foeman's fleece.
I am for Peace! I am for Peace!

Of course, if I am smitten by
A person in a way ungentle,
And get a decorated eye
Or suffer in the region dental,
I give that chap
My one-two rap
And make his face unornamental.
But there's no need to call "Police!"
I am for Peace! I am for Peace!

In other words, if I desire
To punch a man on his proboscis,
Or set my countrymen on fire,
While giving rivals double-crosses,
Don't think I'm for
The work of Thor
Or laugh when lives pile up as losses.
I'm mild as if my name were Blease!
And I'm for Peace! Yes, I'm for Peace!
—John O'Keefe in the New York World.

Music a Social Force.

Kansas City Star: A long time ago it was discovered that songs are better than laws to keep folks out of prison.

Good music clings to the memory, ready with its good argument for every occasion. It is conceivable that a great composer may record in a symphony or work of lighter form his own record of some moral victory won, and that years after the death of the composer the subtle and impassioned record of his victory may be heard by a concert audience. It is conceivable that a large percentage of the audience may be definitely helped to gain similar moral victories. It is not beyond belief that campaigns against vice might be rendered the more unnecessary by campaigns for good music.

Cautious.

Washington Star: "Are you a presidential candidate?"

"I refuse to answer," replied Senator Sorghum. "If I say 'yes' it might be taken as a joke, and if I say 'no' it might be taken seriously."

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Scattered Comments By and About Newspapers In the Gopher State.

Give the Style-Makers Time.

From the way some men bother over feminine styles, you'd think they had to wear clothes instead of merely paying for and looking at them. Here's the latest from the Crookston Times: "According to one editor, the woman of today outstrips all her predecessors. But he seems to have forgotten Mother Eve."

Circumstantial Evidence.

Circumstantial evidence is often flimsy, but once in a while you find a case where it's enough to convict the victim without question. The Argyle Banner gives a case in point, thus: "A Crookston man claims to have invented a drag that will eradicate quack grass. That man is either crazy or a coming millionaire. His actions will be watched in the future, to say the least."

The Brute!

Doesn't the editor of the Bemidji Pioneer know that wife-beating has gone so completely out of vogue that it simply isn't done any more? He should have looked into this before writing the following: "The wise man never stops to argue with a sharp-tongued wife. He beats it."

Why Discourage Us?

Of all the most discouraging instances of throwing cold water on budding hopes, the Dawson Sentinel furnishes the worst, with these words: "There will be no 'efficiency and economy' legislation until politicians stop playing politics with the 'efficiency and economy' issue. Putting somebody in the hole' may be good politics, but it is damnable statesmanship and rotten patriotism."

No, Nor the Hammock.

The Sauk Center Herald stands up for the good old days as against new-fangled contraptions, thus: "Some of the Eastern colleges are talking of establishing a chair of matrimony. It will be no improvement on the old-fashioned sofa."

This Will Be a New Idea to Some.

Here's a bit of a lecture from the Deerwood Times that ought to be hammered into the head of every young (or old) fool who tries to make himself popular by the idiocy route: "Say, Mr. Married Man, it is not necessary for you to go out with the fellows in the office and blow a hole in your salary in order to be respected by them. As a matter of fact they will have more respect for you if you take home your pay envelope unopened.

"The man who ridicules the married man for refusing to go out with the bunch on pay-day night is not the sort who is of any account. His help will never be worth a pickled picayune to you."

"And Didn't He Ramble—"

Elbert Bede is some mover, though not in the movie business. Here's the record of one of his ventures, in which he seems to have struck a congenial locality, at least, if the Portland Oregonian's figures are right: "The twenty-second change in the newspaper and printing business in Cottage Grove, Or., since Elbert Bede bought the Sentinel less than five years ago, took place recently when Elbert Smith took over a quarter interest in the Sentinel."

North Dakota Notions

Various Views Expressed by Newspapers of That State.

Some Pessimist, This.

A Theory as to Hughes.

Grand Forks Herald: He (Justice Hughes) may feel that for him to declare that he would not accept a nomination if it were tendered him would be to place himself in the egotistical position of assuming that there is such an overwhelming demand for his nomination, and such a probability of it being given him, that it is necessary for him to take unprecedented steps to ward it off. It is quite within the bounds of possibility that he may intend fully to decline the nomination if it is tendered him, but that he is too modest to believe that it will be tendered without any effort on his part to obtain it.

Would Make Potato Men Lyers.

Bismarck Tribune: The state food inspector of Michigan has discovered that old potatoes treated in a solution of lye can be made to look like genuine new potatoes. That's interesting, but what we want to know is whether the tubers so treated taste like new potatoes or soap.

Think of That, Now!

Minot Optic-Reporter: The Germans have got to hand it to us in military efficiency. The American army got farther from home in two weeks than the German army has in two years.

Roosevelt and Hughes.

Devils Lake Journal: So far as Hughes is concerned, the cards are stacked, and the Roosevelt crowd will make sure that the nomination never comes to him on terms in which he, as a justice of the United States supreme court, can acquiesce. If Hughes were ready, like Roosevelt, to take the nomination on any terms, in any circumstances, on any platform and by any arrangement, he might control the convention, but that kind of Hughes fortunately does not exist.

The Root Keynote.

Devils Lake Journal: Former Senator Root's speech before the New York Republican convention has been heralded as the keynote of the Republican campaign. Inasmuch as the only possible interpretation of that speech is that the United States should go to war with Germany and Mexico, there will be no mourning in Democratic circles if it is officially adopted as the Republican attitude.

White Shoes.

Fargo Courier-News: Out in the rain and mud white shoes look helpless. Yet they answer the purpose for which they were intended—attract attention.

A Brickbat in An Academic Speech

San Francisco Bulletin: President Wilson hit the Republican party in the vest when he characterized it as an organization believing in government by a "carefully handpicked body of trustees." This truthful brickbat brightened up what was otherwise an academic speech. It pointed the way to Republicanism's weakest spot. Whatever happens to Woodrow Wilson the Republican party will not win this fall unless it can ocnvince a majority of voters that as a result of the Progressive party episode it has ceased to be the valet of the great plutocratic interests. If it wins it will be because the voters think, rightly or wrongly, that the principles of Lincoln are again in the ascendency in a party which so long honored them in words and dishonored them by its allegiance to government of the powerful, by the powerful and for the powerful.

Wisdom.

Washington Star: "Do you intend to take any steps to contradict the people who misrepresent you?"

"No," replied Senator Sorghum. "When you contradict something you run the risk of a whole lot of people who never would have heard about it if you had kept still."

They Miss the Point

Editorial in the Chicago Herald.

Senators and representatives who criticize President Wilson for his note to Germany miss the point. This is not whether we desire a diplomatic rupture with Germany—possibly to be followed by a war.

Every sane man knows we do not and that President Wilson does not.

It is whether the situation calls for any action on the part of this government or not. If it does, there was absolutely nothing else for the president to do.

Do these gentlemen deny that action was called for? Will they affirm that it is the duty of this government to remain silent and unresisting in the face of the accumulating evidence that our rights are less and less respected by German submarine commanders? Does the Sussex, that latest instance of an unlawful and murderous attack on an unarmed passenger steamer, counsel a continuance of our patience? Is there to be no limit to the betrayal of our confidence, to outrages on humanity, to breaches of international law, to violations of our neutral rights?

Attack on President Wilson for his recent step means nothing less than a declaration that this nation is willing to swallow any and every affront—even the continued destruction of the lives of its citizens—that Germany chooses to offer.

President Wilson had done everything that could be done to bring Berlin to its senses—short of threatening an immediate rupture of relations. He had borne patiently with disingenuous evasions. He had hoped that Berlin's promises might be translated into performances. He had left no peaceful and friendly process of adjustment untried. All efforts had failed. It was an ultimatum or nothing.

If senators and representatives wish to go on record as maintaining that our government should merely keep on talking while our citizens keep on dying—to keep on trusting or feigning to trust while the evidence of gross breach of faith keeps on accumulating—they are entitled to do so.

But they are not entitled to sail under false colors. They should base their action on the only ground on which it can logically rest.

They should proclaim boldly the new doctrine that there can be no insult and outrage from Germany which they would resent and to which they would not have the American people submit.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

"In the multitude of my thoughts within me Thy comforts delight my soul."—Ps. xciv, 19.

It is characteristic of minds which are aspiring in their piety, and which have begun to reap the reward of arduous devotional culture, to be habitually conversant with God. Such minds are constantly looking up. In the very midst of earthly toils, they seize moments of relief to spring up to the eminence of meditation, where they love to dwell. In the discharge of duties most unfriendly to holy joy, they are apt to experience a buoyancy of impulse towards a heavenly plane of thought, which it may even require a power of self-denial to keep down.—Austin Phelps.

"In her tongue is the law of kindness."—Prov. xxxi, 26.

All usefulness and all comfort may be prevented by an unkind, a sour, crabbed temper of mind—a mind that can bear with no difference of opinion or temperament. A spirit of fault-finding; an unsatisfied temper; a constant irritability; little inequalities in the look, the temper, the manner; a brow cloudy and dissatisfied—your husband or your wife cannot tell why—will more than neutralize all the good you can do, and render life anything but a blessing.—Albert Barnes.

DENIES PROHIBITION PROTECTS THE WEAK

To the Editor of The Herald:

In a sermon recently reported in your columns, a Duluth minister urges prohibition for the protection of the "weaker brother." Probably the divine in question would be surprised if I were to suggest that proper regulation of the local sale of liquor is a far safer way to protect the "weaker brother" than is prohibition of the variety now being suggested for Duluth.

Many who advocate prohibition believe that it means the actual extinction of all liquor. But the Anti-Saloon league, wherever it controls, makes no move in that direction. Instead, it merely forbids the local sale, at the same time letting the bars down for shipments from outside "for personal use."

How protect the "weaker brother" when the demand is merely supplied in perfectly legal manner by the dealer outside the bounds of Duluth instead of by a home dealer? Can the mail-order dealer outside know when liquor is ordered by an inebriate or by a minor? Can there be any protection against such sales such as there can be under the local sales system?

How protect the "weaker brother," too, against the bootlegger, the blind-tiger owner or the operator of the kitchen-bar? It is a matter of experience that these violators of law spring up like mushrooms the minute the ban is put upon the local sale of liquor. In his 1914 report, William H. Osborn, United States internal revenue commissioner, said in this connection that "bootlegging is principally carried on in states operating under local prohibition laws, and appears to be one of the hardest propositions that revenue officers are called upon to solve."

Operating in defiance of law, anxious to make the maximum sales to compensate for the risks they are taking, this class can hardly be expected to help the "weaker brother." In a letter to President Wilson in 1914, Richmond Pearson Hobson, leading prohibitionist, said that "these blind-tigers and blind-pigs and other low dives are the chief agents which debauch the boys."

A newspaper clipping at hand from Washington state is apropos. Washington has had prohibition of the local sale of liquor since Jan. 1, 1915. The Tacoma Ledger reports that on April 8 the Longshoremen's union demanded of the commissioner of public safety in that city that he prevent soft-drink emporiums and drug stores from "selling raw alcohol and other 'poisonous intoxicants' to members of their union, which are wrecking them mentally and physically."

In an interview, M. E. Wright, one of the committee protesting, said: "I can't say that any more of our men, or as many of them, drink as before the dry law went into effect; but those who do drink are getting a terrible brand of booze. It's wrecking them mentally and physically, making them unfit for work and everything."

Protection of the "weaker brother" is thoroughly in line with present-day views of our duty towards others; but investigation will show that proper regulation of the liquor trade is a much more certain way than prohibition, just as it is a much more certain factor in the advance towards real temperance. Very truly yours,

T. M. GILMORE,
President National Model License League.

"GOOD-BY, TEDDY."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have always been a Republican—except four years ago, when I Bull-Moosed—and a thick-and-thin Roosevelt man. But a man who will see in a great national crisis only an opportunity for nagging and bushwhacking to elevate himself by tearing down the president of the United States is not big enough to get my vote for president; so—good-by, Teddy!

"SANE LOGIC" AGAIN ADDRESSES "AMERICAN"

To the Editor of The Herald:

I thank Mr. "American" for his article in yesterday's Open Court, for it has removed from my mind a torturing thought. I had searched in vain for a term applicable to his peculiar system of logic. But all that is over now, for he has come to my rescue with the gratifying news that he used no logic.

Then he tells us something about Mr. C. Evil. A little simple psychology would convince him that an evil can be created by thinking and talking of it and preparing for it, although it may have been originally non-existent. A good portion of the cases of sickness, mental as well as physical, are caused in this way. And in the case of national preparedness such chances are enhanced by national prejudice and that innate love of fight. No evil exists, in the present national case, except the creation of our own minds. Whenever the armament ring desires more money and the military class desires satisfaction of its developed propensities, they touch us with the magic wand and we immediately see the old, sanguinary Satan with his fists clenched, with a few billion dollars' worth of horse power, just as we see a terrible ghost when the curtain sways near our pillows at night.

Terrifying, Mr. "American," isn't it? Surely! And the next night you would be ready with a gun to shoot the threatening ghost. And when your neighbor hears you rattle the gun a little he'll get scared, too, and prepare for the ghost. And then, most likely, the triggers of the guns will be coaxed till they go off.

And what happens next? Ah, that is the most exciting of it all. Of course, as you say, you don't love your neighbor as much as you love yourself, so what do you care so long as he gets the worst of it? But who was right? Better ask Shakespeare about that.

But Mr. "American," you tell us that the war with Spain was justified by its results. What results? Spain was ready before the war began to make full concessions with regard to Cuba. Maybe you don't know that, but if you study carefully the diplomatic correspondence between Spain and our country you'll find that to be the case. But we have the Philippines. Goodness, I nearly forgot them; they may give us an excuse to start something over there.

But the "dewdrop!" If you will reread my previous article you will notice that I said a "dewdrop." I didn't restrict the epithet to this nation alone. And excuse me for the figurative language, for I notice it's a little too deep for you. I simply wanted to impress upon you the fact that our country isn't the whole cheese, as "loyal Americans" think it is. I hope you understand now. As ever,

SANE LOGIC.

ANOTHER PROTEST AGAINST "RUINS" AND BILLBOARDS

To the Editor of The Herald:

Not long ago a "convalescent" wrote to the Open Court protesting against the policy of making East Superior street look like the run-down end of the abandoned main street of a deserted village. He was objecting to the ramshackle ruins and billboards that infest that locality. My heart warmed to him, and I said to myself, "If being sick and then getting convalescent will make people see these disgraceful things that they couldn't see before, then for heaven's sake let the whole town get sick, and especially the city commissioners."

But my wish failed, Mr. Editor, and now I want to ask the commissioners, through the Open Court, what they are going to do about this? They've even allowed another billboard row to go up. The things are blossoming in riotous colors all along the street from Second avenue east to Eighth avenue east. And they emphasize and are emphasized by disgraceful wrecks of buildings that ought to have been torn down years ago.

What are you thinking of, you East Superior street people, to stand for such abortions on the way to your homes? Up-to-date and progressive cities are doing away with unsightly and dangerous buildings. Duluth is hanging onto them as if her existence depended on them—and calling attention to them by letting flaring billboards be stuck up all around.

Can't we do anything about it?

Aren't we going to do anything about it?

Why doesn't somebody in authority get busy? FRED HARKINS.

Duluth, Minn., April 22, 1916.

Rich American Fiction.

THE RUDDER. My Mary S. Watts, author of "Van Cleve," "Nathan Burke," etc. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.50.

Mrs. Watts writes good, honest stories of American life—rich in reality, sound in workmanship, showing a sure grasp of human materials and an increasing power of narration. The present volume is as fine a thing as she has done.

The central figure is intended to be Eleanor Miranda, who is straightforward, frank, spirited, with a heart to feel for struggling humanity and a tongue that can be merciless against inadequate persons. One is led to expect, too, that she would have a mind to detect the false and the true; and it is somewhat disappointing when she succumbs first to "Butch Loring," a rich young "roughneck," blunt and blundering, a lowbrowed brute, and later almost succumbs to T. Chauncey Devitt, demagogue. But there are several figures contending with Eleanor for the spotlight: her step-mother, Juliet Miranda, a marvel of ineptitude, human incompetence, selfishness and injudiciousness, and, like all such, stupidly conceited and cocksure; T. (Tim) Chauncey Devitt, whom we meet as valedictorian of his freshwater college class, who took himself and everything else but honor most seriously, who was ashamed of his workman father and mother, who was an imitation genius, a great man who makes a flivver of life, using his oratorical powers as the tool of a labor grafter; Marshall Cook, Eleanor's uncle, a sophisticated and successful author, drily humorous and penetrating, a shrewd student of people with a genius for companionship, and who, at the risk of having somebody say a woman wrote this we must call a "dear:" the elder Devitt, a fine picture of a self-respecting workman who has risen to the contractor level; the elder Loring, the "ice king," a type of hardheaded, practical and successful business man with an utter lack of heart and social vision; and others almost as interesting.

In part, the book is a glance at the seamy under-side of the labor movement, involving an expose of corrupt labor agitators and their works that wholly blinks the favorable side of the union movement. After the inevitable failure of her match with young Loring, Nellie acquired a social conscience and went into relief work among the poor, living with the Homer Moreheads—another group of telling characters, shiftless, footless, hopeless. An engrossing novel from first page to last. If a fault is to be found with it it is that the viewpoint both of society and individuals tends subtly to pessimism throughout, and that the strands want the firmer knitting of unity. But it is a masterly piece of character drawing that would put its creator in the front rank of American fictionists if she were not already there.

T. EVERETT HARRE,
Author of "Behold the Woman" (Lippincott's).

The Story of a Courtesan.

BEHOLD THE WOMAN! By T. Everett Harre. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1.35 net.

Mary of Alexandria was the daughter of a slave and a free woman. She dwelt in Alexandria in the days when Theodosius the Great was emperor of the East, when Alexandria was the world's greatest and richest mart, and when the Christians were just coming into power. Mary's young master, Maximilian, taught her love and was then killed by a lion. Her father, seeing her condition, showed her a harsh side of Christianity by having her stoned from his street. She became a courtesan; first a girl of the streets, mingling with the lowest, then the mistress of mighty men and the real ruler of pagan Alexandria. She learned a side of men that made her hate them. She gained power and wealth. Always she hated the Christians, and when Niobides, the powerful young monk, raised the Christians against the courtesans she spurred the pagan hordes on to bloody reprisals, the last great massacre of Christians. But like all who gain great power, she abused it, and in the end Niobides overthrew her, and again she took to the dark streets. Then she saw a chance for revenge, when she got a susceptible young monk to smuggle her aboard a galley in which Niobides was carrying rich presents to the temple at Jerusalem. Part of her revenge she got by corrupting and demoralizing his crew of monks, but at Jerusalem she heard of Mary Magdalene, and so she became a saint in the desert, mortifying her flesh and dying blessed.

It's a queer book. There are 400 closely packed pages of it. It is rather more a history, in its form of narration, than a romance. It lacks the novel's continuity and unity of interest, being nothing more or less than a highly colored history of a great and powerful prostitute. It is mentioned with "Quo Vadis," but "Quo Vadis" is a novel, and not a great one. It has a power all its own, though; its descriptions of a day when wantonness was a highly regarded art are, though not a catering to pruriency, warmly colored and forceful. Its fables of the drama and visions seen by the monks on Niobides' galley and by Mary in the desert impose a strain that taxes the imagination far beyond its capacity. At this stage of the book the author manifestly was carried off his feet. The style is luxuriant, even somewhat over-tropical; it would be better for a little restraint in the use of easily flowing adjectives. But at that it is a powerful tale, by which the imagination is captured speedily and from which it cannot escape, cannot even be driven away by the excesses and impossibilities over which it must stumble.

The Story of Cuban Sugar.

CUBAN CANE SUGAR. By Robert Wiles. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. 75 cents net.

Mr. Wiles tells an interesting story of the large sugar industry of Cuba, and makes it interesting not only to the general reader who may fancy the subject, but as well to investors and prospective investors in the Cuban sugar concerns. The book demonstrates that Cuban sugar forms one of the world's largest single enterprises, and that more capital is now being invested in it than in any single industry outside the United States.

THE CHILD'S BOOK OF ENGLISH BIOGRAPHY. By Mary Stovell Stimpson. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1 net.

This companion volume to "The Child's Book of American Biography" deals with well known English historical characters with whom and with the lives of whom all American children should be familiar. The sketches are well done, and include such humanly interesting points as that of Queen Elizabeth, when she was a little princess, had hardly enough clothes to wear; that the young Shakespeare used to get a living by holding gentlemen's horses before the theater where later his masterpieces were performed; that Raleigh took the first potatoes to England, and when the English wouldn't eat them planted them on his Irish estate; etc. Thirty eminent English men and women are treated biographically, and the book is interesting and instructive.

Health and the Community.

THE NEW PUBLIC HEALTH. By H. W. Hill, M. B., M. D., D. P. H. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.

(BY DR. E. W. FAHEY, DIRECTOR OF HEALTH, CITY OF DULUTH.)

This is a volume of up-to-date facts on the present and some of the future ideas on public health matters. The principles involved have been in operation for the past few years in most of the progressive health departments.

The book is written in a plain, legible, convincing style, which can be readily understood by the layman.

The work should be on the desks of editors, school teachers and in fact all who are in a position to bring such matters before the general public.

Education is the keynote of the treatise, and the author is to be commended for the excellence and practicability of his work.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretened to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person sending it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

"Inquirer," Eveleth, Minn.: (1) Where could I obtain "field notes" of a parcel of land in St. Louis county? (2) Can a party who cuts his own timber and puts it in a stream, drive his logs without having a bark mark on them?

Ans.: (1) The owner, whether state or individual, would be the only one sure to have them. (2) Yes.

"E. V.," Ironwood, Mich.: (1) Before the commencement of the European war, what was the population of Belgium? (2) Of Sweden?

Ans.: (1) 7,571,387. (2) 5,476,441.

Vasilli Sorokin, Duluth: Will you please tell me where the Russian soldiers came from to France—what port they embarked from? White sea will be frozen for a month yet at least. I cannot understand where they could have embarked.

Ans.: The Associated Press dispatches said they embarked at Archangel. Further than that the editor has no information. Russia has tremendous ice-breakers operating in the White sea that might easily have made a passage for the vessels.

Henry Cederberg, Duluth: Is it necessary for a young man to acquire citizenship papers, if he is born in this country, and his father, who is not an American citizen, does not take out his papers before his son is 21 years of age?

Ans.: No. Birth in this country makes him an American.

GLYCERINE AND BARK PREVENT APPENDICITIS

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, astonishes Duluth people. Because Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH lower and upper bowel, ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing. Requests have been received for the following:

"America, I Love You," and "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight," from "An Interested Reader," Duluth. ("Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight" is too long for publication here. It can be found in almost any collection of standard poetry, at the public library.)

"Mary of Argyle" and "On the Road to Happiness," from G. E. Frame of Orth, Minn.

Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold.

The hot winds that come to thee,
O'er desert sands all go from me,
I bid them to tell thee that I love thee,
Speeding my soul to thee.
Hot sands burning
Fire my veins with passion bold.
Love, I'll love thee, till the desert sands grow cold.
Love me—I'll love thee!

Refrain.

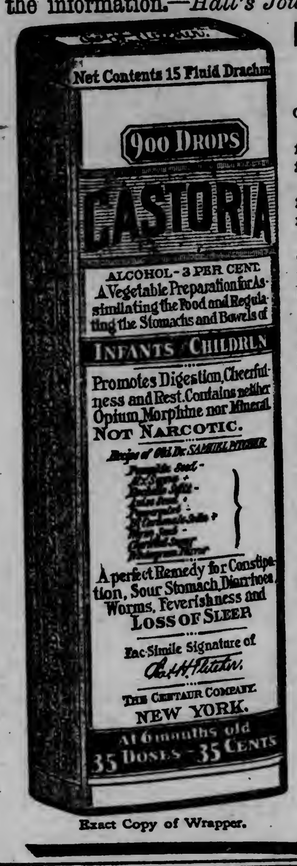
Till the sands of the desert grow cold,
And their infinite numbers are told,
God gave thee to me,
And mine thou shalt be,
Forever to have and to hold
Till the story of judgment is told,
And the mysteries of heaven unfold;
I'll turn love, to thee,
My shrine thou shalt be,
Till the sands of the desert grow cold.

The desert, a burning sea,
A barrier stands 'tween thee and me,
Or love, fast as light, I'd hasten to thee,
Quenching my thirst in thee,
Noon suns find me,
Far beyond the caravan,
Death there warns me, how vain is the strength of man!
Love me—I'll love thee!

Always in the Way.

Please, mister, take me in your car,
I want to see mamma;
They say she lives in heaven. Is it very, very far?
My new mamma is very cross and scolds me every day.
I guess she does not love me, for I'm always in the way.

Chorus.



Always in the way,
So they always say.
I wonder why they don't kiss me,
just the same as Sister May!
Always in the way,
I can never play.
My own mamma would never say, I'm always in the way.

The ride it ended all too soon. She toddled off alone,
A light shone from a window, and she peeped into the room.
"Please, tell me, is this heaven, ma'am, and will you let me stay?"
"Forever, child, for this is home, and you're not in the way."

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

BASKET BALL TOURNEY FOR CITY BOYS ENDS

Jefferson Team Wins Final Game From the Salter School 12 to 6.

The city boys' basket ball tournament, conducted by the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., closed Saturday night. The final games were between the Salters and the Jefferson Junior Athletic club. The game was close, and both teams were in good form, but in the second half the Jeffersons showed their superiority, and the game closed with a score of 12 to 6 in favor of the Jeffersons. Robert Todd was the star for the Jeffersons and all those who saw him play predict that he has the stuff for a big basket ball man.

The Sunday club yesterday was addressed by Harvey Hoshour. He spoke on college fraternities and, as many of the boys present yesterday were planning to go to college, his talk was full of interest and suggestion.

Miss Irene Long entertained the Knights of Sir Galahad with a reading. The Knights of Sir Galahad will continue their meetings until the middle of June, when all the members will go to Camp Miller for a week. The Sunday club will close its meeting for the season next Sunday. George Brewer will be the speaker. A special musical program is being arranged and the committee will serve lunch. All boys more than 15 years old are cordially invited.

A short term Bible study course will begin. The Wednesday dinner will be served at 6 o'clock. The club is for the older members.

The Hustler club will meet for dinner Friday evening, and after the dinner the members will have their picture taken. Each Hustler is asked to have his official emblem on his sweater.

ROYAL ARCH DEGREE FOR NINE

ASSESSORS APPOINTED

City-Wide Canvass Will Be Continued for About a Month.

Twenty-Eight Workers Will Go Over Personal Property Lists.

Personal property assessors will begin their annual canvass of the city next Monday morning.

This announcement was made today by Deputy Assessor Fowler, who said that the city-wide canvass will continue for about a month, during which time the deputies will obtain all the personal property valuations in the city and list the moneys and credits of all the residents. At 10 o'clock next Saturday morning a school of instruction will be held at the city hall.

Real estate valuations are now being compiled by City Assessor Scott, and these will be submitted to the county auditor at the same time that the personal property assessments are finished.

The twenty-six personal property assessors appointed by Deputy Assessor Fowler for this year follow, being named in the order of the districts in which they will work, beginning with District No. 1: Gene McComber, 1624 East Sixth street; Gilbert Engalls, 216 East Fourth street; D. C. Christopher, 2032 Piedmont avenue; John Kerns, Y. M. C. A.; J. B. Cade, 809 East Fourth street; Austin Davenport, 6025 London road; L. FIRST STRAW HAT OF SEASON IS SEEN

It arrived this morning on the head of Walter Barnaby of Cook, Minn., who came down from the northern jungles to give the local society folk a treat. From the amount of curiosity that he drew while standing in front of the Alworth building, Walter succeeded ponderously. In fact, he was a real attraction. He just knocked the pedestrians off their feet. Most Duluthians are still favoring their top coats and felt Kellys and find them none too comfortable. Seeing Walter in his gay dicer of straw, emblazoned with a ribbon that for colors, had the rainbow on the back stretch with a broken sulky, naturally made them giddy.

"May be a mite early for this here city, but up our way, in the Little Fork country, where the people now row from their houses to the barn and down to the stores in canoes, straw hats are just the thing," said the young man in self-defense. "I have been cutting pulpwood all winter and when I came down from the woods I just naturally cleaned myself up. After I was relieved of four months' growth of hair and whiskers, I bought this new store suit and all of the trimmings. The straw lid matched well, so I just bought it."

WILL COMPLETE ORDINANCE DRAFT

Act Will Grant Franchise for Belt Line Railway.

Drafting of the ordinance granting a franchise to the Western Terminal Railway company for the construction of a belt line around the city of Duluth will be completed this week, according to an announcement given out this morning by one of the promoters of the company.

In that event, he said, the measure will be submitted to the city commissioners at the council meeting next Monday afternoon.

A conference between the city commissioners, City Attorney Samuelson, representatives and attorneys of the terminal company will be held within the next two days, at which time the latest draft of the franchise will be gone over carefully and the measure prepared for presentation before the council.

After the ordinance is presented to the commissioners, it will require two more readings before it can come up for passage.

The ordinance grants to the Western Terminal Railway company, of which George A. St. Clair is the president, a franchise to build a belt line railroad along Railroad street to West Duluth, up to the hillside district and from that point circling east to connect with the Duluth & Iron Range road at Lakewood.

OLDEST ACTIVE PRINTER IN MINNEAPOLIS DEAD

Minneapolis, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Gray, the oldest active printer in Minneapolis, and perhaps in the state, died here today at the home of his son, Charles W. Gray. He was 81 years old. Death was due to the effects of an attack of pneumonia in December. His wife died that month, also of pneumonia.

Mr. Gray was born in Lockport, N. Y. He came to Minneapolis in 1857. The next year he started a little advertising paper called "The St. Anthony Advertiser. He worked as a printer on the old St. Anthony Express, under Judge Atwater.

But Mr. Gray wanted to be a country editor, so in 1859 he moved to Monticello and started the Wright County Republican. He ran it through the war, selling out in 1866. The year before he had started the Anoka Union. He ran it for a year and sold out to Granville S. Pease, who is still its owner and editor. In 1888 he was publishing the Ottertail County Farmer in Fergus Falls. He stayed with it only eight months and then went to Minneapolis and opened a print shop.

Flood Under Control.

Marinette, Wis., April 24.—The high water in Menominee, which carried out a portion of No. 2 mill of the Marinette-Menominee Paper company, is under control today.

WATERS HIGH BUT RECEDING

Residents of Cook and Vicinity Travel in Canoes.

Logging Tied Up By Floods; Railroads Resume Schedules.

Residents of Cook and other towns along the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railway, where the Bigfork, Littlefork and Rainy rivers overflowed their banks last week and flooded the country for many miles around, are transacting business and making social calls in canoes. The waters in that district are still very high but are expected to rapidly recede now that the snow is gone.

Last Saturday, Frank Gilmour of Cusson, superintendent of logging for the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company, had business to transact at a point on the Vermilion river where his company has many million feet of logs that are being driven. In order to make the trip he had to use a canoe and he paddled his way from Cusson to his destination.

All work in the lumber camps is about at a standstill as a result of the floods and this week many drives are expected to be started on various Northern Minnesota streams. Many logs were cut the last winter and for this reason the drives will all be larger than usual.

Railroads Resume.

The Canadian Northern road is still having some difficulty in getting its passenger and freight trains through the flooded districts, but officials of the company in this city stated this morning that all of their trains were arriving on time. The South Shore trains are again running on schedule time, the washout at Thomaston, Mich., on the main line of the road, which delayed traffic last week, having been sufficiently repaired to allow trains to pass over in safety. Crews of men are still busy working on the break, however, and the roadbed at this point will be strongly reinforced.

None of the other lines running into Duluth are experiencing any trouble.

BODY FOUND NEAR STREET.

Old Book Bears the Name of Eric Skoglund.

The body of a man believed to be that of Eric Skoglund was found by a woman yesterday morning lying in a ditch near the corner of Banks avenue and Third street. The body had evidently been lying there since early last winter. Only an old book bearing the name was found on the man's person. Coroner Downs has taken charge of the body in the hope of locating relatives.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

ENTRY LIST IS GROWING

Sunday School Boys of Duluth Will Compete in Field Meet.

Plans for the indoor track meet for the Sunday school boys of Duluth will be held next Friday, are being worked out, and Secretary N. D McLeod and Physical Director Albert Olson are looking for a record number of contestants. Entries are coming in rapidly. Mr. McLeod stated today that any Sunday school boy in the city, regardless of denomination, was welcome to enter, but that he must send in his name before Wednesday evening.

The meet will be divided into three classes so that every Sunday school in the city, regardless of its size, will have an equal chance to participate. Class A will include boys from 80 to 100 pounds; Class B, boys from 100 to 120 pounds, and Class C, all boys over 120 pounds.

The program includes: Relay race, four men; 3-lap potato race, running high jump, dash and standing broad jump. The boys in Class C will have one extra event, the 8-pound shot, and the potato race will have five laps instead of three.

The basket ball season at the boys' department came to a close last Saturday evening when the Jeffersons defeated the Salters and were awarded a beautiful banner.

NO TEAM WANTED BY APPLETON; HAD LESSON

Appleton, Wis., April 24.—Green Bay now knows definitely where Appleton stands on baseball. When Owner Murphy of Green Bay wrote to P. H. Ryan, former president of the Appleton association, asking if Appleton would not put a team in the field Ryan replied that they were willing to rent the park to Murphy and he could put a team of his own in here.

Appleton now has on a campaign to at least cut the $4,000 indebtedness left over as a souvenir of 1914 in two. The notes have been carried by the five directors and no one here has a desire to tackle the game this year.

Ness May Be Farmed.

Chicago, April 24.—Negotiations are under way, it was announced here today, for the release of Jack Ness of the Chicago White Sox, to the Baltimore club of the International league. Ness, who is a first baseman, was obtained from the Oakland club in the Pacific coast league, where he established a world's record for hits in consecutive games. If the deal is completed Ness will go to Baltimore with a "string attached to him."

TO ACQUIRE LAND FOR PLAYGROUNDS

City Will Secure Tract on Eighty-First Avenue West.

Through a compromise just effected Duluth will shortly acquire a large triangular piece of land at Eighty-first avenue west and Zimmerly for park and playground purposes.

The property, fronting about 320 feet on Grand avenue, lies directly south of Fairmont park and will make a good addition to the park, according to Commissioner Voss, head of the finance division, who effected the compromise for the city.

In a resolution to be introduced by Commissioner Voss at the council meeting this afternoon, the city agrees to waive its claim for $893.14 in assessments against the Norton estate for the Grand avenue pavement, if George W. Norton, executor, pays over $350 to the city for paving assessments and, in addition, deeds over this triangular piece of property to the city. The land is unplatted and is called the north part of Government Lot No. 1, section 23, lying directly south of the Fairmont Park addition.

Mr. Norton recently appealed from the assessment on the Grand avenue pavement, but is now willing to pay $350 if the city will accept the property. In the resolution, the attorney is authorized to cancel the assessment and dismiss the appeal, while the proper city officials are given power to execute the deed for the property.

HUSBAND MADE WIFE A TARGET

Jennie Ascher Granted Divorce From Spouse Who "Threw Things."

Everytime the ire of Louis G. Ascher was aroused, he displayed his temper by throwing things at his wife, Jennie Frances Ascher. Some times it was a shoe, some times a dish and on one occasion, he made her a target for a pair of scissors, she testified in District Judge Dancer's court this morning, where she appeared in quest of a divorce.

Mrs. Ascher declared that her husband was possessed of such an ugly disposition and violent temper, that she found it impossible to live with him. She related one instance where he became angered and threw a shoe at her. He missed his aim and the brogan smashed the lamp and clock. Another time, she said, he reduced a bedstead to splinters.

They were married at Gladstone, Mich., on Oct. 23, 1908, and shortly thereafter moved to Escanaba, Mich., where Ascher was employed as a locomotive fireman. She stated that she left him on Aug. 1, 1914. Judge Dancer granted the decree. There are no children.

LAST WARNING GIVEN SPEEDERS

Automobile and Motorcycle Owners Must Obey the Law.

Automobile and motorcycle owners are warned against speeding on Duluth streets.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, said this morning that numerous complaints have been made to the police regarding speeders and that the warning at this time is the last that would be given this year. The police, he said, have been instructed to make arrests and examples will be made of those taken into custody.

"We will not tolerate the constant endangering of people walking across the streets," said Commissioner Silberstein. "There is no need for speeding on downtown streets and in residence districts near the center of the city. A large number of complaints were made yesterday and I have instructed the police to keep special watch for speed violators.

"The pedestrian must be protected and the first drivers arrested will be given the full penalty of the law."

COUNTY SCHOOLS COMPLETE TERM

Most of Teachers in Unorganized District Return to Homes.

School terms closed Friday for most of the schools in the unorganized or so-called county districts and this week the teachers are returning to their homes.

According to Supt. N. A. Young, a number of the rural schools were late in beginning their term last fall and as it is necessary that the school be in session for eight months, the children will not be dismissed until next Friday or, in some cases, until the first Friday in May.

PANIC ALMOST CAUSED BY MAD DOG IN CHURCH

St. Paul, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A panic and the possible injury of many persons attending an Easter mass in the St. Paul cathedral yesterday was narrowly averted when a mad dog invaded the building. There were more than 3,000 worshippers in the cathedral at the time.

An usher found the dog, frothing at the mouth and suffering from convulsions, just entering the nave of the big building from the vestibule. He called to a detective who beat the dog from the building and then shot it.

AGED FARMER IS GRATEFUL

E. J. Burk, Well Known Duluth Man, Describes His Experience.

New Medicine Tanlac Came to His Rescue After Four Years.

If you had been a slave to stomach trouble for four long years without being able to find relief, and finally, after you had about abandoned all hope, you were restored to your former health in a few days, how would you feel?

You would feel grateful, wouldn't you?

That's just exactly the way E. J. Burk, a well-known farmer, who lives at 1009 East Eighth street, Duluth feels today, and the object of his gratitude is Tanlac, the celebrated new medicine that is being so widely used in Duluth and vicinity. Mr. Burke said:

"I had stomach trouble for four long years without being able to find relief, although I tried many medicines. I was bothered with an accumulation of gas in my stomach, my food fermented, causing sour stomach. At times my condition was so serious that I was confined to my bed several days at the time.

"Recently, when in Battle Creek, Mich., I read in the Duluth newspapers of Tanlac and the wonderful work it was doing. I have taken three bottles of the medicine and feel like a different man. I am now able to eat anything without bad effects, I sleep peacefully through the night and am gaining weight. I gladly recommend Tanlac to anyone suffering as I was."

Mr. Burk is 66 years old. He has lived in Duluth many years and is well known to his friends and acquaintances as a man who under no circumstances would make a misstatement concerning a medicine or anything else. His statement is typical of many others being made in Duluth and vicinity daily. Scores of local people have testified to the beneficial results they have derived from the use of Tanlac for the treatment of catarrhal affections of the stomach, liver, kidneys and head, nervous debility, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and the like.

Tanlac is the reconstructive tonic extraordinary and a system purifier without a peer. Its healthy action reaches every part of the body. It is therefore looked upon as an excellent spring tonic and seldom fails to bring the desired results. Tanlac is sold only in Duluth at W. A. Abbett's drug stores, where the new medicine is being introduced and explained.—Advertisement.

"POSSIBILITY" OF ROOSEVELT NOMINATION NO LONGER DISCUSSED; FORD'S FUTURE

Colonel Virtually Conceded Top of Ticket; Peace at Any Price Party Threatens, But Ford Says He Won't Finance Third Party.

Either Easter and politics go so badly together that the latter is forgotten for the time, or most of the political situation is pretty well settled, for during the past week the "nothing doing" sign could well have been employed.

So quiet has politics been that even James Callan O'Laughlin of the Chicago Herald has quit his pretense of discussing the "possibility" of Colonel Roosevelt's nomination for the presidency by the Republican party, and Arthur Sears Henning of the Chicago Tribune has quit discussing politics altogether, and has turned his attention to deliberately and despicably misrepresenting President Wilson's position on British attacks on American shipping, twisting the news and the facts to suit his own purpose, and support his garbled and false reports.

As a matter of fact the misrepresentation that so prominent a paper as the Chicago Tribune permits its political reporter to indulge in to assail the president, is something of a compliment to his standing in the hearts of the people. So vicious and falsely-based an attack certainly indicates that the Roosevelt interests—and the Tribune is one of the leaders of that faction—find themselves in desperate straits and in need of taking desperate measures to overcome the president's popularity.

However, enough of Artful Jeers Henning.

O'Laughlin Saves Dignity.

Mr. O'Laughlin strongly partisan as he is, and supporter of Colonel Roosevelt, has not permitted himself so to jeopardize his standing as a newspaper man as has the Tribune man. Mr. O'Laughlin, as has been said, has quit discussing Mr. Roosevelt's chances, for there seems no longer room for doubt, and therefore no longer room for discussion. He now has turned his attention to discussing the possibility of Henry Ford heading a third party, and which of the older parties he would hurt the most. It was to be expected, of course, that should such a party be formed, it would be a "peace-at-any-price" affair. Mr. Ford, however, has come out in the open and told the Associated Press that while he would serve as president if the people want him—as, indeed, who would not?—he will, under no circumstances head a third party or finance once. If Mr. Ford sticks to that decision, of course the peace-at-any-price people will have to look elsewhere for a leader, for 'tis said, W. J. B., who was recently trimmed to a fare-you-well in his home state, Nebraska, will not desert the Democratic party this time, knowing well enough that any political power which he may generate in the future lies in that party.

Who Would Be Hurt?

In his discussion, Mr. O'Laughlin expresses the belief that a Ford party would hurt President Wilson the most, as he figures the president's peace proclivities will attract the P.-A.-P. people in the absence of a party of their own, more than Colonel Roosevelt's I. W. W. (I want war) style. However, it would seem that such a third party would attract all of the pro-German vote of the nation in view of their opposition to Roosevelt and the president, and, in that event, the Republican party would be hurt the most, for about 85 per cent of the German vote in the country is Republican.

But at any rate, the two nominees by the two big parties will line up like this:

Democratic.	Republican.

* * *

In the Minnesota senatorial fight, it would seem that Moses Clapp will file after all for the Republican nomination. Julius A. Schmahl, secretary of state, has not said what he will do in that event, but if he follows the same course he took in the case of Thomas Sharkey, candidate for congress, he will refuse the senator's nomination papers on the ground that he was not a Republican at the last election.

Other trouble has arisen for Senator Clapp. Senator Knute Nelson, doubtless the most popular man in Minnesota today, has written letters in which he opposes Senator Clapp for re-election, and declares that Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh, also a candidate for the senate, is "a bird of the same feather." Both of them will be called upon to explain their votes against America on the Gore and McLemore resolutions.

Mr. Lindbergh will open his campaign at Melrose next Wednesday, and Mr. Kellogg will open his campaign at Rochester on the following day. The Eberhart date has not yet been announced.

The attitude of the four men involved in the race, demonstrated or announced, up to date, is about as follows:

Kellogg—Preparedness and support of the administration in upholding American rights at sea.

Eberhart—"Reasonable preparedness," he is quoted as advocating, and the soft pedal on the German issue.

Clapp—Anti-American measures.

Lindbergh—Do. Do.

* * *

Daniel W. Lawler has filed for the Democratic nomination for the senatorship, as was forecasted last week. He is likely to get it without opposition and will conduct a brisk campaign for election following that. Mr. Lawler is one of the best known men in the state, is a campaigner of extraordinary ability and magnetism, and will make it hot for the victor in the Republican primary fight, which is likely to develop into a nasty mess before the fateful day in June. Mr. Lawler made a splendid run in the primary in which delegates to the national convention were chosen, leading the vote by a wide margin.

* * *

A lively fight is brewing in the Republican congressional race in the First district. State Senator F. A. Duxbury and Ola M. Levang have already filed in opposition to Congressman Sidney Anderson; and now comes word that George P. Tawney of Winona and William R. Richardson of Rochester will both file. The result will probably be the renomination of Congressman Anderson by dividing the opposition.

* * *

S. G. Iverson, candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship, is sending out copies of a letter written T. B. Lundsvork of McIntosh by Elias Steenerson of Crookston supporting Mr. Iverson. That may help, but not enough to beat Governor Burnquist.

* * *

Judge Ira B. Mills has filed for the Republican nomination for member of the state grain and warehouse commission, as was expected. He is by far the oldest member of the commission.

* * *

How will Republicans like the latest that is being sprung by W. O. Clure, secretary of the Republican state central committee? Mr. Clure is using the committee's stationery for letters he is sending out to friends and acquaintances, at least, in various parts of the state, fighting James A. Peterson for the lieutenant governorship nomination because Mr. Peterson did not support William E. Lee for governor in the last campaign, and urging their support of Thomas Frankson. It has always been the general impression that the state central committee is to take no part in the primary campaign, but to support the nominees of the party in the general election. Following is a copy of the letter being sent out by the secretary:

"You were one of the active and influential workers in the last campaign, and I believe I am not presumptuous in informing you from time to time of political moves of which I have knowledge. 'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty,' and I feel that we must not lose ground, but continue the good fight until we have made the government of the state the people's government in fact.

"At present the situation is decidedly muddled, particularly on president, United States senator, lieutenant governor and treasurer; and it is likely to become so in other offices—the best possible condition for the 'gang' to have things their own way.

"It is not possible to advise on most of these offices at this time, but of one thing I am absolutely certain: The nomination and election of James A. Peterson as lieutenant governor would be a grave mistake. I am in a position to know whereof I speak, and I believe it is my duty to inform my friends of the situation. Mr. Peterson formed a coalition with the Ed. Smith crowd at the time of the famous elimination conference and has been working with them ever since. Ostensibly he supported Lee during the election campaign, but in both that and the primary campaign he and many of his closest friends worked secretly for Lee's defeat. Peterson's withdrawal in favor of Burnquist was not in the interest of harmony or from any other altruistic motive. Ed. Smith convinced him he could not win and advised the move which was made.

"The office of lieutenant governor has proved pretty important in the last few years. Two have inherited the governorship. And, during the session of the legislature, the lieutenant governor has as much power as the governor in shaping legislation.

"The results of investigations I have made convince me that Thomas Frankson of Spring Valley is the man for us to support, and that he can be nominated and elected. His record in the legislature and in private and business life is an open book and is the best evidence that he can be relied upon to administer the office in the interest of the public welfare.

"Later, I may have sufficient information on other matters to warrant me in advising you. In the meantime, please let me hear from you on the lieutenant governorship, or other matters."

ANNAPOLIS GRADUATE, WELL KNOWN HERE, HAS PICTURESQUE CAREER

HAROLD SHERWOOD SPENCER.

Harold Sherwood Spencer, a nephew of W. C. Sherwood of this city, and who visited here several times when attending Annapolis, bears the distinction of being the youngest captain in the British army.

Spencer is winning laurels in foreign lands, having been recently appointed as political officer to the British Adriatic mission.

This young soldier has had a brilliant and exciting career from the time his early training began at the United States naval academy at Annapolis. Spencer acted as war correspondent for the New York Herald during the recent war over Tripoli and his daring exploits to obtain first news for his paper are now a matter of journalistic history. At that time he was the youngest war correspondent in the world. Capt. Spencer was signally honored by the king of Serbia, who gave him two decorations during the last winter, also by the Italian government, which presented him with two medals recently for superior work done in the diplomatic service. Less than two years ago many of the leading papers printed the story of how Spencer aided the king and queen of Albania to escape to Rome. At that time Spencer was secretary to the king of Albania. Spencer is just 26 years of age and already has attained a reputation as a poet, soldier and writer, and his many friends are watching his highly interesting career with great pride.

LIFE BEYOND MORE THAN DREAM

Every Easter Renews the Assurance, Says Rev. J. Emmett Porter.

"The Significance of Easter Morn" was the subject of a sermon yesterday morning by Rev. J. Emmett Porter, pastor of the Grace Methodist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. The pastor said that the resurrection of Christ was a new assurance to man that life beyond is more than a dream.

"Death held the hope of the world in its grasp like a grim monster of the eternal night from the hour of the crucifixion until the break of dawn on that first Easter morning," said Rev. Mr. Porter. "Jesus was dead, the hope of the world lay buried within him. But when a familiar form appeared to those who came early to worship at the tomb, and said, 'Be not afraid, it is I,' the world's wall of sadness and despair was turned into a glad song of rejoicing. The conflict was ended and Life had emerged from the grave master over death and hell.

"Each new Easter morn to man is a new assurance that God who created in man the intuitive instinct for eternal life, has not given it that man might be the only disappointed wreck of His mighty creation, but he shall have the fullest measure of its fulfillment."

PLAN TO DEDICATE CHILDREN'S HOME

Directors Consider Holding of Ceremonies on Decoration Day.

Plans for the dedication of the Bethany Children's home, which will open next Monday at the old Alfred Merritt residence at the summit of Thirty-ninth avenue west, will be made at a meeting of the board of directors to be held this afternoon at the home of B. E. Wellberg, 2816 West Third street. The directors are considering the holding of these ceremonies on Decoration day, May 30.

The campaign for raising money to pay off the indebtedness amounting to $10,000 is giving good results. Of this sum more than $2,000 has already been received by the directors, and about $5,000 additional pledged. The sum of $2,000 will be paid to the former owners this afternoon and arrangements made to carry the remainder.

Several applications for the admission of children to the home as soon as it is opened, have been received by the directors. It is expected that Monday five or more children will be received at the institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Myrhmann will have charge of the home as overseers. Later it is planned to have a deaconess take direct charge of the children. The deaconess is expected to arrive here about the last of next month.

The directors consist of three local pastors and three laymen from the Duluth district of the Minnesota conference of the Swedish Lutheran church. They are Rev. A. Theodore Ekblad of Superior, chairman; Rev. C. O. Swan, Dr. John A. Krantz, Andrew Johnson of Superior, John A. Forsman and B. E. Wellberg.

CZAR REPORTED HURT BY BOMB

Austrian Aviator's Missile Explodes Close to Russian Emperor.

Berlin, April 24, by wireless to Sayville.—A narrow escape for Emperor Nicholas of Russia from death or serious injury by bombs dropped by an Austrian airman during a recent visit of the emperor to a southern sector of the Russian line is reported in Stockholm advices received by the Overseas News agency.

"The emperor was reviewing the troops in company with Gen. Brussiloff (commander of the Russian forces on the southwestern front) when suddenly and Austo-Hungarian flier appeared and dropped numerous bombs, which landed among the troops, who fled in wild disorder," says the news agency statement.

"The emperor, according to the reports, was hurt and had a narrow escape, the incident causing him entirely to lose his self possession. In consequence, the reports added, Gen. Brussiloff was bitterly reproached and Gen. Ivanoff was recalled to the southwestern front headquarters."

The Russian official statement of April 14, told of an attack by a hostile airman upon Ivantz, on the Dniester river in Galicia. Emperor Nicholas was reviewing troops at Ivantz at the time of the attack, and, according to the statement, decorated, with the fourth class order of St. George, a sentinel, who had been wounded by bombs dropped by the aviator.

Former Duluth Lawyer Succumbs to Injuries Sustained in Accident.

F. E. Searle, formerly a law partner of State Senator H. R. Spencer and prominent in Minnesota politics, died at his home in New York city Saturday as a result of injuries received in an elevator accident. He was 63 years old.

Mr. Searle practiced law in Duluth for several years, leaving here about thirteen years ago. He was at one time president of the defunct Marine National bank and was in partnership with ex-Senator Spencer for three years previous to his removal to New York.

He was born in Franklinville, N. Y., in 1853 and came to Minnesota in 1873, settling at St. Cloud, where he lived for many years. He was admitted to the bar in 1876 and was elected to the legislature in 1888.

From St. Cloud he came to Duluth. After leaving here he was associated with James McNaught, who was at one time connected with the Northern Pacific railroad in a legal capacity. Later he practiced law alone.

Mr. Searle leaves a wife and two daughters.

BIG PROGRAM FOR MASONS

Knights Templars Hear Easter Address By Dr. Hoffman.

Scottish Rite Members Conduct Impressive Service of Lights.

Knights Templars of Duluth Commandery, No. 18, met at the Masonic temple yesterday morning and after donning their regalia marched to the First Methodist Episcopal church, where Rev. John W. Hoffman, a member of the order, preached the Easter sermon. About 100 Sir Knights attended.

Dr. Hoffman spoke on "The Assurance of Immorality." His subject dealt with the meaning of the resurrection to the people of today. Music was furnished by the church choir consisting of Miss Gladys Reynolds Frey, Miss Glenn Bartholomew, Mrs. John Koneczny, John Koneczny and Charles O. Applehagen.

Scottish Rite Masons at the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon conducted with much impressiveness the services of relighting the Mystic Lights, which had been extinguished at the Maunday Thursday feast Thursday night. An audience of 500 people witnessed the ceremony.

At first the stage of the auditorium was in total darkness. Lights were kindled one by one as different portions of scripture were read. After all of the lights encircling a cross had been lighted, H. W. Cheadle, wise master of the A. T. C. Pierson chapter of Knights Rose Croix, who presided, read the Easter message from George Moore, sovereign grand commander of the Rite. The Scottish Rite quartet, under the direction of Prof. A. F. M. Custance, rendered a program of several selections.

PLATE GLASS BROKEN BY TAXICAB CRASH

Car Skids and Top Sails Through Utility Office Window.

That corner window of the Commercial club building is broken again.

A taxicab skidded against a curbstone at Fourth avenue west and First street yesterday and the top of the car, detached by the jolt, sailed through the air and landed in the offices of the water and light department. A large plate glass window suffered in consequence.

The taxicab was driven by Louis Fredericks and is owned by the Board of Trade livery. Fredericks was driving west on First street and had tried to make the turn down the avenue to Superior street. The rear wheel of the car was totally wrecked.

Fredericks sat through the crash without turning a hair, then stepped out of the machine, surveyed the damage ard called police headquarters.

DETECTIVE WAS GUARDING AUTO

Police Make Quick Work of Locating Lost Car.

When Chief R. D. McKercher searched for a stolen automobile last night, he found it at the curbstone in front of 1215 East First street, which happens to be the residence of Detective Herman Toewe. Mr. Toewe was guarding the car.

"I wonder who deserted this car," said Toewe, "I think it's been stolen, for nobody seems to want it."

The machine proved to be the missing one, and was turned over to Samuel Anderson of the Superior Crushed Rock company, who purchased it but a few days ago. Mr. Anderson didn't know the license number, but police proved that they were "on the job."

JANESVILLE INJUNCTION.

Madison, Wis., April 24.—The abatement of the Sutherland block in Janesville as a public nuisance and a permanent mandatory injunction restraining Edward F. Carpenter and William McLay from erecting a building covering a portion of Rock river in Janesville, is asked in an action started in the name of the state at the direction of Attorney General Owen and the consent of Governor Philipp.

It is estimated that upwards of $2,000,000 worth of property is involved in the litigation. The matter will come to trial in June in the circuit court of Rock county. It is claimed that buildings built out over the river are an obstruction to navigation and therefore a public nuisance.

LEGISLATIVE ACT O. K.

Madison, Wis., April 24.—The Wisconsin supreme court has issued a writ of mandamus requiring the secretary of state to audit claims of the Stark Mantel & Tile company of Milwaukee for $1,347 and the J. P. Cullen Construction company of Janesville for $2,780 for work done on the physical education building at Whitewater normal school. The effect of the decision is to sustain the validity of the law passed by the 1913 legislature appropriating $231,000 for new buildings and improvements at the different normal schools in the state.

Diseases That Show In Your Face?

It matters not how little confidence we may have in our ability as mind readers, all of us by lifelong practice are face-readers. A considerable part of our attitude toward our fellows is determined by what we see in their faces. Most of us have become surprisingly accurate face-readers in regard to moral and emotional tendencies. And we also read just as well when the face indicates either internal or external disease. The tense, drawn features indicating continued pain from some internal ailment, or the breaking out of one of the many skin diseases, which speak only too plainly for themselves, because most, if not all skin diseases show on the face sooner or later. Impure, impoverished or impaired blood are the prime causes of disease. Therefore the blood should be nourished, as well as purified.

One of the striking changes in modern medication is the way the use of iron for blood troubles has decreased. It was discovered that iron was not a blood food. When people are suffering from poisoned blood, or impure or impoverished blood they need a remedy that will not only drive out the impurities but that will nourish the blood at the same time—S. S. S., the standard blood purifier for 50 years, is purely vegetable and will absolutely drive out the impurities and nourish and tone up the entire system, both physical and nervous. Purify and nourish your blood by taking S. S. S. If you need special advice, write Medical Department, Room 18, Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Ga.

TO URGE INVESTIGATION OF RATES AT MADISON

Madison, Wis., April 24.—Mayor George C. Sayles has announced that he will urge an investigation of the lighting rates in Madison. Up to four months ago the electricity used here was generated by a local steam plant.

Under direction of the railroad commission the local company made a contract for the purchase of power generated by the dam at Prairie Du Sac. This resulted in no saving to the Madison consumers, because under direction of the commission the local steam plant was kept in readiness to be switched on at any time. Inasmuch as there has been less than five minutes a month interruption in the service the mayor will ask that the "auxiliary" be discontinued. This would result in cutting the rates in Madison nearly one-half.

SUNDAY SERMONS IN DULUTH PULPITS

FILL CHURCHES EASTER DAY

New Record in Attendance Believed to Have Been Established.

Some Churches Turn Many Away—Sunday Schools Show Growth.

Many believe that the church attendance in Duluth yesterday, could it be actually counted, would be found to have established a new record, surpassing that of even the "go to church" Sunday of last year. There was not a church in Duluth, it is declared, that was not packed to capacity at one or more services yesterday, and the larger churches, in some instances, had to turn away would-be attendants.

All of the Roman Catholic churches enjoyed a very large attendance, which is the rule. At the Sacred Heart cathedral yesterday, four services were held in the morning and one at night. Each of these was largely attended, and that at 10:30, at which time Bishop McGolrick preached, taxed the capacity of the edifice, which is said to be in the neighborhood of 2,500. The early masses were also well attended. It is said that in every Catholic church of the city, the attendance was in keeping with that at the cathedral.

The only large Protestant churches centrally located in the city are the First Presbyterian and the First Methodist, although the Pilgrim Congregational church holds its services in the Masonic temple Sunday mornings, while its new home on East Fourth street is being built. These three enjoyed by far the largest attendance of the year.

Some Turned Away.

The First Presbyterian church has a seating capacity of about 1,400. In the morning about 150 people were turned away as even with additional seating facilities being furnished, they could not be accommodated; and the attendance in the evening almost filled the church. At the First Methodist, where, it is estimated, the seating capacity is about 2,000 to 2,200, every available niche was filled in the morning, with additional chairs being placed in the aisles and many people were standing. The church was virtually filled in the evening also.

Other leading churches report capacity-filling attendance in the morning and excellent attendance at the late hour services, these being the First Baptist, the Endion Methodist, Trinity Episcopal cathedral and St. Paul's Episcopal.

Community and outlying churches of all denominations were not only well attended, it is reported, but most of them were filled to the point of discomfort. In fact, it is declared, outlying churches showed a greater proportional increase than many of the more centrally located churches.

Profuse Floral Decorations.

No church failed of decorations, in the way of floral display in keeping with the season. Lilies were the predominating flowers, of course, but were intermingled with other kinds. In all churches, the rostrums and choir lofts were banked with these displays, while potted plants decorated other parts of the room.

The attendance at the Sunday schools yesterday was remarked by nearly all pastors asked about it, as being larger than ever before.

The general spirit of Easter, aided by the perfect weather that prevailed, seemed to quaffy the church-going population yesterday more than ordinarily, and made more widespread the memorialization of the feast of the resurrection.

DECLARES HOLY WEEK NOT BIBLICAL

Rabbits and Easter Eggs Are Pagan in Origin, Says Pastor White.

"It is a remarkable fact that in Holy Scripture certain special truths are so emphasized by the Holy Spirit that they always appear in italics," said Pastor Stemple White last night at the Seventh Day Adventist church on Tenth avenue east, where he spoke on "Jesus Christ as Prophet, Priest and King." He said, in part:

"Above the cross there appeared in Hebrew, Greek and Latin what the gospel writers mention in italics, 'Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews.' We read in Rev. xviii, 1, also in italics the name 'King of kings and Lord of Lords,' which Jesus will bear on His vesture in writing when He returns in power and glory to consummate the plan of redemption.

The Priest Foretold.

"Jesus Christ is the true universal hero of all eternity, even though He is so unpopular in this present revolted world. Although one with the Father in original creation yet in loving pity for fallen man, He laid aside that glory—sacrificed the exalted position, clothed divinity with humanity, and in sinful, mortal, flesh, was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin. Thus He learned obedience by the things which He suffered and His obedient life in the flesh thus condemned sin in our flesh. He thus became the author of eternal redemption and captain of our salvation.

"He was that great Prophet long foretold, and He so insistently, persistently and consistently taught the written word of God that there is eternally fastened to His character the name 'word made flesh.' A revolted world's estimate of the Son of God was depicted on Golgotha, where an apostate church, drunk with tradition, and accepting Barabbas in the place of the Messiah, nailed the Lamb of God to a cross.

"After a baffled attempt to hold the Savior in the rocky tomb, the clergy bribed the soldiers to peddle a falsehood about the resurrection. The resurrection of Jesus was all-important in the plan of redemption, yet if He had sinned once, that event would never have taken place. At the ascension Jesus entered between God and man, there to plead the merits of His shed blood in behalf of the repentant sinner. After finishing His priestly work, Jesus will return as king of kings to reap the harvest of the earth. In the renewed earth, His eternal kingdom of peace will replace the ruins of earth's present kingdoms.

"The ten commandments, which He himself engraved in stone; which He desires to write in every heart; which He magnified as prophet, and plead His shed blood before as priest in the heavenly sanctuary; which is the unalterable standard of judgment—this is the eternal law of the kingdom of God. Only as we fully open our hearts to receive the truths of God's word, and to tune our daily lives in harmony with His holy law, can we expect at last to join in the new creation song of victory and sing with holy angels in the Hallelujah chorus.

Of Pagan Origin.

"No significance whatever is attached to the weekly day of Jesus' resurrection, crufixion or ascension. The Bible knows nothing of a so-called Holy week. The truth of the matter is that Lent, Good Friday, Holy Saturday, Sunrise Easter services, rabbit-egg fables and such, has for its basis simply tradition, much of which is pagan. That old pagan emperor, Constantine, received perhaps the most costly and popular burial ever accorded a human being, but it will mean little to him at the second resurrection. Insignificant, indeed, seemed the burial of the crucified Messiah, but He arose to life for evermore as the mightiest of conquerors with the key of death and of hell. At His second advent He will use that key and liberate once for all, His sleeping saints.

"The written word can no more be defeated than could the impersonated word be held in the tomb. Is there not enough of the pure, sweet, strength-giving, soul-inspiring gospel truths in the Holy Scriptures without digging around after the empty, though popular husks of human tradition? 'What is the chaff to the wheat?'"

FOES WITHIN ARE MENACE

Bishop McGolrick Urges Greater Devotion to Nation's Welfare.

Big Crowds Are Present at Four Services at Cathedral.

"Those who defy the government, setting at naught the laws of a great nation, make up an army that is to be as greatly feared as one from without," said Bishop James McGolrick at the Sacred Heart cathedral, in his Easter sermon yesterday morning.

Four services were held at the cathedral yesterday, each being attended by a big congregation. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and palms, while the ceremonies were all tinged with the ritual that surrounds the celebration of the resurrection of Christ. At the evening service Bishop McGolrick preached on "The Resurrection," explaining its meaning and pointing out the message it contains for humanity.

Deploring the present European war and its horrors on mankind, Bishop McGolrick said that it is not the only one that endangers the peace of the world today. There is a social war in this country, he said, caused by the constantly increasing army of those who revile the United States.

"The spirit of self-sacrifice that the European war is engendering indicates the blessing that it will ultimately bring to the world," said Bishop McGolrick.

"It is creating anew the religious spirit of mercy and charity. The manner in which the United States has responded to the call of sufferers of Europe is only one of the manifestations of this renewed spirit."

EASTER MOST SIGNIFICANT

Brought to Death-Fearing World the Hope of Immortality.

To Many It Has No Worthy Meaning, Says Dr. Brewer.

"To some shallow souls Easter means only another annual holiday; it means a visit to the florist for lilies, a trip to the milliner for a new hat; it means special decorations and special music in our churches—but that is about all," declared Rev. George Brewer in his sermon on "Christ's Resurrection" at the Easter Sunday services at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

The church was crowded at both the morning and evening services, a large number having been turned away at the morning service. There was special Easter music at both services.

Rev. Mr. Brewer said, in part:

"To some people now, the rising from the dead means but little. To other people Easter only means a series of historical and metaphysical questions. The all-important question to them is—'How did Jesus get out of that Tomb?' Who rolled away that stone?' 'Was His risen body material or spiritual; and if spiritual then how did He eat bread and fish?' Yes, there are people who celebrate this day without understanding the meaning of Easter.

"But to thoughtful, people Easter is the most significant day of all history, because it brought from the dead the Lord Jesus. And it brought to this dying, death-fearing world the hope of immortality.

"Suppose it were possible this morning to blow out the Easter light, and make ourselves believe that there is no risen Christ—and no resurrection from the dead! What would be the effect upon our lives—upon our homes—upon our Christian institutions, and upon the world?

"No resurrection! Then Christianity is dead; children are being born into a Christless, hopeless, heavenless world; birthdays are only milestones which mark the hurrying steps to oblivion while old age totters on the grave, where there are no Christian burials, no evergreen wreaths, no resurrection symbols, and no inscriptions of comfort to cheer.

"So the beauty of the risen Christ upon resurrected lives is the all-crowning proof of the resurrection. As long as the risen Christ lives in us, just so long will the world join in our Easter anthems, singing—'Hail, to the risen Lord. He is not here. He is risen even as He said. Come see the place where the Lord lay' and because He lives, we too shall live for ever more."

To Be May Queen at Lawrence.

Appleton, Wis., April 24.—Miss Irene McCourt, St. Croix Falls, Wis., was elected May queen, according to announcement today at Lawrence. Her attendants at the May day festivities will be Bessie Cragow, Oakfield, and Mary Webb, Lancaster.

FUTURE LIFE AN ENIGMA

Question of Immortality Has Been Debated Since Beginning of Race.

Christ's Resurrection Has Not Settled the Problem, Declares Dr. Gebauer.

That the future is and always has been an enigma and that the story of Christ's resurrection has brought about more problems than it has solved was the keynote of the sermon preached by Dr. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, yesterday morning. In part he said:

"The enigma of another life is stated by Job in the question, 'If a man die, shall he live again?' And ever since men and women have put this question, which perhaps might be better stated by asking 'If a man ceases to exist, shall he live on?' For if a man really die, then there is no question of his living again. Whatever is dead has ceased to be, and what does not exist can not be brought back. And the very fact, that such a question has faced the people of all ages and has ever been affirmed, proves plainly, that the resurrection of Christ as reported in the gospel story has little to do with the creation of such belief. Indeed, the account of the resurrection raises more problems than it ever solves, and many a one not firmly established in his inner self, has become a sceptic. For Christ's mastery over the grave is not presented to us as something inherent in human nature, of which the master wished to give objective proof, but it comes to us as a stupendous miracle vouchsafed to Christ alone.

Christ's Resurrection.

"Indeed scripture on the whole is of little help in getting our bearings in this region of the unseen life. All sorts of doctrines and conceptions, some harrowing, some grotesque, some inane have been discovered in its pages. Generally people find in the Bible what they look for. Others like Tolstoy even found that Christ himself absolutely denied the immortality of the individual soul. And yet in spite of the perplexing and confusing teachings found in scripture, in spite of all the objections brought against the belief by a materialistic science, it has persisted and will persist, because it is written in the very constitution of our souls. We may never know what the beyond is going to be like, but we realize that we are deathless in our innermost being. And if we sift the objections advanced by the materialistic thinker, we find that his own reasoning is after all full of weakness, that he does not solve the mystery and bridge the chasm between the material and the ideal, the spiritual. We find that his objections may be disposed of and that the soul's assertion of its own immortality stands upon the firm foundation. Indeed, reasoning in fairness will show us, that the eternal instinct of man is doubtlessly true, and that no matter what superstitious notions may have crept into the belief through false deductions, the belief in another life is indeed most reasonable.

"It is easy enough to show that dreams and visions fostered grotesque notions of happy islands and hunting grounds, but these notions were only a by-product of a soul process, which realized the strange quality in man. It is easy to show, that all soul functioning is dependent upon a material brain, but a little deeper insight will prove to us, that the soul is by no means altogether dependent upon the body and that after all the soul may be a reality, even if it can not function any longer a living intellect and brain.

Desire for Immortality.

"But now, if we hold that we shall live again, does not such conviction open into new consideration and problems? It often will seem to me that this desire and this belief in another life is apt to be very shallow and selfish and sordid. I would not for a moment take such a belief as something meritorious and praiseworthy. At best it is an instinct, which is not of our making and which many foster because they are wrapped up in their little personality. Their so-called other worldliness is often nothing but a sensuous dream of a happier worldliness beyond the grave. Such men and women would lose their faith in God, if they felt assured that death ends all; they would indulge in the lusts of the flesh now, if they could not anticipate greater lusts in the beyond. How much grander and saner that trust of an Emerson, who was perfectly willing to leave the matter of his immortality in the hands of his Creator. As far as I am concerned, I too, should be perfectly satisfied with what God has given me of life's little day. It would be an unfinished story, but what of it, if only it led others to write better biographies. Yet in my indifference, I fully realize, that new worlds are before us all. And the question is not how shall we enjoy that coming life, what musical instrument shall we play there to the glory of God, but how shall we meet this new life beyond, how overcome ourselves in it, how make the best of it? How in the words of the Master shall we make life everlasting, life eternal? That is the point—not long life, not everlasting existence, but a life that is soul, that ought to be our aspiration. And if we are weary of living may it not be that we are so just because here and now we have failed to live the life eternal? And if we are greedy for more days of existence either here or beyond may it not be, that we have not yet realized how unsatisfying this material existence is?

The Future Life.

"Perhaps the other life will be given us by the eternal pedagogue to make us more weary of this longing for what never satisfies and to give us the knowledge that the things of the day cannot feed our souls. Perhaps when we have laid aside this shell of existence, we shall suddenly realize, that we have failed to live the life the God-life.

"And what then? It may be a rude awakening. Crippled and leaden-winged souls we may be trying to fly in the pure atmosphere of the spirit. Stunted and weak souls endeavoring to grow and adjust ourselves to the same realities, that were about us on earth, but which we neglected in our eagerness for temporal things. Is not that purgatory? Or maybe, we shall have to come back to learn over the old lesson, as the theosophists tell us.

"What then is for us the great lesson of this Easter day, which speaks of life ever and forever? Ah, it is not so much to believe in the resurrection of Christ—there is little help in this—but to believe in our own rising. It is to learn to love the eternal things of life's little day, to grow in spiritual manhood, so that we may be ready to step up higher, to be at home in the new world of spirit or that we may be ready, if born again, for new and higher opportunities.

"To live in the high things of truth, beauty, goodness, to act in the high things, to aspire after higher and higher things, this means living in the Christ, in the eternal life, which is now and evermore."

APPLICABLE TO LIFE AT PRESENT

Canon MacLean Preaches at Trinity of Significance of Resurrection.

Christ's resurrection is applicable to life today, according to Rev. T. W. MacLean, canon of Trinity Episcopal cathedral, who preached on "The Sting of Sin Is Death" at the regular Easter morning services yesterday.

In his treatment of the text, Canon MacLean applied it to the sacred story of the resurrection of Christ, showing how the Savior demonstrated the immortality of man by His resurrection from the death and pointed the way that all men must travel to salvation.

Large congregations attended the services at 7, 9:45 and 11 o'clock in the morning, while a capacity audience filled the church for the vesper services late in the afternoon. A children's festival was held in the evening.

Two violin solos were played by Mrs. Wally Heymar George at the morning services and Mrs. Edward C. Kuehl sang a contralto solo.

FUTURE LIFE WILL COMPLETE PRESENT

Dr. Ryan Says Hereafter Will Justify Service Now.

Life in the hereafter will not be different from that which we are living, but will be only a continuation of this life, Rev. A. W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, told his congregation Easter Sunday morning.

"If this life were all, then what's the use of mere service, of suffering, of disappointment. But if there is another and larger life in which what is begun here can be complemented and completed, than that is quite another question," he said.

"So, there will be no marvelous transformation, but a stepping out into that which will be better, a definite continuation of our personal life there. It will not all be strange and different to us, for He will prepare a place for us, just fitted to our makeup, just the thing that we have ever sought, but never gained, just the desire of our inner hearts, even when we have not comprehended it here below.

"For who has not felt that somehow all this present life did not fill the bill for us, but we were pilgrims and strangers? And there at last is to be the prepared place, of quiet, of adjustment to us and our likings and abilities. We shall fit then and there.

"The assurance comes that as he remains a complete and definite personality, so shall we, only we shall be welcomed by Him who by conquest over death has brought life and immortality to light."

CROSS PRECEDES THE OPEN TOMB

Belief in Christ Necessary for Resurrection, Declares Mr. Fish.

"The Resurrection of Christ and Men" was the topic of the sermon preached by Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, yesterday morning. The cross must precede the open tomb, and faith in Christ is essential to the resurrection, he declared. In part he said:

"Christ can rise because He is God. Men can rise with Christ because He is man. Resurrection is the bodily step into immortality, assured to those who by regeneration have already entered into eternal life.

"Eternal life is a thousand-fold richer than endless existence. All men have endless conscious existence. Only the redeemed live the ageless life with God.

Bodily Resurrection.

"Christ's bodily resurrection with its universe-sweeping consequences is irrefutably proved by literature, by institutions and by transformed lives.

"Unbelief regarding this miracle of miracles springs from despair, from materialism or from the love of sin. Mary Magdalene, Thomas and the hating priests represent the three types of unbelief.

"Mary imagined the worst before investigation. She jumped at a despair-born conclusion. By repeating to herself and to others the words, 'They have taken away my Lord,' she was possessed of a fixed idea that convinced her. However, she returned to the tomb. Facing the emptiness of her loss, she saw and heard God's angels. Unsatisfied with these, she was visited by Jesus Himself. It was personal meeting with Christ, with the tone of his voice that made her a staunch believer.

"Her faithful love did not spend itself in emotionalism but rather in personal evangelism.

"The disciples examined the contents of the tomb, then departed supposing that stone and linen were the only things that the garden would offer to the bereaved followers. Thomas, unlike Mary, took some pride in his unbelief, as though it were a mark of intellectual honesty. His unbelief was rather a mark of his guilty forgetfulness of Christ's promise.

Revived Disciples' Faith.

"Jesus pursued his disciples. He exposed to them His hands and wounded side. He broke bread with them as He was wont to do. He unfolded the Scripture and talked with them concerning secrets He had had with them before His death. He provided for their slowly growing faith by giving them a message and a program of a worldwide mission.

"Today Christ blesses those who, not having seen, yet believe. He patiently speaks repeatedly to disciples who are blinded by materialism, many-formed, and by pantheism in its garments of light.

"Sorely tried and tempted doubters should not forsake the assembly of prayer. If they are honest they will attend to those portions of the Bible that treat of Christ's death and resurrection. They should know that neither philosophy nor science can beget faith. Faith in the resurrection is a love question. While the resurrection is physically real, the power of the resurrection is love of Christ and those realities to which an unloving unregenerate man is blind.

"The unbelievers who love sin are sought by Christ, the Risen One. He shatters the spell that sin has cast over those who live in iniquity. He does everything short of coercing the will, in seeking entrance into sin-loving unbelievers. Once within He casts unbelief out. The sinner saved by grace knows that Christ, his Elder Brother, has risen. Sharing the nature and life of the Brother, the Christian knows that he will share the bodily transformation and the deliverance of his Forerunner. 'Because I live, ye shall live also,' is the Christian assurance. In Him we shall be glorified together.

"With all men the sin question must be settled ere they receive a well assured conviction of the resurrection.

Cross Precedes Open Tomb.

"The cross must precede the open tomb. The atonement for sin by Christ must be accepted before the message of the resurrection becomes a blessed assurance.

"Paul declared the gospel to be Christ, our Substitute, who delivers from both sin and from death. Christ crucified and risen constitutes gospel facts. Baptism is the symbol of those facts whereby the believer is marked by the signs of redemption and everlasting emancipation. It is the mark of His death and resurrection."

CHRIST SPIRIT STILL ALIVE

Crucifixion Did Not End Life, Declares Rev. Mr. Sayles.

Taking for his text, "The Power of Christ's Resurrection," Rev. R. Edward Sayles, pastor of the First Baptist church, delivered an Easter sermon yesterday morning. He explained how if Jesus Christ had been judged by the average standards His life would have been a failure.

In part, Rev. Mr. Sayles' sermon follows:

"The central and essential truth in the resurrection of Jesus is that He who was crucified is alive for evermore. To the Father He prayed upon the cross: 'Father, into Thy hands I commend My spirit.' That spirit is alive, not dead. Therefore Easter is a joyous festival in the Christian church.

"In His sufferings there is the setting forth of the final victory of the spiritual forces and lives. Herein is a truth in the reality of which to view your own life.

"We have here also the power of hope. Jesus said: 'I will come again and receive you unto Myself.' In the living Christ there is hope for those who have gone before, and for those who remain. In Him there is a 'Hope which sends its shining ray Far down the future's broadening way.'

"In the everliving Christ there is power for the destruction of the evil habits of life. The word power comes from the same word which is the root of dynamite. Dynamite is destructive. In the risen Christ there is power to destroy the habit of lust, the habit of avarice, the habit of worldliness.

"The word power comes from the same root as dynamo. In the dynamo we have a modern machine which does constructive work. In the risen Christ there is a constructive spiritual energy for the upbuilding of character.

"Paul's ambition was to know this power of the resurrection. It is one thing to hear about it. It is another thing to experience it. It is one thing to stand on the shore in Duluth and see the storm; it is another thing to be aboard a Mataafa. It is one thing to read about the war in Europe; it is another thing to be in the trenches.

"Immortality without a new moral and spiritual man to possess it does not seem to me to be a boon. The new life and the new man must go together.

"'This is eternal life to know Thee the only true God and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent.' I charge you that you give your life with its capacities to the everliving, the triumphant Christ. Then you will know His power."

NAME OF EASTER FROM PAGAN ORIGIN

God of Springtime Given Spiritual Significance, Says Pilgrim Pastor.

That the name of Easter Sunday originated from the pagan god of light and springtime, Eastre, and that the festivities of this occasion were seized upon by early Christians and given a deep spiritual significance was the theme of the sermon preached yesterday morning by Dr. Charles N. Thorp, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church. He said in part:

"Our pagan ancestors in the north of Europe have left the names of some of the gods in our words for the days of the week."

"Tiw, their god of war; Woden, their god of commerce; Thor, their god of thunder; Freya, the goddess wife of Woden, are all immortalized in our Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Our sacred word Easter comes down to us from Eastre, their god of light and springtime, worshipped by them with high carnival in the month of April, which they called in his honor 'Eastremonad.' The early church seized upon this festival of gladness in the coming of the spring after the long and cruel winter, and filled it with spiritual meaning. The element of joy in the springtime is a legitimate part of the associations of this day, for it was in all the glory of a spring morning that the Savior, in his new life, came forth from the tomb into a fragrant garden.

"The higher joy of Easter lies in its being the festival of immortality, the birthday of the resurrection. It causes the glorious gift of immortality to shine into our hearts with all the warmth and reality of the spring sunshine.

"Do not jump at the idea that endless life here or anywhere is in itself a blessing. You are going to live with your own soul through endless ages. Are you making such growth in your use of the gift of life, that immortality shall be to you a blessing and not a curse?"

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

EXPLOSIVE UNDER PORCH

Justice of Peace at Stambaugh, Mich., Is Menaced By His Enemies.

Rock Hurled Through Window Night Previous to Finding Dynamite.

Crystal Falls, Minn., April 24.—Someone evidently has a grudge against Justice of the Peace Van Allen of Stambaugh, as a stick of dynamite was found under the porch at his home a few mornings ago and the authorities are straining every effort to apprehend the guilty person or persons.

The discovery of the explosive, following the hurling of a rock through the window in the justice's home the night previous aroused a great deal of interest all over the county, and a most thorough investigation of the affair is being made by Sheriff Seniba to endeavor to run down the guilty parties or to get some clue.

Justice Van Allen's story is that he was sitting in the front room of his home at Stambaugh reading a newspaper when a rock came crashing through the window, evidently hurled by some passerby.

While he naturally was incensed he made no report of it that night and probably would not have given the incident much attention had he not discovered the following morning a stick of dynamite under his porch. The explosive had evidently been placed there to intimidate the justice and he reported the affair to the authorities.

Is Active "Dry" Man.

Justice Van Allen has been known from the outset as an active "dry" man, and at one time it was openly claimed that no other justice on the west side would take action against blind piggers. This claim, however, was proved to be unwarranted as every justice before whom investigations have been held, has shown that he can be depended upon to do pretty near right.

The stories disagree as to there having been any fuse and cap attached to the dynamite. Some say that there was a fuse and cap attached, some say a fuse only, and some say no fuse was attached.

MENOMINEE RIVER IS DOING DAMAGE

Sunday Rise Collapses Paper Mill and Threatens Further Harm.

Marinette, Wis., April 24.—Water in the Menominee river rose forty-two inches Sunday. Part of the No. 2 mill of the Marinette & Menominee Paper company collapsed owing to action of the water, and 500 men were put to work to save the main part of the plant, valued at $200,000.

Parts of North Menominee, Mich., are under water and many persons were driven from their homes. Reports from up-river indicate a further rise. Should any of the dams give way heavy damage would result. The river is filled with logs, adding to the danger.

Wisconsin River Mills Close.

Wausau, Wis., April 24.—With the Wisconsin river eleven feet above low water level and one foot above flood mark, all paper mills in the Wisconsin river valley have closed down because of back water. Many other mills have also stopped work. So far there has been serious damage. The Wisconsin Valley Electric company of this city is furnishing power to the Marathon Paper Mills company at Rothschild to keep pumps going there. It is believed that the water has reached its crest and that there will be a gradual decline.

One hundred and fifty thousand dollars has already been subscribed.

Figures to show that only 42 per cent of last year's fire insurance premiums in North Dakota, went to pay losses, 58 per cent going to over-head expense and profits, don't appear to meet with unanimous approval of the publishers of the state. ITCHING ECZEMA FOR SIX MONTHS

Face and Body Covered with Blisters. Started to Spread. Child Very Cross and Could Not Sleep.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My niece suffered with itching eczema for nearly six months. Her face and body were covered with blisters which broke open and started to spread, and as soon as one blister opened a few days later more eruptions would appear. Her face was a fright to look at and the child was very cross and could not sleep nights.

"Then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using two boxes of the Cuticura Ointment together with the Cuticura Soap she was entirely healed." (Signed) Miss Therese Selesky, 2016 Cortland St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 19, 1915.

BIG SUNDAY CROWD SEES DULUTH WIN EASY VICTORY

O'Brien's Recruits Show Up Fine in Easter Sunday Exhibition.

Red Sox of Superior Are Defeated By Score of 10 to 3.

A regular holiday crowd, with all of the Easter trimmings, greeted the Duluth and Superior teams of the Northern Baseball league yesterday afternoon at Athletic park, and with much real glee saw Darby's recruits maul Brautigan's men in an exhibition performance in which Duluth counted 10 scores and Superior 3.

Like all spring practice exhibitions, this battle was one of the kind in which the managers use every recruit, good, bad and indifferent, for the purpose of getting a line on their work and seeing how they stack up. It can be said now that the ax will not fall in many places in the Duluth team. The lineup used by O'Brien yesterday looks like a mid-season frameup, both the infielders and the men in the outer gardens working especially well. The fans were decidedly well pleased with the showing of the local crew.

Red Sox Are Raw.

So much cannot be said of the Red Sox. Brautigan was late assembling his crew, for the reason that there was serious doubt for a considerable period as to whether the Badger town would have a ball crew this year. Most of his men worked as if they had just arrived on special trains. However, he has a number of veterans, who, when the sun waxes warm and thaws them out, will show strong. Among these is Frank McGraw, playing in right garden; Donaldson, a pitcher who has been traveling over various circuits for years; Burgwald, speedy infielder, and several candidates for the backstop position, who should improve wonderfully with practice.

After Superior had been retired in one-two-three order in the first of the opening frame, Duluth took all of the competition out of the exhibition by piling up five runs. Vigerust doubled along the right field foul line and went to third when Webb fanned and Erickson, dropping the third strike, had to peg to first. McGraw placed a sacrifice fly into left field and Vigerust came home with the first run of the season. Then "Bunny" Schreiber lapped the pill over the left field boards for a homer. Wolfe got life on Schultz' boot and stole second. Lautsch reached first when Austin dropped his fly in left field. Schmidt, the sturdy cowboy from the fertile country about Sioux Falls, slammed out a two-bagger, clearing the stations. Ryan singled. Handschau went out on a fly to first.

Webb scored for Duluth in the second. Vigerust walked. Webb hit to Burgwald who cut off Vigerust at second. Webb stole second, advanced to third on McGraw's out to right field. Schreiber walked. Wolfe singled and Webb scored. Wolfe took second on an error by Austum and Schreiber was tipped at the plate trying to make one on the same play. Duluth marked up its seventh run in the fifth round when Wolfe reached first on an error by Schultz and stole second. Lautsch fanned. Schmidt singled and Wolfe scored. Schmidt stole second. In trying to steal third he overslid the bag and was put out. Ryan fanned.

Heath Is Some Boy.

Duluth marked up its last three runs in the seventh when a Mr. Heath of Somewhere stepped onto the mound for the visitors and began going through some classy Delsarte gyrations. He had a highly overstrung Chickering movement and took himself very seriously. With all his faults, it must be said he has a good heart for no sooner had Brautigan given him a brand new ball to heave than he started walking every man on the White Sox crew. Then when the runners showed lack of ambition to try to steal he would fling a wild one and let them canter to the next bag. Wolfe was the only Duluthian who got a hit off him; but then he uses a long bat. Asked where he got Heath, Brautigan said it was nobody's business. But it's a cinch there will be a familiar name back on the payroll of some shingle mill in a small Wisconsin town this week.

Superior has a likely looking pitcher in Smith, who performed in the Wisconsin-Illinois league. He did not attempt to smoke up yesterday but he has all the ear marks of a real flinger.

How Superior Scored.

The Red Sox got two of their scores in the fifth frame when Austum walked and scored on a three-base drive by Burgwald. The latter came home on a sacrifice fly to center by Erricson. The third mark was registered in the seventh stage when Erricson got a home run. And, by the way, this Erricson is some ball player. He fields well and takes a good healthy slash at the sphere.

Pruning of the Duluth team began last evening when Manager O'Brien released Jack Faull of Hurley, Wis., candidate for first base. Faull did not show the necessary education for the position. During his week's stay in Duluth he broke half of the favorite bats of the local squad through his failure to hold the trademark up.

Chicago, April 24.—George McConnell held Pittsburgh to one hit yesterday, a double by Vlox, and Chicago shut out the visitors 3 to 0, in the first game of the series here. McConnell issued one base on balls to Vlox in the eighth inning, thereby spoiling his record. He had pitched twenty-six innings without giving a pass. McConnell also struck out five men. This was the first appearance of James Callahan in Chicago, as manager of a National league club. Score:

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 24.—In a twelve-inning contest here yesterday, St. Louis won the first game of the series from Cincinnati, 2 to 1. Each team used three pitchers, the contest finally being between Ames and Schneider, the score being tied when they went in.

St. Louis started the scoring in the fourth when Smith singled, stole second and came home on Miller's single. The local team tied the score in the seventh on a base on balls and two singles. They were unable to score again although they made three singles in the eleventh inning. St. Louis made three singles in the twelfth, Miller scoring the winning run.

Toledo, Ohio, April 24.—Southpaw Bailey, pitching his first game for Toledo, held Kansas City to three hits here yesterday in the first of the series and his team won by the score of 7 to 0. Bailey walked eight men, but tightened in the pinches. Toledo's big inning was the sixth, when a hit batsman, a base on balls, two singles, a double and a sacrifice hit netted four runs. Stoval's hitting was the feature of the visiting club's three safeties. Score: R. H. E.

Colonels Defeat Saints.

Louisville, Ky., April 24.—In a game featured by the effective pitching of James, Louisville defeated St. Paul yesterday 6 to 1. The game was a pitchers' battle between James and Finnersan for six innings. After Gilmore batted for Finneran, Louisville hit Niehaus, his successor, for a single, double and two triples in the seventh, and Benton came to the rescue. Roach made a freak home run in the fifth when his grounder bounced underneath a bleacher gate and rolled into the crowd. Score:

Columbus, Ohio, April 24.—Two-base hits by Crichlow and Lewis, each coming with the bases full, settled yesterday's game that Milwaukee took from Columbus 6 to 3. Shackelford, who did not give a pass, was hit hard in the sixth inning only. Errors helped the winner's runners in each scoring inning. Score:

Indianapolis, Ind., April 24.—Williams was returned the winner in a pitching duel with Falkenberg here yesterday afternoon. Acosta scored the only run of the game as the direct result of Crandall's error. Poor base running by Indianapolis players and Jennings' catch of Crandall's line drive, on which a double play was made with the bases full in the sixth, kept the club from winning. Score:

MAJOR LEAGUES SHOW UP TIGHT RACES AT END OF SECOND WEEK

New York, April 24.—The end of the second week of the 1916 baseball season finds the teams of the National and American leagues fighting hard for positions in the race. In the American league the pennant chase is tightening. In the National, Philadelphia moved forward to a commanding position in first place.

The National league champions, with the heavy hitting of Luderus, Cravath and Niehoff, coupled with steady pitching, went undefeated during the week. Alexander and Demaree showed good form in the box against Boston and New York, respectively.

Cincinnati played good baseball both at bat and in the field, and won two and lost three. Hal Chase seems to have added strength to Herzog's club and on Tuesday beat Pittsburgh with a home run in the tenth inning. Boston played rather listlessly and its pitchers did not appear to be in good form.

Chicago gave the best exhibition in the Western contingent of the National league and by heavy hitting maintained a winning streak. The Cubs' fielding also improved. The pitching was better, McConnell holding Pittsburgh to one hit yesterday. Pittsburgh showed little improvement over the first week. Harmon of Pittsburgh held St. Louis to two hits Friday. The Cardinals displayed better form and moved to a good position in the first division by beating the Reds yesterday.

Brooklyn Held Up.

Brooklyn, which pressed the leaders hard in 1915, has been unable to get started. The pitching has been erratic and Robinson has had trouble with his infield. The Giants were not able to win a game during the week and now are in last place. Manager McGraw's team apparently has not struck its stride.

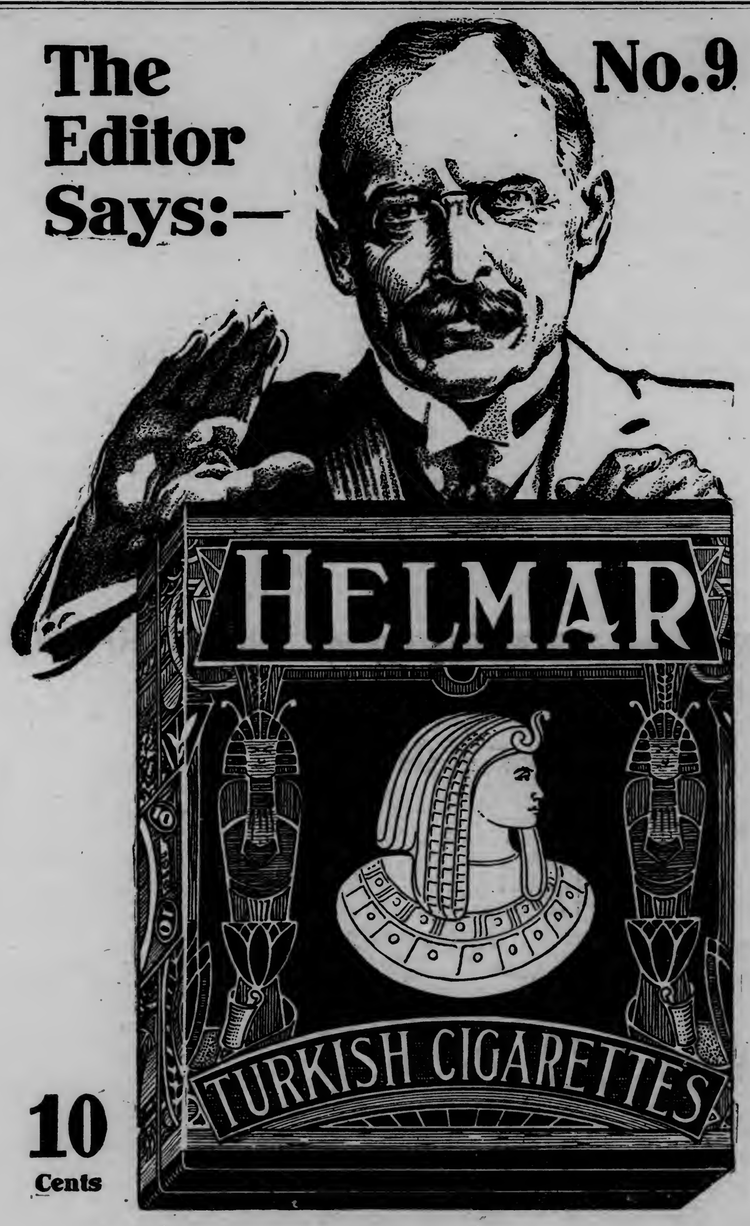
The American league was not affected by postponements as was the National and there was a resultant greater shakeup in the league standing.

New York assumed Boston's place at the head of the league. The Yankees won four games and lost one through good batting by Baker and Gideon and mid-season pitching. It took them eleven innings, however, to defeat Washington Saturday. New York meets the Red Sox during the coming week and a stiff fight for the lead can be expected.

St. Louis continued its good work. Its fifteen-inning battle Saturday with Cleveland to a 1-1 tie was the longest game yet played this season.

Boston, after losing two games earlier in the week to Washington, lost two more to Philadelphia Friday and Saturday. Carrigan's men played well afield, but at bat and in the box there appeared to be something lacking.

Detroit, through effective hitting and steady work in the box, spurted during the week, winning four games to one lost.



White Sox Erratic.

The White Sox played erratically. Their batting was much weaker than is to be expected from a team having Eddie Collins, Jackson, Fournier and other stars. However, they found a place in the first division by defeating Detroit yesterday.

Batting hard one day and weakly the next, Washington slumped slightly, and Walter Johnson met his first defeat Monday at the hands of the Red Sox.

Connie Mack's aggregation entered the "games won" column Friday by defeating the Red Sox and continued the good work by another victory Saturday.

Rain interfered with some of the American association games, which began last Tuesday, but early results indicate the race will be close, as every team has won at least one game. Louisville is off to a good start and Toledo, under Manager Bresnahan, is living up to the good predictions based on the strength of its lineup.

SPORT NEWS AND COMMENT

College Athletics, Baseball Gossip and Other Items From All Points—Stiehm Wants Spring Football.

Madison, Wis.—Wisconsin's hopes for victory in the outdoor dual meets and the conference games June 3 have suffered through the announcement that the injury to "Spike" Huston, the varsity pole vaulter, which he suffered in a fall from a horse, probably will keep him out of all events. Huston fell while practicing a "stunt" for the university circus and examination showed his ankle was broken.

Urbana, Ill.—Illinois probably will have entrants in the hop-step-and-jump, the broad jump, hurdles and discus in the Penn relay meet at Philadelphia, April 29. Husted is practicing for the discus, Pogue and Carter for the jumps and Ames in the hurdles. The following, it is probable, will make the trip: Carter, Ames, Culp, Mason, Pogue and Gildner.

* * *

Toledo, Ohio—"Iron Men" is the latest nickname proposed for the Toledo Baseball club. Two Toledo sport writers are using the name exclusively in referring to the club. Whether it will become popular is problematical. Rajahs, Bresna Hens were two names that for a short time seemed to strike the popular fancy, but fandom decreed that neither was suitable and returned to the old name of Mud Hens. Whether the new name will prove popular is hard to predict. One paragrapher intimates that it would be a shame to let them drop behind and rust during the coming season

Indianapolis, Ind.—Housewives of Indianapolis are singing the praises of James C. McGill, president of the Indianapolis club of the American association. All because McGill decided upon 3 o'clock for the opening of the baseball games played in Indianapolis instead of 3:30 as was the rule last year. With the game starting a half hour earlier, the wives of the "fans" promise fewer scorched dinners, due to waiting for friend husband, which will eliminate some of the family jars, it is claimed.

Indianapolis, Ind.—A movement has been started here to stage two prize fights the night before the annual automobile race to be held at the Indianapolis motor speedway, May 30. It is said that an effort is being made to sign Frank Moran and Jack Dillon for one of the bouts.

Boxing exhibitions have not been permitted here for some time. Last year attempts were made to stage two contests before the Memorial day race, but failed after injunctions were obtained.

With the thousands of persons in Indianapolis for the race, it has been estimated that a fight between top-notchers would draw at least 10,000. The fights, if permitted, probably will be held in the American association baseball park.

Bloomington, Ind.—Coach Ewald C. Stiehm of Indiana university is trying to inaugurate spring intercollegiate football in the state. For some time he has been seeking to arrange a practice game between the Indiana squad and any other college or university having spring football practice. He says that by playing a game with an outside team, some of the new men would gain valuable experience, which can be obtained only in a contest with others than members of the same squad.

WESTERN TRACK MEN SHOW SPLENDID FORM

Philadelphia, Pa., April 24.—Results of the relay races at Des Moines, Iowa, last Saturday, when two world's records and three conference records were broken show that the West will be more strongly represented at the University of Pennsylvania relays on April 28 and 29 than had been anticipated in this section of the country. The showing of the Wisconsin athletes has made them favorites here in the sprints and in the mile relay.

The time of the team from Wisconsin in the four-mile championship proves in the mind of the experts here that Cornell will have to better her former record to maintain her laurels in that event. Michigan and Chicago made a good showing in Des Moines and are also expected to figure strongly in the competition with the Eastern colleges.

The records set up by the Western athletes in the track and field event also insures keen competition in the special events at the relay carnival.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Keeping a Trim Figure Trimmed

WILLIAM BRADY M.D.

Women generally try to avoid growing stout, flabby or uncouth, and unfortunately they have not all learned that corsets are only a delusion and a snare for that purpose. There is little use in preaching anti-corset propaganda, however. This talk is for men. The women are welcome to listen if they are curious—they will anyway.

In nearly every man's life there comes a time when he begins to put on flesh. At first the poor fellow feels rather proud of it. To his own eyes it looks like dignity, it feels to him rather "chesty," and the tailor conspires with him in encouraging the idea. But in due time, he finds that it is nothing but grease, oil, fat filling in between the muscles. He realizes with a pang of remorse that it is merely the stoutness of advancing years, that he is no longer a wiry youth, but only a flabby, short-winded, high-paunched, middle-aged man, and almost bald at that.

What he needs is a better balanced metabolism. His intake of food or fuel is more than his system is capable of burning up. The excess, in time, will poison him. If he has the courage and sense to realize his position and to take reasonable precautions before the auto-intoxication of middle age begins to harden his arteries, he may still preserve a fair imitation of youth, both in looks and in feelings.

Let him learn that a hearty appetite is to be curbed and restrained, that it is a fine thing to skip a meal often, and still better to have a milk diet day occasionally.

And let him exercise. Walking is ideal. Tennis, golf, a certain amount of gymnasium work may be indulged in. If it is really impracticable for him to utilize any of these aids to health, then he can at least spend five or ten minutes every night at physical culture in his room.

The setting-up drill is a first rate all around exercise to take. Then a few bending stunts, forward, sidewise, backward. Then a body-lifting effort or two, lying prone and pushing up the rigid body on the arms, letting it down again, and so on, for from three to twenty times at a session. This must be done regularly, and always stopped short of fatigue, in order to escape the muscular soreness which is so likely to follow unaccustomed exercise. But if even five minutes a day can be devoted to physical culture, in a month the man will feel the benefit of it upon his health. The exercises should be taken in the nude—the skin likes a good air bath. And they should be carried out with a vim and spirit, such as the gymnasium trainer demands from his classes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Most Vicious Lie.

I think, typewrites a teacher, that the most vicious lie is the one a doctor lives or practises when he tells a patient time and again, over a period of many precious months, that she has "just a run-down condition," without ever examining the naked chest, whereas her actual trouble is tuberculosis. Don't you think so?

Answer—Well, that is a pretty indefensible lie, all right; but here are two lies quite as famous, and, we contend, much in the same class: (a) Santa Claus; (b) the stork. Come, critics, are we wrong?

Calomel for a Baby.

Please tell me the proper dose of calomel as a laxative for a 14-months-old baby.

Answer—It is not a proper laxative for a baby.

BARNES HOME; WORK BEGINS

Holds Conferences With Various Committee Heads of Boat Club.

Work on Tennis Courts Is Begun—Ready for Play Wednesday.

Julius Barnes, high factotum of the Duluth Boat club, enthusiastic patron of amateur rowing and generally acknowledged as one of the most public-spirited men of which the Zenith City can boast, arrived in Duluth this morning from New York City and was met at the station by many warm personal friends who tendered him a cheerful welcome home.

His coming means everything to the plans that are going forward for the National regatta that is to be held here next August and in which crews of all of the larger rowing clubs of the United States and Canada will take part. This morning at 10 o'clock, Mr. Barnes conferred with the various committee heads when he was told of the drafts of plans that have been made for handling of what will prove to be the greatest athletic show that the entire Northwest has even seen. The committees have not begun active work, not caring to go ahead until they learn Mr. Barnes' wishes in the matter.

It is expected that all of the conferences with the various committees will be over by this evening so that active work can be started by the committee members tomorrow morning.

Alterations which have been under way on the conversion of the south launch house of the club into dormitory and refectory quarters for the oarsmen are nearly completed and the recruits will be housed there some day this week. Work on the tennis courts at Oatka beach, started last week, but interfered with by the stormy weather, was resumed this morning. It is believed that play will begin on next Wednesday, when it is expected that all of the players of the club who performed last year as well as new ones, who would care to work out for place on the club teams, will report.

The Duluth Boat club is anxious this year to win the Inter-Club Tennis championship, competed for every year by the Minneapolis and St. Paul and Duluth clubs. In time past the local racket wielders always started practice work late in the season so that when the tournament opened they were not in the best of condition. This year, however, they are beginning six weeks earlier and will go into regular training, same as the oarsmen.

The recruits for positions on the boat club rowing crews will be out on the bay this evening.

ROWELLS WIN FIRST BATTLE WITH FAIRMONTS

The Rowells, a fast aggregation of amateur baseball players, picked off their first victory of the season yesterday when they defeated the Fairmonts by the lop-sided score of 17 to 1. The contest was staged on the grounds at Fifty-second avenue west. W. Kerwin of last year's Chicago Gunthers and J. Shaw of Toronto have joined the Rowells. Among the others on this team are Kosiak, McLaughlin and Foryziak.

Indians Release Two.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 24.—The management of the Cleveland American league baseball club announces that Outfielder Larry Chapelle, who came here as part of the Joe Jackson deal, with Chicago, had been released to the Columbus American association team and that Pitcher Herbert Kelley, a recruit left hander, had been released to Portland, Or., in the Pacific Coast league.

SUN BRINGS OUT GOLFERS

Local Patrons of Scotch Game Throng Links of Northland Club.

Beautiful Easter weather brought out a large crowd of golf fans on the links of the Northland Country club yesterday, when many informal games were staged, in which both men and women participated. It is the first day in nearly a week that the members were able to swat the little ball, stormy weather forbidding practice play for several days.

With the return of sunshine and caressing spring breezes it is expected that this week will prove the biggest of the local golf year in the way of patronage of the links. Interest in the great Scotch game is running high and many of the players are anxious to show improvement over their scores of last season. Standard of play at the club is higher than ever before.

Most of the enthusiasts are getting in shape for participation in the medal play handicap, the first of the year, which will be staged on May 20. This will be an eighteen-hole, ball sweepstakes, the entrance fee being one ball. The winners will divide 50 per cent to first; 30 per cent to second and 20 per cent to third.

THE BEST WAY ANY DAY

PREPARE FOR HEROES' DAY

Memorial Day Will Have Elaborate Program—Citizens' Staff Meets.

Senator Clapp Speaker—Sunday Services at First Presbyterian Church.

Plans for Duluth's Memorial day observance are taking form.

Elaborate services will be held, for Duluth, as always, will do her share in honoring the memory of the country's soldier and sailor dead.

Arrangements for the program were discussed at a joint meeting Saturday evening of the Citizens' staff and joint committees from the Gorman and Culver posts of the G. A. R. The meeting was held in Memorial hall.

It was announced that United States Senator Moses E. Clapp had been definitely selected as speaker for the day. A letter of acceptance from him was read. A special committee will have charge of entertaining him while in the city.

On Memorial Sunday, May 28, Duluth's portion of a country-wide observance, patriotic services will be conducted at the First Presbyterian church. And those who once marched to the tune of shot and shell through the smoke of battle will tramp down the church aisles to pay their annual tribute to their absent comrades. Not only Grand Army men will be invited; all military orders of the city will be asked to attend.

Big Parade Planned.

On May 30, Memorial day, there will be a monster parade in which Grand Army men, Spanish War Veterans, National Guardsmen, naval militiamen and the children of the city schools will participate. Banners will be given to the schools making the best showing in the parade. The children of the Jackson and Merritt schools will be ineligible to compete for the prizes because they have won permanent possession of the banners which have been given in former years. In the event, however, that they should make the best parade appearance, they will be awarded honor ribbons to tie on the laurels already captured, and the new banners will go to the two next best schools.

Elects New Officers.

The Citizens' staff held its annual election of officers at Memorial hall Saturday evening. Those chosen for the ensuing year are: W. W. Huntley, president; W. S. McCormick, vice president; Charles Rakowsky, treasurer, and A. H. Davenport, secretary. The executive committee consists of S. S. Williamson, W. I. Prince and B. P. Neff.

Culver post, G. A. R., co-operating with the Citizens' staff, will have general charge of the Memorial day observance this year.

TRAPPER BRINGS IN HUGE WOLF

Claims Bounty; Pelt Measures Six Feet and Six Inches.

Bounty was claimed at the county auditor's office Saturday afternoon by Herbert Tapinen, trapper from Colvin township, on one of the largest timber wolves which has been killed in this county for several months. The pelt measured 6 feet 6 inches from top to tip and the head was as large as a calf's.

Tapinen claimed that he killed the animal with a club and after a desperate fight. He stated that he had had several glimpses of the big wolf several times during the winter and that he was the leader of a pack which had been preying on the deer. One night he built a fire in a location where he thought the wolf would pass. The fire lured the animal within range of the light and Tapinen succeeded in wounding him. Later he was clubbed to death.

STUMP PULLING TO BE DEMONSTRATED

Wisconsin Land Clearing Limited to Visit Northern Counties.

Madison, Wis., April 24.—The land clearing limited is about ready for its tour of twelve counties in the cut-over country of Northern Wisconsin to demonstrate the best, simplest and most economical methods of stump pulling and piling.

The train, consisting of six cars, will travel over the Northwestern and the Omaha railroads.

Arrangements have been made in each of the towns to be visited to have special local booster days in which the entire community will take part, with the land clearing demonstration as a center of attraction.

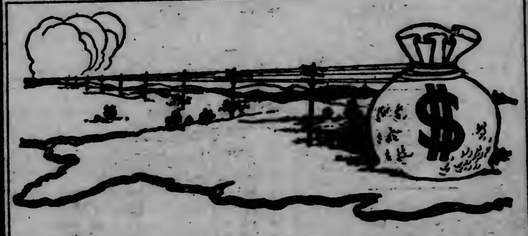
All scheduled demonstrations, private exhibitions, and the work of transporting the equipment is in charge of C. D. Livingston, department of agricultural engineering, college of agriculture.

As far as possible, three demonstrations will be given each week. Uniform areas of uncleared land will be assigned to the different co-operators by lot after being staked out. Each co-operator will furnish as many men to operate their machines as necessary. The necessary horses and drivers will be provided to the demonstrators by local committees at each stop.

Under Actual Working Conditions.

At least two three-hour periods will be set aside during which the exhibitors will be expected to operate their machinery under actual working conditions. These men are to be free from interference either by their own agents or the spectators. At the end of this time the land must be cleared of all stumps as far as the work has progressed. Each outfit will be required to clear as it goes, leaving nothing in the ground to interfere with plowing. As much of the material as possible will be piled ready for burning.

Intervals will be given for the inspection of the machines by interested visitors. Agents of the manufacturers will be allowed to give private demonstrations on tracts of land set aside for this purpose, but not in a way to interfere with the regular demonstrations.



The first stop will be made at Mountain, Oconto county, from where the train will proceed to Deerbrook, thence in the order named to Elcho, Crandon, Three Lakes, Eagle River, Woodruff, Bayfield, Phlipps, Bennett, Spooner, Radisson, Barronette, Rice Lake, Cornell and Hannibal.

THOUSAND CHINESE LOST WHEN BOAT SINKS

Shanghai, April 24.—More than a thousand soldiers and men of the crew of the steamer Hsin-Yu were lost when the steamer sank after a collision with the cruiser Hai-Yung Saturday evening south of the Chusen Islands.

The steamer, acting as a transport, was taking troops to Foo Chow. The collision occurred during a thick fog and only one foreigner engineer, twenty soldiers and nine sailors out of six foreigners and over a thousand soldiers and members of the crew were saved.

The Hsin-Yu was a vessel of 1,629 tons. She was built in 1889 and was owned by the China Merchants Steam Navigation company of Shanghai.

ON THE IRON RANGES

CHILSON MINES DO LOADING ON SUNDAY

Great Demand for Ore Necessitates Increasing Working Time.

Chisholm, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—To produce enough ore from the underground mines of the Steel corporation properties in this district to meet the initial demand made upon the district, shovels started loading at the Clark and Chisholm stockpiles and continued all day Sunday. Loading and shipping on Sunday is an unusual work in this district, but will be continued until the rush at the docks has subsided.

Hewing and shaping of timbers in preparation for general repair work at "C" shaft of the Chisholm mine was completed Saturday, and Sunday morning all available carpenters of the Oliver company were set at work replacing old timber at the collar of the shaft with new, and renewing and lining up the shaft skip guides and runners.

To Force Chester Mine Work.

A 100-kilowatt D. C. generator that will supply current for surface lighting and underground electric haulage at the Chester mine has been received and installation is being made today. Local officials of the Oliver Mining company state that operations at this mine will be forced during the coming season, and it was to the Chester mine that practically the entire force of the Duncan mine was transferred when the latter property, a state lease, closed down a week ago.

Evidence of a prospective record year in the ore business from this district is noticeable in the construction work under way by the Missabe railroad at Wilpin, where large yards, containing considerable trackage, are in the course of construction, and excavation for the foundation of a 10,000-gallon steel water tank is completed. The steel for this tank is already on the ground.

CHISHOLM ASSAULT CASE GIVEN JURY

Case Against Pair Accused of Gambling Is Now Being Tried.

Virginia, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial of Arresti Valenti, indicted on an assault charge growing out of a row at a boarding house at Chisholm was completed in district court this morning and went to the jury this afternoon. The defendant is charged with cutting Philomena Damiana with a knife.

The case of the state vs. Walter Darcy and Charles Campbell, indicted in gambling charge began this afternoon.

VIRGINIA TO CLEAN UP.

Campaign Will Start With Church Announcement Next Sunday.

Virginia, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia's cleanup week will be inaugurated next Sunday and formal plans for the seven days will be made at a meeting of the general committee of the Commercial club tonight.

Next Sunday it is proposed to have the pastors of all churches make announcements concerning the cleanup and paintup campaign, from the pulpits. The schools are also being used to advertise the event and cleanup week will be closed with a parade of Virginia school children in which all but the primary and kindergarten grades will participate. Al G. Flournoy is chairman of the general cleanup and paintup movement.

TOWER PERSONALS.

Tower, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Summer Purvis, who has spent the winter at Fond du Lac, Wis., has returned to his homestead at Eagles Nest lake.

Mrs. Andrew Nystrom and children have gone to Eau Claire, Wis., for a week's visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazelblad and infant child and Mrs. Hazelblad's mother, Mrs. Gustafson were here for the day at the Sieberg home Friday returning to their home at Winton in the evening.

Miss Mabel Thorpe was home from Duluth and Miss Sylvia from Ely to spend their vacations with their parents.

VIRGINIA'S SCHOOL PROBLEM UNSETTLED

Virginia, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The problem of providing adequate school housing facilities for this independent district will be further considered at the regular meeting of the board of education this evening. At Saturday's special election the proposition of razing the Roosevelt to make room for a new and more modern structure was defeated, 745 to 318. The result of the election does not mean, however, that this settles the school question. The original problem of providing adequate school facilities is as pressing as ever.

The circulation of petitions for new buildings to replace the primary and Central schools will probably be begun in a short time. Both these structures are of frame, and it is proposed to have them replaced with brick structures.

E. M. Phillips is expected to attend the meeting of the board tonight to consider matters concerning the schools and courses of study with the board.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backache, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath. It is said that men and women who try this become enthusiastic and keep it up daily. It is a splendid health measure for it is more important to keep clean and pure on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do no absorb impurities into the blood, causing disease, while the bowel pores do.

The principle of bathing inside is not new, as millions of people practice it. Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.—Advertisement.

ATTORNEY GENERAL INDORSES ACTION

State's Legal Adviser Says Council Acted O. K. on Fund Matter.

Chisholm, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The action taken by this village in refusing to recognize the local Firemen's Relief association as at present constituted, was the safe course of proceedure, declares Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith, in a letter addressed to Alger R. Syme, former village attorney.

Year after year the officers of the Firemen's Relief association have made demands upon each new council for custody of the association's funds aggregating $4,000 and held in trust by the village. Every village attorney has advised the council against complying with the demand. George K. Trask, present village attorney, conducted a thorough examination of the association's records of organization, minutes of meetings, etc., and advised that the council demand the surrender of the charter held by the association that a reorganization could be perfected among the active firemen of the village in compliance with the provisions of the charter.

Through a misinterpretation of a previous opinion advanced by the attorney general in a letter written to officials of the association it was believed by those officers that the council was obliged to honor their claim for custody of the funds. It is expected the charter will be surrendered by the association's trustees within a few days.

LAKE OF WOODS CASE.

Chisholm Attorney Looks for Decision in About Three Months.

Chisholm, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the international joint commission will render to the Canadian and American governments recommendations covering final settlement of the Lake of the Woods dispute within the next three months is the opinion of C. E. Berkman, local lawyer, who has returned from Washington, D. C., where he appeared before the commission in the interests of the riparian owners on the American side of the lake.

The ordinary maximum level of the lake is 1,057 feet above sea level, and it is the desire of Canadian power interests, financed by Winnipeg capital to raise that level to 1,061 feet above sea level. This would increase the horse power development at the northern outlet to 550,000 per year, and would flood and effect 30,000 acres, or forty-seven square miles of land on the American side of the lake.

It is said that the desire of the riparian owners is to receive compensation for damage done to their shore line holdings in ratio to the financial benefit derived by the power companies.

BUYING GOPHER LANDS.

Iowa and Indiana Men Acquire Property in Adjoining County.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elmer Madson, local manager of the Red River Lumber company lands, reports a number of sales to new settlers. J. F. Cole of Charles City, Iowa, has purchased a forty on Prairie lake and one forty on Rice lake, and he expects to move onto the land at Prairie lake at once.

John Hepscher of Indiana has purchased a 40-acre tract in section 1, town of Grand Rapids, and expects to move on at once. This is near the Coleraine cemetery and closer to the mining town than to Grand Rapids.

Frank Roos, living near Rush City, has purchased 160 acres in section 19, 56-25. Mr. Roos states that he bought for an investment, but that he likes it so well here that he may move onto his land before long.

ELY CHURCH PROGRAM.

Special Easter Services Held in M. E. Edifice.

Ely, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday evening a special Easter program was rendered at the M. E. church by the Sunday school classes, assisted by the church choir, as follows: Hymn, congregation; prayer, Rev. J. Nankervis; song, Sunday school; exercise, Mrs. Wallace's class; song, Miss Coombe's class; exercise, Mr. Mitchell's class; song, Miss Gude's class; scripture reading, Miss Ruth Toms; offering; anthem, church choir; recitation, Miss Marian Mitchell; solo, Miss Wilmette Petherick; talk by Mr. W. Mitchell; mixed quartet, Misses Coombes and Prisk, Messrs. Cardew and Nichols; talk by Rev. Williams; song, Miss Ritchie's class.

EASTER ON MESABA RANGE.

Good Weather and Air of Prosperity Combine in Day's Success.

Virginia, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia was the mecca yesterday for thousands of people from all sections of the range, weather conditions being ideal for the annual Easter parade and the street crowds afternoon and evening were large. Local theaters did capacity business, motorists were abroad early and late, and automobiles filled range highways.

The attitude of the people reflects the general optimism over the business outlook. Everywhere there is confidence that the range country is facing one of the biggest business years ever, unless labor trouble should manifest itself and hamper operations in the mines.

An average of five trains of iron ore a day are now moving to the docks from the Virginia district over the Missabe, while shipments over the Iron Range and Great Northern are almost as much more.

Calumet, Mich., April 24.—Attorney Anthony Lucas of Calumet announces that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for prosecuting attorney of Houghton county at the primaries to be held in August. Mr. Lucas was prosecuting attorney four years ago, and was a candidate again two years ago against the present prosecutor, W. J. Galbraith.

UNIVERSITY STUDENT GAME LAW VIOLATOR

Mill City Youth Fined $100 for Killing Lake County Moose.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—After several weeks' investigation as to who killed two moose last January near Finland, on the Alger line, Game Wardens August Tabor of this city and Krager of Duluth landed on a clew, and as a result R. P. Esswine of Minneapolis, a law student at the University of Minnesota, was fined $100 and costs. Esswine was arrested in Minneapolis by Game Warden De Smidt of Minneapolis, where he pleaded guilty.

Game Warden Tabor went to Minneapolis to arrest the offender, but could not locate him, and left the matter with Mr. De Smidt, who picked up Esswine.

Finn Given Third Degree.

Game Wardens Tabor and Krager, from the beginning, had absolutely no clew as to who did the deed. They learned that two moose had been shipped in barrels from Beaver Bay to Minneapolis, but could not find out who shipped them.

Their search for evidence was finally rewarded when they accused a Finn at Finland, who knew all about the deal, and succeeded in forcing him into telling who really killed the moose.

Game Warden Tabor stated that it is his opinion that both the moose were cows. Esswine is very well acquainted around Beaver Bay and Finland, as he has hunted in that vicinity for several falls. The game wardens claim that this is one of the boldest law violations that has been pulled off for a long time. There is undoubtedly much game killed out of season, but it is seldom shipped.

GOOD WORK.

Proper Food Makes Marvelous Changes.

Providence is sometimes credited with directing the footsteps by so simple a way as the reading of a food advertisement.

A lady in Mo. writes, "I was compelled to retire from my school teaching because I was broken down with nervous prostration.

"I suffered agony in my back and was in a dreadfully nervous condition, irritable, with a dull, heavy headache continually, had no appetite and could scarcely digest anything. I was unable to remember what I read and was, of course, unfit for my work.

"One day, as if by providence, I read the testimonial of a lady whose symptoms were much the same as mine, and she told of how Grape-Nuts food had helped her, so I concluded to try it.

"I began with Grape-Nuts, a little fruit, and a cup of Postum. I steadily improved in both body and mind. Grape-Nuts has done more for me than all the medicine I have ever taken. I am now well again and able to do anything necessary in my work.

"My mind is clearer and my body stronger than ever before. "There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

BUILDING WORK AT GRAND RAPIDS

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. H. Dickinson, who arrived from Pasadena, Cal., last week, is having changes made to the old Itasca Mercantile company's property, now owned by H. C. Merritt of Pasadena. The platform alongside of the railroad track, where the cars were unloaded when goods were received in carload lots, has been torn down, and Mr. Dickinson has given orders for tearing down all of the old sheds and warehouses belonging to the buildings, including the sheds at the rear of the dwelling house now occupied by R. W. Engstrom, the sheds adjoining the building occupied by the Itasca drug store and James Connell, and those at the end of the building occupied by Mrs. Miller's confectionery. A general improvement of the buildings is contemplated.

D. M. Gunn is having the building adjoining his Powegama hotel, which for the past several years has been used as a garage, torn down. The building was an old one, and was in bad shape. The building is an old landmark.

DEMANDED CHAMPAGNE AND BRASS BAND TO FEATURE CELEBRATION OF HIS FUNERAL

William F. Norton, Jr., Once Resident of Louisville, Is Author of Strangest Will Ever Filed in Duluth; Left Fund for Friends to Carry on Hilarity While Body Was Being Cremated; Some Other Strange Wills.

ALL WILLS are not wooden, although the repressing influence of the learned legal profession has a tendency to so construct them. Occasionally personalities are not suppressed. Then men and women flower out in their own language and blazon forth their philosophies of life, not only in the way that they dispose of their property, but by their strange expressions of thought.

From the files of wills in the St. Louis county probate court during the last few years, many interesting and curious instruments of this nature may be found. Such wills usually reveal a curiously flavored personality possessed by the man or woman who wrote it.

The Strangest Will.

Perhaps the strangest will ever filed in Duluth was that written by the late William F. Norton, Jr., for many years a resident of Louisville, Ky., who died in May of 1903 at Coronado Beach, Cal., and who owned property in Duluth valued at more than $50,000. And had Mr. Norton died in Louisville, instead of California, and the executors of his estate carried out his wishes, they would have conducted one of the strangest funerals in history. But he died in California and saved them the trouble.

Mr. Norton drew his last will in 1896. The date is fixed by himself as "the sixth day of August, year of Grace, 1896." The instrument was filed for probate in this county in 1904, a few months after his death. He provides that if he should die in Louisville, his friends shall take his body on a special Pullman to Cincinnati and celebrate his incineration at a ceremony with a cornet band concert and champagne.

"Second. The following are the directions for the disposition of my body which I wish to be carried out to the very letter by my two executors to be hereinafter named, namely: In case I should die in Louisville, in which dead town I have been buried alive for so many years, I wish a special Pullman car to be engaged to carry my body to Cincinnati, Ohio, for cremation at the crematory in that city, taking along the receptacle of my ashes, which will be found in my private office rooms, 19-20-22 Norton block. I wish the buffet of the Pullman which will carry my body to Cincinnati to be well stocked with nice things, both to eat and drink, so that my friends who will do me the honor to see me well started on my last and long 'journey to that bourne from whence no traveler returns,' may not want for anything to ease their hunger or to slake their thirst.

Concert During Cremation.

"As it takes about two hours to cremate a body, and while my body is undergoing the process of cremation, I wish my executors to engage, at a cost of $200, the Bellstedt cornet band, of forty musicians—the best in Cincinnati—to render a fine concert program, composed of my favorite musical selections. A copy of said concert program will be found in the same envelope which contains my will. It will be noticed in said concert program that there are two intermissions of fifteen minutes' duration each, and during said intermissions I wish my friends who will be the witnesses of the incineration of my body to invite the musicians to join with them in drinking my 'bon voyage' in Montebello Brut champagne, several cases of which will be sent to the crematory from the Pullman car.

"After the incineration of my body, I wish my ashes to be placed in the receptacle for the same, above referred to, and said receptacle containing my ashes to be taken by my two executors to Russellville, Ky., and to put said receptacle containing my ashes in the bronze urn on the top of the family monument in Maple Grove cemetery at that place. It is my desire that no religious services of any name or nature be held at my home, at the crematory, or at said Maple Grove cemetery. Be it distinctly understood whether I die in Louisville or elsewhere, I wish my body to be cremated."

Some Quotations.

Mr. Norton prefaced the will with quotations from the works of Prior, Byron and Shakespeare. His selections were:

"Who breathes must suffer, and who thinks must mourn;
And he alone is blest who ne'er was born."
—Prior.

"Aye, but die, and go alas,
Where all have gone, where all must go
To be nothing that I was,
Ere born to life and living woe;
Count the joys thine hours have seen,
Count the days from anguish free
And know that whatsoever thou hast been
'Tis something better not to be."
—Byron.

"Not a whit we defy augury; there's a special providence in the fall of a sparrow. If it be now, 'tis not to come; if it be not to come, it will be now; if it be not now, yet it will come, the readiness is all, since no man has aught of what he leaves. What is't to leave betimes."—Shakespeare.

Provided for Possible Wife.

Mr. Norton also made provision that if he should die leaving a wife and children how his estate should be divided. But he died unmarried and under the provisions of his will the bulk of the estate went to his mother, Ann E. Morton. The fifth clause of the will carried with it a bequest of $10,000 to one Miss Augusta Savage, providing that she was living and unmarried. This provision, for a reason not stated, was revoked by a codicil made in January of 1903. Another provision of the will was a bequest of $3,000 to a friend with the stipulation that a portion of the amount to be for prompt payment on the legatee's life insurance policy. He also gave his "faithful family servant" $3,000, stating that "if he is economical, said sum will be sufficient to keep him the rest of his days on earth."

Another curious will of entirely different nature is that filed in the estate of a foreigner who died at Soudan on Feb. 20, 1913. On his deathbed, the dying man made a few pen scratches across a paper on which the following was written:

"Soudan, Minn., Feb. 20, 1913.

"He said his father and mother are first and they are dead, so he gives it to John Vlada and his wife, Mary Vlada, his homestead in Greaney, Minnesota."

The only signatures which appeared on the paper were the names of four witnesses, who testified that certain ink marks which appeared on the paper were placed there by the dying man. The will was submitted to probate as the wishes of the dead man.

When Octavie Belanger died in this city on Dec. 29, 1913, aged 63, she left a will in which she expressed the wish that she be laid at rest beside the body of her first husband, Charles Collins, and that the executor of her estate have a suitable headstone for the double grave. To her second husband, who survived her, she gave nothing except the statutory interest in their homestead, which he was entitled to under the law. She made several bequests to her own relatives and stated that inasmuch as her surviving spouse had seen fit to dispose of his property to his own relatives before he married her, it should be her privilege to do the same. The will, however, is being contested and the case has not been decided.

Would Mark Parents' Graves.

Jacob D. Zein, who died in Duluth on Jan. 1, 1909, leaving property worth upwards of $100,000, expressed the desire that his mother's grave in Prussia and his father's last resting place in Russia, both of which he had tried for years to locate, be marked with monuments. A short time before his death Mr. Zein made a special trip abroad and spent six months trying to find the graves of his parents, who had died years before, but he was unsuccessful. The hope that they would be found, however, did not die with him, but was passed on to his heirs through the will.

There are, of course, some objections to home-made wills. Sometimes they will not stand the acid test of the law. Often the intent of the maker is not clear and occasionally the rights of statutory legatees are disregarded and other rules of law are not respected.

Before Mrs. Julia Whitcomb of Tarpon Springs, Fla., died on March 19, 1906, she wrote a will in which she disposed of her property to her friends and relatives. Among her holdings was some property in St. Louis county. One provision was that George W. Buck of this city be given authority to manage and sell her real estate in this county and that he turn the money received from the sale over to the Church of the Redeemer, Universalist, of Nunds, N. Y., as a memorial to her late husband. Judge Gilpin held that she failed to comply with the Minnesota statute and that she did not invest in Mr. Buck the power to convert her property into cash and turn it over to the church. She simply requested that such power be granted to Mr. Buck and it was not within the power of the court to see that the request was carried out. On this technicality the provision fell and the property reverted to the relatives, who would have been heirs-at-law if no will had been filed.

QUEER "PLAYTHINGS."

Cobbler Had Revolver, Flashlight and Blackjack "for Children."

A revolver, a flashlight and a blackjack, which Gust Maki, 51, had purchased as "playthings" for his children," were too much for Judge W. H. Smallwood in municipal court today. Maki was given eighty-five days at the workfarm.

Since his retirement from active "business" he has been employed as a shoemaker at the work farm. Sunday he came to town for a friendly little visit, as he put it, but when Sergt. John Hunter and Patrolman Nels Perry of the West End force arrested him, and found the revolver, flashlight and blackjack in his pocket, they decided that his visit was anything but a friendly one.

"That gun's for one of my little daughters," Maki told Chief R. D. McKercher, "and that jack's for another. The flashlight's for my boy."

Maki's daughters are 18 and 20, and his son is 25.

"JOKE" PROVES SERIOUS.

Woodsman May Go to Work Farm for His April 1 Prank.

An April Fools' joke that proved to be more than a joke may result seriously for Jack Tuoni, 28, recently a lumberjack, but now a candidate for a job as deckhand on a lake freighter.

Tuoni was arrested by Chief of Detectives Gust Lahti this morning, and charged with grand larceny on a complaint sworn to by John Larka, another lumberjack, who professed to be a friend of Tuoni's.

The two men slept together in a West Michigan street hotel on the night of April 1, according to police. During the night Tuoni disappeared. With him went $35 and a watch, which belonged to his "friend."

"He's joking," said Larka, "he'll come back."

Tuoni came back, but it was by request.

"RED" IS INTERNED.

Caught in Raid, He Will Be Guest of Fred Ward.

Charles "Red" Edge, who refused to have his picture taken by the police, and a suspect of operating an opium "den," was given a 60-day sentence at the work farm for disorderly conduct today.

Irene Bishop, arrested with Edge when detectives raided his home on South First avenue east Saturday morning, was given eighty-five days at the county jail on the same charge.

Violet Rae Jones and Carrie Davis, also both colored, arrested with the pair, pleaded not guilty to vagrancy, and were held for trial this afternoon.

The Jones woman recently served a sentence after Federal authorities convicted her of smuggling opium into Duluth from Port Arthur as she rode back and forth on a north shore boat line.

ENGLERT ACTS AS ARBITER.

Peacefully Settles Dispute of Two Negroes Over Guitar.

Ebenezer Green, once of the cruiser Maryland, but now a "shore dog" temporarily, was grief stricken, because his beloved guitar was gone.

"Jackie" Taylor, Green's chum, also colored, had borrowed the guitar, had pawned it for "three iron men" and had lost the "iron men" in a friendly "crap" game.

The two sailors came to police headquarters Saturday to have their troubles adjusted, and appealed to Sergt. John Englert:

"Taylor heen done pawned mah gultar and Ah hain't got it back yit."

"Yas sah," Taylor said, "dat am de truf. "Ah done pawn it for t'ree iron men, allowin' ah could win some more dough, but dem bones sho' went natchally wouldn't roll fer me a'tall. Ah doan want to go to jail, howsome ever, Sarge."

The "sarge" drew up an agreement whereby Taylor is to return the instrument by May 15, or give himself up to police, and the negroes left, arm in arm.

START OUT TO SEE WORLD ON NICKEL

Two Duluth Boys Explore the City Until 5 a. m.

Two boys, one 7 and the other 10, started out to see the world yesterday noon and explored the city until after 5 o'clock this morning, when they were picked up by a police sergeant and taken to their home.

Ray Watterson, with his older brother, Leslie, left their home at 25 East Fourth street yesterday noon. They each had a nickel, and they were going to a "movie."

At dinner time Mrs. Watterson, alarmed by their absence, telephoned police, and by 10 o'clock the frantic parents, aided by the entire police force, were scouring the city for the errant youngsters.

Acting on the advice of the father, who said Leslie was of a romantic disposition and might try to board a steamer, police watched the docks until the last passenger boat had left, without results.

Finally Sergt. John Englert stumbled on two sleepy little lads when he was making the rounds near Third avenue west and Michigan street, and decided that the search for the Watterson boys was ended.

A short comparison of notes proved that he was right.

ENLISTS NAVAL MILITIAMEN.

Sergt. Buck Secures Another Valuable Recruit From Superior.

Sergt. Frank J. Buck, recruiting officer for the United States marines, enlisted Alton Kennett Borgen, 608 John avenue, Superior, today, making the fifth naval militiaman he has enlisted recently in the marine service. All of these have been from Superior except one, who came from Chicago.

The marines want 500 recruits from the naval militia of the country, and special inducements in the way of non-commissioned officerships are to be given such men, as many officers are needed. The Minnesota district is expected to get twenty-five of the 500 recruits sought.

Dr. A. J. Braden

After-Easter Quiet Prevails.

Unusual quiet prevails today in the lobbies of all the larger hotels in the downtown district of the city. There are few out-of-town people here and the easy chairs are occupied by natives who visit the hostelries every day and gossip with cronies about the war and other topics of current interest. Most of the commercial travelers who "make" this territory, living within reasonable distances from the Head of the Lakes, spent Easter Sunday with relatives in their home towns.

BUSINESS IS VERY ACTIVE

Foreign Relations Is the Absorbing Topic, Says Julius H. Barnes.

Boat Club May Engage An Instructor for Younger Boys.

"Business conditions over the country are exceedingly active, but common sense would tell us that the ending of the war will certainly bring readjustments," he said.

"Of course, to every American the absorbing question at the moment is that of our foreign relations," he went on. "Everywhere we find a state of mind which is prepared for war, if war must come. It would seem a pity if two great nations cannot arrive at a common understanding of a correct basis of what constitutes humanity, and the great danger is that other peoples, deceived by the patience and forbearance of our government, should miscalculate how far America would go in support of her own ideals.

"Personally I could have wished to see a stronger tone in all our foreign relations and believe that many lives and much suffering could have been saved had we made the word 'American' stand for more protection in Europe, in Mexico and in the Orient.

"We are not quite so unprepared in this country as many may think. The construction of submarines and of aeroplanes with America's enormous manufacturing capacity could be done very quickly and the lack of equipment in these two branches of service has partly due to a deliberate policy to secure the benefit of every invention and addition disclosed by their use.

Much Quiet Preparation.

"There is a great deal of quiet preparation also in the analysis of our resources and the proper use of them in case of stress. For instance, a committee of twenty grain men appointed by the department of agriculture is working out plans for the mobilization of grain and corn and all branches of manufacturing are being covered by men of experience in the same way. I sincerely hope we shall avoid a break with any nation and avoid it with honor.

"Among other things," said Mr. Barnes, "I want to discuss with the officers of the boat club some plans for this summer in connection with the National regatta, also to enlarge the usefulness of the club here. We have in mind bringing here an excellent man for the handling of boys from 12 to 16, teaching them rowing, swimming, boxing, wrestling and setting-up exercises and simpler forms of marching just as a good body-builder.

"I stopped on the way West Saturday and saw the Yale-Pennsylvania race at Philadelphia. There was a very large crowd and a great deal of interest shown, and Philadelphia, which is one of the best centers of rowing sports in the states, seems to be determined to send a large and able representation to our regatta here next August. Everywhere in rowing circles they are talking of coming to Duluth in full force and it will take the best of our young men to defend our trophies against these invaders this year. I am exceedingly pleased with the spirit shown in Duluth for making this National regatta a memorable one."

COTTON IS RE-ELECTED

Chosen President of Duluth Commercial Club for Another Year.

Joseph B. Cotton was re-elected president of the Duluth Commercial club at a meeting of the board of directors during the noon hour today. Mr. Cotton was not present, being detained by business in the South, and the honor was accorded him by unanimous vote.

Charles P. Craig was elected first vice president and H. J. Atwood was chosen second vice president. W. N. Hart was re-elected treasurer and H. V. Eva was re-elected secretary. This will be the beginning of Col. Eva's thirteenth year as secretary of the club.

The meeting was brief and entirely unanimous. No other business was transacted.

The club has made a good record during the year of Mr. Cotton's incumbency, and it was decided to reward him with a re-election. The election of Mr. Craig to the first vice presidency is looked upon by club members as a singularly fitting one, for Mr. Craig has been one of the most active members ever since the club's formation, and as chairman of various committees has established a record for aggressiveness and progress which ads out strongly in a very progressive galaxy of committee chairmen.

Secretary Eva read to the directors a letter from the editor of the Sun of Brandon, Man., and an editorial in that paper in which the Duluth Commercial club is lauded as the finest organization of its kind on the continent. The editorial says:

"It is said by many students of organizations designed to assist the growth of the community of which they are a part, and to promote their best interests, that the Commercial club of Duluth comes closest to filling the bill of any of the organizations on the continent of America. This is a matter for such students to quarrel over if they so desire, but whether or not it is the best, it is sufficiently worthy to be of prime interest to that portion of this community who, while vitally interested, object to the granting of free sites to bonused industries liable to fail as soon as the bonus money is exhausted. It is also sufficiently worthy to interest another class, possibly larger, who are filled with what may be described as 'divine discontent—in this case a desire to improve not only the importance and trade of the city, but to make Brandon a better place in which to live."

Jacobson-Coning.

Miss Jennie Jacobson and Roy Coning were married yesterday afternoon by Rev. J. H. Stenberg at the parsonage of the First Norwegian Lutheran church. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Milly Jacobson, and the bridegroom by his brother, Arthur Coning. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the bridegroom's home, 2422 West Second street. Mr. and Mrs. Coning will make their home in Duluth.

ON SHARING OF PROFITS

Exhaustive Report Made on Investigation of Various Plans.

No Conclusions For or Against the Plans Are Reached.

New York, April 24.—One of the most exhaustive reports that has ever been made on the various profit-sharing plans that are in force or have been tried in the United States was made public today by the welfare department of the National Civic federation. Civic workers have been engaged for twelve months past in investigating more than three hundred so-called profit-sharing schemes, and their report covers the analysis of some two hundred plans.

The report itself comes to no set conclusions for or against the profit-sharing idea, but it devotes more than 260 pages to an exposition of the many plans in force today or tried and abandoned, and sets forth a group of interesting opinions and discussions both from prominent employers, representatives of organized labor and special students of the subject.

Opposed By Labor.

The views of the leaders of organized labor appear unanimous in opposition to the general theory and practice of profit-sharing, while a large number of the employers whose plans are analyzed in the report consider profit-sharing a success.

"Many reasons," says the report, "are given by these employers for their faith in the idea. Among these are that it promotes more continuous service, reduces cost of production, secures more regular attendance at work, builds up confidence and creates a spirit of cooperation, gets rid of rolling stones, and encourages homebuilding, enables the company to keep its employes during rush seasons, induces salesmen and others to work harder, promotes efficiency, interest and loyalty; and increases the profits of the business."

Employers Not a Unit.

Yet, the report continues, "employers who have had experience on the subject are by no means a unit as to its practical value. Some employers express disappointment that the efforts of their companies were not appreciated by the men, that they seemed to prefer their total earnings in fixed wages, with no variable element, that they were suspicious of the employers' motives, that they insisted upon joining unions and presenting demands in spite of the companies' efforts to give them an extra share of the business, that, when stock was sold to employes upon favorable terms they would dispose of it at a profit when its value rose, and so get the habit of watching the stock market, that when the profit distribution was large, the employes learned to expect a similar 'bonanza' every year and were disgruntled if they did not get it, to say nothing of their discontent if conditions forbade any extra payment at all; and that all schemes of this sort are necessarily complicated and hard to understand, so that the workers, especially of the less intelligent grades, are not easily convinced that the system really benefits them and is not merely a device to withhold a part of what they might otherwise demand and get.

Difficulty Real.

"That difficulty of comprehension is real and not imaginary must be acknowledged by investigators of the great number of schemes attempted, hardly any two being precisely alike, and many of them apparently based upon no accepted economic theory, but embodying ideas peculiar to the individual employer.

"Among the points raised against the profit-sharing among the trades unions the chief is, of course, that the interests of labor as a whole would be imperiled by any weakening or destruction of strong organization to protect wage standards which, under profit-sharing, would pass wholly under the control of the employers.

Another Objection.

"Another objection by organized labor, which it must be acknowledged is borne out by the statistics of many of these experiments, is that profit-sharing chiefly affects only the superintendents, foremen, and higher grades of employes and does not reach the rank and file. Either, it is claimed, the profit payments are too small to be of any moment to the low-paid workers, or, where it is a stock subscription plan, the mass of the workers do not earn enough to buy any stock, even on installments.

"The report regrets an inability to learn with certainty the views of the rank and file of employes affected by profit-sharing plans, since nearly all of these undertakings are carried on by employers of non-union labor, and the unorganized workers have no authorized spokesman. It was possible only to gather scattered individual opinion."

WILL BUILD FENCE AROUND DULUTH ZOO

Construction of a fence for Duluth's public zoo at Lester Park will begin next Monday, according to Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division.

Post holes were dug early last fall, but further work was discontinued because of the cold weather. As soon as the fense is completed a shelter shed will be erected.

It is expected that the animals already secured by the city will be placed in the zoo about June 1.

WILL ARGUE FOR PRICE MAINTENANCE

The Duluth Commercial club has accepted an offer of the American Fair Trade league of New York to have C. E. Lavigne, one of its officers, make an address here on May 4 in behalf of the price maintenance referendum of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Several dates were suggested and the Duluth club official chosen May 4 at noon as the time when Mr. Lavigne can be heard by the most members.

Price maintenance is the subject of the Stevens bill now before congress. It provides, in brief, that manufacturers may be permitted to refuse to allow the sale of their standard articles at less than the listed price, the price-cutting which is being done all over the country being claimed to be most injurious to the manufacturers' business and being used to work off cheapness and being used in connection with the sale of the standard goods.

The national chamber has submitted to the Duluth club two questions in its referendum in this matter which have been referred to a special committee which will report to the next meeting of the public affairs committee. They are:

"Should there be Federal legislation permitting the maintenance of resale prices under proper restriction on identified merchandise for voluntary purchase made and sold under competitive conditions?

"Federal legislation should take the form of an amendment to the trade commission act defining the conditions under which price-cutting is an unfair method of competition and authorizing the Federal trade commission to prevent such price-cutting in interstate and foreign commerce."

JEWS SELECT DELEGATES.

Rabbi Lefkovits and L. J. Selig Will Attend National Gathering.

Dr. Maurice Lefkovits, rabbi of Temple Emanuel, and Leon J. Selig, president of the congregation, were last evening elected delegates to the Duluth branch of the American Jewish congress.

The local branch of the congress will hold its first formal meeting at the Talmud Torah auditorium next Sunday afternoon, when an organization will be perfected, officers chosen and delegates named for the national gathering next fall.

Every Jewish organization and fraternity in the city has selected delegates to the local congress committee.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL FOR $217,652,174

Washington, April 24.—The naval appropriation bill for the fiscal year of 1917, framed by a house subcommittee and submitted to the committee today, carried $217,652,174 against $149,656,886 appropriated for the current fiscal year.

The navy department's building program for 1917, which is for two battleships, two battle cruisers, three scout cruisers, fifteen destroyers, thirty submarines, two gunboats, one hospital ship and one fuel oil ship, is embodied without change for the committee to take up next Thursday. This proposed building program would cost $86,872,127 against $45,052,801 for this year.

Hotel Keeper Found Dead.

Chicago, April 24.—Joseph N. Wineman, owner of the Windsor-Clifton hotel, was found dead in his room today with a bullet in his head. A revolver was found beside the body. For several months Mr. Wineman had been in ill health.

Coleman, Wis., Man Ends Life.

Marinette, Wis., April 24.—F. N. Blase, 47, proprietor of the Hotel Coleman, Marinette county, was found dead in the basement of the school today. A shotgun lay across his body. It is thought he committed suicide.

WHAT COULD HE DO?

Houston Post: "I hate to be contradicted," she said.

"Then I won't contradict you," he returned.

"You don't love me," she asserted.

"I don't," he admitted.

"You are a hateful thing!" she cried.

"I am," he replied.

"I believe you are trying to tease me," she said.

"I am," he conceded.

"And you do not love me."

"I don't."

For a moment she was silent.

"Well," she said at last, "I do hate a man who's weak enough to be led by a woman."

ANY "DECENT" BATHING SUIT WILL BE PERMITTED ON DULUTH BATHING BEACH

Any kind of a bathing suit will do at Duluth's municipal beach in Fairmont park next summer, as long as the law regarding indecent exposure is not violated.

Mayor Prince, head of Duluth's parks and the new bathing beach, said this morning that bathing suits will not be rented to bathers, but that each person will have to supply his own suit. With regard to the style of suits to be allowed, the mayor said that there will be no regulations and that men and women may wear whatever kind they have. Only the ordinance prohibiting indecent exposure must not be violated, he said.

Chicago's bathing beaches will open on June 1 and an order has been given out for the suits to be worn by the bathers this year. In the Windy City the suits are rented by the city and these are all of a uniform design.

According to reports, the official costume for women bathers in Chicago will be bloomers and blouse without skirt and without stockings. The official suit for men will be in one piece, with an abbreviated skirt. Of course, bathers have the privilege of wearing their own suits.

Duluth's bathing beach in Fairmont park will open some time in June, according to Mayor Prince.

PAVING WORK IS UNDER WAY

City Will Spend $1,000,000 for Improvements This Year.

Paving of East Superior street began this morning.

This is the first paving job begun this year and it is expected that several more big improvements will be under way next week. It is estimated that all the improvements planned for this year will cost approximately $1,000,000, the largest sum ever spent by Duluth in any one year in its history. Out of this sum the city itself will pay about $130,000 for crossings and street intersections.

D. H. Clough & Co., who have been awarded the contract by the General Contracting company of Minneapolis to lay the concrete base for the East Superior street pavement, started bright and early this morning. A large crew of men began tearing up the old surfacing at Sixteenth avenue east, the western terminus of the new pavement. The street is now closed to traffic, as the entire roadway will be torn up to Twenty-third avenue east, the eastern terminus.

According to the plans the concrete base will be laid first on one side of the street and then back on the other side. After the base is all in, the General Contracting company willl lay the Trinidad Lake asphalt surface over the entire street all at one time. This, it is believed, will result in a much better and more uniform pavement.

The petition calling for a pavement along Superior street from Twenty-third avenue east to the Northland Country club grounds is now being checked up by the assessor. If it is sufficient the improvement will be ordered next Monday, so that construction work can begin as early as possible. A communication was received this morning from Edward C. Congdon, representing Chester A. Congdon, one of those interested in the East Duluth Land company, which owns 3,705 feet frontage along the proposed pavement east of Twenty-third avenue, asking the council to lay gas and water mains in the roadway before the paving work is begun. The letter will be referred to the water and light department, it was announced today.

SAFETY HEAD WILL SAVE CITY MONEY

West Duluth Municipal Building Will Cost Less Than Estimated.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, will save approximately $2,500 on the construction of the new West Duluth municipal building.

Figures submitted to him this morning show that the total cost of the building to date is $29,855.94, virtually covering the entire construction cost. The furnishings, new furniture for the courtroom and other equipment will cost about $2,500, bringing the total cost to $32,500, according to the commissioner.

As the council appropriated $35,000 for the building, the city will save $2,500 for the general fund. The building will be furnished and ready for occupancy by June. 1.

CITY DEEDS WORK FARM TO COUNTY

Contract for Purchase of City Hall Site Soon to Be Signed.

Duluth formally deeded its interest in the work farm to the county last Saturday and within a few days the contract will be signed for the purchase of the city hall site, according to Mayor Prince.

In return for its interest in the work farm, the city will be credited with $33,500, of which $3,500 liquidates an old debt and the remainder will go as the first payment on the city hall site now owned by the county. The site will cost approximately $208,000.

The contracts have been completed by City Attorney Samuelson and Charles E. Adams, attorney for the county commissioners, and these will be signed within a day or two, the mayor said this morning.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT FOR ESTATE

Court Will Dispose of Property Left By Cuthbert J. Petre.

The three-cornered fight for the estate of Cuthbert J. Petre, estranged son of a distinguished family of England, who died in Duluth last January, leaving property worth $15,000, will begin before Judge S. W. Gilpin in probate court tomorrow. It is a will contest proceeding and the papers were filed several weeks ago.

Three separate claims are asserted. The first is that filed by his widow, Mrs. Emma Petre, 25 Second avenue west, who wants to be appointed administratrix under a will dated Oct. 28, 1914. Then there is Reginald W. Petre of Baltimore, a brother, who objects to the probating of any will made by his late brother, on the ground that Cuthbert had been adjudged an incompetent, and therefore lacked testamentary capacity. The third claim was urged by Mrs. Gevenith Jean Rogers Cunningham, daughter of the late Mrs. Float Rogers Petre, who has filed a will dated Oct. 23, 1909, under which she claims to be the sole heir and devisee.

RED RIVER AGAIN FLOODING FARGO

Three Blocks of Seventh Street Are Again Inundated.

Fargo, N. D., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Water in the Red river reached a stage again today where the heating plant of the new auditorium is put out of business. The river has been going up rapidly since Sunday noon and reached nearly twenty-four feet above normal, rising from a stage nearly twenty feet above normal. Several buildings are again inundated, Island park is surrounded by water, and Seventh street is again covered with water for nearly three blocks.

TOBACCO

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON, Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania.

The spirit which hovered about the red man's council fires floating upward in the smoke of the peace pipe seems to have charmed all mankind. The use of tobacco in one form or another in three centuries and a half has become worldwide.

Despite the almost universal indulgence and the praises that have been sung of the soothing effect of tobacco, science condemns it and offers an imposing array of experiments to prove the ill effects which follow its use.

Tobacco is a drug which contains powerful poisons. Its charm lies in its drug effects. If it has any beneficial effects, they are not discoverable to the scientific investigator. On the other hand, there are certain decided results tending to physical deterioration which are readily recognizable. It is a heart depressant, and experiments on animals have shown that it has a tendency to produce hardening of the arteries. Some of the foremost authorities have made clinical observations which indicate that the use of tobacco has similar effects on man.

As is generally the case in the use of drugs, there is a tendency to increasing indulgence. Those who have had experience in athletics are familiar with the fact that the use of tobacco results in interference with the breathing by depressing the heart action. There are other affections common to smokers.

To make a summary in brief, the results of all scientific investigations seem to prove conclusively that the use of tobacco is distinctly harmful to the majority of men.

BRITISH OCCUPY TOWN OF KONDOA

London, April 24.—Continuing their advance in German East Africa, the British expeditionary forces have occupied the town of Kondoa in the district of Irangi.

PROTEST BY JAPANESE UNDER CONSIDERATION

Washington, April 24.—Japan's protest against including in the pending immigration bill a reference to the Root-Takahira agreement restricting immigration of Japanese laborers was discussed in conference today by Secretary Lansing, Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee and Chairman Smith of the immigration committee. Senator Smith later called a meeting of his committee for Thursday when, it was understood, an effort will be made to modify the bill so as to eliminate any objection the Japanese government may have.

"I see no reason to believe that a satisfactory solution cannot be easily reached," said Senator Smith.

BRITISH ANSWER IS HANDED LANSING

Washington, April 24.—The British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, delivered today to Secretary Lansing his government's reply to the American protest against interference with neutral commerce. France concurs in the main with her ally, but will particularize for herself on minor points. The note is a legal and technical defense of the sea policy of the two nations.

GEORGE P. TAWNEY FILES FOR CONGRESS

St. Paul, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The list of contenders for the Republican nomination for congress in the First district received an addition today when George P. Tawney of Winona filed for the position. This mokes four Republicans of the First district who are seeking the office of Sidney Anderson, the present Republican congressman.

F. A. Duxbury of Caledonia, Ole Levang of Lanesboro, and W. D. Richardson of Rochester are the other three who are warm on the trail of the present incumbent. It was said at the state capitol today that the list might receive further additional names before the close of the week.

George P. Tawney is a relative of James A. Tawney, former congressman, who was succeeded by Mr. Anderson.

GOVERNOR VISITING NORMAL SCHOOLS

St. Paul, Minn., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Burnquist will leave tonight for Moorhead where he will continue his investigation of the normal schools of the state. From Moorhead he will go to Duluth for a visit of the schools there. He expects to devote two days at each school.

WHEAT AGAIN TURNS WEAK

Market Closes Slightly Off After Scoring Fair Advances at Start.

Flaxseed Slumps in Sympathy With Sharp Break at Winnipeg.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 24.—The market was weak at the close on fresh selling and evening up trades. May wheat closed ⅛c off and July ⅛c off and Sept. ¾c up.

May durum closed unchanged and July ⅛c up.

Oats closed ¼c up at 41¾c for on the track; rye, 1c off at 93c, and barley unchanged at from 64c to 72c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed ¼c up at 45¼c bid.

At St. Louis, May wheat closed at $1.08 bid and July at $1.08¾.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.15, and calls at $1.18.

Wheat trading was erratic today under the influence of crop and war news. At the start prices sold off ¾c, with heavy offerings on predictions of liberal May deliveries, and big shipments from the Head of the Lakes to Buffalo. Exporters were not in the market, and little interest was shown by Eastern millers for the time being. Later reports of damage in some sections of the Southwest came to hand, and advices received from grain men from over the Northwest were discouraging in that the season was reported backward in all sections, with a largely decreased acreage sown to wheat likely. A summing up of conditions led experts to predict a decrease of 20 per cent in the spring wheat acreage in the Northwest and Canada. Some Duluth operators are not so pessimistic on that score, though. They point out that wheat may be put in up to as late as May 10, and that under good conditions in the interval, a large amount of grain can be seeded.

The American visible supply report was about as expected, showing a decrease of 2,664,000 bu in wheat. A large tonnage of wheat will be moved down to the lower lakes during the next few days, and as Buffalo facilities are said to be in splendid shape, it is thought that it will be readily taken care of. Clearances have been running well over the 1,000,000 bu mark during the last few days, and if that condition continues, the situation will be rendered much easier. Receipts from the country are expected to be lighter for a time now, as farmers get into their spring work. A larger movement this way is forecasted, however.

May wheat opened ¼c up at $1.16¼, sold off ⅞c, and then moved up to $1.17 at the noon hour. July opened ¼c up at $1.17, broke ⅞c and then moved up to $1.17⅝.

May durum opened ¼c off at $1.10, broke ⅝c more and then recovered to $1.11. July opened ⅛c off at $1.11¼, and later bulged to $1.12¼.

Slump in Flax.

Flaxseed took another slump, a break of over 6¾c being recorded on selling and the catching of stop-loss orders. The market started in weak and then heavy offerings appeared for which there were no orders to take care of for the time being. Weakness at Winnipeg was a factor.

As the demand for oil is thought likely to be on a larger scale in the near future, operators are disposed to look for a more stable market.

May flax opened ⅛c off at $2.11⅜, broke to $2.04½, and closed 6¾c off. July opened ⅛c off at $2.11¼, broke to $2.05¾, and closed 6½c off at $2.06 asked.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 6¾c off at $1.82½, and July 7c off at $1.91.

Russell's, New York, said: "No charters were reported for grain on Saturday, the tone of the market being very firm for all tonnage but business was without feature. A small business in export wheat developed. Export sales were claimed of 200,000 bu of wheat and 50,000 bu of corn.

Farmers in North Dakota who faced a heavy loss two months ago through the failure of the North Dakota Grain company, are estimated to be now completely indemnified through action taken by the railroad commission of that state.

Holders of farmers' grain storage tickets to the extent of $25,000 will be taken care of as a result of the payment of $8,000 by the Consolidated Elevator company, $10,000 by the Northern Trust company of Fargo and the sale of the company's assets, including grain in elevators at Walum and Dazey, N. D. The stored grain had been sold to the Consolidated Elevator company, which subsequently found itself liable under the provision of the law which gives the railroad board arbitrary authority to follow the stored grain and collect from the purchaser no matter who he may be.

"We were innocent purchasers of this grain from the North Dakota Grain company as we did not know that it was on store. We have made a settlement with the holders of the storage tickets in the transaction and we may endeavor to recoup ourselves later in taking action against officials of the grain company," said G. H. Spencer, secretary of the Consolidated Elevator company today.

E. Thorsth of Sarles, N. D., was a visitor on the Duluth Board of Trade this morning. He said that the season in his district is the most backward in twelve years. Water is still on the fields, and it is thought unlikely that farmers will be able to do any spring work for several days yet. As only a small amount of plowing was done last fall, it is feared that the acreage sown to wheat this spring will show a large decrease. Sarles is located north of Devils Lake and is a short distance from the Canadian border.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, April 24.—Though considerable strength developed in the wheat market today, a sharp reaction followed. The strength was due chiefly to reports that a break between Germany and the United States seemed likely to be averted. Upturns in prices, however, brought about active selling by big houses. The result was a setback all around to well below Saturday's finish. Opening quotations, which ranged from ½c to ¾c up with May at $1.12⅝ to $1.12¾ and July at $1.12⅝ to $1.12⅝ were succeeded by slight additional gains and then a sudden descent.

Definite announcement of concessions by Germany led subsequently to a more decided fresh advance. Gains, however, were not well maintained. The market closed unsettled, a shade to ⅞c net higher, with May at $1.12⅛ and July $1.12½.

Corn took the same course as wheat. Higher prices led to increased offerings from which the majority of traders backed away. After opening a shade off to an advance of ¼@⅜c, the market underwent a moderate decline all around.

Later the market rose with wheat and then again sagged when wheat suffered another reaction. The close was nervous at a shade off to ¼@⅜c up, compared with Saturday's finish.

In oats, as in other grain, weakness ensued as soon as holders found a chance to realize at an advantage. Demand was only of a scattering sort.

Higher prices on hogs lifted provisions. Hog receipts were less plentiful than expected.

Future deliveries of provisions went to the highest level yet this season. Gossip was current that big sales had been made to foreigners.

JINX HALTS FLAX AGAIN

War Scare Caused Another Decline in Seed on Saturday.

Since the jinx hit the flax market again a week ago, the seed has been gradually coming back until it had reached on Thursday 3¼ cents over the previous Saturday, but over Good Friday the war conditions scared out a number of holders and they began throwing their seed on the market with the result that there was a break of 2 cents, which bid fair for the time to go still worse but was checked by the unfailing willingness of the crushers to take all the flax they could handle at low prices. The crushers are consistent buyers and most of their representatives here are bullish personally and look for a strengthening market and much higher levels before very long.

The impression is growing that virtually all of the speculators have been shaken out and that only the professionals remain. With the strong natural conditions in the seed, and a good legitimate demand, it is considered certain that with a war scare out of the way, the market is certain to advance to much higher prices, and before so very long, although it is conceded that the return to the former higher figures or anywhere near them will be a long hard pull.

STOCKS MAKE GOOD GAINS

Highest Prices for Speculative Issues in the Final Hour.

More Encouraging Tenor of Foreign Advices Cause of Strength.

New York, April 24—The more encouraging tenor of foreign advices was largely responsible for the pronounced recovery in prices of leading stocks at today's active opening. Advances of 1 to 3 points were registered by Crucible Steel, Studebaker, Baldwin Locomotive, General Electric, the Coppers, Marine preferred and Industrial Alcohol, while Mexicans also rebounded sharply. United States Steel rose a point on an initial sale of 2,000 shares, subsequently adding to this gain. Erie and Southern Pacific manifested firmness but the movement was not altogether upward as was demonstrated by the heaviness of Canadian Pacific and minor rails, as well as obscure specialties.

Hasty covering of short contracts was an important factor in the early rise on the stock exchange today, the bears being routed at almost every point and suffering a severe reduction of last Saturday's paper profits.

Buying dimished perceptibly before the end of the first hour, the period, however, witnessing an overturn of almost 300,000 shares.

Realizing sales contributed to the irregular sessions of the second hour, but this setback was met by a fresh inquiry for the speculative leaders, United States and Crucible Steels, as well as other favorites, increasing their advantage. Bonds were firm.

Trading slackened materially in the afternoon, the inquiry for stocks evidently having run its course. There were secondary reactions of a point or more in active issues, but in the main gains were well maintained.

Highest prices were made by speculative issues in the final hour, Marine preferred leading the list. The closing was strong.

Butte & Superior was the most active stock in the list, advancing $4.25 to $90.50 in the late trading.

American Zinc sold $2.12 up around the close at $88.62; Calumet & Arizona 75 cents up at $71; Copper Range $1.50 up at $61.50; Keweenaw 37 cents up at $6; Mohawk $1.87 up at $95.87, and North Butte 25 cents off at $25.50.

Granby Consolidated's March output of copper was 3,555,411 pounds against 2,690,265 in February and 3,122,079 in January.

The United Verde Extension mine in Arizona has furnished the latest sensation in the copper mining field. A property which was an indifferent prospect only a few months ago, is now selling in the Boston stock market at a basis of $28,000,000.

During March the mine produced 2,000,000 pounds of copper taken out in the course of exploration work and it was sold at a profit of $450,000, according to the company's statement.

The sensational ore development is on the 1,400-foot level. On the levels above, the showing was distinctly discouraging. There are no indications at the surface pointing to values underneath. On the 1,400-foot level, however, the company encountered bonanza ore. It has a drift in the ore 300 feet long and in one crosscut has demonstrated a width of at least 230 feet of ore; neither wall of the ore body has yet been reached. The vein is said to be solid copper glance, carrying 30 per cent copper. It is understood that one seventy-five-foot upraise has been made in 20 per cent ore.

The Jerome-Victor Extension Copper company has been organized by Michigan, Arizona, Boston and New York men. It controls 160 acres of copper bearing ground lying adjacent to the United Verde property in Arizona. The new company is capitalized at $1,000,000 and its main office will be at Calumet, Mich. The officers are: James T. Fisher, president; J. Bruce Paton, secretary; D. Leveque, assistant secretary; J. P. Petermann, treasurer. All reside at Laurium, Mich. The directors are J. T. Fisher, J. B. Paton, A. H. Floeter of Calumet, Mich., A. F. Heidkamp of Lake Linden, Mich., J. J. Printz of Reading, Pa., and Brainerd Avery of New York.

SHE HAD HIM.

Chicago News: Old Mr. Brompton is a very clever man; he had enough degrees after his name to supply a platoon of scientists. Yet the other day his little granddaughter utterly confounded him.

"Grandpa," said she, "I saw something so funny running across the kitchen floor without any legs. What do you think it was?"

Grandpa thought and thought, but at last he had to give it up.

"What was it?" he asked.

"Water!" replied the little lady, triumphantly.

MARINE NEWS

ORE FLEET IN AND LOADING

Movement Begins in Earnest and Docks Are Busy.

Grain Fleet Gone; First Package Freight Due to Arrive.

The marine season of 1916 is on in almost full force. It started off with more of a rush than ordinarily happens at the beginning, and seems to be indicative of the tremendous pressure that is expected to bear upon shipping facilities at the Head of the Lakes for the entire season.

Every grain-laden ship in the harbor left before midnight on Saturday as predicted in The Herald, and that practically cleaned up the harbor.

The Harvester was the first boat in from the lower lakes, reaching Duluth at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, hours ahead of the rest of the ore fleet. The rest of the bunched ore boats began arriving in the early hours of yesterday morning, and are today being loaded at the ore docks.

The first steamer of the incoming fleet to leave port again was the James A. Farrell, which got in first yesterday morning, and pulled out with a load of ore for Lake Erie at shortly before noon today.

Widener First Out.

The steamer P. A. B. Widener of the Pittsburgh fleet was the first steamer to leave the harbor carrying ore. She got away at 7:50 Saturday night. The next one was the D. J. Morrell, which loaded ore at Allouez Saturday and left this harbor at 6:55 Sunday morning. The Farrell was the next.

About 300 men are working at the Missabe ore docks, but as the rush of boats grows, this number will be increased to 420 men, which is the normal and should the rush become heavier, still more will be hired.

The first package freight steamer to arrive will be the Lakeport of the Port Huron & Duluth Steamship company's fleet. She will get in this evening from Port Huron with about 1,800 tons of freight. Several of the boats of the newly formed Great Lakes Transit company are on their way up and may get here tomorrow or next day.

North shore navigation was opened yesterday by the steamer America. She left her dock at the foot of Lake avenue for Port Arthur and intermediate points, including Isle Royale, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, with a full cargo of freight and virtually a full passenger list. She will return tomorrow, and will make a trip down the south shore as far as Cornucopia.

MORE SHIPS CHANGE HANDS

Many Names Added to Former List of Transferred Vessels.

On Wednesday of last week, The Herald ran a list of vessels on the Great Lakes, which have been sold since the close of navigation last season, those whose names have been changed and the bessels that will appear on the Great Lakes this season for the first time. Since that, more information has been received on the subject and it is believed that the complete list of these vessels has been made. Additional to the list published, are the following steamers except where indicated as being barges:

FIRST GROUNDING OF LAKE SEASON

Freighter Reported Ashore at Whitefish, Driven By Northeaster.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 24.—A big freighter is on the shoal at Whitefish Point, according to advices to the United States coast guards station at Grand Marais. Heavy fog thus far has made it impossible to learn the vessel's identity.

Bound east in a field of floating ice yesterday afternoon the ship was caught in a heavy northwester and carried onto the shoal. Tugs have gone to her assistance.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports reaching the Sault today identify the steamer which went aground above Whitefish point yesterday in a fog as the Collingwood, down-bound with a cargo of grain.

The steamers Stewart and Antikokan put out lines to her and endeavored to pull her off, but were unable to do so.

Work was begun by the two tugs this morning. A heavy fog continues. Virtually no boats moved during the night.

FIRST DOWNBOUND BOAT AT SAULT IS GLENLYON

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 24.—The steamer Glenlyon was the first down-bound boat to reach the Sault this season. She locked through the Canadian canal at 6 o'clock last night.

Because of not being as heavily loaded as other freighters she was able to easier work her way through the ice fields. She reports an unknown steamer ashore above Whitefish Point, but on account of the fog was unable to ascertain her name.

There are about 100 boats lying between the Sault and Whitefish and the down-bound fleet will not be able to make any headway during the night.

The St. Ignace left again for her ice work yesterday afternoon. Mr. Frazier of the department of fisheries and marine of the Dominion government, who is aboard her, says she has been taking care of the upper field of ice. Capt. Smith of the Pittsburgh Steamship company, with the two whalebacks and the tugs, has been working the fleet through the lower ice.

Wind and Weather on Lakes.

The following were wind and weather conditions on the Great Lakes at 7 o'clock this morning, as reported by the weather bureau:

Duluth—Northwest; clear; fourteen miles.

Port Arthur—Northwest; cloudy; sixteen miles.

Sault—Southwest; cloudy.

Portage (Lake Superior)—Southwest; rain; eight miles.

Recommended Draft.

The Lake Carriers' association's recommended draft of the Canadian lock, Sault, down-bound, is 18 feet 10 inches.

DU PONT PLANTS GROW IMMENSELY

Force Increases 62,000 Men and Output Is Gigantic.

The extent to which some American industries have been expanding in consequence of the war is being shown in the experience of the Du Pont Powder company. Just twenty months ago, the company employed 4,000 men at all its plants, while today 66,000 men are on its payroll. More than 10,000,000 pounds of explosives are being turned out daily.

The company is reported to have filled orders for explosives amounting to more than $160,000,000 since the war started, at an estimated profit of $75,000,000, exclusive of charges for new construction and equipment. An equal number of unfilled contracts are reported to be standing on its books, so that active operations are assured at its plants for some time ahead. It boasts of owning the largest gun-cotton, smokeless powder, black powder and dynamite plants in the world.

Of its 4,000 stockholders, more than 1,500 are employes, many of whom have made more than 500 per cent on their holdings within the last three years. Its main plant extends more than three miles along the Delaware river and includes 300 buildings. The size of the Du Pont company's Wisconsin plant has been more than doubled during the last fifteen months, and other extensions are now proposed.

GREAT ACTIVITY IN SUGAR MARKET

Federal Corporation Spends About $12,000,000 for Supplies.

The extent of the activity in the sugar market is evidenced in the statement that within the last few days the Federal Sugar Co. purchased between 500,000 and 800,000 bags of raw sugar, worth from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000. Most of this sugar was bought in Cuba, but Peru and San Domingo also contributed.

Stocks of sugar in Cuba continue to increase, the latest reports showing 813,528 tons on the island ready for shipment. This is the most bearish feature of the sugar situation. England has been a buyer of refined sugar in this market during the last week, and the general belief seems to be that prices in the country will go still higher, although some conservative operators are beginning to sell contracts short on the hard spots.

Willett & Gray, the sugar statisticians, give some interesting facts about the European sugar situation. The revised figures for the 1915-16 beet sugar crop reduce Germany's yield 220,000 tons to 1,500,000 tons. All other countries except Russia raised less than the early figures indicated. The total yield for Europe for the season is now placed at 5,190,387 tons. Conditions in the Russian sugar business are very prosperous. The cost of producing sugar in Russia is figured at 2.25 cents to 3.42 cents a pound, not including the excise tax. Crude sugar is now selling in Russia at 8.72 cents to 8.77 cents per pound f. o. b. railway station; so that the margin of profit to the Russia producers is large and the demand is good.

LEATHER WILL SOAR.

Scarcity of Hides Expected to Tack Another Advance on Prices.

Even though leather prices average up at around 20 per cent higher than a year ago, a further substantial marking up in quotations is expected by shoe manufacturers within the next few weeks. Shoe prices for the fall trade are thought likely to be advanced at least 25 cents a pair.

The shutting off of Russian and German supplies of calfskins is being severely felt, and that is leading to an increased demand for hides, so that their market is going up. It is contended that even before the war, domestic supplies of hides were insufficient to cover the extra call coming from automobile manufacturers and other quarters.

ARRESTED FOR BIBULOUS CELEBRATION OF EASTER

Chicago, April 24.—The celebration of Easter with wines, whisky and beer aboard four boats riding at anchor on the shore of Lake Michigan here had its sequel today when forty-four men appeared in court to answer charges of violating the Sunday saloon closing law.

A liberal supply of the liquor, taken by detectives during a raid on the boats yesterday, was introduced as evidence against the men.

GEN. OBREGON WITH 40,000 MEN AT HIS CALL TO HAVE CONFERENCE WITH AMERICAN ARMY OFFICERS

CARRANZISTAS CONCENTRATE NEAR BORDER

Mexican General Could Quickly Use Force in Case of Disagreement.

Would Be Able to Turn Them Against Americans in Short Time.

Gens. Scott and Funston Will Meet Mexican Minister of War.

San Antonio, Tex., April 25.—Added interest was given the coming conference between Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, and Gen. Alvaro Obregon, minister of war for the de facto government of Mexico, by the receipt of news that more Mexican troops are being concentrated in Northern Mexico. Army officers here were not alarmed by the information concerning the reported movements, but it was realized that Gen. Obregon, as minister of war, has so disposed his forces that, by the time he meets Gen. Scott in a diplomatic engagement he will have behind him within easy reach not fewer than 40,000 men.

Gen. Scott probably will remain here until he knows that Gen. Obregon is nearing the meeting place of the border, which it is believed will not be before the end of the week. It was suggested today at his temporary headquarters at Fort Sam Houston that Gen. Funston might accompany Gen. Scott. Gen. Funston has received no such orders from Washington, but it was regarded as not improbable that Gen. Scott might require Gen. Funston to accompany him to the conference, in view of the intimation from Mexico City that Gen. Obregon would like to discuss affairs with Gen. Funston, whom he met at the border last year.

Concentration Continues.

The concentration of Gen. Pershing's men has continued and today the punitive forces are backed together in a much shortened line, with the main points of concentration at Casas Grandes and Namiquipa. Scouts and other agents of the army reported that the movements of the de facto government troops are being continued and official information placed the number

SIX LOSE LIVES IN FLOODS IN ONTARIO

Great Damage Done By Waters of Vermilion and Spanish Rivers.

Sudbury, Ont., April 25.—At least six persons have been drowned and hundreds of thousands of dollars of property damage has been done by floods in the Vermillion and Spanish rivers during the past forty-eight hours, according to announcement by authorities here tonight. Approaches to the Canadian Pacific railway bridges at Larchwood and Whitefish have been swept away and two miles of tracks of the Algomah Central railway are under water. Traffic on the main line of the Canadian Pacific as well as the Soo line branches, has been blocked.

The big dam of the Spanish Pulp & Paper company at the head of Onaping lake also has been swept away as has the dam of the Sudbury flour mills at McPhersons Falls.

When the double track bridge of the Canadian Pacific railway at Whitefish succumbed to the flood an engine and van went with it. An engineer and fireman were lost. Six dump cars were swept away earlier in the day and four laborers were drowned.

Fears are felt for the huge Mond Nickel dam at Nairn Falls, where the Spanish river is equally as turbulent as the Vermillion.

TEUTONS LAUNCH THREE SUCCESSIVE ASSAULTS NEAR DEAD MAN'S HILL

Complete Repulse of First Two Attacks Is Claimed By French.

Say Germans Failed to Advance in Third, Losing Heavily.

Attempt to Carry Avocourt Redoubt Also Fails, Is Claim.

London, April 25.—The Germans, after heavily bombarding the position, drove home three successive assaults last night in the region of Dead Man's hill, northwest of Verdun. The complete repulse of the first two attacks is claimed by Paris, which declares that the third attack, although assisted by the use of gas, also broke down, the Germans suffering severe losses in their sustained but fruitless effort to advance.

Further to the west on the line another German effort, an attempt to carry an advanced post at the Avocourt redoubt, also resulted in failure.

French Statement.

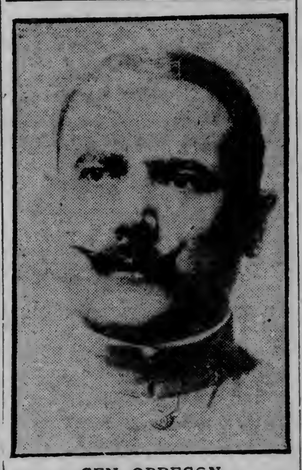
Paris, April 25, 12:01 p. m.—Three successive attacks were made by the Germans last night on the new French positions near Dead Man's hill, on the Verdun front. A war office announcement today says the first two assaults failed completely, and the third attack, although assisted by the use of gas, also broke down. The Germans sustained heavy losses.

German troops also attempted last night to carry an advanced post at the redoubt of Avocourt, but failed.

On the Verdun front east of the Meuse there was less activity. Fighting with grenades occurred this morning in Apremont forest.

German Statement.

Berlin, April 25, via London, 3:56 p. m.—Heavy fighting has been in progress for positions near Dead Man's hill, northeast of Verdun, the war office announced today. The French advanced in waves against the German trenches, but were driven back under the fire of infantry.



Bulgarian Losses.

Athens, via Paris, April 25.—The losses by the Bulgarian army during the war are estimated by Bulgarian reports received here to the amount of 87,000 killed and 50,000 wounded or missing.

New Mexico Republicans Meet.

Albuquerque, N. Mex., April 25.—The Republican state convention met today to elect delegates to the national convention at Chicago.

MEXICAN MINISTER OF WAR ON WAY TO CONFER WITH GEN. SCOTT

GEN. OBREGON.

El Paso, Tex., April 25.—Gen. Alvaro Obregon, minister of war of the de facto government, departed from San Luis Potosi today for Juarez for his conference with Maj.-Gen. Hugh L. Scott of the United States army, on the military questions that are now pending between the United States and Mexico.

MISSISSIPPI AGAIN RISING

Increase of Nearly a Foot at Winona During Night.

Water Almost as High at La Crosse as Last Week.

Winona, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mississippi river, which yesterday was stationary at this point, came up nine-tenths of a foot during the night and today registered fifteen feet above low water mark, only two-tenths of a foot lower than the mark of two weeks ago. Rivermen predict a stage of at least sixteen feet before the crest is reached. Officials have been summoned to the Fifield dyke, west of this city, which was reported in danger of breaking. A break at that point means the flooding of the entire south side of Winona.

The approach to the high wagon bridge on the Wisconsin side, from which six deaths by drowning have occurred in the past two weeks, has again been closed to traffic, as it is entirely submerged.

Rising Fast at La Crosse.

La Crosse, Wis., April 25.—Higher water than was reached on April 9, when the record for thirteen years was broken, was predicted by the United States weather bureau today.

MME. GADSKI'S HUSBAND WHO IS UNDER FEDERAL INDICTMENT

—Copyright by Bain News Service.

GERMAN CODE BOOK SEIZED

Many of Wolfe Von Igel's Papers Deciphered By Its Use.

Von Papen's Former Office Not Branch of German Embassy.

New York, April 25.—The documents seized by Federal agents when they raided the office of Wolfe von Igel gained new importance today through announcement that among them was a German code book. This code, it is said, unlocked valuable information, since many of the von Igel papers are in cipher.

Evidence presented before the Federal grand jury investigating the alleged plot to destroy the Welland canal established, according to Federal authorities, that Capt. Franz von Papen's former office at 90 Wall street was not a branch of the German embassy when Wolfe von Igel was arrested there on April 18 and papers claimed by the German ambassador seized.

The papers now are in the custody of the department of justice in Washington. They were sent to the capital by United States Attorney Marshall at the request of the state department, after Ambassador von Bern-

MORE RIOTING AT PITTSBURGH PLANT

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 25.—Efforts of pickets to prevent two or three thousand workmen from entering the plant of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacting company, where a strike is in progress, this morning resulted in disorder similar to that of yesterday.

The deputy sheriffs and railroad officers on guard at the works had been heavily reinforced during the night, and when the pickets linked hands and charged the bridges leading to the entrances they were met by determined resistance.

POWERFUL INFLUENCES AT WORK IN BERLIN TO AVOID BREAK WITH U. S.

Labor Leaders and Socialists Particularly Adverse to Rupture.

Added Indications of Concessions to Be Made By Germany.

State Department Expects More Reports From Ambassador Gerard.

Washington, April 25.—A report from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin outlining the results of his long conference yesterday with Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German chancellor, over the American note, was expected at the state department today.

Mr. Gerard is understood to have already reported that strong political influences are at work in Germany to prevent a rupture between the two nations. Labor leaders and Socialists were represented as being particularly adverse to a severance of diplomatic relations. The ambassador is said also to have reported that there were strong indications of Germany's willingness to make some concessions.

German View of Situation.

Berlin, April 25, via London.—The outcome of the present crisis depends on what President Wilson and the American government want. The German view of the present situation as gleaned from conversations with a number of persons close to official circles is about as follows:

"If President Wilson and the Ameri-

FRENCH CUT OFF AS ACT OF REPRISAL

Parcels for Prisoners at Ohrdruff Returned to Berne By German Order.

Berlin, April 25, by wireless to Sayville.—"As an act of reprisal for ill-treatment of German war prisoners in Northern Africa, who are cut off from all communication with Germany, the German government has suspended all intercourse with the French prisoners in the camps at Ohrdruff and Holzminden," the Overseas News agency announced today. Six carloads of parcels destined for the French prisoners in these camps have been returned to Berne.

IRISH PEER CAUGHT ATTEMPTING TO LAND ARMS FROM GERMAN BOAT

SIR ROGER CASEMENT.

CASEMENT IS UNDER ARREST

Irish Peer Captured Trying to Land Arms in Ireland.

Strong Evidence Will Be Produced at His Trial.

London, April 25.—It is announced officially that Sir Roger Casement was brought to London on Sunday for trial. The announcement follows:

"Sir Roger Casement, who was arrested in connection with an abortive attempt to land arms in Ireland from a German vessel, was brought to London on Sunday morning. He was met at Euston by officers from Scotland Yard and is now detained in military custody. It is understood evidence of his proceedings in Germany since the outbreak of the war will be produced at his trial."

Owing probably to the British censorship, only the bare facts in connection with the arrest of Sir Roger Casement and the present situation in Ireland have been made public. It was Mails Taken From Danish Steamer.

Berlin, April 25, by wireless to Sayville.—The Overseas News agency says: "It is reported from Copenhagen that the British took into port the Danish steamer Gullfoss, bound from Iceland for Denmark, and removed all the first-class mail, parcels and baggage of the passengers."

ATTACK MADE ON LOWESTOFT ON NORTH SEA

Two Men, One Woman and Child Killed By Shells.

Material Damage Insignificant, Says British Official Report.

England's Warships, Hit in Engagement, Were Not Sunk.

London, April 25.—A German cruiser squadron raided Lowestoft, on the English east coast, this morning. The warships remained in the vicinity for about twenty minutes, getting away clear after bombarding the shore and landing hits on two British light cruisers and a destroyer, which engaged them.

"According to the British official statement on the raid, the material damage was probably insignificant. The casualties reported are two men, one woman and a child killed. The British warships that were struck by German shells were not sunk, the press bureau announcement declares.

Local naval forces engaged the raiders and also British light cruisers. The German warships retreated in twenty minutes.

In the engagement two British light cruisers and a destroyer were hit, but none of them was sunk.

Official Announcement.

The following official announcement was made:

"At about 4:30 o'clock this morning the German cruiser squadron, accompanied by light cruisers and destroyers, appeared off Lowestoft. The local naval forces engaged it, and in about twenty minutes it returned to Germany, chased by our light cruisers and destroyers.

"On shore two men, one woman and a child were killed. The material damage seems to have been insignificant so far as known at present. Two British light cruisers and a destroyer were hit, but none was sunk."

Lowestoft is on the North sea coast, about 100 miles to the northeast of London. It is almost opposite The Hague.

On previous occasions attacks have been made on the English coast during

MORE RUSS TROOPS ARRIVE IN FRANCE

Another Contingent Has Reached Marseilles and More on the Way.

Marseilles, France, April 25.—Another contingent of Russian troops arrived here today.

The first force of Russians arrived at Marseilles on Thursday of last week and Saturday passed through Lyons on the way northward, presumably for service with the French troops at the front. The number of men in the expedition was not disclosed, although the Russian contingent was described as "a strong force."

It was intimated in dispatches from Marseilles that possibly a quarter of a million men would be sent this spring from Russia to France as Russia has more men under training than she can use on her fighting lines, and it is easier to equip them in France than in Russia.

BUSY DAYS.

BRITISH BOMBARD CITY OF ZEEBRUGGE

Warships' Attack on German Positions on Belgian Coast Heaviest During the War.

London, April 25.—An attack on German positions on the Belgian coast by British warships is reported in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam. The bombardment is described as one of the heaviest in this region during the war.

The dispatch says the following message has been received in Amsterdam from Flushing:

"Several British warships, accompanied by destroyers and other vessels, yesterday bombarded Zeebrugge and the German batteries off Heyst, Blankenberghe and Knocke. The bombardment was one of the heaviest since the beginning of the war and also of the longest duration.

"The damage done at Zeebrugge is said to have been enormous. The harbor and docks were hit several times and some ships were sunk.

"British aircraft also threw bombs on German batteries."

SERIOUS REBELLION IN CITY OF DUBLIN

Rebels Take Possession of Postoffice and Cut Communication; Troops in Control, Says Birrell.

London, April 25.—Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, announced in the house of commons today that grave disturbances broke out in Dublin yesterday. He added that troops had been sent to the Irish capital and that the situation was now well in hand.

Minister Birrell said that twelve persons had been killed before the disturbances were quelled.

Mr. Birrell declared that the rebels were in possession of four or five different parts of the city of Dublin.

He also stated that four or five soldiers had been killed.

Postoffice Seized.

Mr. Birrell made his announcement in reply to a question by Commoner Crang immediately after the assemblage of the house. He said that the postoffice had been forcibly taken possession of and that telegraphic communication had been cut.

In the course of the day, however, Mr. Birrell said, soldiers arrived from the Curragh and the situation was now well in hand.

The chief secretary of Ireland stated there had been arrests in Dublin, but that he could not give the names. Speaking from the information he had received he could say that twelve lives had been lost. Communication with Dublin, he said, still was very difficult.

At 7 o'clock last night, Mr. Birrell said, four or five different parts of Dublin were in the possession of the rebels, but he said they did not control the whole place.

The Tikkinens were married twelve years ago in Finland and later moved to the United States. Mrs. Tikkinen charges several instances of cruelty during the fall and winter of 1915. There are no children.

Krantz leaving to assume charge of the Bethesda hospital at St. Paul, will be discussed. According to present plans it is proposed to divide his charge into two sections, one of which will be the Elim church and the other to include Midway, Proctor, Grand Lake and other missions on the range.

A visit to the proposed Bethany Children's home will feature the afternoon session. The visiting pastors and lay delegates will view the building and grounds recently purchased for the institution, which will open next Monday.

REV. C. O. SWAN.

Tomorrow evening sermons will be delivered by Rev. F. E. Olson of Cloquet and Rev. P. O. Hanson of International Falls. These sermons will close the session.

This evening the cantata, "Light Out of Darkness," will be presented at the church and delegates to the mission will be guests of the joint choirs. The cantata will be presented by the joint choirs of the Elim, First, Bethany, Swedish and Trinity English Lutheran churches. Prof. A. F. Lundholm has been directing the work of the choirs.

AMATEUR GAMBLERS FINED.

Two Are Sentenced But Third Insists on Having Trial.

"We were just playing for fun. The money was to go back to the original owner."

Such was the plea of Steve Lukcick, who with Dan Brancich and Stafka Brancich, were arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of gambling at 1419 Ninety-Seventh avenue west. Officers McKenna and Boland made a call at the house and found the men playing cards with money on the table and placed the trio under arrest.

Judge H. W. Lanners was not convinced that the men were not "playing for keeps" and fined the first two named $5 and costs. The other persisted in pleading not guilty, and his trial was set for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bail was fixed at $10.

Alumni Will Meet.

The Merritt School Alumni association will hold its annual meeting at 8 o'clock this evening at the school building, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street. Election of officers and plans for the annual banquet to be given the latter part of next month will be the principal business to be taken up. The present officers of the organization are Norman McIver, president, and Miss Gladys Smalley, secretary and treasurer.

Lodges to Give Dance.

Dancing will feature the entertainment this evening for members of West Duluth and Pocahontas councils, Royal League, at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms. The entertainment will follow a short business session of both councils. The committee in charge consists of Cassius J. Yoho, chairman; Guy N. Winton, Dr. R. S. Forbes, Elim Fogelberg and A. E. Swanson.

IS HELD UP AND ROBBED

Thieves Get $232 From New Duluth Hotel Keeper.

Find Money Hidden in Pocketbook Under Mattress of Bed.

Sofrom. Danciu, proprietor of the Northern hotel, 1528 Commonwealth avenue, and his wife, were held up at 4:15 o'clock this morning by two highwaymen and robbed of $232. The robbers got away without the proprietor or his wife being able to get a good description of them.

Mr. Danciu, who is cook as well as proprietor, went out into the shed back of his hotel shortly after 4 o'clock to get some meat to prepare for breakfast. On his returning the two men blocked his way, both holding revolvers in front of his face, and demanding his money. One of the men searched him but found no cash in his pockets.

Not finding the money one of the men held him covered with the gun while the other went into their bedroom, and pointing a revolver at Mrs. Danciu commanded her to keep still. He then turned up the mattress and extracted a pouch with a roll of bills and some silver which was hidden there. This pouch contained $232.

Boarders were immediately aroused and a search instituted. Lieut. Robert McDermott and members of the New Duluth police force were notified shortly afterwards, but failed to find any trace of the highwaymen.

With the exception of a meager description stating that one of the men was tall and the other short and heavy set and that they wore handkerchiefs over their faces, the police have no clue to work on.

WANT FOUNTAIN ON GRAND AVENUE

Business men on Grand avenue will seek to have the city install a drinking fountain on the corner of Grand and Central avenues. A standpipe is now located on this corner to which it is said the city could attach a drinking cup.

"This drinking fountain can be installed at a small cost," said P. G. Phillips, who states that it was intended to take the matter up with the commissioners. "The department refused to install the free drinking fountain here last year because the water and light department wanted $40 for the season for the water used. This rate, I believe, is excessive. The cost at the most should be but a few dollars."

Begin Work on Extension.

Preliminary work for the extension of the Duluth Street Railway line to Morgan Park was begun yesterday. Trolley wires of a special make are being strung.

It is expected that excavating for the track and ties west of Eighty-first avenue will be begun about Thursday morning. The ground in the fill west of this point is still too wet to work to advantage. Five-inch 80-pound rails will be used for the track on this extension.

The company this morning started a crew of men at work relaying its track on East Superior street from Fourteenth to Twenty-third avenues. This part of Superior street will be paved this spring. The seven-inch 93-pound rails will be used for the new tracks.

COURT DISPOSES OF EIGHTH ACTION

Assault of Patrolman Magnuson Starts String of Cases.

The eighth municipal court criminal case growing out of a fight at the Woodman dance hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, on April 8, in which Patrolman Nils R. Magnuson sustained a broken arm, was disposed of yesterday afternoon.

Clarence B. Jones of Proctor, the defendant, was bound over to the grand jury in $100 bail by Judge W. H. Smallwood, after witnesses had testified that they thought he was the man who jumped on the officer and broke his arm.

Six men were arrested within a few hours after the assault.

"ROLL" WELL PROTECTED.

Woodsman Gets Stiff Work Farm Sentence for Cutting Companion.

In his anxiety to protect a roll of $90, Frank Lehto, 28, slashed Matt Cook, another woodsman, across the face with a pocket knife last night while the two were in a saloon at 505 West Michigan street.

"I thought he was going to rob me," said Lehto.

Cook ran from the place with blood streaming from his wounds, and bumped into Patrolman Frank Kreager, who called Police Surgeon Harry Klein. The hurts were not serious.

Lehto's explanation was accepted by police, in part, but Judge W. H. Smallwood sentenced him to eighty-five days at the work farm when he pleaded guilty to a charge of third degree assault.

EACH TAKES "PUNCHES."

"Business Transaction" Involving $5 Loan Ends in Court.

It was a business transaction.

"Dave he has owed it to me $5 for you don't know how long," explained Dave Balkan, 45, to Capt. A. G. Fiskett this morning at police headquarters.

"Dave, sez I, for why don't you pay me that $5 you owe me?"

"Well, Dave," he sez, "I tell you. I ain't got it $5. That's why."

"Now, I ask you captain, what kind von ein business man is it vot ain't got it $5?"

"Help," said the captain.

David Balkan, 45, of the West end was arrested and charged with third degree assault, on his own story of the transaction. David Davis, the other person, was the complainant.

"Sure I punched him," said David No. 1. "When I asked him why he ain't got the $5, and he tells me he is broke, I tell him he is a loafer."

"Then he punches me, and so I takes a couple o' punches myself."

Balkan indignantly pleaded not guilty to an assault charge, however, and will be tried this afternoon.

POLICE COUNT NOSES AT HOTEL

"Family" of Eight Declared Too Many for One Room.

Mindful of Commissioner Silberstein's new hotel ordinance, police counted noses at the Denver hotel, a lodging house in the alley near Sixth avenue west, between Superior street and First street, last night.

Eight men were in one room, and Patrolman Andrew Wanvick, the possessor of highly educated olfactory nerves, decided it was too strong a combination. He called in Patrolman Youngstrom and the "family" went to headquarters.

There were George Le Marsh, 42; George Zima, 50; James Riley, 67; John Gillmore, 52; Stanley Telinski, 53; Fred King, 53; Otto Peterson, 60, and Ed Carlson, 52.

Beds were at a premium when the third and fourth members of the family came home to roost, so finally they moved the bed out of the room and everybody took pot luck on the floor.

Vagrancy charges netted each of the eight $7 or seven days, in court today.

OPPOSE PLEA OF INSANITY

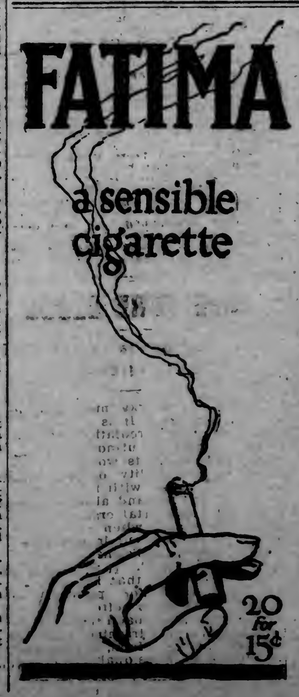
State Will Introduce Alienists in Case of Mrs. Rogers.

Woman on Trial for Murder of Her Two Children.

New York, April 25.—The temporary insanity plea of Mrs. Ida Sniffen Rogers, on trial for the murder of her two children, whom she poisoned, will be opposed by the state through testimony of alienists, it developed unexpectedly today, when the prosecution announced it would reopen its case after having rested yesterday.

Temporary insanity is expected to be the defense plea of Mrs. Rogers. The case is notable because of the public sympathy which has been expressed for Mrs. Rogers.

Prior to the murders Mrs. Rogers, who was then known as Mrs. Ida Sniffen Walters, lived in the Bronx as the wife of Lorlys Elton Rogers, a lawyer, the father of her two children, but to whom she was not then married. Rogers had married Miss Caroline Giddings, the sister of a professor at Columbia university, but divided his time between her more pretentious home and the Bronx apartment.



Gave Poison to Children.

Despairing of ever being able to marry Rogers, Mrs. Walters has admitted she administered poison to her 2-year-old boy John, and to Lorida, a girl of 8 months, and to herself. The children died; Mrs. Walters recovered.

After her arrest Rogers admitted his double life and publicly came to the support of the woman. Mrs. Caroline Giddings Rogers obtained a divorce, and Rogers, in July last married Mrs. Walters. A third child has since been born to them.

A notable feature of the case is that Mr. Rogers appears as the chief counsel for his wife.

The indictment against Mrs. Rogers contains two counts, one each charging the murder of a child, and it is for the death of the boy that she is on trial.

SHOULD BE ARBITRATED

Railroad Officials Discuss Disagreement Over Wage Scale.

Claims Increase Would Add $100,000,000 to Annual Payroll.

That arbitration is the one thing that will settle the present wage dispute between the railroads of this country and the men in train service who are now making a demand for an eight-hour basic day of pay with time and one-half for overtime, was the statement made by F. M. Metcalfe, special representative of the first vice president, and I. L. Peil, advertising manager of the Northern Pacific railway, while in Duluth today.

Mr. Metcalfe stated that the engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen are not asking for an eight-hour working day, but an eight-hour basic day of pay with time and one-half for overtime. To grant these demands would add $100,000,000 per year to the payroll of all railroads in this country, he said, and under the present transportation rates this would be impossible.

"Men in train service are now paid on the basis of ten hours or 100 miles," he said. "Some of our main line trainmen complete a day's work in five, six or seven hours, for which they receive a full day's pay, or 100 miles. If they are at work twelve or thirteen hours they are paid for a ten-hour day plus the three additional hours. At the present time these men constitute 18 per cent of the total number of railroad employes, but receive 23 per cent of the pay and they have received increases of from 32 to 42 per cent within the last twelve years."

"The demands have been presented to all railroads of this country and the roads have until April 29 to reply," said Mr. Peil. "Their reply will be 'no,' as it will be impossible to grant this enormous increase under present transportation rates. It is true the roads are enjoying good business, but the western lines particularly, have a vast amount of development and improvement work to carry on and none of this will be completed until this present dispute is settled. The increase if granted, would simply mean a tax of $1 per head on every man, woman and child in this country for the benefit of 300,000 men who are relatively well paid at the present time.

"The Duluth Commercial club has adopted resolutions asking that the railroads and trainmen arbitrate this dispute and not permit the men to strike, as a nation-wide strike at the present time would be disastrous."

Engstrom says that his face was badly cut and that his nervous system was shattered.

NO TRANSFER FOR SALOON

West Duluthians Win in Fight to Keep Grand Hotel "Dry."

Licenses Granted Employment Offices and Billiard Parlors.

Frank Peters was yesterday afternoon denied permission to transfer his saloon from 2117 West Superior street to the Grand hotel in West Duluth.

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, read a petition signed by 200 men and women of West Duluth, protesting against the opening of a saloon in the Grand hotel. The petitioners declared that a saloon in the vicinity would have an immoral effect and retard the healthy growth of the community. The safety head then moved the rejection of Peters' application for a transfer, and the motion was carried unanimously.

Commissioner Silberstein then introduced the resolution granting several liquor license renewals. The measure was adopted, although Commissioner Merritt, utility head, voted against it, repeating the stand taken a week ago, when he said he would oppose all liquor licenses from now on. The renewals granted follow: William Wickham, 31 Sulphin street; H. Brown, 2803 West Superior street; H. J. White, 5701 Raleigh street, and S. I. Levine, 501 West Superior street.

Other licenses granted yesterday follow:

storff's demand for their return on the ground that they were seized on German territory.

Rests on That Point.

Attorney General Gregory and the local prosecuting officers insisted that the former office of von Papen was not German territory. The state department announced that the return of the papers rested on this point. It also had an important bearing, it was said, on the status of von Igel, whose release the German ambassador demanded, representing that he became a member of the embassy staff in December, 1915.

Assistant United States Attorney Roger B. Wood, in charge of the prosecution, is understood to be confident that as a result of the testimony von Igel will have to stand trial and that the papers will not be returned. His belief is based, it was learned, on the story told the grand jury by Arthur A. Hassell of Plainfield, N. J., employed by a real estate firm as the agent for 60 Wall street. Hassell, it was said, identified the leases for von Papen's office. On the lease dated June 24, 1915, to expire May 1, next, at an annual rental of $2,300, was the signature of Wolfe von Igel as lessee. Swearing before a notary public, von Igel stated in the document that the rooms are to be used by him as an "advertising agent and for no other purpose."

Denies Ambassador's Claim.

Von Igel's own sworn statement, Federal officers here assert, denies the claim of the German ambassador that von Igel was a member of his staff and that his rooms were a part of the German embassy.

If the rooms were hired as an advertising agency it is contended, the German embassy cannot claim title to them.

The information regarding the lease, it was said at the Federal building, already is in the possession of the state department.

G. F. Hummell of Chicago, connected with the "friends of peace" and the Teutonic Sons of America and Henri Rogowski, a New York printer, also appeared. They testified, it was reported, regarding certain activities of leaders of Labors National Peace council, who are charged with promoting strikes in munitions plants.

Escaped to Italy.

Agents of the department of justice announced they have received positive information that Constantino Covani, one of the five indicted for complicity in the alleged plot to blow up the Welland canal, escaped to Italy and joined a regiment, now fighting on the Trentino front.

Federal investigators declared Covani was "the right-hand man" of Count von der Goltz, whose "confession" resulted in the arrests of von Igel and Capt. Hans Tauscher.

Covani was born at Lucca, Italy, 27 years ago, of a good family. He is well educated and speaks several languages fluently. He came to the United States in 1906, and at one time was employed as a private detective. He is said to have made many trips at the behest of von der Goltz, and evidence was uncovered today in Boston to show that he spent considerable time in that city.

GERMAN CRUISERS RAID ENGLISH COAST

the war by German warships. The most important raid was made Dec. 16, 1914. The towns of Scarborough, Whitby and Hartlepool, about 150 miles north of Lowestoft, were bombarded and about 130 persons were killed. Aided by fog, the German vessels escaped.

On Jan. 24, 1915, a further attempt of the kind was made, but the German squadron was met off Doggerbank by the British battle cruiser squadron under Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty. On being sighted, the Germans made for home at high speed.

Their rear ship, the Bluecher, was sunk and two other cruisers were set on fire and damaged severely. The British flagship Lion was disabled by a shot in one of her feed tanks and was towed home.

The first German naval raid on the British coast was made on Nov. 3, 1914. Three battle cruisers, the Seydlitz, Moltke and Von Der Tann, the armored cruisers Bluecher and Yorck and the protected cruisers Kolberg, Graudenz and Strassburg, left port on the evening of Nov. 2, and at dawn appeared off Yarmouth. They bombarded Yarmouth and Lowestoft for about twenty minutes and then returned. A British submarine—the D-5—attempted to pursue the Germans, but struck a mine and sank. The Yorck also struck a mine and went down with 300 men.

The raid on Hartlepool, Scarborough and Whitby was the most important of those ventures. The German cruisers poured a hail of shell into the towns for an hour and a half and in addition to the large number killed, 200 or more persons were wounded. News of the raid produced the greatest excitement in England, where it was thought for a time that an attempt at an invasion of the country might be under way.

Lowestoft, now raided for the second time by warships, is the most easterly town in England, an important fishing station and a fashionable seashore resort. Its population is about 30,000. This town has been attacked on several occasions by German aircraft.

GEN. OBREGON TO HAVE CONFERENCE WITH AMERICAN OFFICERS

of those in and about Torreon at about 20,000. Military estimates of those in Sonora that could be used against the Americans are approximately 15,000, while another 5,000 are in the state of Chihuahua.

Failure by Gen. Obregon to convince Gen. Scott of the soundness of his diplomatic arguments could be followed, army men here asserted, by a very practical use of this combined force. The disposition has been so made that the greater part of the 40,000 troops could be turned against Gen. Pershing's force within less than a week's delay.

Funston to Accompany Scott.

Gen. Funston will accompany Gen. Scott to the conference with Gen. Obregon, it was announced at departmental headquarters today.

When Generals Scott and Funston will leave for the meeting place was not stated, but it was indicated that they would remain here for two or three days, in order not to arrive at the border too much in advance of Gen. Obregon.

Gen. Funston's participation in the border negotiations was ordered by the war department and in line with the wishes of the chief of staff, who believes that the purpose of the conference will be better served if he has with him one who is more intimately acquainted with the details of the situation.

Gen. Scott said he was not yet certain just where the conference would take place, but both he and Gen. Funston have taken it for granted that it will be either at El Paso or Juarez, the Mexican town opposite El Paso.

Activities Resumed.

Columbus, N. Mex., April 25.—Activities have been resumed by the American expeditionary command in Mexico, according to reports reaching here today. The movements in the main, it was stated, have been only those necessary to keep the line of communication intact. It was said, however, that while most of Gen. J. J. Pershing's advanced detachments have been drawn back to the main column some of them are scouring the mountains north and west of Parral, in an attempt to run down a clew that Villa is in hiding near Nonoava. None of the Americans are operating in the territory beyond Parral.

Conference to Be Held.

Washington, April 25.—Official attention today was focused on a conference regarding the Mexican situation to be held within the next few days, probably at Juarez, between Maj. Gen. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, and Gen. Alvaro Obregon, minister of war of the de facto government of Mexico. Upon its outcome probably will depend further steps in the pursuit of Villa and the relations between the American and Mexican governments.

Obregon Leaves for Border.

Advices to the Mexican embassy today said Gen. Obregon left Mexico City Sunday night, and predictions were made that his special train would make much better speed to the border than regular trains, which take about five days.

Embassy officials said it was possible that Obregon might stop at Chihuahua to get in personal touch with the situation and to receive any available information as to Villa's hiding place. Pablo Lopez, Villa's chief lieutenant, captured by Carranza troops, is a prisoner at Chihuahua.

Neither the war nor state department had any advices as to when Gen. Obregon would reach the border. It was believed here the conference would begin at Juarez, on Mexican soil, and be completed in El Paso, unless Gen. Obregon preferred Laredo as being closer to San Antonio.

Changes Under Way.

Indications that the redistribution of Gen. Pershing's forces authorized by President Wilson is already under way came today from Gen. Funston. Part of the Seventeenth infantry crossed the border yesterday at Columbus to strengthen Gen. Pershing's line of communication. The Seventeenth was included in the 2,300 additional troops recently placed at Gen. Pershing's disposal.

Although not fully advised as to Gen. Pershing's plans, war department officials said the redisposition might include retirement to the Casas Grandes section, and felt certain the Mormon colony near Colonia Dublan would be held within the reformed United States line.

The expedition has supplies sufficient to remain in Mexico a month or more, officials said today.

American Consul Letcher of Chihuahua has telegraphed the state department that he was "reliably informed" that Villa had been reported sixty miles south of Satevo.

Expect Assurances.

El Paso, Tex., April 25.—Assurances that the de facto government of Mexico is prepared to cope with Villa bandits in Northern Chihuahua are expected to be made by Gen. Alvaro Obregon, minister of war of the Carranza government at his coming conference here with Maj.-Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army.

Gen. Obregon, it was learned in Mexico official circles here today, will develop his plans for policing the Northern Mexican country in detail with the hope that they will prove acceptable to Gen. Scott. Should the plans be deemed adequate by Gen. Scott, the de facto government will again renew its request of the American government that its troops be withdrawn from Mexico.

Andres Garcia, Mexican consul, expected to obtain some official information as to what time Gen. Obregon will reach Juarez. Unless Gen. Obregon has already departed from Mexico City, it probably will take him nearly a week to make the journey to the border because of the defective condition of the Mexican railroads. Mr. Garcia thought the conference might last several days as it was understood here that details of the proposed protocol relative to the dispatching of armed forces of either government into each others territory to run down marauding outlaws would be carefully discussed as well as the plans of the Mexican government for policing the border to insure the safety of Americans and prevent a repetition of the Columbus massacre.

That several weeks at least will elapse before the troops are withdrawn from Mexico appears evident from the amount of food and forage sent south from the Columbus base.

All of the 2,300 troops ordered to Columbus to reinforce the line of communications have arrived at their destination.

can government are arguing that earlier concessions by Germany have not been adhered to and insist that the submarine campaign be conducted without deviation within the limits of German assurances and pledges in former notes, then a settlement probably can be arranged, notwithstanding what is considered the "sharp, unfriendly tone" of the American note.

The pledges probably can be restated, if need be, and definitely reformulated so that there can be no possibility of error or question of responsibility.

If, however, the United States insists on further limitation of the submarine war against commerce, then there appears to be little chance of agreement for a satisfactory settlement and it is considered that a breach of diplomatic relations, if it should come, would in all probability be only a temporary status, and would soon develop into an actual state of war. This view is not official, or authoritative, but represents the opinion of persons who are in position to be well informed.

Many Messages to Senators.

Washington, April 25.—Twenty-five thousand telegrams protesting against action which might mean war with Germany began pouring in on Senators Sherman and Lewis of Illinois late last night and still were arriving today.

During the day telegrams of the same sort began coming in to Senators Cummins and Kenyon from Iowa and to Senators La Follette and Husting from Wisconsin. Senators were amazed at the extent of the propaganda.

Although signed by individuals in Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, the telegrams followed prepared forms and were prepaid. There was nothing in them to indicate who had prepared the forms for the signatures and paid the telegraph companies.

Every available operator of both companies worked all night and was working today receiving the messages which were being delivered to the senators in packages of one hundred.

The senators will decide later whether they will present the message to the senate.

announced officially last night that an attempt was made last week to land arms and ammunition in Ireland from a German auxiliary under the guise of a neutral merchant ship, in conjunction with a German submarine. The auxiliary was sunk and a number of prisoners, including Sir Roger, were made.

In another London dispatch it was indicated that unsettled conditions prevail in certain parts of Ireland. An unsuccessful attempt was made Sunday to wreck a train near Maryborough, southwest of Dublin.

Sir Roger, who was leader of the Separatist faction in Ireland, went to Berlin after the outbreak of the war with the intention, it was said, to open negotiations between the German government and the anti-English party in Ireland.

The stage today stands at 12.8 feet, only three-tenths of a foot below the high point previously reached, and with high water in the north and frequent rains, the outlook is that the river will continue to rise probably a full week.

The whole district east of the break in the Burlington railway right-of-way at Trempealeau is still covered with water and shut off from all communication except by boats. Newspaper reporters, railroad officers and officers of the Thompson drainage project are going about in boats and making estimates of the damage.

Larger sections of the Chicago & Northwestern and Green Bay & Western roads in the Trempealeau neighborhood were also washed out today.

MRS. D. G. CUTLER DIES IN EAST

Death Comes Very Suddenly as Result of Heart Failure.

Mrs. Jane T. Cutler, widow of the late Dwight G. Cutler, formerly president of the Cutler-Magner company of this city, died at Atlantic City, N. J., very suddenly shortly before 6 o'clock last night.

Heart failure was the cause of death, which was entirely unexpected, according to Gilbert Cutler, a son, who was with his mother at the time, and who telegraphed friends in Duluth last night.

Mrs. Cutler, with her son, had been spending the winter in the South. For several weeks past they have been visiting with relatives in New Orleans and a few days ago they went to Atlantic City, where they planned to spend a few days.

In letters to friends in Duluth, Mrs. Cutler said recently that she intended returning to Duluth in the latter part of May, and that her son probably would remain with her until that time. The Cutler residence is at 2229 East Superior street.

Mr. Cutler has left for Duluth with the body, and will be met in Chicago by W. E. Magner, of the Cutler-Magner company. Funeral services will be held from the Cutler residence in Duluth, probably on Thursday. Mr. Magner said this afternoon before leaving for Chicago.

U. S. NAVY WANTS WIRELESS OPERATORS

Urgent Order for Men and Apparatus Received By Recruiting Officer.

Every naval recruiting officer in Minnesota is receiving orders to secure information regarding wireless operators and wireless apparatus according to Turret Capt. E. A. Nippa, recruiting officer at the Duluth postoffice building. The exact location of each station, together with the name, age, nationality and experience of each operator is to be included in the report.

It is said that this order comes with instructions of a secret nature which will not be disclosed yet.

The order is looked upon here as another step in the program of preparedness, showing that Uncle Sam is getting information of such a character that efficient men can be obtained readily in case of serious trouble.

"About seventy bombs appear to have been dropped. One man is reported seriously injured. No further details of casualties now are available."

HAVE PURE BLOOD

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Pure, Rich, Red Blood.

Your heart works night and day without a pause. It is the principal organ of the circulation of your blood. It is of the utmost importance that it should do its work well. The quality and quantity of your blood have much to do with its action. If this fluid is pure and abundant, your heart and other vital organs act with more energy than when it is defective in quality or deficient in quantity.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure and abundant. It is the one old reliable medicine, that has been sold for forty years, for purifying the blood. There is no better blood remedy, appetizer, stomach tonic. It embodies the careful training, experience and skill of Mr. Hood, a pharmacist for fifty years in its quality and power to cure.

Like a Boy at 50 Bubbling Over With Vitality—Taking Iron Did It

Doctor says Nuxated Iron is greatest of all strength builders—Often increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent. in two weeks' time.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact a young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved, who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prizefighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Boyce Drug stores and all other druggists.

SEEK PRESIDENT FOR NORMAL SCHOOL

Special Committee Appointed to Provide Head for St. Cloud Institution.

President Eli Torrance of the normal school board has announced the appointment of a special committee of the normal board, in relation to the presidency of the St. Cloud normal school. The committee consists of Resident Director C. L. Atwood of St. Cloud, Director S. H. Somsen of Winona and Director J. L. Washburn of Duluth.

In connection with the appointment of this committee President Torrance says:

"As the next quarterly meeting of the normal school board will not take place for some time, and as it is important that a successor to Dr. Shoemaker, late president of the St. Cloud school, should be secured if possible in advance of the next school year, I deem it advisable that a special committee of three should be appointed to ascertain who may be available and capable for that position, and to make report thereon to the board, for such action as it in its judgment may deem proper.

"The duties of this committee would be limited to obtaining information as to persons who are suitable and available for the position, and reporting its findings to the board."

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to Boyce Drug store, 331 West Superior St., or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Korein capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.—Advertisement.

TAFT TELLS 2,000 DULUTHIANS TO STAND BEHIND PRESIDENT

"He Typifies Majesty of American People, Remember That."

Hard to Avoid War If Relations Are Broken Off.

Gives His Views on Preparedness and Mexican Situation.

Throwing aside, in part, a topic upon which he was to address an audience last night, William Howard Taft, former president, pleaded with 2,000 Duluthians to stand firmly behind President Wilson in the crisis now confronting this country.

"Stand back of your constitutional leader," he said, more serious than at any other time during the entire evening. "He typifies the majesty of the American people. Remember that!

"With a great war so close to us we cannot help but be seriously affected. Both countries (England and Germany) have violated our rights as neutrals.

"England has not followed the rules she laid down for us in the Civil war. Germany has drowned 150 Americans when commerce-carrying boats, upon which they had a right to travel, were sunk without warning.

"We can settle with England by arbitration, because nothing but property is involved. We might arbitrate with Germany, too, except for the nature of the offense. No money settlement can compensate for the lives of American citizens in the future.

"If Ambassador von Bernstorff is given his passports, and if Mr. Gerard is recalled, it is difficult to see how war can be avoided if incidents like those of the Lusitania and Sussex are repeated."

In Jovial Humor.

For the most part, Mr. Taft was in a jovial humor. He chuckled over Mr. Bryan's definition of "reasonable" and over Mr. Wilson's note-writing "proclivities," and his audience laughed with him. Aside from his well known attitude on the Mexican controversy, which differs in a marked way from that of President Wilson, there was little of criticism of the administration.

"I didn't vote for Mr. Wilson," he said amidst a roar of laughter. "I wasn't in the last election. I was 'thar or tharabouts.'

"But it's not a question of politics, now. We are not Republicans, or Democrats, but Americans.

"Not that I haven't a few arguments against the Democratic administration stored up for use later. What we may have to say in November, or before then, has nothing to do with the case, now, however."

Views on Preparedness.

Mr. Taft gave his views on preparedness. A regular army of 250,000 men is not too large, he believes. The navy "should be strengthened until it is at least as large as that of any foreign nation which could land 500,000, or 200,000 men, on our shores in six weeks or two months."

The coast defense of the United States is nearly perfect, he believes. One year would put the Atlantic and Pacific forts, guarding the principal cities, in perfect condition.

"We have spent $200,000,000 on our coast defense. All we need now is a few sixteen-inch guns, and they are being built.

"Coming back to the navy," he continued, "Germany is the only country which could mobilize and land half a million men on our shores within six weeks. Therefore we ought to have a navy as large as Germany's. Now our navy is 35 per cent less than Germany's. We should begin to build at once, because it takes time to build a battleship."

Early in the talk, Mr. Taft announced that his original subject of "The Monroe Doctrine" was not to be followed, except as it applied to our foreign relations, and in its relation to what we ought to do now and hereafter.

"Washington, in his inaugural address," said the ex-president, "laid down two rules. One we have followed. One we have not. Now we ought to follow the one we have not followed, and not to follow the one we have followed.

"The first rule was to secure peace by a complete defense against war.

"The second rule was to avoid entangling alliances with European countries.

"I believe we ought to take part in world politics now, to prevent the recurrence of a world war in which we may become entangled.

"Washington and Jefferson, and perhaps Hamilton, were the only ones who had a conception of the future greatness of the United States. We were five times as far from Europe then, and Asia was negligible.

"Now we have Alaska. We have the Hawaiian islands, we have the Philippines, or at least we have them for four years.

Freeing Philippines.

"I can't tell you all I think about this plan for 'freeing' the Philippines. At least not in the presence of the ladies.

"It is a violation of our pledge. It is an abandonment of our trust. I doubt if we can give 'em up."

Turning to the "open door in the East" and the "yellow peril" questions Mr. Taft softened the serious tone of his discourse by another current of jokes and chuckles.

"Our position is inconsistent. We have a color scheme in our naturalization laws. It includes the black and white, but it shuts out all combinations in yellow and brown.

"We want China's trade, but we don't want the Chinese. We want the Japanese trade, but we don't want the Japanese.

"We are quite lacking in one kind of preparedness—that is to perform the obligations of our treaties. I once examined a record of 100 years of mob violence in this country, and it is not a list of which any American could be proud.

"One of the first steps in preparedness is to stand up like men and meet our obligations. We have the Panama canal, we have Porto Rico, we have, or rather we haven't, Cuba.

"If you will pardon my slang, I might say that the last two were 'wished onto us.'

"Spain never was so prosperous as since she lost those provinces and we've got 'em. I hope Cuba won't stumble any more, but I wish I was more confident in that hope."

Then Mr. Taft paused, and with a broad smile, said:

Mexican Situation.

"Now we come to Mexico—the international nuisance. I deprecate intervention. We have either intervened too much or not enough.

"If you are going to create an ineligible list, with the names of those gentlemen who connived at the complete removal of politicians, you will cut down the list of aspirants for office."

Applause and laughter greeted his pronunciation of the phrase "complete removal," referring to the murder and sudden death risks of candidates for office in Mexico.

"Except for the fact that they are busy, we would have had trouble with European countries before this on account of Mexico, and because of indignities to which Germans and English have been subjected in Mexico.

"To clean up Mexico we need 250,000 men and three years. We would have to garrison each border town and carry on guerilla warfare, just as we did in the Philippines."

The Monroe Doctrine.

Then he turned to a history of the Monroe doctrine. He told of the Holy Alliance, formed in Europe after the Napoleonic wars; of Maximilian in Mexico, and sketched the record of the United States in its various wars.

"We have maintained and upheld the Monroe doctrine for ninety years because it was to our interests to keep European intrigue out of this country.

"We don't care a darn what happens as long as it doesn't happen to us, and we are sorry for the others, but—

"Nowadays," he said with a laugh, "we have grown so used to ultimatums that we can restrain ourselves and eat our breakfast first, before reading the fine print under the headlines." It was a good-natured laugh at the Wilson administration and the only one, aside from references to Mexico.

Telling of President Jefferson's plan for lining the shore of the United States with three-foot swivel guns to be manned by men of each county, Mr. Taft said:

"I can't help comparing this method with those of a gentleman of the same party. The latter believes that we can blow a giant horn, and that 1,000,000 men will spring to arms between sunrise and sunrise.

"It is a chimera, a dream, it is the intoxication of the rhetorical moment.

"The war of 1812 was a botch. We won one victory on land, it is true, when 'Old Hickory' fought at New Orleans, but that was after the treaty of peace had been signed.

"We won the Mexican war. We were fighting Mexicans. The civil war showed little more than that we were willing to make all manner of sacrifice.

"When Cleveland 'bluffed' England several years ago we had just one, solitary modern gun to resist Great Britain's powerful navy. That was at Sandy Hook.

"Conditions have changed. We are an Arctic power because of Alaska and the Bering islands. We are an Asiatic power. We are a South American power, and we are a continental American power.

"The possibilities of entanglement are so many that we ought to engage in world politics, to prevent the recurrence of any wars.

"When this war is ended we want to be in a position to head a gigantic world league for the enforcement of peace, and we want all the American people to be behind the government when it sends delegates to the arbitration court."

Mr. Taft was introduced by Judge William A. Cant.

DELAY PAVING FOR ONE YEAR

Improvement Awaits Laying of Water and Gas Conduits.

Effort to Improve Route to Woodland This Season Promised.

Paving of East Superior street, from Twenty-third avenue to the Northland Country club, will be postponed until next year, while every effort will be made by the city to improve at least part of the route to Woodland this year.

This announcement was made by Commissioner Farrell, head of the works division, at the council meeting yesterday afternoon to a delegation of Woodland and Hunter's Park property owners, who appeared before the commissioners in behalf of the proposed improvement.

The East Duluth Land company, of which Chester A. Congdon is the head, owns about 3,000 feet frontage along the proposed East Superior street extension, Commissioner Farrell announced, and they have asked that gas and water extensions and conduits be laid before work begins on the pavement. For this reason, he said, the paving will have to go over until next year, as all the extensions and underground work will be done during the coming summer. The roadway will then be ready for the laying of the pavement the first thing next spring.

With regard to the paving of East Fourth street, Wallace avenue and Woodland avenue to Austin street, Commissioner Farrell said that many of the owners are objecting to the improvement.

May Compromise.

Bert Forbes, representing the Woodland Neighborhood club, asked the commissioners to pave on one side of the street this year and the remainder next year, if the city's funds will not allow such a heavy expense at this time. Clarence Magney, president of the club, also urged part of the improvement this year.

W. N. Hart, representing the Duluth Retail Merchants' association; George A. Gray, and C. Francis Colman, member of the school board, all Woodland avenue property owners, suggested that the council pave Woodland avenue from Austin street to Oxford street. They pointed out that the road is in fair shape up to Oxford street, but that traffic is almost impossible beyond that point during rainy weather. It was explained that new buildings are going up beyond Oxford street, farmers are constantly coming in and that there is considerable traffic out there because of the two cemeteries.

The commissioners agreed to investigate the matter and, if possible, pave part of the avenue this year.

WANT THE STREETS FORMALLY NAMED

Morningside Residents to Prevent Confusion in That District.

Morningside Park residents want their streets formally named by the city council.

August Anderson, secretary of the Morningside Park Improvement club, in a communication to the commissioners, asks that the roadways be named in that part of the city, as present conditions make it extremely confusing.

The following names are suggested by Secretary Anderson: Livingston avenue for the street running east and west along the Park Hill cemetery and Dexter, Winter, Cedar, Everett, Rose, Hill and Park streets for the roads running north and south through the division.

Found Dead on Lounge.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 25.—Mrs. Jane Hall, 73 years old, a resident of Minneapolis for fifty years, died of heart disease at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Orth. Mrs. Hall was resting on a lounge shortly before noon Sunday. She was dead when her son, H. W. Hall, tried to awaken her for dinner.

CHILLS, FEVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

I am pleased to testify to the merits of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which I had occasion to use seven years ago for kidney trouble. My general health was not good, caused from chills and fever and drinking impure water. I felt all tired out; felt so badly at times when I would lie down I could scarcely get up. A friend recommended Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, I got a fifty-cent bottle and took it. It did me so much good that I bought six bottles and gave up the doctors' treatments entirely, and before the six bottles were half gone I felt as well as I ever felt in my life, and after taking the remainder of the six bottles, I discontinued the use of Swamp-Root and have had no occasion to take any medicine for kidney trouble since; that was seven years ago. I hope those suffering as I did will give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a fair trial, for I feel sure they will derive great help from its use.

Yours truly,

MANAGER FOR BURNQUIST

"Jim" Arneson Named to Handle Campaign for Governor.

Resigns as Secretary of State Boxing Commission; Opens Headquarters.

St. Paul, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—James A. Arneson has been appointed campaign manager for Governor J. A. A. Burnquist in his quest for the Republican nomination for the office which he holds as a result of the death of Governor W. S. Hammond last January. Burnquist headquarters have been opened in the Merchants' hotel, and Mr. Arneson, who has resigned as secretary of the boxing commission, will devote all of his time to the work of obtaining the governor the nomination in the primaries on June 19.

Mr. Arneson has just been actively engaged in the presidential primary campaign as secretary of the Cummins organization, which captured the state. He is one of the best known men in politics in Minnesota, and is a veteran of many campaigns.

The appointment of Mr. Arneson as campaign manager for the governor is taken by politicians here as indicative of at least one appointment in his office, and it is expected that with the campaign past, Mr. Arneson will fall heir to H. E. Samuelson's job, that of executive clerk. The governor has not made a change in the office force as appointed by Governor Hammond, and the probable successors to Private Secretary Andrist and Executive Clerk Samuelson have been much discussed. It is claimed that Charles Mitchell, editor of the Duluth News Tribune, will likely be appointed private secretary.

It is quite likely that the North Dakota delegation will accompany the Minnesota men.

AUTO MAN SAYS CACTUS JUICE IS THE REAL THING

Is Mighty Glad He Took Friend's Advice

You might think the automobile game is a fine and dandy and all of that, but there are two sides to every story, says Mr. C. B. Raynor, 1247 Columbia street, San Diego, California, a well-known motor expert. It is very fine to sit on the cushions and hold the wheel, but when you have to get out and get under with a wrench, etc.,—yes, it is different. I have been in a run-down condition for some time. I cannot say exactly what was wrong, but there was something radically wrong. My stomach, liver and kidneys bothered me; my appetite was poor, food distressed me and really everything seemed to be wrong. Finally some of my friends induced me to try CALIFORNIA CACTUS JUICE. I had read of it, but I had no faith in advertised medicines until I found so many of my friends using it and getting such good results that I finally decided to try it. I have used one bottle and feel so fine that I have purchased two more. I have the greatest faith in CALIFORNIA CACTUS JUICE and can heartily recommend it to any one.

This wonder medicine is being specially introduced at the Lyceum Pharmacy, 431 West Superior street, and the CACTUS JUICE MAN is there every day to tell you of this preparation.—Advertisement.

ACUTE AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood. It may be also said with equal truth that no remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few drugs which have not been given a trial. In the hands of one observer we find that a certain drug has been used with the utmost satisfaction; others have found the same remedy to be a great disappointment. All physicians however agree that every method of treatment is aided by the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet the nervous system and Dr. W. S. Schultze expresses the opinion of thousands of practitioners when he says that anti-kamnia tablets should be given preference over all other remedies for the relief of the pain in all forms of rheumatism. These tablets can be purchased in any quantity. They are also unsurpassed in headaches, neuralgias and all pain. Ask for A-K Tablets.

PROMISES TO TELL WHOLE STORY TO JURY

Minneapolis, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Found guilty by a jury in District Judge W. C. Leary's court on a charge of operating a vice resort, Arthur Rowe waited late today to appear before the grand jury to answer questions concerning alleged payments to members of the police department for protection for the El Roy and other vice hotels in the gateway.

"I'll tell the grand jury the whole truth, everything I know," said Rowe, "but I'm afraid there'll be no testimony to corroborate mine."

Rowe was found guilty today by a jury that had been out twenty-two hours. He was arrested during the vice investigation that resulted from sensational stories told by young girls.

How to Look Years Less Than Your Age

The most aged face will look years younger after the use of ordinary mercolized wax for from ten days to two weeks. This remarkable substance, because of its peculiar absorptive power, actually removes the thin veil of faded or withered outer cuticle, a little at a time. Gradually the fresher, more youthful skin underneath is revealed. This absorption process being a purely hygienic one, an entirely natural complexion is acquired—quite different from the artificial complexion, which appears anything but girlish, though often bearing painful evidence of childishness. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to rejuvenate any complexion. It is put on like cold cream at bedtime, and removed mornings with warm water.

To eradicate such age marks as wrinkles and furrows, make a wash lotion by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. This has wonderful astringent and tonic properties. It quickly effaces all kinds of wrinkles, no matter how caused, making the skin firm, smooth and young looking. —Advertisement.

ZONTEK HELD TO GRAND JURY

Former Foreman of Rug Company Accused of Damaging Machines.

Detectives Report Workers Were in Plot to Destroy Plant.

After a hard-fought legal battle between Assistant County Attorney R. M. Funck and Oscar F. Christianson of St. Paul and Attorney John Norton, Judge W. H. Smallwood this morning held Simon Zontek, former foreman of the Western Rug company's plant, to the grand jury in $1,000 bail.

This is the first step in breaking up an alleged conspiracy to ruin the plant, which started when Zontek damaged an expensive carding machine to the extent of $2,000, according to Attorney Christianson.

Private detectives, brought here from St. Paul with Mr. Christianson, claim that they have obtained enough evidence against Zontek and other expert weavers who were employed in the factory to warrant a conspiracy charge, as well as the one of malicious destruction of property, now against Zontek.

Weeks ago, according to Mr. Christianson, trouble began in the plant between Karl Wessel, general manager, and various men employed by him. Unusual machine trouble has caused repeated delays and this last incident will tie up the entire carding room until experts can be brought here from New York to repair the damage, according to Mr. Wessel.

An hour or so before the accident, Zontek announced his intention of quitting, fellow employes said. When he left several others of the same nationality walked out with him.

The hearing began yesterday afternoon and was not completed until late this morning. Workmen testified that they saw Zontek working around the machine with a wrench and that when the rollers started, crushing hundreds of needles used in carding the flax, he laughed and said:

"You can fix that."

Attorney Norton laughed at the conspiracy theory and said that it was ridiculous. Judge Smallwood, in holding Zontek to the grand jury, said that the case did not appear to be a strong one, but that he thought the grand jury should consider it.

TAFT CHARMED WITH DULUTH

Sees Much of City as Guest of Thomas S. Wood.

Addresses the Central High School; Leaves Over Soo for Chicago.

William Howard Taft, former president of the United States, who has been in Duluth since early yesterday morning, will leave this afternoon at 5:05 over the Soo line for Chicago, where tomorrow he has several speaking dates, closing his stay there with a speech before the Chicago Association of Commerce in the evening.

The only public engagements which Judge Taft had today were at the Central high school at 2:15, when he gave an address to the pupils; and at the Kitchi Gammi club, where he was the guest of twenty-five Yale men for luncheon.

The morning was spent in driving about the city. Following the address before the high school pupils this afternoon, the former chief executive was taken for a short drive, after which he returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Wood, whose guest he has been, for a short rest before going to the train.

Walks Through Park.
This morning, while Judge Taft and Mr. Wood were driving about the city, he expressed a desire to walk through Congdon park. So the auto was deserted, the chauffeur taking the car to Superior street at the lower entrance of the park. Judge Taft and Mr. Wood walked from the Woodland car line down to Superior street, and Mr. Taft expressed himself as charmed. He declared that it was the most beautiful natural park he had ever seen.

In all, the former president was very much delighted with his two-day stay in Duluth. He declared that it is not only an interesting and beautiful place but its commercial importance appeals to him.

"And I would like to say," said the judge, "that I have never spoken to a more appreciative audience than that of last night. I am more than pleased with my visit to Duluth, and hope to be able to repeat it later."

Following the speech last evening, a reception to a few close friends was held in honor of the distinguished guest by Mr. and Mrs. Wood at their residence.

FINAL TRIBUTES TO COL. DAVIDSON

Final tributes to Col. Andrew Duncan Davidson, former land commissioner of the Canadian Northern railway and called one of the greatest of empire builders, were paid at the Masonic temple this afternoon.

Col. Davidson died at Rochester, Minn., last Saturday, where he had gone for treatment of a chronic stomach ailment. The body was brought to Duluth from Rochester and was taken to the Davidson residence at 1525 East Superior street. Col. Davidson was 63 years old.

From the residence the body was taken to the Masonic temple today, where services were held in accordance with Masonic rites. Services were under the auspices of the Knights Templars commandery, No. 18, in the Scottish Rite room of the temple, and Rev. George Brewer, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, delivered the funeral address. Interment will be in the family mausoleum at Forest Hill cemetery.

In addition to his widow, Ella F. Davidson, he leaves a grandson, Andrew D. Darling of Duluth; a son-in-law, Thomas S. Darling of Montreal, Que.; two brothers, William and A. R. Davidson, and a sister, Mrs. Stephen R. Kirby of Duluth. The brothers live in Hutchinson, Minn., and Winnipeg, Man., respectively.

FEDERAL PROBE OF FARGO MILK PRICES

District Attorney Hildreth to See Whether Combine Exists.

Fargo, N. D., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—An investigation has been started by Col. M. A. Hildreth, United States district attorney, into the prices charged for milk by Fargo dairies. The attention of the district attorney has been brought to the fact that the people of Fargo are paying 10 cents per quart for milk and it is contended the dairies pay less for the product from farmers than in other places where less is charged. The contention is made that there is a combine to fix prices and this phase is being investigated by Col. Hildreth, who says, he will prosecute if this is found to be the case.

RECTOR OF ST. LUKE'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH RESIGNS

Rev. L. H. Burn, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, had tendered his resignation, to be in force not later than Oct. 1, and has requested the bishop of the diocese to name his successor before that time.

Mr. Burn came here from St. Paul, where he had been for a number of years, taking charge of St. Luke's church, Duluth, also being in charge of St.-Andrews-by-the-Lake, Park Point. At both parishes he has made a splendid impression and the news of his resignation caused much regret.

Mr. Burn has been making his home at the Y. M. C. A. since coming to Duluth, but is now living at Park Point for the summer. He also maintains a summer home at White Bear Lake, St. Paul. It is understood that his plans for the future have not been fully decided, but that he will probably return East at the expiration of his connection here with the parishes named.

HIGH WATER STILL KEEPS PLANTS CLOSED

Cloquet, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hundreds of men are still idle here because high water has shut down plants. It rose steadily yesterday and last night and is washing through some of the lumber yards, making work impossible. The big Cloquet dam at Island lake is holding a tremendous head of water and it was gaining steadily yesterday. Three gates were open but in spite of that fact the water only lacked about a foot and a half of flowing over the top.

Strike at Sheboygan.
Sheboygan, Wis., April 25.—Twenty-five men installing water mains for the city water department, went on strike today demanding an increase from $2 to $2.25 per day. This was granted but the men then demanded $2.50 per day. This was refused. A few men returned at $2.25.

SUPERIOR

WOULD PROVIDE FOR CANAL TRAFFIC

A resolution adopted last night by the Superior Commercial club today was forwarded to the Wisconsin delegation in congress asking a Federal appropriation for an investigation at American ports on the Great Lakes to determine what improvements will be necessary to provide the various harbors with facilities for handling ocean traffic brought to the lakes when the enlarged Welland canal is completed. Communications already have been forwarded to civic organizations at the lake ports asking them to co-operate in securing the passage of the appropriation bill.

Auto Is Wrecked.
An automobile driven by J. L. Grimstad of Duluth was wrecked but failed to make any impression on a street car with which it collided at Belknap and Tower avenue, Superior, yesterday afternoon. The car was standing on the corner and Grimstad ran into it. It took several men about fifteen minutes to extract the machine from under the frame of the street car.

Club Seeks New Quarters.
The Superior Commercial club will seek new quarters. Raising the rent of the rooms now occupied by it on the top floor of the Board of Trade building did not suit the members or directors. Several other sites have been offered to the club and one of these will probably be selected within the next two weeks.

Fined for Having Venison.
Henry Smith, a farmer near Foxboro, paid a fine of $32 in police court yesterday on being found guilty of having violated the state game laws. Venison is said to have been found in his possession. W. D. Pooler, deputy game warden, made the complaint.

Police Give Annual Dance.
The Superior police entertained last evening at their annual dancing party. The affair was held at the Badger Inn of the Superior hotel. The party was attended by about 400 couples.

PRESIDENT PLANTS TREE ON HIGHWAY

Speaks of Abraham Lincoln as "Generalized Universalized American."

Princeton, N. J., April 25.—President Wilson, who came here today to vote and to plant a tree on the Lincoln highway, spoke of Abraham Lincoln as "a generalized universalized American."

"Lincoln," he said, "was beloved by all the nation."

The president spoke of the necessity of preventing one's judgment being warped by one's heart. He declared that the Lincoln highway will do much to bring people in all parts of the country together and in closer sympathy. He was introduced by Governor Fielder of New Jersey, who had just planted a tree in his honor. The president said he would watch the tree grow.

President Wilson came to his former home here today for the double purpose of voting in the New Jersey presidential primaries and planting a tree on the route of the Lincoln highway. With Mrs. Wilson and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, his naval aide, he arrived here shortly before 1 p. m. His train was thirty minutes late. A large secret service guard protected the president.

GERMAN LIEUTENANT IS PLACED ON TRIAL

New York, April 25.—Robert Fay, a German army lieutenant accused of conspiracy to destroy ships carrying munitions of war, was placed on trial before United States Judge Howe today, together with his brother-in-law, Walter Scholz, and Paul Daeche, indicted with him last November. One of the stories Fay was credited with telling after his arrest in October was that German secret service officers engineered the alleged plot in Germany.

Engelbert Brokhorst, Dr. Herbert Kienzle and Max Breitung, also indicted in the case, will be tried later.

AMERICAN LINSEED HAS BIG YEAR

Demand for Oil Puts Much Money in Coffers of Crushers.

Owing to the abnormal demand for various kinds of oil for use in the manufacture of munitions and various kinds of explosives, the earnings of the American Linseed company are reported to have been the best in the history of the company during the last few months and they promise to continue large for some time to come.

The shutting off of supplies of flaxseed from Russia has enabled the American Linseed company to realize high prices for its oil products, and in consequence it has attained a strong position financially.

For the twelve months ended Sept. 30 last, the surplus for the preferred stock was slightly more than 6 per cent, the best result ever reported by the company. At the close of the year there were only $17,000 in accounts and notes payable as compared with $1,563,000 the previous year, and the outstanding bonds totaled only $315,000. Current assets and inventory values together total approximately $7,000,000, all of which is directly back of the stocks.

The company recently entered into the manufacture of a number of food products and that enterprise promises to become an important department of its operations.

MEMBERSHIPS IN SHOW.

Agricultural Committee Adopts New Means of Raising Funds.

At a meeting of the agricultural committee which has just incorporated to hold an agricultural and cattle show in Duluth next fall, it was decided to raise the necessary funds for the affair by selling memberships in the organization.

One thousand memberships will be sold. They will be valued at $10 each, but the price of them will be collected only as assessments, and only the amount needed to put over the show asked. This matter will be left in the hands of a committee to perfect, and blanks will be printed at once.

WILL IMPROVE TWIN CITY ROAD

H. H. Orme of St. Paul, president of the Minnesota State Automobile association, passed through Duluth this afternoon on his way to Two Harbors where he will speak this evening at the annual meeting of the auto club of that city.

Mr. Orme says that much work will be done this year in improving the various highways of the state and especially the road that leads from the Twin Cities to Duluth, which, he says, is in a very bad condition. Tourists from the lower lake regions who come to Duluth on boats and who desire to motor to the Twin Cities are unable to do so and have to ship their cars.

He says that the state organization is figuring on touring the Minnesota iron ranges this coming July and that many members of the club will make the tour to Yellowstone park.

A Hint to Mothers of Growing Children

A Mild Laxative at Regular Intervals Will Prevent Constipation.

A vital point upon which all schools of medicine seem to agree is that normal regularity of the bowels is an essential to good health. The importance of this is impressed particularly on mothers of growing children.

A very valuable remedy that should be kept in every home for use as occasion arises is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a compound of simple laxative herbs that has been prescribed by Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello, Ill., for more than twenty-five years, and which can now be obtained in any well stocked drug store for fifty cents a bottle.

In a recent letter to Dr. Caldwell, Mrs. H. C. Turner, 844 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., says, "I bought a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for my baby, Roland Lee Turner, and find it works just like you said it would. It is fine for the stomach and bowels."

ROLAND LEE TURNER

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be in every home. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Tableaux in Observance of Shakespeare Tercentenary

LILLIAN RUSSELL
As Cleopatra.

Lillian Russell, as Cleopatra, was the star in a group of tableaux given at the Hotel Biltmore, New York, yesterday, at the Professional Woman's league Shakespeare tercentenary in aid of the actresses' emergency fund.

Miss Russell visualized Gerome's conception of Cleopatra in her meeting with Mark Antony, portrayed by Frederick Truesdale. A dark colored temple and a distant view of the Nile formed the background. The heavy jeweled gown which was worn by Miss Russell was typically Egyptian in every detail and true to the period it represented. It was designed by J. M. Gidding & Co.

The tableaux, which were arranged by Mrs. Lillian T. Schmidt, a well known painter, included gems from Shakespeare's best known plays.

Ptomaine Poisoning Or Tummy-Ache

TWO women were talking on the street car the other day in tones so loud all the passengers heard their remarks. "And so you hain't had ptomaine poisonin' yet? Well, I am surprised; for you are real good livers at your house. We often have it, and I keep a supply of Jamaica ginger on the cupboard shelf, handy for it," said the thin one. And the stout traveler replied, "Well, if it's around, I reckon we'll catch it."

So much has been written about ptomaine poisoning that the term has become familiar and is now appendicitis. Many a case of plain, every-day overfeeding has this high-sounding, interesting term applied to it and is cured by recourse to hot ginger, or pepper tea, or castor oil.

Improper food, bad combinations of good foods, or food once good but turned bad from age and neglect, produce the effect of poisoning if eaten. Ptomaine poisoning may be caused by sausage, fish, tinned lobster, chicken, meat, cheese or almost any food; not, as is so often said, by tinned stuffs alone. This has been called the can age, and factories handle the foods they use as carefully and scientifically as you do those in your kitchen. So it is safe to declare that tinned food is less apt to be impure than food that has not been protected by containers, but has been open to contamination.

One thing is sure—ptomaine poisoning is caused either by ignorance or by carelessness. It is always one or the other that brings it about; you do not "catch it." When this is well understood fewer persons will declare proudly that they and their families have suffered from it. The ignorance that causes it is eating such combinations as pickles and ice cream, tinned fish and soda water, acid fruit and cream bonbons, oysters and club sandwiches and small glasses of beer, or Welsh rarebit and soft drinks. "Ough," you declare, "I would not do such a thing!" Such foods are eaten daily, and the carelessness is shocking; food is not emptied from opened cans, and living organisms, so small you cannot see them, enter and poison it. Or food is left uncovered, and impurities reach it. Fermentation, molds, and such familiar actions are better known, for foods thus "spoiled" are easily noted by the naked eye and rejected.

Home cooks should use plenty of ice, cook foods long and carefully and put them away in scrupulously clean vessels and not run a single risk. Foods sometimes become dangerous before they show a single sign of decay, and the cause cannot be determined even with a laboratory apparatus. You may never learn the cause or cure of ptomaine poisoning, but you can choose food carefully and keep it properly until used; meet the requirements of sanitary rules and have chemical cleanliness obtain in pantry, refrigerator and basement, and so feel safe. "Safety first" is most comforting, though not new. An old colored houseman that we once employed looked so jubilant one morning we asked him the cause of his smiles. "I'se done got me a subscription from de doctor," he answered. "Dere so much p-newmony around I felt I had ter hev one, and I put it in de clock case, and now I'se safe."

The South Wind Children Help

"Now!" exclaimed Mrs. South Wind, in her most determined fashion, "I am just tired of all this foolishness! It's time for spring, and spring I mean to bring! If Jack Frost thinks he is going to have any more winter, he's quite mistaken. So there!"

And when Mrs. South Wind makes up her mind about a thing—well, she's generally right, there's no doubt about that.

She collected all her children and all her nieces and nephews and started north. Not a one would she leave behind, for she very well knew that every little breeze would be needed in the battle against the winter.

"There is no one on earth so hard to defeat as Jack Frost when he knows he is nearly beaten," she said to her followers. "For then he is up in arms, and he never sleeps. We will all of us have to blow our hardest and smile our warmest if we want to rout him."

So, with all her family, she started north.

But did she blow hot, fierce winds, as Jack Frost would have done? Not she! She was too wise for that—far too wise. She put on her sweetest smile and softly sent her smallest breezes toward old Jack Frost.

"Ho, ho!" said that old fellow, when he felt the first soft warm breeze blowing against his face. "So that Mrs. South Wind has come? Well, I need not be afraid of her! She has sent all her little breezes—silly person! Why I can freeze them in a minute!"

So he roused himself up and blew and blew. But as fast as he blew aside one little breeze another was there to take its place.

Old Jack Frost huffed and puffed and blew till he was quite breathless, but still the breezes came.

"I'll declare," said he, really worried, "I never realized what a family that Mrs. South Breeze had! No wonder she can blow softly! I think she has a thousand children to help her! Never mind! I am strong. I can blow them away." And he huffed and he puffed and he blew with all his might, till he had no breath to blow with any more.

And just at that very minute, before he had had time to rest even a bit, Mrs. South Wind herself blew up to the hill on which he sat.

But as fast as he blew aside one little breeze another was there to take its place.

"Oh, good morning, Jack Frost," she said just as calmly as could be. "I'm surprised to find you here yet. Don't you know that spring is here? Don't you realize that you should be asleep up north? Spring is no place for you, Mr. Jack Frost."

"Is that so?" exclaimed Jack Frost rudely (the poor fellow has not very good manners at best, you know!). "Well, I'll have you understand that I'll stay here all summer, and I'll blow you back to the south and I'll—"

But, dear me! Jack Frost, didn't even have breath enough to finish his sentence. Mrs. South Wind just blew him off the hill and away up north as easy as could be—and spring began.

Some More or Less Valuable Information About the Retail Markets.

Seedless grape fruit fetch 10 cents apiece.
Strawberries, 2 boxes for 25 cents.
Peas, 15 cents a quart.
Horse radish, 20 cents a pound.
Washed carrots, 5 cents a pound.
New carrots, 8 cents a pound.
Cucumbers, 18 cents apiece.
Milwaukee rye bread, 15 cents a loaf.
Fresh live lobsters, 60 cents a pound.
Shrimps, 50 cents a quart.
Smoked spare ribs, 15 cents a pound.
Easter milk lamb, see footnote.
Pickled pigs' feet in jars, 35 cents.

Along with sardineless sardines and pepless peppers, comes the seedless grape fruit. Probably in time through a process of elimination, we'll be eating just lemons and oranges again. We were surprised to find horse radish in a grocery store. By rights it should be in the meat market or else in a stall along with the "horse's neck," although come to think of it, that isn't the place to find a "horse's neck," is it?

Mondays will hold a new interest henceforth. Along with the family wash hanging on the line do not be pained nor perplexed to see carrots swinging gaily in the breeze. There is nothing which gives a carrot more personality and aplomb now and then, than a good old fashioned wash. The little beggars seem to like it, too, as it brings out an entirely new side to them, and puts them almost in the class with the fresh young yellow carrots on the market which bring 8 cents a bunch. Our most prominent grocers are going into this watering of the stock.

Three poor lobsters were cowering in a corner of one of the markets this morning, chased there by cruel boys, no doubt. They were not the usual city type and deserved better treatment after an apparently long journey. One marvels that they were able to come back at all and feel that sunlight and fresh air were just what they needed. One felt like taking them on a street car ride far out into the country and then letting them free to romp and play in their native woods again, where they could build their lobster palaces without fear of molestation, and without turning red from embarrassment or other foreign elements.

From the looks of the smoked spare ribs one could easily imagine it was a fire sale.

Easter milk lamb is lots higher in Detroit, Mich., than it is here. There's one more reason for being glad you live here.

The hindquarter sells for $2.50, the frontquarter from $1.25 to $1.50. Seeing that there are four corners on every lamb, it would bring the before and aft of it up to about $5.50. A whole lamb, feathers, gambol and all, costs about $8), so after deducting three quarters, the rest of its figure is worth about $2.50. It's worth a good deal more than that to the lamb, though, and it would be pretty to think that they might all be left alive and springy to gambol indefinitely—or at least until they are mutton chops—on fresh green beds of mint, which is their natural surrounding.

It must tickle pigs'-feet to be put in glass jars for 35 cents!

Peggy Peabody's Observations

As to Sex Favor

The feeling exists in many newspaper offices that women are out of their element in this line of endeavor. To me certain branches of the work are especially adapted to women and best accomplished by them. It may be that the quarrelsome, fault-finding woman is the cause of the growing disfavor toward women in journalism. Such women have no place in any walk of life where the duties anywhere near approach competition with men and necessitate pleasant well-balanced relations with a number of people.

I speak more especially of newspaper work because it is my own and because I have frequently heard it disparaged by those "higher up." "What ever you do, don't go into the newspaper field," is a frequent remark. "You are cast heartlessly aside when your day is run," is another remark not at all infrequent. The latter is true in any business as far as I can determine. Unless we provide for the future we will find ourselves, when youth has flown, without a thing to sustain existence upon, and regardless of our need cast aside to make room for fresher brains and younger bodies.

What I say about the newspaper business applies to any other. A woman must be adapted to her chosen profession or trade and then pursue it in company with man without appealing to or excusing herself on the ground of sex. Undoubtedly every single interest that employs women has had various experiences which makes it feel that women are entirely out of their element therein, and that the only certain and desirable sphere for them is the safety of their homes.

Unfortunately for womankind it is not every one who has a home in which they can busy themselves about purely domestic duties or are so situated that they can pursue a means of livelihood independent of another's authority and direction and however and whenever they please. A great many women, both old and young, must work. That some of them are silly, careless and incompetent makes it that much harder for those who are serious and able and hardworking.

The newspaper offers speindid opportunity to the woman whose abilities tend in that direction. I am sure that the renumeration for this sort of work is as high if not higher than the most, while the surroundings are as pleasant as any that the woman who works usually has allotted to her, and a good bit more so, at times.

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH [illegible] CAMERON

Children All

THE little boy across the street had a party the other day. He was told in advance that he was not to expect the children to bring him gifts; that he was to give them things, favors, bonbons, etc., instead. To his parents' delight, he smiled very sweetly and said: "Yes, I like to give people things. I think it's great fun."

And he did indeed seem to heartily enjoy his guests' pleasure at first. Then came a crucial test. One of the little guests had mislaid his favor, a whistle, and Bruce, who had also drawn a whistle, was asked to give the guest his to take home, and depend upon finding the lost favor for himself.

He Didn't Want to Give Them His Things.

His smiles disappeared, his lip quivered, he clung tightly to his whistle. "But, Bruce," he was reminded, "you said you liked to give people things."

"Yes," he admitted; "but I don't want to give them my own things."

One couldn't help laughing at the naivete of it. Yet, while one laughed, one thought, "Even as you and I."

Again and again, in my contact with children, I find myself thinking that—"Even as you and I."

My little nephew wants to blow bubbles. At first his mother objects, but, finding his heart passionately set upon it, yields. He blows bubbles for two minutes and then, when the little boy next door happens along with a project to suggest, he throws his pipe down and forgets all about it.

"The worldly hope men set their hearts upon
Turns ashes, or it prospers, and anon,
Like snow upon the desert's dusty face,
Lighting a little hour or two, is gone."

He Had a Very Valuable Collection.

When we came home from the country last summer my nephew had a box which he himself carried because it was too precious to be entrusted to anyone else. What was in it? Bottle stoppers of all shapes and sizes. All the children had collected them that summer outside the ice cream parlor and in the ash barrels. What could he do with them? Nothing. But they were a collection, and therefore valuable—like your stamp book or my autograph collection.

When a child does not want to understand what you are saying, he always says, "What." He hears you perfectly, but he has closed the ears of his mind against you.

Grown-ups aren't so naive in the manner of their refusal to understand, but they have methods of their own. "I don't know what you mean," one woman always used to say to me when she didn't want to understand.

On the Outside Looking In.

One morning recently I passed a schoolhouse just as the children were going in from their morning recess. It was a beautiful day, and they went in reluctantly, with wistful backward glances, but the two most wistful faces were those of two kiddies too young to go to school. They stood hand in hand looking longingly into the schoolhouse door, just as some day they will look out.

Even as you and I.

So different we fancy ourselves, so infinitely wiser and older than these little folks at whom we love to laugh. How the Great Vision to which "a thousand years are as a watch in the night or as yesterday when it is passed," must smile at our complacency, we who in His perspective are but children all.

St. Paul Woman Is Honored By D. A. R.

Washington, April 25.—Mrs. Charles R. Davis of St. Paul, Minn., was elected a vice president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday at a special meeting of the Daughters' national board of management, empowered to choose the additional vice president-general authorized by their congress last week.

Duty of Officer Is Not Merely to Make Arrests

"Arresting persons is not the sum and substance of a police officer's duty; in a way an officer is the guardian of the community," is the opinion of Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells, president of the International Association of Policewomen, who will give a free lecture at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Commercial club, under the auspices of the Woman's council.

Six years ago Mrs. Wells was appointed policewoman in Los Angeles, the first appointment of its kind. That the proper value has been put on her work and on the work of the other women who have been added to the department, was shown in a speech which Charles E. Sebastian, mayor of Los Angeles, made when he was chief of police. He said:

"I can say nothing but good of women's work in my department. Since the first policewoman was appointed in Los Angeles, I have urged constantly the appointment of additional women. Their work has passed the experimental stage and I would not, if I could, dispense with their services."

VAMPIRE DANCER AT GRAND.

Princess Ka Pleases Big Audiences in Egyptian and Other Dances.

The Princess Ka and her company pleased big audiences at the New Grand yesterday in a repertoire of Egyptian and other dances, all of which were done artistically and with the aid of appropriate scenery and electrical effects. The striking costumes of the princess were no small part of the attraction, and all were becoming to the characters impersonated in the dances. The "Dance of the Wood Nymph," "The Mystery of the Nile," "The Cobra Dance," "Spanish Dance," and several others were presented. Up to the close of the act the audiences are led to believe that the "princess" is a woman, but are surprised when the dancer pulls off "his" wig, and makes a speech in strong masculine voice.

"After the Fair," a rural skit by the Two Kerns, is a jolly bit of entertainment, including chatter and some very clever and original acrobatics.

The Wetzell Venetta Trio appear in a musical act, playing on various kinds of wind instruments and the xylophone. The company consists of two pretty girls and a young man, all of whom play well.

Fisher and Rockway, in coontown melodies and chatter, register a good hit.

A strong dramatic photoplaylet, featuring Richard Travers and Betty Brown, entitled "The Lightbearers," shows some stirring scenes in the slums of a great city, and Mr. Travers as a "fighting parson" proves a popular hero in cleaning up the district. Two good comedy films and other film features complete the show.

Today and tomorrow the second installment of "The Pirates of Society" will be shown as an added attraction.

Theater Gossip.

Lovers of the "Rubaiyat" are legion and critics have declared the following quatrain to be the most popular bit of poetry in the English language:

POST WILL RECITE "RUBAIYAT" VERSES IN LYCEUM PLAY.

"A book of verses underneath the bough,
A jug of wine, a loaf of bread, and thou
Beside me singing in the wilderness!
Oh, wilderness were Paradise enow!"

This and many others of the most popular quatrains will be spoken by Guy Bates Post in the course of his interpretation of the role of "Omar, the Tentmaker," which will return to the Lyceum theater for three days, commencing Thursday evening, April 27, with a matinee on Saturday.

The action of the piece covers a period of nearly sixty years in the poet's life, progressing into the riper channels of middle age and closing as a white-bearded philosopher. Throughout the play the love interest is constantly of paramount interest, although thrills abound in generous measure for those who are fond of quick and blood-startling action. Pictorially, the production is of commanding beauty, and unusually felicitous efforts have been made to reproduce the teeming and fascinating life of the Orient, both as expressed in huddled city streets and in remote garden retreats amid rose bowers and singing birds.

Seldom is a play selected for either of the Gish sisters that does not have a touch of comedy along with the pathos. In "Little Meena's Romance," in which Dorothy Gish is making another decided hit throughout the country, the touches of comedy and pathos enrich the whole and it is altogether a most charming piece.

DOROTHY GISH AT REX IN "LITTLE MEENA'S ROMANCE."

For three days, beginning this afternoon, Miss Gish as "Meena," will be at the Rex and her romance will unfold to the audience with that delightful and charming realism that all Triangle pictures sustain.

The earlier background is the rural life of the Pennsylvania Dutch—from home Meena (Miss Gish) goes to the city to live with her relatives after the death of her father. Her real romance then begins. Owen Moore is the count who falls in love with her.

With delicacy the plot is interwoven with near tragedies—some of them real to the little Meena, and as a whole it is a story that leaves a fine impression with the audience and entertains them as well.

* * *

"Nobody Home," having many entertaining features, is making a big hit with audiences at the Lyceum, and good houses are expected to see the show until it closes tomorrow night.

"NOBODY HOME" POPULAR WITH LYCEUM AUDIENCES.

Percival Knight as Freddie Popple of Tippleton, England, and other clever players help to put the production over in good shape.

The plot is not the big thing in "Nobody Home," but the songs, dances, artistic scenery and other features are sufficient to please the audiences.

* * *

Bertha Kalich, in the society drama, "Slander," has pleased many at the Lyric for the last two days. It is to be seen this afternoon and tonight in closing. Miss Kalich has a reputation of the self-sustaining sort. Given a picture play like "Slander," in which she is the wronged woman, and with a company that rises above the average, she does her best work.

BERTHA KALICH AT BEST IN LYRIC PHOTOPLAY.

Blanch Sweet, tomorrow and Thursday at the Lyric, has fine opportunities in the play Lasky has given her—"The Sowers"—with a background of Russian intrigue. It is well done and well put on. The story is descriptive of the "great unrest" in Russia and the struggle for freedom. Henry Seton Merriman wrote the original story in a novel and Marion Fairfax made it into a scenario, so that Miss Sweet and her company add the final touches to something charming and satisfying.

WILLIAM FARNUM.

CLOSES ENGAGEMENT AT ZELDA THEATER

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN.

"The Wall Between," a five-part Metro "wonderplay," with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in the star roles, will be seen at the Zelda for the last time tonight. In this production Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne have one of the best vehicles in which they have appeared in their long careers upon the screen. Both have appeared in more than 500 pictures.

The story of "The Wall Between" deals with a condition which prevails in the United States army, where rigid discipline maintains a barrier between the commissioned officer and the enlisted man, which is never broken down. There are several thrilling battle scenes in which more than 2,000 men appear. A fort near Savannah, Ga., was used by Metro to obtain much of the realistic photography and more than 500 regular soldiers participated in many of the important scenes.

It will be recalled that Mr. Bushman made his debut, under Metro auspices, in "The Silent Voice" with Marguerite Snow. Soon after this feature was completed Miss Bayne joined the Metro forces and was starred with Mr. Bushman in "Pennington's Choice." This success was followed by "Man and His Soul." All of the Bushman-Bayne features on the Metro program are produced by the Quality Pictures corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew will also be seen for the last time this evening in their one-reel comedy, "Happy Childhood Days." The grand opera singers, Enrico G. Prati and Elsa de Marchi, who have delighted Zelda patrons for the last few days, will be heard in three selections of grand opera.

OLD SETTLERS WILL CELEBRATE

Range Association Will Meet in Tower Next August.

M. M. Hanna, city passenger agent of the Duluth & Iron Range road, and John Owens of Cook will go to Tower Saturday morning, where they will confer with the local Commercial club and complete arrangements for the holding of the annual reunion of the Old Settlers' association which will be held in Tower next August.

"Last year the reunion was held at Ely and we had a grand turnout," said Mr. Hanna this morning. "This year we expect there will be at least 300 men, women and children present at the celebration."

John Owens is one of the best known men in the northern part of Minnesota. He was the first mayor of Virginia, and for many years took an active part in both state and local politics. He is now working a rich tract of farm land near Cook and has been more than ordinarily successful. He has done a great deal toward the colonization of Minnesota with settlers, and is one of the greatest advocates of good roads that the north country has.

Infant's Cries Save.

Ironton, Minn., April 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Alden are glad their baby cried at the right time, otherwise they might not be on earth to tell how the little one saved their lives. They had taken down the coal stove, presuming the embers had been removed, then retired. The coals were not out and the flames burst forth, arousing the infant, which cried, awakening the couple, who opened the house doors and extinguished the flames, both being nearly overcome by coal gas.

Roseau Bank Bids.

Roseau, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many outside contractors will compete for the contract of constructing the Citizens' State bank building, which will be erected here, bids for which will be opened on April 28, which will cost $25,000. The building will be two stories high and will be the home of the bank and a general store.

Hastings, Minn., April 25.—Albert Stotesberry is dead of blood-poisoning as the result of a bite in the left arm by a horse several days ago. He was 53.

Spawn Gathering Delayed.

Bemidji, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—On account of logs floating down the Mississippi river with the present stage of high water the work of gathering pike at Wolf lake for spawn, to be placed in the Bemidji hatchery, has been delayed for some time. It is expected that the work will be resumed in a few days.

Against Sunday Baseball.

Brainerd, Minn., April 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Having started a campaign against Sunday moving picture shows, the next step, according to a local minister, will be the abolition of Sunday baseball. Brainerd last year tried out Saturday afternoon baseball which proved a rank failure, few of the anti-Sunday baseball people showing up for the Saturday game.

TODAY IN HISTORY.

J. Wilkes Booth captured, 1865.

After this dissipated, fanatic and half-crazed actor had shot President Lincoln on the evening of April 14, he escaped through the stage door of Ford's theater, where a horse was held for him, and reached Bowling Green, near Fredericksburg, Maryland, before he was overtaken. Here he took refuge in a barn, refused to surrender, and was shot after the barn had been fired. Four of his accomplices—Powell, Atzerodt, Herold and Mrs. Surratt—were hanged.

READING (available in Duluth public library)—Biographical article in National Cyclopedia of American Biography.

THE MORE LAWMAKERS, THE MORE SPENDERS.

The Minnesota state has sixty-seven members, and the people are paying the salaries of about thirty more senators than they need.—Duluth Herald.

The salaries of thirty senators is a small amount of money when it is considered that it serves as an insurance against the reckless expenditure of state money. The smaller the legislature the more danger there is of prodigality and corruption. Let the senate remain the way it is.—Hokah Chief.

Though we have not the slightest doubt that our Houston county friend is honest in his belief, neither have we the slightest doubt that he is mistaken in it.

If the present large and unwieldy legislature is "an insurance against the reckless expenditure of state money," will the Hokah Chief kindly account for the appalling increase in the millions spent by it in recent years?

It is true that the direct saving by a reduction in the size of the legislature would not be enormous. There are sixty-seven senators and a hundred and thirty representatives, and their salaries cost the state $197,000 each session. If there were thirty-five senators and seventy-five house member, which would be plenty, they would cost $110,000, and the saving would be $87,000. That is not great—still, it is something, and there would be correspondingly less clerk hire, printing bills, etc.

But the indirect saving would be vastly greater. The larger the legislature, the stronger the impulse toward lavish expenditures. An alarming proportion of the members of any tax-levying body are eager to ram their fists into the treasury—either because their home communities want something or, more likely, because they believe it will help them to re-election if they lug home a fat appropriation. Obviously, then, the smaller the legislature, the fewer fists to plunge into the state vaults, the fewer hands to combine in pork-barrel treasury-raiding.

A smaller legislature would mean fewer to elect, and that would inevitably mean a higher class of men elected. The state senate, being fewer and being elected from larger districts, averages higher in caliber than the house, almost invariably.

It is true that if the people go to sleep and neglect their government, it is easier for designing Privilege to control a small legislature than it is to control a large one. On the other hand, it is easier for an alert and vigilant people to get results from a small legislature than from the confusion of a large one; and in that very confusion of a large legislature Priviliege and Graft find plenty of easy ways to work their will.

The Minnesota legislature is not representative of Minnesota. Though it contains many good men, its average is unfortunately low. If there were fewer senators and representatives to elect The Herald believes a higher caliber of men would be chosen. Therefore it advocates a smaller legislature.

There is but one way to get that, and that is through a convention to revise the Constitution. Such a body can put in the new Constitution a provision limiting the legislature as it pleases—to fifty senators and a hundred representatives, or to thirty senators and sixty representatives. No legislative reapportionment will ever reduce the size of the legislature, for every previous apportionment has increased it and so will every future apportionment unless the Constitution limits the membership.

Yes, Lizzie, Gen. Villa is one of these "heroic mood" fellows.

THE POSTOFFICE AND THE CIRCULATION FAKER.

As a safeguard to advertisers, the postal laws require newspapers to make sworn circulation statements twice a year, which they must file with the postoffice department and publish together with their statements of ownership.

Some newspapers, not daring to tell the truth about circulation, are daring to defy this law.

At the request of various newspaper publishers Representative Barnhart of Indiana recently took up the matter of providing specific penalties for publishers who furnish false affidavits of circulation. Complaints had come in that certain newspapers were taking an unfair advantage of their competitors by falsifying these returns.

Representative Barnhart arranged with Chairman Moon of the postoffice committee to have such a provision inserted in the annual postoffice appropriation bill. He communicated with the postoffice department, which declared its willingness to approve of his proposal. He then asked the legal officers of the department to draft a suitable provision.

The solicitor of the department, however, has responded that no such amendment is necessary. Under the present law, he says, the department has ample authority to deal with false circulation returns. If complaint is made, the department will investigate; and if the returns are found to be false the department has authority to issue a fraud order, and to forbid the offending publishers the use of the mails.

That sounds like law enough; now let the postoffice department enforce it. It need have no fear of newspaper opposition if the law is enforced to the letter. The vast majority of newspapers present honest circulation returns, and every publisher who makes a true return is interested in the punishment of the few publishers who are dishonest, because so long as he is allowed to get away with it, the publisher who swears to a false return is setting up competition which it is impossible for the honest publisher to meet.

This provision was put in the law for the protection of advertisers, and it should be rigidly enforced. If a few dishonest newspapers are barred from the mails for filing fraudulent circulation statements, the effect will be thoroughly wholesome.

Much credence is given the report that either El Paso or Juarez is to be chosen for the headquarters of the Ananias club.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Press comment the country over on the president's stand nearly a year ago against the Lusitania outrage was, outside the German language press and that of Milwaukee, unanimously and vigorously approving.

Press comment the country over on the president's ultimatum to Germany is, outside the German language press and that of Milwaukee, unanimously and vigorously approving—with one exception.

The exception is that here and there a Republican or Progressive newspaper, edited by somebody with an insect type of mind akin to that of Republican House Leader Mann, seeks to make political capital by opposing the president's stand.

The difference is that in May of 1915 no presidential campaign impended, and that in April of 1916 a presidential campaign is beginning. The type of partisanship that puts party advantage ahead of national honor and national self-respect consequently is to the fore, and is very noisy.

That type of partisanship, whether it is Democratic or Republican, is the country's greatest curse. Its possibilities of mischief are infinitely greater when the occasion is an international crisis.

Every American is with the president in his stand against a foreign offender. Some Republican-Americans and other hyphenates are against him.

One virtue of an international crisis is that it shows who is all American and who is only partly American.

Imagine sitting down to a luncheon of roasted English sparrow and a pint of Rhine wine!

FOR AMERICA.

Two gentlemen in outside towns have written in lately to upbraid The Herald severely.

One writes from International Falls that we are too partial to the Germans, and that we should study to be neutral.

The other writes from Crookston that we are too partial to the allies, and that we should study to be neutral.

In point of fact we are partial to neither, but very partial to the United States.

We are for the United States and against Germany in the submarine controversy.

We are for the United States and against England in the controversy over unlawful interferences with commerce—though the persistent submarine activity has given nobody much chance to become interested in that lesser atrocity.

It is a queer conception of neutrality that invites us to be neutral between this country and another in a controversy that involves national honor and self-respect and world standing.

Next thing Villa knows, he will have been reported dead often enough for each wife to be a widow in her own right.

INTERPRETING AMERICA.

"I shot him in the back."

"I took Panama."

Does that sort of thing mean America?

With all this talk about lack of preparedness, why has nobody thought of Chicago's own "Cap. Streeter" as an asset for defense?

Roundabout.

The Christian Family: Necessity is the mother of invention, and the hungry Frenchman told about in a biography recently published in England illustrates the old adage anew.

He was in an English restaurant and wanted eggs for breakfast, but had forgotten the English word. So he got around the difficulty in the following way:

"Waiterre, vat is dat walking in the yard?"

"A rooster, sir."

"Ah! and vat you call de rooster's vife?"

"The hen, sir."

"And vat you call de childrens of de rooster and his vife?"

"Chickens, sir."

"But vat you call de chicken before day are chicken?"

"Eggs, sir."

"Bring me two."

Varying Views on the German Crisis

Opinions of a Wide Variety of Leaders.

Ex-Secretary of State Olney Approves President's Stand.

From Mr. Olney's telegram to the New York World: The president could not have done less and saved the self-respect of the nation; he could not have done more to promote "peace with honor." War with Germany now or soon would have been the inevitable sequence of an apparent acquiescence in the frightfulness of her present undersea warfare.

Wrong, Says Ex-Governor Baldwin.

From an interview with the leading Democrat of Connecticut: I believe the stand taken by our government is a violation of The Hague convention of 1907, which provided for the peaceful settlement of international disputes. That convention provided that any dispute of this character and the facts included should be submitted to an international convention of inquiry for an impartial and conscientious investigation.

Wickersham Denounces Mann.

From a letter by George W. Wickersham to the New York Times: I feel sure that many other Republicans share with me in a deep feeling of resentment at the comment upon the president's address respecting our relations with Germany attributed in the morning papers to the Hon. James R. Mann, the Republican floor leader of the house of representatives. At all events, as one Republican, I feel constrained to protest against the nature of Mr. Mann's comment, and the extraordinary and, as it seems to me, utterly unjustifiable construction which he has placed upon the president's action. Whatever else President Wilson may have done, his entire course since the destruction of the Lusitania is a distinct refutation of Mr. Mann's charge that he has wanted to involve us in war with Germany. As an American I feel a sense of pride and satisfaction in the clear and forceful presentation of the case against Germany embodied in both the president's address to congress and the note to Germany.

Socialist Candidate for President Against Wilson's Course.

From an interview with Allan L. Benson in the New York Times: I have no sympathy whatever with the president's latest note. England is conducting an illegal blockade against Germany, which Germany is fighting in an illegal manner. * * * I do not share the view of some of the president's political opponents in congress that he is playing politics in the belief that if war were to come his own re-election would thereby be made certain. I give him full credit for honestly striving to serve what are, in his opinion, the country's best interests. I merely differ from him as to how the country may be best served. I believe Americans should stay out of the war zone, in which event they will not be illegally torpedoed, and that America should stay out of the war.

A Critic Becomes a Supporter.

From a telegram to President Wilson from Frank J. Sprague, representative of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers: Although I am of different political faith, and have chafed at what have seemed unnecessary delays in dealing drastically with a continuous disregard of neutral rights, I appreciate the fact that few can realize, even in small measure, the extraordinary difficulties which have beset your path, and the great burden which has rested upon you while trying to conserve peace and honor under unexampled conditions and with innumerable conflicting advices at a time, too, of naval and military unpreparedness to enforce decisions. The role of critic is an easy one to essay, whether from political reasons or because of personal ambitions, but this is a time when every decent conception of patriotism should subordinate all controversial and carping tendencies to the one resolve to stand as an absolute unit, country and people, behind you, and for the honor and welfare of the United States to uphold to the extreme limit your action, not alone in behalf of this country, but for all mankind.

Introducing a Hero

Kansas City Star: To the youthful aspirant to literary honors we commend a recent example of the art of introducing a hero. The artist is Irvin S. Cobb and the story, "The Eyes of the World," in the Saturday Evening Post:

"If there were a hundred men in a crowd and Chester K. Firkins was there he would be the hundredth man. I like that introduction. If I wrote a book about him I doubt whether I could sum up Mr. Firkins' personality more completely than already I have done in this the first sentence of this the first paragraph of my tale. Nevertheless, I shall try.

"Card indexing him, so to speak, filling in the dotted lines after the fashion pursued by a candidate for admission to Who's Whosoever Can, we attain this result: Name? Chester K(irkham) Firkins; born? certainly; parentage? one father and one mother; living? only in a way of speaking; married? extensively so; business? better than it was during the panic, but not so good as it might be; recreations? reading, writing, arithmetic and the comic supplements; clubs? the Prospect Slope Pressing, Montauk Chess, Checkers and Whist, Kings County Civic Reform and Improvement; religion? twice on Sunday, rarely on week days; politics? whatever is the rule; height? subaverage; weight? less than subaverage; hair? same as eyes; eyes? same as hair; complexion? variable, but inclining to be fair, and warmer in moments of embarrassment; special distinguishing characteristics? Oh, say, what's the use?

The New Idea.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "The old-fashioned idea was that a wife should be a helpmate."

"And the new that a husband is a dancing partner."

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason

Tomorrow's Tangle.

"Tomorrow's tangle to the winds resign," old Omar said, and thus in one brief line, set forth more wisdom than most poets spring, in all the years through which they live and sing. With present griefs man fearlessly combats; he pulls their ears and kicks them in the slats; and, like a knight in armor gone afield, he quite enjoys the tilting that they yield. But, having whipped the dragons of today, with manner bold and debonair and gay, he feels the ardor in his breast expire; "Tomorrow's dragons and chimeras dire," he mutters low, "will seize my by the throat, remove my scalp and bear away my goat." Tomorrow's dragons may be one inch tall; tomorrow's troubles may not come at all. If you today have fought a goodly fight, forget your fears, and sleep in peace tonight, and when you wake the good old sun will shine; tomorrow's tangle to the winds resign.

A Hoosier Outrage

By Savoyard.

Washington, April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—It has again broke loose, not in Georgia, this time, but in Indiana, and that radiant cherub of patriotism, James E. Watson, is the victim. Here is a veteran of that campaign when a lordly Junker ordered the Indiana drill sergeants of the "party of Great Moral Ideas" to "separate the floaters into blocks of five and see that none escapes," made the victim of a clumsy piece of contemptible demogogy that was ancient when it was employed in the log-cabin, coon-skin, and hard-cider campaign of 1840. The Hon. Watson complains that the Hon. New, who beat him for the Republican nomination for United States senator, the other day, achieved his victory by circulating the report that Mr. Watson had stated that a dollar a day and a pot of beans was good enough for any working man.

"A falcon, towering in her pride of place,
Was by a mousing owl hawk'd at and kill'd."

It is scandalous and it must fetch joy to the daughters of the Philistines when such a pure, guileless, dauntless—and voiceful—statesman as Jim Watson is thus undone by a trick so clumsy and so obsolescent. What was the Hon. Watson doing when this precious artifice was pulled off? Was the old machine out of gear—had it slipped a cog? It is as mysterious as it is outrageous. Now, if it had been practiced upon a Democrat, it would have been legitimate and altogether lovely, but for a Standpatter to so victimize another Standpatter is not only unpatriotic, but indecent, and the Hon. Jim ought to have his action of battery against the Hon. Harry.

* * *

The Hon. Watson broke into congress in 1894 when the Democratic party was ass enough to repudiate the great man whom it had elected president of the United States. He was pointed out as the young man who had beat "Objector" Holman. Horace Greeley said it took fourteen things to make an orator, one of them, lungs, and then he added, "John A. Logan has lungs." So has Jim Watson, and when it was demonstrated that he could speak a piece the leaders made a pet of him and exploited him upon the slightest provocation. And he was a very good skirmisher, equal to Charlie Landis, indeed. He had a good voice, and was a better singer than he was an orator. Speaking about voice, a Mr. Hanly, another member of the Fifty-fourth congress from Indiana, always recalled to your mind that discriminating old Grecian who held that the human voice is the most terrible thing in the world. Possibly the Hon. Hanly got to be governor and was strong for prohibition. I am not so sure but that he followed the grand young man and got to be one of the Bull Moose herd.

It was the regime of Dave Henderson, and Jim Watson, now Republican whip, shone resplendently in that saturnalia of monopoly that came in with the McKinley administration. All a predatory trust had to do to billet itself on the people was to contribute liberally to the Republican campaign fund, which it was eager to do in consideration of the taxes it was allowed to write in the Dingley-Aldrich tariff. Thus for sixteen years the harpies fed on the public until the Democratic party came to its senses, elected Woodrow Wilson president, reformed the tariff, and choked the "malefactors of great wealth" off the public crib.

* * *

When the Underwood tariff went into effect we were warned by such statesmen as the Hon. Watson, the Hon. New, and the Hon. Landis, that some opulent paupers, with more than the wealth of either Ind, would flood our country with cheap goods and send us all to the poorhouse. Bitter salt tears were shed over that grievously injured infant, the leather trust. American labor was to cease fashioning anything in the leather line.

What do we see? Under the Democratic tariff the imports of leather goods have actually decreased, while our exports of leather goods have augmented 160 per cent! Now when Jim Watson mounts the raging stump in Hoosierdom this fall he is going to be as mute as to the leather schedule of the Underwood tariff as the lady whose husband was hanged for horse-stealing is on the subject of a rope.

* * *

But there is wool. The Hon. Jim will be voiceful about wool. We imported in 1915 great quantities of that staple free of tariff. Indeed the increase was 230 per cent over the last year of the Payne-Aldrich monstrosity. Imagine the eloquent Jim exclaiming to the Hoosier farmers, "O, my country, how she bleeds!" as he expatiates on schedule K. But the Hon. Jim will be silent about the export phase of the wool business, for our exports of woolens under the Democratic tariff exceed like exports under the Republican tariff 828 per cent! Now, remember that statesmen of the Hon. Watson's ilk solemnly warned us that we would not export a single manufactured product while this wretched Democratic free trade lasted.

The Republican idea is, sell everything and buy nothing. The Democratic idea is, sell and buy in all markets. In legitimate trade it is as profitable to buy as it is to sell. Your Republican tells you that if two men trade, one is going to gain and the other is going to lose. The Democrat tells you that if it is legitimate trade both of them will gain.

* * *

But it is precious little attention the public is going to pay to the tariff this campaign. Other fish will be fried. The people long ago made up their minds about the tariff and they have come to the conclusion that Uncle Sam is no longer a baby, too stupid to take care of himself in a trade with a pauper, or anybody else, foreign or domestic.

Since the foregoing was writ, the deplorable death of Mr. Shively has made a vacancy in the Indiana delegation in the United States senate, and the G. O. P. of Hoosierdom has given the nomination for the succession to Jim Watson, possibly to compensate him for the cruel and inhuman injustice visited upon him by the friends of Mr. New when they circulated that hoary old campaign yarn about a dollar a day and a dab of baked beans.

What About Roads?

Farm, Stock and Home: The poor roads for which the farmer himself is primarily responsible, cost the farmers of the United States more in the aggregate than all their other combined losses of marketing. Taking the roads of France as the standard this loss may be expressed by saying that while it costs the American farmer not less on the average than 25 cents to haul one ton of produce one mile, the French farmer cuts this hauling cost to much less than one-half the price his American competitor pays. The point of this comment is that there is to be done the usual amount of road work this season. At least four dollars out of every five will be thrown away. Some neighborhoods will patch up their roads again for the fiftieth time and howl about the "exactions of the marketing combine." Other neighborhoods will feel quite as strongly the injustice of existing marketing conditions, but at the same time will shoulder their roadbuilding burden and consider it in the light of a practical business problem to be solved. Such neighborhoods will aim first of all at good passable roads from the farming centers into town. They will build permanent bridges and culverts; they will drain the highways. As fast as possible, they will reduce the steeper grades. They will cut graft out of the grading contracts. And they will expect—and get—a dollar's worth of road for a dollar's expenditure. Such neighborhoods will prosper. In which does the reader propose to live?

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats From the Press.

A Gloomy Forecast.

In spite of the gloomy prediction of the St. Cloud Journal-Press, we hope the workers will keep cool in Duluth. The J.-P. says: "Duluth is going to have a special election and the issue is whether licenses shall or shall not be granted to saloons. The Herald wants all the citizens to go through the campaign with a spirit of charitable tolerance for the opinions of others and confine their arguments to what is best for Duluth. That is a good program, but it won't work. The drys will be charging the wets with all sorts of bad things, and the wets will come back with pleas for personal liberty and will charge the opposition with being narrow-minded bigots. There is one hope, however: the contest may be hot enough to warm up the weather around the Zenith City and likewise the Twin Ports."

Come and Get Acquainted.

That some folks don't know our gentler citizens is evident from the following in the Hill City News: "'Duluth Woman to Talk,' says a headline. Hmm, didn't know they ever stopped."

A Primary Suggestion.

The Cass Lake Times would amend The Herald's amendment to the primary law. It says: "The Duluth Herald suggests an amendment of the primary law so that candidates may go upon the official ballot by direct petition of the voters. That would help some, but there is a better way that was in general use in many of the states before the partisan politician gained control, a control from which the voters revolted; a scheme by which the people who own the votes must be satisfied: Beginning, say sixty days before a general election, let every person in the state who wants to make the run for governor file his declaratory statement, paying the required fee for the office he may desire and when election day comes each name so filed shall go upon the ballot so that the voter may have his choice. This is true democracy in its fullest significance, and the candidate who gets the greatest number of votes is elected to the office for which he filed. The cost of such a method will be but a fraction of the present cost and would be popular."

Maybe He Didn't Think of It.

A suggestion to a prominent Duluthian is given as follows by the Moose Lake Star Gazette: "Chester Congdon of Duluth has wanted the United States to go to war with Mexico so long we wonder he didn't fly right down there and get into the first ranks when they started after Villa. This would have given him an opportunity to get the first shot at him."

Thanks for the Indorsement.

The Eau Claire, Wis., Telegram gives the following indorsement of a Herald opinion: "The Duluth Herald says the only really serious charge against Brandeis, after his record had been raked from childhood up, was that as counsel for the people in the railroad rate cases before the interstate commerce commission he admitted that railroad revenues were probably not high enough. We agree with The Herald that Mr. Brandeis' conduct in the case cited was above reproach, and the criticism by Thorne and Cummins entirely invalid."

A Dozen "Do's" for Youths.

Cleveland Press: A dozen "Do's" for church-going folk have been prepared by the Rev. C. L. Peck of Cleveland.

Here are his "Do's" for young men:

Demand a strict account of the little things in life.
Build your fortune in good manners.
Tact and common sense are the secret of a successful life.
Have grit and pluck.
Live within your means. Extravagance is the road to failure.
Make the goal of your life greater than wealth.
Seek first the kingdom of Heaven and make a Christian life your foundation.
Be on time.
Always wear a smile in the home, office or factory. You must take your joy to Heaven with you, for you will not find it there.
Be prepared for your job.
Have respect for honesty.

Resignation.

There is no flock, however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there!
There is no fireside, howsoe'er defended,
But has one vacant chair!

The air is full of farewells to the dying,
And mournings for the dead;
The heart of Rachel, for her children crying,
Will not be comforted!

Let us be patient! These severe afflictions
Not from the ground arise,
But oftentimes celestial benedictions
Assume this dark disguise.

We see but dimly through the mists and vapors;
Amid these earthly damps,
What seem to us but sad, funereal tapers
May be heaven's distant lamps.

There is no Death. What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian
Whose portal we call Death.

She is not dead—the child of our affection—
But gone unto that school
Where she no longer needs our poor protection,
And Christ himself doth rule.

In that great cloister's stillness and seclusion,
By guardian angels led,
Safe from temptation, safe from sin's pollution,
She lives, whom we call dead.

Day after day we think what she is doing
In those bright realms of air;
Year after year, her tender steps pursuing,
Behold her grown more fair.

Thus do we walk with her and keep unbroken
The bond which nature gives,
Thinking that our remembrance, though unspoken,
May reach her where she lives.

Not as a child shall we again behold her;
For when with raptures wild
In our embraces we again enfold her,
She will not be a child;

But a fair maiden, in her Father's mansion,
Clothed with celestial grace;
And beautiful with all the soul's expansion
Shall we behold her face.

And though at times impetuous with emotion
And anguish long suppressed,
The swelling heart heaves moaning like the ocean,
That cannot be at rest—

We will be patient, and assuage the feeling
We may not wholly stay;
By silence sanctifying, not concealing,
The grief that must have way.

Two Pictures

Editorial in the Chicago Herald (Ind.)

"Fate holds a ripe apple to our lips in Mexico. * * * A relatively short and certainly successful campaign against Mexico. * * * The inclusion within our sphere of influence of a vast, fertile, potentially rich country. * * * If we win in a war against Mexico we know what we get out of it. * * * And it is practically impossible for us to lose. * * * Yet our president persistently turns from the golden fruit and as persistently seems determined to make us eat of the bitter one—humanity!"

Thus does the Chicago Tribune editorially yearn and yearn, even to slavering at the thoughts of the richness of the prospective pickings, for a conquest of Mexico. Thus does it mourn and mourn, even with tears, because the president of the United States declines to turn aside from his high duty of defending humanity's rights and American lives from wanton murder to the prosecution of enterprises which would put money in our purses.

It may be said that there is a duty to defend humanity's rights and American lives in Mexico as well as upon the seas. Admitted; but the gravity of an offense depends somewhat upon the professed character of the offender. While murders by semi-savages and murders by boasters of their civilization are alike murder, the latter shock the moral sense as the former do not. From semi-savages we expect savagery. In entering their neighborhood we foresee and assume the risk. That such risks must be assumed in going near nations deemed fully civilized we held incredible.

Contrast the picture above, which the artist confesses subjects him to an accusation of "a crass and base materialism," with that which is impressed upon the spiritual retina by Woodrow Wilson's brief definition of America's motives: "America asks nothing for herself but what she has a right to ask for humanity itself!"

Two pictures! One which is in very truth that drawn by the promptings of "a crass and base materialism;" the other drawn by the instincts of a noble idealism! One voicing the impulses of a bandit smacking his chops at the sight of spoil; the other voicing the spirit of fathers and mothers who sent forth their sons "to die to make men free!"

Which is the true picture of the American soul? To every man and woman worthy of the name "American" the question answers itself. It answers itself now as it answered itself at Valley Forge, when the Alamo called, when Sumter and the slave called, when the oppressed of Cuba called. And the answer of the American soul now as then is not "What shall we get out of it?" but "What do justice, duty, honor demand?"

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Gutsjus, the Sunshine Man.

The vine does not transform water into wine; it mingles it with earth and air and other substances. The same voice which said at the beginning, "Let be," spoke and it was done. He made the elements and opens His work by mastering them. Remember today: "Without Him was not anything made that was made."

Lord Jesus! Teach me how to apply to the common things of daily life the heavenly principles of the Risen life. May I esteem nothing common or unclean. May every common bush be aflame with God.—F. B. Meyer.

From earth, and earthly toil and strife,
To deathless aims his love may rise,
Each dawn may wake to better life,
With purer eyes.

Such grace from Thee, O God! be ours,
Renewed with every morning's ray,
And freshening still with added flowers,
Each future day.

Like earth, awake, and warm and bright
With joy the spirit moves and burns!
So up to Thee, O Fount of Light!
Our light returns.

WILD LIFE IN THE CITY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Some few days since the papers contained items concerning a fawn that wandered into the city and was pursued by people until it was compelled to go into the lake to escape them. I believe that two young boys attempted to follow it in a boat, and in danger of being blown out into the lake by the high wind then prevailing, were rescued by a tug. The writer of that report stated that the fate of the fawn was not known.

Possibly many of our people, particularly the boys, do not know that the laws of the state are effective for the protection of wild life that ventures into our towns and cities, the same as in the forests, and any attempts to pursue or capture are violations of that law and punishable upon conviction thereof as such.

When any of our wild animals or rare birds visit our city, people should be glad enough of the opportunity of seeing them, and should refrain from molesting them in any manner.

Reports are also coming in that some persons on Park Point are shooting at wild ducks that frequent the bay more or less during the spring migration of these water fowl. Spring shooting of migratory wild fowl, and shooting at any time of nearly all of the song and insectivorous birds is absolutely prohibited by both state and Federal laws. Violators should be warned that they must forego all such shooting, which if persisted in may bring them more trouble than they will care to have served up in one dose.

Possibly a word of advice to both the boys and the bird shooters may be timely.

Thanking you for this space in the interests of wild life protection, I am, very truly,

JAMES A. LAWRIE,
Vice President Minnesota Game Protective League.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person sending it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

"Scared," Nevis, Minn.: Is it true that there is a Federal law against issuing checks in amounts less than one dollar? I have seen that asserted lately in some newspapers, and fear I have been an unwitting violator of the law. If there really is any such law, please let me know.

Ans.: Section 178 of the penal code regulates the drawing of checks for sums less than $1. It does not make it unlawful to issue a check for a sum less than $1 except it "be intended to circulate as money or to be received or used in lieu of lawful money of the United States." A bank check is an order on a banker to pay a particular sum of money. It is not designed to be put in circulation as a substitute for money, and therefore there is no conflict with this ancient law in issuing such checks for any amount, however small. This has been the construction placed upon this law by the treasury department from the passage of of the act in 1862 down to the present moment.

However, banks are inclined to discourage such a practice, as it involves just as much expense and trouble to them as does a check for a larger sum.

The Truth About War.

THE AFTERMATH OF BATTLE. With the Red Cross in France. By Edward D. Toland. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.

Those who thrill on the glory of war will not read this book with great pleasure, for the glory of war has nothing to do with neglected wounded, the poisoning of wounds until a limb is distorted with swelling, discolored beyond recognition as a human member, and rotted until the stench from the wounds makes the caring for the maimed a task so horrible that only a very intense desire to be of human service makes it at all possible. Such is, however, the aftermath of battle, and no ignoring of the facts changes the conditions.

Edward D. Toland is a young American who went to France at the opening of the war to enlist in the work of the Red Cross. He was on duty in the first of the improvised war hospitals of France and saw the first crude attempts at caring for the wounded. In his "Aftermath of Battle" the Macmillan company has published his diary of those days in France and the duties that came to him as an aid in that relief work. The book is written without artifice or literary effort, with a simplicity that makes more intense the situations he chronicles.

Owen Wister, whose "The Pentecost of Calamity" has been widely read, in the preface to the present volume says in part:

Most of these pages are, like the photographs which go with them, torn fresh and hot, so to speak, from the diary of a young American, just as he jotted them down day by day in the war hospitals of France. In those hospitals he served the wounded Germans and allies. He carried them upstairs and down, or in from the rain, he assisted at operations, he held basins, he gave ether, he built the kitchen fire, he pumped the water, he was chauffeur, forager, commissariat, he helped in what ways he could, as he was ordered, and also as his own intelligence prompted, in the not infrequent absence of orders. He saw the wounded die, he saw them get well, and he tells about them, their sufferings, their courage, their patience. As page succeds page written without art, yet with the effect of high art, with the effect, (for example), of De Foe's account of the Plague, the reader ceases to be looking at a picture, he is himself in the picture, its terrific realities surround him as if he were walking among them.

"The Aftermath of Battle" is not pleasant reading. It tells of conditions that were not pleasant. It does, however, make Americans much prouder of those of their countrymen who are looking for the opportunity to be of service in a time when some other citizens are dementedly looking for opportunity to increase their financial condition by speculation in "War Babies." It is reading worth every one's time. It brings to mind that as many Americans are doing their best in a service of real love to help conditions and it may perchance give some speculating Americans pause as to the way they are acquiring fortunes.

A Scathing Indictment.

GERMANY vs. CIVILIZATION. Notes on the Atrocious War. By William Roscoe Thayer, author of "The Life and Letters of John Hay," etc. Boston and New York: The Houghton Mifflin company. $1 net.

"Wherever we test it," says the author of this trenchant war document, "Kultur breaks down. It has created a nation which boasts itself superior to the common laws of humanity; a nation which asserts that honor and justice and truth, that pity and chivalry and self-sacrifice have no meaning for it in its dealings with the whole world outside. It might as well assert that the law of gravity or the formulas of algebra applicable elsewhere cease to operate on German soil. Kultur, proclaimed by the Germans as a system which will overspread the earth, is in reality not universal, but local, tribal, narrowing. No modern race except the Germans could have invented it; so only Germans can both use it and glory in its use. It is like the harness of steel and straps which a cripple has to wear: by practice he learns to move about in it with ease; but though he be a giant, he is none the less a cripple, and the steel and straps are none the less a harness."

Asked if Kultur has not produced the highest efficiency ever known to man; if it has not trained sixty millions to such skill and docility that at a signal from Berlin they all turn east and bow; if it has not created an army so perfect that its units are as cogs and bolts; if it has not resulted in a system of education which directs every German from the kindergarten to the day he becomes a doctor of philosophy; if it has not applied science to industry and commerce as well as to the most trifling daily needs—asking himself these questions, he answers: "Kultur takes Germans and reduces them to the state of soulless machines. Efficiency is of itself no more praiseworthy than is electricity. The vital consideration is, who applies it and for what purpose? If the purpose be evil, then the harm done is greater in proportion to the greater efficiency. * * * Concede that Kultur-made efficiency ranks first, has it been justified by its works? Are the system which plotted for the atrocious war and the efficiency which has conducted it to be commended as the final crown of civilization? Would you who read be proud of your scheme of life if it revealed you as cruel, dishonorable, lying, unchivalrous and as an egomaniac who did not shrink at murder? Under the touchstone of Kultur collective Germany stands so revealed. Satan, who turns all material inventions to his own uses, and sucks out the souls of men in order that their minds and bodies may serve him, is the Master of that Efficiency for Hate which Kultur has bred in Germany."

In this spirit the author of his book traces the origin of what he throughout calls "the atrocious war," the sources of the spirit that dominates, if it does not animate, Germany, and the world harvest that would come of a German victory. It is the book of a man who, though a student trained in historical research, has become so violently partisan that his treatment of the war is one huge, scathing indictment. He is particularly blasting in his treatment of pro-German activities in this country. Though most do not feel it quite so deeply—perhaps they should—his view of the situation seems very largely the American view.

Good Stories.

GOD'S PUPPETS. By William Allen White, author of "A Certain Rich Man," etc. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.25.

The big thing about William Allen White is the humanness of the man—the milk of human kindness in him yields unheard-of percentages in the butterfat of practical wisdom. His people are regular people, not just animated dummies going through the motions when the author-stage manager pulls the puppet strings. His ideals are wise, kind, tender. His novels, no less than his editorials, are inspired by a deep and abiding love of his fellow man—love and sympathy. It is because he loves his fellow man that he hates to see him take money into his life—mere money—so completely as to let it rust his soul and crowd out everything tender and noble. That idea is strong in his stories. The next thing about him is his humor—humor with never a drop of gall on it, no matter how despicablest of despicable beings some of his bad folks get to be in the stories. All this is exemplified again in this book of five stories, two of them longish almost to the dimensions of young novels.

"A Social Triangle" is the story of the development of a beautiful harpy who used her attractions to make playthings of the souls of men, and we felt a good deal of satisfaction when her father—a fine character who appears somewhat in the other stories—applied his cane to her back, though she was married and the mother of a brood.

"The One a Pharisee" is a picture of a man who is unctuously good and an unmitigated scoundrel, of a black sheep who is a good deal of a rascal and all a man, of their children, of money, and, as Archimedes the editor-schoolmaster said, of "how the blessed Lord does get even with them who try to fool Him."

"A Prosperous Gentleman" tells of the punishment of a man who crushed a flower of girlhood, sipped its nectar, passed on and left it to die. "The Gods Arrive" is the study of a reactionary congressman's defeat and pathetic glide down hill. "The Strange Boy" is an interview between "an old party of 45" and the boy he had been when he was the age of his own boys of today. It's all good reading.

STREET CARS DELAYED.

Wrecked Wagon Holds Up Traffic—Many Employes Are Late.

A large oil tank wagon, belonging to the Standard Oil company, broke down as it was crossing the street railway tracks at Thirty-eighth avenue west and Third street shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, delaying several eastbound cars on the Grand and Fifty-seventh avenue lines. The rear axle snapped off at the wheel, dropping the tank on the tracks.

Several minutes were consumed in waiting for the arrival of the street car company's big crane car, which lifted the wagon off to one side. At this time in the morning the cars are carrying people to work, and many employes of uptown stores were from ten minutes to a half hour late.

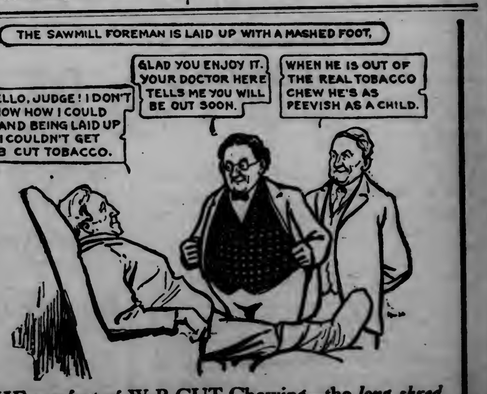
JURY WILL PROBE CRIME CHARGES



About Thirty Cases of Burglary, Larceny and Robbery Listed.

When the May grand jury convenes next week, it will be called upon to consider about thirty cases in which crimes of various kinds and degrees are charged, according to Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, who will be in charge.

Robbery, larceny and burglary cases constitute a majority of the criminal actions on the grist to go before the investigating body. It is expected that several counts for highway robbery may be returned against Brady Henry and Frank Engman, who were recently extradited from Superior to St. Paul, where they are held on similar and even more serious charges. Brady and his companion are believed to have been the men who held up Dr. E. W. P. Boerner of West Duluth a few weeks ago at West Duluth and to have committed a number of other robberies in that part of the city.

WIDOW WINS DAMAGE SUIT

Mrs. Granzow Will Receive $3,300 for Death of Husband.

Court Decrees Firemen Are "Employes" Within Meaning of Act.

Mrs. Dorathea S. P. Granzow, widow of Fred E. Granzow, former assistant fire chief, who met his death in a run to a fire on Sept. 10, 1915, will recover $3,300 from the city of Duluth for the loss of her husband's life.

Firemen Are "Employes."

Judge Dancer in district court yesterday afternoon so decided when he held that city firemen are "employes" within the meaning of the workmen's compensation law and that their dependants are entitled to recover from the city in case they lose their life while in the performance of their duty.

The decision, which is rather an important one, is similar in many respects to a recent ruling made by Judge Bert Fesler of the district court, who held that policemen were "employes" within the meaning of the statute.

Under the terms of the compensation law, Mrs. Granzow will recover the sum of $11 a week for a period not to exceed 300 weeks.

The city contended in court that firemen were "officials" and not "employes," but the court overrules City Attorney Samuelson on this point. Judge Dancer,, in his memorandum reviews the question as follows:

Court Reviews Question.

"It is also urged that the legislature did not intend the workmen's compensation act to apply to firemen, for the reason that other statutory provisions have been made for their relief. Those statutory provisions, however, are permissive rather than mandatory in their character. They authorize but do not require provision to be made for granting relief to sick or injured firemen or their dependents. It is true that the dependents in this case are receiving substantial aid from the Duluth Firemen's Relief association, but that association is a voluntary corporation.

"Mr. Granzow's membership therein was optional and voluntary and his initiation fee and annual dues were paid out of his own private purse. So far as he was concerned, his membership therein stands upon the same footing as membership in any voluntary, beneficial association or insurance company. The workmen's compensation act is statewide in its terminology, and its application locally cannot be made to depend upon local conditions.

"Aside from the workmen's compensation act itself, there exists no statute under which these dependents could demand any relief; and there is no reason to believe that said act was not intended to cover said dependents. Firemen and policemen are in the same class—at least as respects their tenure of position; and in view of the universally recognized hazards of these occupations, the court would be quite unjustified in holding that they and their dependents are to be excluded from the benefits of the act in question, unless such clearly appeared to have been the legislative intent."

Charged With Murder.

Beloit, Wis., April 25.—R. G. Fowler was arraigned before Judge Clark in municipal court today on a charge of first degree murder resulting from the mysterious disappearance three weeks ago of Rudolph Walvig of Beloit. The preliminary examination was delayed until May 4 because of sensational evidence involving a young woman here which District Attorney Dunwiddie has in hand.

Petitions requesting the placing of names of Allan Benson and George R. Kirkpatrick as presidential and vice presidential candidates of the Socialist party on the ballots in the state of Minnesota will be signed by members of the party at a mass meeting to be held next Monday evening at the Auditorium. The petition is necessary owing to the fact that the party failed to have a ticket in the field on presidential primary day.

May 1 will be celebrated by all the Socialist locals of Duluth. A parade, which will start from the courthouse at 7:30 o'clock will go through the principal streets and arrive at the Auditorium at about 8 o'clock.

J. O. Bentall of Litchfield, Minn., Socialist candidate for governor of Minnesota, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Bentall will be the first speaker at four mass meetings to be held during May by the Socialist party in Duluth. George R. Kirkpatrick, the party's candidate for vice president, will be the second speaker, giving his address at Woodman hall on May 8. The other two meetings will be held later in the month.

SCHOOL BOYS TO PLAY BALL

Batchelor Plans Series of Championship Contests for This Spring.

School boys throughout the city will begin playing ball on May 8.

This announcement was made today by J. R. Batchelor, recreational director, who said that the boys would organize the various sectional leagues during this week and that the opening games in the grade school leagues will be played a week from next Monday, while the boys in the junior high school leagues will begin on May 13.

The boys in Division A, including the Fairmont, Ely, Longfellow and Irving schools, will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Denfeld high school auditorium for the purpose of organizing their league. Tomorrow afternoon the teams in Division B will meet, while the other leagues will meet each afternoon of this week. The junior high school boys will organize next week, according to Director Batchelor.

It is the aim of the director to stage a series of championship contests during the latter part of next summer.

The games will be played at 4 o'clock every afternoon on the ten public playgrounds. In this way, the boys will not be compelled to go all over the city to play, but will meet their opponents at the same playground during the series scheduled for each division. Boys in the sixth grade and under are eligible to the grade school leagues, while those in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades can play in the junior leagues.

The divisions for the grade school leagues follow: Division A—Fairmont, Ely, Longfellow and Irving schools. Division B—Merritt, Bryant, Lincoln and Monroe schools. Division C—Adams, Madison, Emerson and Ensign. Division D—Jackson, Whittier and Washington. Division E—Nettleton, Franklin, Jefferson, Salter, Endion and Munger. Division F—Lester Park, Lakeside, Washburn and Cobb schools. Division G—Stowe, Morgan Park, Fond du Lac and Smithville schools.

POSTEN HERE FINE AND FIT

Star Twirler of 1915 White Sox Comes Back for More Seasoning.

Herbert Posten of Palisade, Minn., is in Duluth. He arrived this morning and immediately reported to Manager O'Brien of the White Sox.

As Posten is some pitcher, this bit of news will be more than welcomed by the fans of this city. Posten worked so well last season that he was drafted by Detroit. Hughy Jennings did not believe that the young man was quite ready for big company and farmed him to Chattanooga in the Southern league. The latter team was overstocked with twirlers and the Palisade youth was not used very often. He is here now ready to receive another year's seasoning in the Northern league.

Rockford Buys Brewer.

Rockford, Ill., April 25.—R. Williams, outfielder of the Milwaukee club of the American association, today was purchased by the Rockford club of the Three-I league, according to an announcement made by Howard Wakefield, the manager.

House Democrats to Caucus.

Washington, April 25.—Democrats of the house today issued a call for party caucus tomorrow night on the Philippine bills, although Representative Jones, its author, expressed the belief that there are sufficient votes to pass it without caucus indorsement. Many Republicans are expected to vote for the bill.

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN MONDAY

Eleven Recreational Centers Will Be Run By Schools and City.

New Apparatus Is Expected to Arrive Here Wednesday.

Eleven public playgrounds will be opened next Monday afternoon under the supervision of city and school authorities.

This will be the second year of municipal supervision of playgrounds for Duluth. Recreational Director Batchelor will have charge of all the playgrounds and will be assisted by twenty-five young men and women during the coming summer. Eleven young men will begin next Monday, while the women supervisors will not start until the schools close in June.

The apparatus for the eight new playgrounds to be opened this year is scheduled to arrive tomorrow and the equipment will be installed immediately, according to Director Batchelor. In addition, municipal tennis courts will be opened at Chester and Harrison parks and at the Munger school for the first time in the city's history, while croquet courts are being marked on several of the playgrounds.

Last year the city maintained playgrounds at Chester and Harrison parks and at Fifty-second avenue west. The equipment from Fifty-second avenue is being moved to the Irving school grounds, while the apparatus recently ordered will be placed at the following points: Lester park school, Washburn school, Munger school, Franklin school, Washington school, Morgan Park school, Madison school and at Ninth avenue west and Third street.

Ladies' Aid to Meet.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Grace M. E. church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the free dispensary at 405 East Third street. Mrs. J. Dodge and Mrs. Robert Harper will be hostesses.

BUYS SITE FOR NEW CITY HALL

City Closes Deal With County for Courthouse Square Property.

Contracts for the sale of the city hall site on Courthouse square were formally signed this morning.

This brings to an end all the preliminary negotiations with the county and the city is now obligated to pay approximately $209,000 for the site on or before Jan. 1, 1919. In addition, the city no longer has any interest in the work farm, it having turned the deed over to the county, for which the city is credited with $30,000 as the first payment on the site and $3,500 to liquidate an old debt.

The deed was signed by Mayor Prince and City Clerk Borgen and the contract for the site was signed by the mayor, the clerk and City Auditor Campbell, as provided for in the charter. Charles E. Adams, attorney for the county commissioners, represented the county in the transactions.

According to the plan of the city commissioners, the next payment on the site will be made as soon as the controversy over the sale of the old armory is settled. The $12,000 received as first payment for the armory will be paid over to the county, as will the remaining $38,000 as soon as it is received. Should the city sell the city hall and police station within the next three years, this money will also go into the fund, although it is more likely that a bond issue will be authorized within a year or two for the construction of a city hall building and that the amount will be sufficient to cover the balance due on the site.

Every Cold Should Be Considered Serious

So say the best medical authorities. Unless promptly checked, often they lead to chronic bronchial and pulmonary troubles which may prove fatal.

If your cough or cold has not responded to treatment—and remember, medicine should not be solely relied on—timely use of Eckman's Alterative may give you relief.

For more than twenty years it has been benefiting sufferers from these disorders. It is especially indicated where the system demands ilme, for it contains calcium chlorid so combined as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Safe to try—because it contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs of any sort whatsoever.

CHICAGO IS DUE TO HEAR "TALL" STORY

Ducks are so thick over the lakes of Northern Minnesota that you do not have to waste powder on them for you can grab them by the feet and pull them out of the air.

This statement is verified by George Scott of Mud Lake, who has been in Duluth several days on business.

M. Waldermott, a Chicago commercial traveler, making his local headquarters at the St. Louis hotel, was introduced to Mr. Scott this morning and after complimenting him on his excellent physique and ruddy countenance, inquired where he annexed all the health. Scott told him at Mud Lake. The Chicagoan became interested. He wanted to know about fishing and hunting and Scott proceeded to give him some facts straight from the feed box, when "Tilt" Lewis approached.

"Ducks up our way are so thick that the sport of hunting is really devoid of the necessary excitement and chance that should go with the sport," said Scott. "During the last snow storm I went out in my yard to gather up some tools and while so engaged the ducks were flying so close to me they knocked my hat off."

"Yes," dipped in Lewis, "they come in such huge flocks up that way that the natives do not use the ordinary shot guns, but rather the old-time blunderbuss with the funnel-shaped barrel. All you have to do is fire one shot and the charge scatters so much that it will kill all the ducks one man can carry."

Mr. Waldermott said that place ought to suit him first rate and that he would start planning on spending his vacation at Mud Lake next autumn.

BIRD HOUSE AWARDS ARE DUE SATURDAY

Competition Will Close at Noon; Open to School Children.

The birdhouse competition which is being conducted for school children under the auspices of the Duluth Humane society will come to a close Saturday noon. All specimens must be handed in to the society's offices at the courthouse before noon of Saturday in order to be considered.

S. George Stevens, who has made quite a study of bird life and who is actively interested in the subject of preserving it, has consented to act as one of the judges for the contest. The others have not been announced.

The contest is open to all school children, who are encouraged to submit birdhouses of all kinds and descriptions of their own construction. The houses will not be judged so much from the standpoint of beauty and elaborateness as from their usefulness. Gay colors keep the birds away and the handsomely decorated home usually is the most impractical from the bird's viewpoint.

FATHER OF IRONTON PARALYSIS VICTIM

John Mattson, Who Homesteaded Townsite and Owned Mines, Dies.

Ironton, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—John E. Mattson, who owns the fees of Armour No. 1 and Mahnoman mines, died this morning at an early hour from a third stroke of paralysis. He had been confined to his bed over a year ago as a result of the first two strokes. He homesteaded a quarter section of what is now part of the townsite of Ironton, twenty-three years ago, and lived on his homestead continuously until his death.

He was a pioneer under most difficult conditions and had enjoyed, only for a short time, the fortune that came to him when ore was discovered on his land. Mr. Mattson's wealth made him prominent in this community.

HOW HE QUIT TOBACCO

This veteran, S. E. Lamphere, was addicted to the excessive use of tobacco for many years. He wanted to quit but needed something to help him.

He learned of a free book that tells about tobacco habit and how to conquer it quickly, easily and safely. In a recent letter he writes: "I have no desire for tobacco any more. I feel like a new man."

Any one desiring a copy of this book on tobacco habit, smoking and chewing, can get it free, postpaid, by writing to Edward J. Woods, 599-X Station E, New York City. You will be surprised and pleased. Look for quicker nerves, stronger heart, better digestion, improved eyesight, increased vigor, longer life and other advantages if you quit poisoning yourself.

For Many Years No One Knew Why Light Spoiled Beer

Science declares now that it is the ultra violet rays of light (the short rays) that decompose the protein (albumin) and ruin the wholesomeness of the beer.

The only adequate protection is the Brown Bottle.

That's why Schlitz in Brown Bottles tastes so good—its nutritive value is unimpaired.

BOATS ARRIVE FOR CARGOES OF GRAIN

First Package Freighter of Season Also Reaches Duluth.

The Sultana of the Tomlinson line was the first boat to arrive in this harbor light for grain. She came in about 9 o'clock last night and will take on a cargo of wheat at the Consolidated elevators for transportation to Buffalo. The M. A. Bradley arrived shortly before midnight last night, light for grain also. She is loading at the Great Northern elevators.

The Lakeport, of the Port Huron & Duluth Steamship company came in last evening shortly after 9 o'clock with a large cargo of package freight, and is the first merchandise carrier to arrive this season. Quite a bunch of the freighters of the Great Lakes Transit corporation are on their way up and several of them are on Lake Superior.

The eastbound tariffs of the Great Lakes company, which is the package freight merger just completed, have been received by the traffic department of the Commercial club. They are approximately the same as the tariffs in force by the several companies which operated last year.

NAVIGATION OPENS WITH JINX WORKING

Five Groundings Since Sunday on the Great Lakes.

Detroit, Mich., April 25.—Unfavorable weather conditions prevailing on the Great Lakes are giving many of the lake freighters, making their first trips of the season, considerable difficulty, according to reports received here. Since Sunday five strandings have been reported. The most serious is that of the steamer Collingwood, downbound with grain from Fort William. The vessel is still ashore off Whitefish point, despite the efforts of two steamers to float her.

The Zenith City, with coal for Milwaukee, went ashore at Nine Mile point, Lake Huron, Sunday night. She is said to be leaking slightly forward.

The steamer Luzon, from Chicago for Port Huron with grain, is resting on sandy bottom at Pyramid point, Manitou passage, Lake Michigan.

The G. J. Grammer, upbound with coal, which grounded at Russell Island, St. Clair river, was released yesterday. It probably will be necessary to lighter the cargoes of those still aground.

BUYS THREE BIG STEEL STEAMERS

Canadian Steamship Lines Absorbs Toronto Co.; Important Deal.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 25.—The most important deal in Canadian vessel property put through since the formation of the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., which took over most of the big steamship lines on the Canadian side of the lake, is practically closed. The Canada Steamship Lines will take over the vessel property of the St. Lawrence & Chicago Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., of Toronto, comprising the steel steamers J. H. G. Hagarty, E. Osler, W. D. Mathews and Iroquois. The price paid for the steamers, which are among the largest and best Canadian vessels on the lakes, is not given out, but at the prices boats are bringing it will run up into a large amount. The Hagarty is the second largest Canadian freighter on the lakes and has carrying capacity of 10,000 tons. She was built in 1914.

The Iroquois, built in 1902, is the smallest boat of the fleet. Her capacity is 3,500 tons.

The big steamer W. C. Moreland, which is being rebuilt at the Superior yard of the American Shipbuilding company, was purchased by the Canada Steamship Lines some time ago.

Of this country—those who after months and even years of suffering, have been restored to health and strength by that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—are the ones who have spread the good news of health restored, until today there is hardly a town so small that the women who suffer from female ailments do not depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore health.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

THIEF RIVER RUNNING HIGH

Farm Lands in Excel Township North of City Are Flooded.

State Must Dredge La Bree Rapids to Prevent Repetition.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thief river has backed up its waters eight miles north of here and above the LaBree rapids so that valuable farm lands owned by Rasmus Oen, of this city, and others, have been flooded to such an extent that a distress call was sent to the state engineer's office for help by settlers in the township of Excel. State Engineer Cooley sent a telegram to Prof. E. L. Chandler of the University of North Dakota, who visited the scene and it is understood that he will recommend that prompt steps be taken to permit the waters to come down in order to clear the land so it can be used this summer.

Must Dredge Rapids.

The state has dredged the Thief river to a point below the rapids, but must continue this work through the rapids where rock and debris is holding back the waters.

The Thief river is free of ice and is much lower than it was a week ago.

The damage done to the Kretzschmar dam here by the recent high water is estimated at $4,000. This will be repaired as soon as the waters have lowered sufficiently and the weather settled. The ground is drying up rapidly and seeding will be in progress in some localities in a week under favorable circumstances.

WATCH DISAPPEARS AFTER BRAINERD GIRL'S EMBRACE.

Brainerd, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Sibet of Park Falls, Wis., told a hard luck story to the sheriff. He said a girl approached him at the depot, put her arms around his waist and later he missed his watch. Diligent search has failed to locate the girl or the watch.

ASHLAND ORDER IS GIVEN INSPECTION

Inspector General of Wisconsin Commanderies Pays Visit.

Ashland, Wis., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual inspection of Ashland Commandery No. 22, K. T., was made last night by P. H. Sperry of Marinette, inspector general of Wisconsin. Several years ago, a committee, of which Gen. Charles King of Milwaukee and Mr. Sperry were members, revised the commandery tactics of Wisconsin, and they are perhaps the equal at least of the tactics now in use in any state in the Union.

How Badger Commanderies Rank.

The result of last year's inspections, which will stand until the results of the 1916 inspections are made known in the inspector general's reports next fall, give the following rank to the commanderies of Wisconsin: 1, Ivanhoe (Milwaukee); 2, Marinette; 3, Kenosha; 4, Wausau; 5, Robert Macey of Madison; 6, Racine; 7, Superior; 8, Wisconsin of Milwaukee; 9, Beloit; 10, Eau Claire; 11, Ashland; 12, Delevan; 13, Janesville; 14, Waukesha; 15, Baraboo; 16, Stevens Point; 17, Oshkosh; 18, Beaver Dam; 19, Galilee (Milwaukee); 20, Nellsville; 21, Platteville; 22, La Crosse; 23, Mineral Point; 24, Chippewa Falls; 25, Green Bay; 26, Watertown; 27, Appleton; 28, Sparta; 29, Reedsburg; 30, Sheboygan; 31, Boscobel; 32, Viroqua; 33, Portage; 34, Hudson; 35, Fond du Lac; 36, Antigo; 37, Berlin.

The closeness of the markings is seen in the fact that the highest percentage in the state, that of Ivanhoe commandery, was only 91.2, Marinette receiving 90.9, and so on down, the lowest mark in the state being 77. These markings were all on the Red Cross degree, and as commanderies work better in one degree or the other, the rankings of 1915 will probably be reversed in many instances.

SIMPLE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get about two ounces of plain powdered neroxin from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores and do not get them out after they become hard. The powdered neroxin and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

IRONWOOD MAN HELD FOR CHILD'S DEATH

Ironwood, Mich., April 25.—Anton Gulan, aged 34, employed in the local mines of the Oliver Mining company, has been held in $5,000 bail by Judge Gustafson on the charge of causing the death of his 2-year-old daughter. It is claimed that while Gulan and his wife had a personal encounter in their home on Lake avenue he tried to throw scalding water on her, but hit the child instead, causing the little one's death. When arraigned before Judge Gustafson, Gulan did not deny that he had fatally scalded the child, but said that he had not intended to kill her—or in fact to injure her. It is said that he was under the influence of liquor when the alleged crime was committed.

The funeral of the child was held on Thursday afternoon at St. Michael's church, the father being allowed to attend under the charge of a police officer.

PRESIDENT HARMON ON WORK OF BUREAU

New President of Upper Peninsula Organization Feels Gratified.

Escanaba, Mich., April 25.—L. C. Harmon, who was chosen president of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau at the recent meeting held in Ishpeming, says he was surprised and greatly honored by being chosen president, as he was not a candidate. He promises to do everything to further the purposes of the bureau, is gratified by the unity of action displayed at the meeting and hopes it means general cooperation.

"It was a source of much gratification to the newly elected officers and directors to find the representatives of the railroad corporations and large industrial concerns of Upper Michigan present at the meeting of the bureau so united on the proposition of continuing vigorously the work of the bureau," he declares. "The co-operation and financial aid of these gentlemen is a factor that will largely determine the future work of the bureau and from enthusiasm shown by them at the Ishpeming meeting, there is every reason to believe that this support will be rendered the bureau.

Praises Pioneers in Work.

"While building for the future, we should not forget the magnificent work done by the men managing the bureau for the past five years. These men did the pioneer work, the real hard and difficult work that has laid well the foundation upon which we must continue. The name 'Cloverland,' coined during the early work of the bureau, is known far and wide throughout the confines of this country and that alone, with consequent publicity concerning the wonderful resources of our northern empire, is worth every dollar spent by the bureau since its organization.

"As soon as it is possible for the supervisors of the several counties to name their members to the executive board a special meeting will be called for the purpose of selecting a capable bureau manager, to decide where the business office of the bureau will be maintained and to determine and act on the policies to be followed during the ensuing year."

Kid McCoy Is Training for the Movies—Minneapolis Promoters Would Stage Bout Between Willard and Fulton.

THE OFFSETTING KINK.
(By Grantland Rice.)

Adam, Father Adam, had his share of luck, I guess;
He had to waste but little kale upon his helpmeet's dress;
He never heard of Bryan in his prehistoric jam,
Nor hyphenated citizens abusing Uncle Sam;
He never saw a cabaret—he never had to eat
With frenzied dancers trampling on his ankles and his feet;
I guess he had his bally share of fun and fortune, but
He never played a mashie shot or sank a ten-foot putt.

Adam was a lucky bloke in twenty-seven ways;
He never saw the home club make a batch of bonehead plays;
He never had a bore take up the big war blow for blow,
And outline what should happen from the Bug unto the Po;
And then, again—in all his life—a record that is par,
He never heard a joke about a certain brand of car;
And yet he never had a chance to moan his bitter fate—
Of how he got a "ninety" and deserved a "sixty-eight."

McCoy in Training.

Kid McCoy came off the road yesterday morning after doing six long miles at a brisk pace. He shadow boxed, skipped the rope and then got a vigorous rubdown. Then McCoy visited the scales. A long steady peek and then a shout of surprise!

"Good! I'll soon be down to my old weight. Three pounds and half gone by the boards this morning," mused McCoy enthusiastically.

What! Is that Kid McCoy training for ANOTHER fight?

Not at all, at all. McCoy confessed yesterday that he was reducing so that he would look the same picturesque athlete of yesteryear—but in the movies.

"My wife has written a five reeler on one of Bernard Shaw's plays and I'm the big exclamation point in the plot," said McCoy, "but wife insists that my chain of double chins will ruin the picture—hence me back to the old life of a road runner, the same being that silly-looking California bird that will out race your team for a hundred miles along the dusty roads."

Would Stage Big Fight.

Two Minneapolis men started work last night preliminary to attempting to stage a 10-round bout in Minneapolis or St. Paul between Jess Willard, heavyweight champion of the world, and Fred Fulton.

Willard, they say, is willing to fight Fulton ten rounds in Minneapolis or St. Paul and will be reasonable in his demands.

According to the story which reached Minneapolis, Willard is anxious to clear out the pretenders to the throne before he starts his summer work with a circus. He wishes to start his tour without a challenger in sight and the deed to his throne as clear as a Torrens land title.

A New York friend of a well known Minneapolis man is said to have Willard's consent to a match with Fulton in Minneapolis or St. Paul and has taken up the matter with the Minneapolis man. Willard is said to believe that he can dispose of Fulton without any difficulty inside the 10-round limit and is willing to tackle him in his home state if the bout can be arranged.

Marion Gets New Job.

Don Marion, the former Duluth player, who was with the Brooklyn Federal league team last season, has signed to play with the Albany club in the New York state league this year. Marion, who reverted to the Brewers when the Feds went out of business, was given his unconditional release by Harry Clark. He had no trouble in landing a job, however, as he was offered berths with the Denver club of the Western league, with the Bloomington team of the Three Eye, and with Albany. The offer of the New York club looked better than the others, however, and he grabbed the job.

K. C. After Big Scrap.

Kansas City may land the big scrap between Jack Dillon and Frank Moran, the husky Irishman who recently lost to Jess Willard. Promoters now are bidding for the affair and Gabe Kauffmann of the Central Athletic club yesterday shot a telegram to Ike Dorgan, Moran's manager, in which he said that he was prepared to top any offer for the battle if the two would consent to go fifteen rounds here. Dillon has consented and it's now up to Moran.

But in case Battling Levinsky beats the "giant killer" in the 15-round mill in Kansas City tonight he will be entitled to the crack at Moran. When the Hebrew and his manager, Dan Morgan, reach Kansas City an attempt will be made to get them to consent to meet Moran in case Levinsky beats Dillon.

Good Race Program.

The racing program of the North Dakota State fair, scheduled July 17 to 22 at Fargo, is expected to draw many horses and horsemen from Minneapolis and the vicinity of the Twin Cities.

Entries for all the races will close on July 8 with the entrance fee 5 per cent of the purse. The harness racing will be run under the rules of the American Trotting association, of which the North Dakota State Fair association is a member, which will make all the races one mile, three in five, point system to determine the winners.

Horses brought into the state of North Dakota for racing will be required to take the mallein test unless accompanied by a certificate of health.

Thursday, July 20, stands out as the big day, with $1,500 put up for three pacing races. Money in the harness racing division will be divided 50, 25, 15 and 10, while in the running races the split will be three ways, 50, 30 and 20.

The program:

2:18 pace—"The Gate City purse". 500

"FED" RECRUIT MAKES GOOD WITH GIANTS

BENNY KAUFF.

One Federal leaguer, who is making good in his new surroundings, is Benny Kauff, who joined the Giants at the beginning of the season. It was Benny at the bat who kept the Philadelphias stalled off to the end of a twelve-inning game when the Giants were beaten by one run. Benny led two rallies at the bat, made two singles and a double, scored two runs, stole second and finally beat a triple in the tenth by an unexpected catch at center.

SOX ARE PUT OVER JUMPS

O'Brien's Recruits Being Worked Both Morning and Afternoon.

Players Showing Up Strong; Will Meet Superior Sunday.

Manager Darby O'Brien of the Duluth White Sox is sending his recruits over the hurdles every morning and afternoon at Athletic park in an effort to get them in the best possible physical condition before the big opening gun of the Northern league season is fired. This morning the men were drilled in sliding to the bases, getting away from the plate, bunting and throwing. This afternoon O'Brien's Regulars will line up against the Hardly-Ables in a five-inning practice exhibition which will be free to all fans.

Krasnik, the Milwaukee left-hander who was signed by the Dook last week, is here and yesterday appeared on the field in a Sox uniform. Together with Shoulders he worked two and one-half innings on the hill and showed up to advantage. This afternoon Lane, Handschu, Culver, Morse and Bartoff will do the heaving.

These practice games will be featured every afternoon this week and on Saturday the Sox will take on Brautigan's crew from Superior, the exhibition to be staged here. On Sunday the Sox will go to Superior to meet the Badgers.

Catcher Hoffmeister and Pitcher Smith, who have been with the White Sox squad, were released yesterday. It is expected that a little further pruning will be done before the week comes to a close. Some of the pitchers will have to go but just where the ax will land cannot be determined just yet.

Ryan Looks Good.

Catcher Ryan, who worked in the game Sunday with Superior, looks like the goods and will, undoubtedly, become a regular. He is a good receiver, has plenty of pepper and is speedy in getting to foul flies. He is in the game all the time. He showed just one glaring fault namely, he pulls away when he swings at the pellet. It might take some work to remove this blemish because, usually, such habits are formed in the corner-lot days. He is a sturdy built fellow and should go big with the correction mentioned.

Schreiber looks like a big leaguer. There is one boy who should burn up this ring with his war club. He takes a nice, healthy slash at the ball and when he connects it's stung. He is a finished fielder and will well be able to take the place in center garden left vacant by Kirkham.

Schmidt, the big first baseman who hails from the fields of golden grain around Sioux Falls, should be one of the best first station men in the league. He has size, is built for speed, possesses a good whip and takes a nice cut at the sphere. He is only a youngster, but the fans were well pleased with his work yesterday.

In fact, Darby has a real ball crew right now as far as fielders and pitchers are concerned. Just what his cohorts will do with the gad when they are sent into a regular league game is still a problem.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE BOXERS

Tony Caponi, Italian middleweight of Chicago, and Bob Moha of Milwaukee, who is an aspirant for middleweight honors, have been matched to box ten rounds before the Line City Boxing club of Beloit, Wis., April 27. It is the intention of the Beloit club to put on a series of middleweight contests.

• • •

Gus Christie and George Chip will clash in a fifteen-round bout in Dayton some time during May. These battlers were scheduled to meet the latter part of this month, but the promoters set the date back. Christie is at the present time training in Indianapolis.

Mike Gibbons wanted Jack Dillon to make 158 pounds, so the proposed bout between those boxers at Indianapolis May 30 has been called off, as Dillon could not make that weight.

• • •

Leo Houck will tackle Tom Gibbons at St. Paul May 4.

• • •

Johnny Coulon, the ex-bantam champion, will try to make a comeback at Kenosha next Tuesday night, when he will meet Johnny Ritchie.

• • •

George Gunther, the colored middleweight, has finally got back to this country. He is in New York and will meet Willie Langford there next Monday night.

• • •

Sam McClintic, the Californian, who brought Dick Hyland to Boston to box some years ago, and then secretly carried Hyland away the night before the bout, has struck New York again. He is telling that a bout between Carl Morris and Willard at Oklahoma City would draw a $250,000 gate. Sam my always did have the wrong ideas. He bases his conclusions on the fact that Smith and Morris recently drew $14,000 in that city.

• • •

Eugene Corri, the famous referee of England, is coming to this country shortly with Jimmy Wilde, the flyweight champion of England.

• • •

When Mike O'Dowd, the St. Paul welterweight, steps into the ring against Joe Eagan at the Armory A. A. next Tuesday night, the fans, according to Manager John Reddy, will see a good two-handed scrapper.

He is a great favorite in his home city, especially with the Irish people. Recently they presented him with a green cap, green tights and a bath robe covered with harps. He wears the outfit when he goes in the ring. O'Dowd has nothing on Eagan as regards his nationality, for the latter is also Irish and some part of his boxing togs is green. When his manager, Eddie Mack, hears about the O'Dowd costume, Mack will most likely dress his boxer in a manner that will put O'Dowd in the shade. The latter is no doubt a fast, clever boxer, but he is going to meet one of the toughest of opponents in Eagan. The latter is going well and will make the best in the class hustle. With two such clever boxers against each other, the fans are going to see a bout where science will play as much of a part as hard punching.

• • •

The promoter of Minneapolis thinks so well of O'Dowd's ability that he is trying to get Willie Ritchie to meet him in that city May 12.

• • •

Fans who really like to see boxing just for enjoyment do not find any pleasure in seeing Frank Loughrey of Philadelphia in the ring. It is pitiable, as he has been against some hard beatings. However, the Woonsocket promoter is going to have him against George Chip next Monday and that means another lacing for him.

• • •

Packey McFarland can get $10,000 to meet the winner of the Lewis and Britton bout in New Orleans.

• • •

Ad Wolgast is determined to keep in the game. He has signed to meet Bobby Flynn in Denver April 28. The promoters are the ones to blame for keeping the "cashed" scrapper in the game, instead of letting him get the rest he needs. He has plenty of money, but wants more, and is willing to sacrifice his health to get it.

NO CUSHION FIGHTS.

Police Will Arrest Spectators Who Throw Them at Cubs' Park.

Chicago, April 25.—Patrons of the Chicago Nationals' park who engage in "cushion fights" will be arrested, Charles Weeghman, president of the club, announced today after a conference with police officials.

Several women have been injured as a result of being struck by cushions hurled over the crowd by enthusiastic spectators. Damages have been sought by the victims. Sufficient police to arrest all "cushion hurlers" henceforth will be stationed at the park, Mr. Weeghman said.

TWO CHAMPS GET WHALING

Ever Hammer Gives Freddie Welsh Trimming From Gong to Gong.

Jack Britton Takes Welter Title From Ted Lewis.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 25.—Ever Hammer, Chicago lightweight boxer, decisively defeated Champion Freddie Welsh on points here last night in a fast 10-round no-decision contest, according to critics at the ringside.

Welsh was battered unmercifully in every round with the exception of the fifth, which appeared even. He left the ring with a puffed eye, a bleeding ear and mouth. Hammer finished unmarked and strong.

Hammer was the aggressor all the way and used both right and left to the head and body at will. Welsh employed all his ring knowledge to evade the Chicago boy, and even in this respect failed.

Hammer time and time again forced Welsh to run and hang on. He rocked the Englishman many times with right and left swings to the jaw, and in the seventh round, with a powerful left hook to the jaw, lifted the champion off his feet and had the crowd in an uproar. He was clearly Welsh's master.

The bout was delayed half an hour when Welsh became involved in a controversy with the promoters over his share of the purse.

Claims Broken Hand.

After returning to his hotel, Welsh exhibited what he claimed was a fractured right hand. The fracture, according to the champion, is half way back from the knuckle of the right forefinger, in the middle of the back of the hand. The break, Welsh said, followed a blow which struck Hammer on the elbow in the second round, and according to Welsh's manager, is a repetition of a previous break.

The physician of the boxing commission who examined the hand claimed it was only an injury in the nature of what is known as a "puff" or bad bruise. Welsh claims he was unable to close or use the member after the second session.

Britton Whips Lewis.

New Orleans, La., April 25.—Jack Britton of Chicago last night claimed the world's welterweight championship when he was awarded a referee's decision over Ted Lewis of England at the end of a 20-round bout. Lewis claimed the title when he defeated Harry Stone of New York in a bout here last February. Dick Burke of New Orleans refereed. Both fighters made the required weight of 145 pounds ringside.

The fight was fast and furious throughout every round, with Lewis on the defensive practically the entire time. Boxing authorities considered Lewis made a rather poor showing against the Chicago fighter. Britton kept up a continuous fusillade of left jabs, seldom using his right except to show up some of his most effective blows. In the clinches, which were rare, Britton apparently outfought his opponent. There were no knockdowns.

Lewis was credited with but one round, the nineteenth, when Britton apparently was tired and seemed unable to stop a shower of right punches to the jaw and stomach. The second and eighteenth rounds were regarded as even. The last round was the fastest, both fighters working hard for a knockout. In this round Lewis tried rushing tactics but was repeatedly repulsed.

There were no challengers. Betting odds were said to have been 3 to 5 against Britton. After the fight Britton said:

"I claim the world's welterweight championship, and will meet anyone eligible in my class."

American Flyweight Beaten.

Liverpool, April 25.—The seconds of Johnny Rosner of New York last night threw up the sponge to Jimmy Wilde, the English flyweight champion, in the eleventh round of what was to have been a 20-round bout. The American boy was badly punished, but throughout the fight showed great gameness.

The stadium was packed with spectators. Both Rosner and Wilde were in perfect condition for the battle, except that Rosner had a black eye, which had been bruised during his training.

Wilde was the aggressor from the start and frequently landed on the damaged eye of the American. From the third round Rosner bled profusely from a cut under the eye, but he retaliated with extraordinary gameness, and used both hands effectively in landing body punches on his antagonist. Wilde, however, obviously was the master of the situation, and despite Rosner's pluck, his damaged eye brought about his downfall in the eleventh round, when his seconds gave in for him.

TEN EYCK TO WATCH CREWS

Work of Eastern Oarsmen Will Be of Interest to Local Coach.

Duluthians Are Prominent in Rowing at Syracuse University.

Coach Ned Ten Eyck of the Duluth Boat club crews, while working his recruits every evening on the bay is keeping closely in touch with the rowing centers of the East and is showing particular interest in the outcome of the American Rowing association meet, which will be held in Philadelphia next May 13.

During this meet the first line will be had on the real condition and speed of the Eastern oarsmen, which is of great importance to the Duluth coach for it will give him a good knowledge of just about what strength he will have to send his men against next August, when the National regatta is held here. Most of the clubs that will take part in the Philadelphia meeting will be represented in the Duluth competitions.

Duluth oarsmen are taking a prominent part in the rowing affairs at Syracuse, where "Old Jim" Ten Eyck, father of Jim, Jr., and Ned, is coach. When the Syracuse squad recently took to the water, Walter Glass of this city was sent in to stroke one crew and Whiteside another.

"Jim" Ten Eyck Returns.

Beaming with smiles, Jim Ten Eyck, Jr., blew in from the East yesterday and brought many glad tidings for the Duluth promoters of the National regatta. He stated that all of the big crews of the East are getting in shape and will probably be represented at the Duluth meet. Among these is the Undine Barge crew of Philadelphia, one of the best in the country. It is probable that the Vesper crew of the City of Brotherly Love will also be represented here next August.

For the reason that Julius Barnes cannot be here in May, the annual meeting of the Duluth Boat club, which was set for early in that month, will be held next Thursday evening in the main house of the club on Park Point. A smoker will follow the business session. Officers will be elected for the coming year and much business of importance will be disposed of.

"We could hardly think of holding this meeting without Mr. Barnes," said Secretary Albert Ames this morning. "He is the big man in the organization, the one who has brought the organization up to its present high standard. We members have much to say to him and will ask him to give his fullest views on how the future work of the club shall be conducted."

Work for Boys.

What will certainly prove to be one of the greatest features ever introduced in any rowing club in the world will be part of the local organization when J. H. Wright of Worchester, Mass., comes here next month to take charge of the work of the boys, ranging in age from 10 to 16 years. This is another of Mr. Barnes' ideas. He is bringing Mr. Wright here. The latter has been an instructor in swimming, rowing, boxing and wrestling in the East for twenty-five years. Nothing that has so far been done for the summer youth of Duluth can compare with this.

And Mr. Barnes has not forgotten the young women of the club. He believes that the girls of Duluth, especially those who intend taking college courses, should avail themselves of the opportunity to learn to row here at home. Secretary Ames suggests that the lapstreak shells can be used by the fair "oarsmen" and that crews could be formed that would be able to compete every week-end throughout the summer.

Jim Ten Eyck, Jr., who is sales manager for the same company that employs Robert Bruce Liggett, former sporting editor of The Herald, said that he met "Bob" in New York and the latter would make his headquarters in the American metropolis and would have an Eastern territory.

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Contribution of a Wilful Woman

WILLIAM BRADY M.D.

My son, aged 36, writes a determined, we might say wilful woman, has had epilepsy ten months. The family physician saw the first attack and told us what it was. He gave general advice about diet, bathing, rest from certain mental work and medicine. The patient has always been of the nervous type, a hard worker, but the family history is clean. He has never used tobacco or alcohol, but has been a very heavy eater. He has also been constipated for years. He has never taken much exercise.

We took him to two different osteopaths. Both treated him for about three months. One of them also made him fast two weeks, to get rid of a lot of poison he said clogged the system. But neither could stop the awful fits, that is, for more than a few days.

Then we took him to a chiropractor. He said some of the vertebrae of the spine were out of place, and guaranteed to cure my son in thirty adjustments for $100, paid in advance. I never pay anybody in advance—I have a rating and own property—so I didn't have the vertebrae adjusted, since I am told that everybody who visits a chiropractor is told the same thing, and, moreover, one of the best orthopedic specialists in America examined my son two days later and found the spine absolutely normal in every respect.

Then we took the patient to a nerve specialist, whom the family doctor had suggested in the first place. He was unable to give him an appointment for a week, but we waited. He then gave the boy a most thorough examination, including an X-ray photograph, which showed the spine perfect. And he made a blood examination which proved to be "positive plus." On the strength of this examination they injected something into the spinal canal. That was over three months ago. My son has not had a fit since, and to all appearances is well. He returns every two weeks to the doctor (the family doctor) for observation. And let me say, sir, that when you "harp on the family physician," as you call it, you are doing God's work, for it was only your wise counsel that brought us back to our senses in time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

"Semper Juvenilis!"

I do not see why you go out of your way to insult the "old women." Is there anything criminal in being old? I know some women of advanced years who are very good doctors. And their patients prefer them to old or young men doctors, too.

Answer—Right you are. The women physicians do give us strong competition—both the old women and the young women. And when we say "the old women," you ought to understand we are using a figure of speech. Old age in itself needs no defense. Besides, aren't we all getting along in years?

Grandma, However, Stands By.

I am 74, and I have nine grandchildren. In our family fresh air is. In fact it always has been. So we rarely have a doctor, and for that reason we keep all your articles. Please tell me if it is harmful for me to walk two miles a day? I have done so pretty regularly for years, but my son fears I am overdoing, though I am fine and healthy.

Answer—Your son, grandma, is hereby admitted to probationary membership in "the old women." Keep on walking for at least twenty years yet. You are our kind of grandmother. Report immediately if son attempts to force the rocking chair on you.

She Sheds Many Tears.

I have had overflow of tears on the cheek for several years. Was treated for catarrhal trouble, without relief. A specialist opened the tear duct several times, but that also failed to benefit me. The specialist now wishes to do a little operation to make the lid lie closer to the eyeball, so that it will prevent the overflow. I am not sure whether I should have this done. What shall I do?

Answer—The operation is a customary procedure, and usually gives satisfactory results.

FISHERMEN ARE NERVOUS

Many Local Anglers Will Invade Northern Wilds Next Saturday.

More Than 1,000,000 Trout Fry Planted in Streams Near Duluth.

With the return of sunshine Duluth anglers are beginning to warm up to their favorite pastime and a great run is being made on the rod and tackle stores by fishermen who intend to spend the week-end on the various streams in this section of the state. While it is known that the streams are still high and the water rolley and cold, many of the anglers refuse to hold off longer and they will invade the wilds next Saturday and fish until Sunday evening.

Most of the brooks in the Duluth district have been well stocked with trout fry and the fishing should be good when weather conditions improve. Late last fall 430,000 trout fry were placed in the Lester river and 2,400 were planted in Amity creek, which runs into the west branch of the Lester near Colbyville. Four carloads of fry, numbering about 400 cans, and 1,200,000 fry were planted last year in the various streams and an application has been placed with the state hatchery for additional fry for Sucker river.

All of this work was done by the Duluth branch of the Minnesota Game Protective league, of which Dr. J. D. Budd is president and James A. Lawrie is secretary and treasurer.

CHIEF CADDY TO BE NAMED

Will Take Charge of 130 Boys Who Will Chase Balls.

Many Golfers Are Getting in Condition for Early Games.

Hoot Mon! Members of the Northland Country club are polishing up their lofters, brassies, putters and niblicks and this week will assemble their caddies preparatory to a brisk and early opening of the great Scotch sport on the beautiful links that skirt the street railway tracks on the way to Lester Park.

A caddy master, one of the more important personages of the early spring season, will be selected by the club officials this week. This may seem a trifling matter but when it is known that he has charge of about 130 tow-headed kids, who chase the little gutta percha into the elusive wilds, one can readily see that he has to be some master. Managing a crew of kids of this size is some job, for "kids is kids."

Club members are doing their spring practice stunts on the temporary greens and will not be allowed on the regular links until some time next month. The grass on the latter is just beginning to appear in good shape and must not be trampled; but will be given every chance to get a good start toward a healthy growth.

The beautiful weather of the last two days has brought out many players on the temporary greens who are getting in condition for the medal play handicap which will be the feature event on May 20.

SENIORS REHEARSING PLAY.

Central Students Will Present "The Cricket on the Hearth."

The reserved seat sale for "The Cricket on the Hearth," to be presented next Friday and Saturday evenings as the annual senior class play at Central high school, was opened yesterday.

Coach Lee C. Rasey will be working hard all of this week putting the finishing touches on the production. Last week the young actors were kept busy every afternoon of vacation, rehearsing for the play, and they will practice every afternoon and evening this week.

LONE BANDIT GETS $4,500 FROM BANK

Bingham, Utah, April 25.—A lone robber held up and bound Cashier A. Walter Koehler, of the Copper Field State bank here at noon yesterday, took $4,500 in cash and has not been found, although officers were seeking him a few minutes after the robbery. The man entered the bank when Koehler was alone and said he desired to make a deposit. When Koehler turned the robber covered him with a pistol and forced the cashier into a rear room where he bound him with wire, gagged him and took the cash from the vault.

Bingham is a mining camp in a narrow mountain canyon. It is thought the robber had accomplices in a waiting automobile.

Nujol

THE PURE WHITE MINERAL OIL

Approved by: Harvey W. Wiley, Director Good Housekeeping Bureau of Foods, Sanitation and Health.

CHEER UP—BRIGHTEN UP!

ANY doctor will tell you that "the blues" is frequently a symptom of constipation and its attendant evil, auto-intoxication. Take care of constipation and "the blues" will take care of itself.

But laxatives and cathartics won't cure constipation. In fact the indiscriminate drugging of the system with such remedies only aggravates the condition and tends to make constipation chronic.

Because of the evident dangers of the laxative habit, physicians everywhere are advocating the use of Nujol, a pure white mineral oil, which does not drug or physic but which acts as an intestinal lubricant.

Nujol softens the contents of the intestines and lubricates the entire tract, so promoting normal evacuations. It is purely mechanical in its action, and is not absorbed into the system. Consequently it is not habit forming and may be taken in any quantity without harm.

Write for booklet, "The Rational Treatment of Constipation." If your druggist cannot supply you, we will send you a pint bottle of Nujol prepaid to any point in the United States on receipt of 75c—money order or stamps.

TELLS ABOUT LOSING COIN

Claims Many Well Known Virginians Frequently Visited Place.

Virginia, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Daley, the first witness testifying for the state this morning in the prosecution of Charles Campbell and Walter Darcey, indicted on charges of gambling and permitting gambling on premises under their control in Virginia, told Judge Hughes and the jury, in district court, he had lost between $400 and $450 at play in the place, between the early part of November and Dec. 1, 1915.

Daley described the location of the gambling house over Landrigan & Darcey's saloon on one of the most prominent corners in this city, the system of bells from the bar to the room used in play, which admitted patrons, and named a large number of people who frequented the place, many of whom are well known over the city. He also described the house system of "rake off" in the games of draw and stud poker and "low ball." He was still on the stand when court adjourned at noon.

Many State Witnesses.

The state has subpenaed twenty witnesses and the trial may last several days. All the witnesses were excluded from the courtroom this morning while Daley was under examination. The outcome is being followed over the city generally with the keenest interest. Mayor Power of Hibbing is defending Campbell and Darcey, associated with M. H. McMahon. Daley is alleged to have lost the money received for insurance loss by fire, in a game and his wife made complaint. She will be among the witnesses. He left the city some time ago and his whereabouts have been unknown until he returned a few days ago to testify at the trial.

Hibbing, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brooklyn residents are again circulating a petition asking for a fire station to give that location protection, which is now lacking.

The petition will be presented to the council at a near date. Several petitions to the council have been laid over and it is the purpose of the present signers to appear as a committee before the village trustees and ask for fire protection.

VIRGINIA'S CLEANUP.

Campaign Against Dirt and Filth to Start April 30.

Virginia, Minn., April 25.—The opening gun in Virginia's campaign against refuse and filth, which will be moved against during paint-up and clean-up week, will begin April 30, when announcements of the work will be made in churches and Monday, May 1, work will actually start with a big parade of school children. This was all mapped out at the meeting of the paint-up and clean-up committee held at the city hall last night. A. G. Flournoy, the chairman, presiding. A parade will also close the week's work.

The school children will present as a part of their contribution to the work a one-act play, "Civic Friends and Foes."

This play was prepared by Miss Erma B. Perham and was issued by the National bureau for use only in local campaigns. Besides such aid as this the boys and girls will probably do as much as their elders in helping along the work.

WHAT TO DO TO GET FAT AND INCREASE WEIGHT

The Real Cause of Thinness

Most people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand, many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Most thin people stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay there in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition it is well to recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is simply a careful combination of six of the most effective and powerful assimilative and flesh-building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet has been wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often, according to reports of users, has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by Boyce Drug store and other good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back. —Advertisement.

COURTHOUSE NOW NEARLY MADE OVER

Many Changes Made in Itasca County Building at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remodeling of the Itasca county courthouse here, being done by day labor under the direction of Charles Chalberg, is nearly completed. The basement is practically completed. This work consisted of putting in an office room and vaults for the register of deeds, a new water closet for men, a ventilating system engine and fan, and generally remodeling the basement.

The register's office consists of practically the full west half of the basement, and half of that is vault—nicely lighted and comfortable so that most of the work will be done right in the vault, not necessitating taking the valuable records outside of the vault. The floor in this vault, as well as in the balance of the office is a composition, not as hard as cement, but which is all in one piece and has much the same properties of the cement floor, and it is said to be one of the most sanitary floor made. The main office is commodious.

On the main floor, the chief changes were made in the west end of the building. The office of the register of deeds, vacated when the office was moved to the basement, was fixed up for the county treasurer. The main office and a vault about 12 by 14 are for the office of treasurer. The room formerly occupied by the treasurer, and about three-quarters of the vault formerly occupied by the register of deeds, have been remodeled into a vault for the auditor's office.

Courtroom Changed.

Upstairs the changes recommended by the judges and the attorneys are being made. A partition has been placed across the north end of the room, eight feet from the north wall, and the judge's bench, jury box, etc., have been moved to the other end of the room. The railing has been put up just south of the door. The changes will add a private room for the judge, a retiring room for the jurors and will eliminate much of the discomfort occasioned by the noise made by trains on the track passing in front of the courthouse. The courtroom seating capacity has been considerably curtailed.

PROF. PFEIFFER IS TO SUCCEED SELF

Virginia Board of Education Also Discusses School Problem.

Virginia, Minn., April 25.—The board of education last night re-elected Prof. C. W. Pfeiffer of the high school faculty, at a salary of $150 per month, an increase, and decided to investigate the case of Frances M. Ryan of the Franklin school district, who had not been re-elected because she was not recommended by the teachers' committee. Patrons of the school petitioned for her re-engagement.

State High School Inspector E. M. Phillips told the board the Roosevelt school was entirely inadequate, and suggested that the street between the technical and Roosevelt schools be condemned and that a third building be erected there. This would be the junior high school and would care for the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

Under this plan the Roosevelt school would be used exclusively for the senior high which corresponds to the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades. No action was taken, but at another meeting to be held Wednesday night, Carl Nystrom, Duluth architect, will appear before the board and receive instructions to submit plans.

Pupils Enrolled.

Supt. P. E. Colgrove reported there are 3,200 enrolled in the day school, an increase of seventy-four over a year ago.

The other night classes are: Manual training, 36; cooking, 26; sewing, 21; drawing, 21; Boys' Glee club, 32; Girls' Glee club, 39; orchestra, 13; band, 12.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

A Little Blossom To Delight the Home

When it is known that in the near future the home is to be blessed with a new arrival the first thought should be "Mother's Friend." This is an external remedy gently applied over the stomach muscles. It makes them firm and pliant, they expand naturally without undue strain. It removes from the nerves those influences which are responsible for much of the pain incident to the period of expectancy. It is for this reason that much of the distress such as morning sickness is avoided. All prospective fathers should see to it that the expectant mother is provided with a bottle of "Mother's Friend."

The directions are simple. Get it at any drug store. It is applied by the expectant mother herself, it penetrates deeply and affords quick and splendid relief in a most gratifying manner and reflects a physical betterment to the nervous disposition of the baby. Don't fail to get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today and then write Bradfield Regulator Co., 418 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a pretty little book brimful of information for expectant mothers. It is a delight to read it.

C. B. Hunter, who has conducted a little store in Cohasset for some time, has moved into the Ranfranz building, formerly occupied by the clothing store.

Operations on the government dredge, which is now located at the Goodell place, up the river from Cohasset, have been resumed.

PRESIDENT GOES TO NEW JERSEY TO VOTE

Makes Trip to Princeton to Participate in State Primaries.

Washington, April 25.—President Wilson left at 8 o'clock this morning for Princeton, N. J., to cast his vote in the state presidential primaries. During the day Mr. Wilson will participate in a ceremony of planting a tree to mark the route of the Lincoln highway through Princeton.

The president, who was accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, will return to Washington early tonight.

Two Sets of Candidates.

Trenton, N. J., April 25.—Interest in New Jersey presidential primary election today centers in four of the twelve districts where there are contests for district delegates to the Republican national convention.

In these districts one set of candidates favors the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt and the other set is unpledged. There are only four candidates for the four places as delegates at large to the Chicago convention and all of them are running without designation.

Favor Wilson.

Only four candidates for delegates at large to the Democratic national convention appear on the primary ticket and they are grouped in favor of the renomination of President Wilson. With the exception of the Seventh district there are no contests for district delegates to the Democratic convention and all of the candidates are understood to favor President Wilson's renomination.

The Progressives did not poll a sufficient number of votes at last fall's election to entitle them to be considered a political party within the meaning of the state's election laws, and delegates to the Progressive national convention as well as to the Prohibition and other national conventions will be chosen by state and district conventions.

BUT LITTLE INTEREST IN OHIO PRIMARIES

Contests Only in Few Districts in Election in Buckeye State.

Columbus, Ohio, April 25.—With contests in only a few districts and apparently little interest on the part of the voters, prospects are that only a light vote will be cast at Ohio's first presidential preferential primaries today.

What interest there is centers in the opposition to Governor Frank B. Willis and Former Governor James M. Cox, candidates for delegates-at-large on the Republican and Democratic tickets, respectively.

A late effort to put the name of Henry Ford before the voters as a candidate for president is also attracting attention. Mr. Ford had not filed a declaration of candidacy and doubt is expressed concerning the legality of writing his name on the ballots.

President Wilson has no opposition for the Democratic nomination for president. Among the Republicans, Former Senator Theodore Burton is opposed by William Grant Webster of Chicago.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Fair rains fell during Monday or last night over the Lake region, the Ohio and upper Mississippi valleys, Atlantic states and North Pacific coast districts, and rain or snow developed over Manitoba, Eastern South Dakota and Western and Southern Minnesota. Somewhat warmer weather prevails from Montana northward. Elsewhere the temperature changes were generally unimportant except a turn to slightly cooler in Manitoba and Eastern North Dakota. Light frost at Madison, Wis., and Springfield, Ill."

CONTRACTS FOR NINE JOBS

Nelson and Clough Will Pave Central and Nineteenth Avenues.

Awards Are Made for Seven Water and Gas Extensions.

Two contracts for pavements and seven for gas and water extensions, the latter being the first of this year, were awarded by the city commissioners yesterday afternoon.

A. N. Nelson was awarded the contract to pave Central avenue, from Cody to Columbia street, on his bid of $28,654.69, for a concrete pavement, with a trap-rock surface, and D. H. Clough & Co. were awarded the contract to pave Nineteenth avenue east, from Fourth to Eighth street, on their bid of $13,222.10 for a one-course concrete pavement.

Utility Contracts.

The following contracts were awarded for gas and water extensions: Norquist & Berg, in Douglas avenue, to Motor Line division, $359; Simon Johnson, in One Hundred and Fourth avenue west, from House to McGonagle street; in One Hundred and First avenue west, from Grand avenue to a point ninety-six feet south, and in One Hundred and First avenue, from Gary to McGonagle street, $669; Simon Johnson, in Sixty-third avenue west, from Fremont to Pulaski street, and in Fifty-sixth avenue west, from Raleigh street to a point 264 feet north, $890; Riback & Parvi, in Sixth street, from Forty-second to Forty-third avenue west, and in Piedmont avenue, from Forest View to Bay View terrace, $492.50; Norquist & Berg, in the boulevard, from Eighth avenue east to Duluth Proper, Third division, $819; Norquist & Berg, in Greenwood street, from Lakeview drive to a point fifty feet east of Vermilion road, $461.50; and Riback & Parvi, in Second street, from Thirty-fifth to Thirty-sixth avenue east, $28' 30.

Resolutions awarding the following contracts were introduced and laid over until next Monday for final action: Olson & Johnson, paving Grand avenue from Twenty-eighth to Fifty-fourth avenue west, $162,662; Russell Construction company, paving Railroad street from First avenue east to Slip No. 1, $6,817.62; E. The Fifth avenue paving job was held over pending a meeting of the county commissioners this week.

The Grand avenue paving contract will be awarded next week, it is understood, although several property owners filed a petition yesterday requesting the council to postpone the improvement until the special election next June. At that time the voters will ballot on an amendment authorizing the spreading of assessments for arterial highways, and the petitioners are of the belief that Grand avenue can be classed as an arterial road.

SEES WOMAN WHO KNEW VILLA PLOT

F. J. Webb Interviews Mrs. Maud Hawk Wright, Once Bandit's Captive.

While in Silver City, N. Mex., recently, Frank J. Webb of this city, manager of the Republic Iron & Steel company, interviewed Mrs. Maud Hawk Wright, the American woman who knew of the plans to raid Columbus before they were executed, and for that reason was held a captive for nine days by the Villa troops.

She told of the coming of the Villalstas to the Wright ranch, the capture of her husband, who was marched away to be shot. She left her 2-year-old son with a Mexican woman, and it was only by a miracle that they were later reunited, Mr. Webb stated.

"She told her story in an interesting way and she presented a pathetic picture of courageous womanhood. She is just the kind of a woman that one could imagine the blustering bandit, Villa, as complimenting as 'the bravest woman he ever saw'," he said.

Mr. Webb spent four weeks in Silver City visiting Mrs. Webb, who is in a sanatorium there. "The people are not alarmed in Silver City," he said. "I left Mrs. Webb with just as much confidence as if she were several hundred miles farther from the border. The Mexicans in Silver City are keeping very quiet and no one seems to have the slightest fear of danger."

Mr. Webb returned from New Mexico Saturday.

To Be Executed.

Deming, N. Mex., April 25—The seven Villistas who were captured after the raid on Columbus and convicted of murder in the first degree were condemned to death yesterday by Judge Edward L. Medler. The date of the execution was set for May 19. The prisoners pleaded that they were ignorant of where they were going at the time of the raid and that they were forced to follow Villa under penalty of death.

NO LICENSE FOR BENNETT

South Lake Avenue Hotel Reported to Be Disorderly Place.

Permit May Be Given Later; Other Proprietors Pass Muster.

City commissioners yesterday afternoon formally rejected an application for a hotel license for the first time since the measure became effective nearly a month ago.

When the application of Lawrence Bennett, 210 Lake avenue south, came up for consideration, Commissioner Silberstein, safety head, moved its rejection on the grounds that the hostelry has been operating in a disorderly manner. He read a communication from Chief McKercher, who stated that it was impossible for him to make a favorable report on Bennett's application.

At this point Mr. Bennett appeared and appealed to the commissioners in behalf of his application. He declared that he came here last December, unacquainted with the laws of the city and that, if there had been any violations, they were unintentional. He promised to run an orderly place in the future and abide by all the regulations of the municipality.

Commissioner Silberstein then called Chief McKercher to the meeting and the latter explained that Bennett had employed several objectionable women, with police records, in his hotel after he had been warned by the authorities one of the women was arrested recently, he said, for selling liquor. Following the chief's report the council decided to reject Bennett's application. Should he improve conditions at the hotel in compliance with the orders of the police department, the commissioners promised him a license.

Hotel licenses were granted to the following: Safron Dancia, 1528 Commonwealth avenue; J. D. Campbell, 12-14 Lake avenue north; William Waukkonen, 1201 One Hundred and Second avenue west; Mathilda Stark, 1402 Ninety-eighth avenue west; A. Bergstein, 512 West Superior street; Mrs. Cora N. Davis, 30 First avenue west; D. H. Borley, 118 East Superior street; John J. Haley, 417 West Superior street; Joseph Prieur, 1119 West Michigan street; W. I. McKay, 428 West First street; Jerry Cavasin, 248-6 Lake avenue south; Mrs. Mae Hare, 206 West Superior street; Charles Moran, 525 West Superior street, and George A. Smith, 509½ West Michigan street.

ENRICO CARUSO SINGS FOR HELEN KELLER

Atlanta, Ga., April 25.—Enrico Caruso sang for Helen Keller here yesterday. In Miss Keller's rooms at a local hotel, the famous tenor with tears in his eyes, sang the song of the blinded Samson from "Samson and Delilah," while the blind and deaf woman touched his throat and lips with her finger tips. Last night Caruso sang with other members of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company in "Samson and Delilah," opening Atlanta's sixth annual week of grand opera.

ROOSEVELT WILL NOT SUPPORT ELIHU ROOT

Oyster Bay, April 25.—Reports that Col. Theodore Roosevelt might support ex-Senator Elihu Root if Mr. Root obtained the Republican nomination for president were declared without foundation in a statement made by Judge Albert D. Nortoni of the Missouri court of appeals after a conference with Mr. Roosevelt.

"I know that Col. Roosevelt will not support Senator Root on the Republican ticket," was his statement. "I know that no such support has been promised by Col. Roosevelt either directly or indirectly.

"If Mr. Root is nominated it will simply mean a straight-out third party fight right down the lines just as in 1912."

Charged With Fraud.

Chicago, April 25.—W. O. Gandy, president of the Wauchula Development Company of Florida, was arrested at a prominent club here yesterday, charged with using the mails to defraud in connection with the business of the development company.

Contraband in Coal Bunkers.

San Francisco, Cal., April 25.—Contraband cocaine valued at more than $5,000 was found yesterday in the coal bunkers of the United States army transport Logan, which arrived here April 18 from Manila and Nagazaki. There were 118 bottles of the drug, which customs officials believe members of the crew intended to smuggle into this country.
